

70% of Youths in Trouble Drive There

CARS KEY TO DELINQUENCY

By GEORGE ERES

The parent who indiscriminately hands car keys to an adolescent may be contributing to one of the biggest single causes of the increase in juvenile delinquency.

To Capt. Paul Landsdowne, head of the Juvenile Division, Long Beach Police Department, juvenile misuse of the automobile is the biggest single factor in juvenile problems.

"We don't keep statistics of cases where the automobile played a part in delinquent behavior, but it could easily run as high as 70%," he said.

But the statistics the department does keep make it clear to Capt. Landsdowne that most arrests of juveniles have to do with automobile-centered offenses.

Capt. Landsdowne says the automobile figures prominently in such offenses as joyriding and auto theft, stealing car parts, burglaries, strong-arm robberies, disorderly conduct and malicious mischief, assaults against citizens by juveniles riding in automobiles, reckless driving and drunken driving, cruising and loitering about the streets at night (there is a 10 p.m. curfew law that applies whether juveniles are afoot or in cars), fighting and disturbing the peace around drive-ins and restaurants, intoxication, party-crashing.

"If the juvenile is grounded," he said, "the juvenile usually stays home. Young people today are so conditioned to use of automobiles, that when deprived of their use, they won't use public transportation or bicycles."

Juvenile arrest records in Long Beach show that 33% of those taken into custody had home addresses outside the city limits. Addresses in felony cases showed 40% lived outside the city.

"The issue is not whether they came to Long Beach in an automobile to commit crimes," said Capt. Landsdowne, "but that the automobile was used to get to Long Beach."

Capt. Landsdowne's view is that "parents should not give teen-agers the privilege of owning or driving a car until they can demonstrate mature attitudes and treat the car as something other than a plaything."

"If parents do permit teen-agers to use or own cars," he said, "they should make sure that the teen-agers have the means to support the car — or take care of the expense themselves. They should keep tighter control over juvenile use of automobiles."

Nationally, there was a 13% increase in arrests of persons under 18 last year from the preceding year. In California last year, the increase from 1963 was 7%. In Long Beach the felony and misdemeanor arrest figure for the comparable periods was up 3%.

Figures released by the Long Beach Juvenile Division, show a total of 4,213 arrests in 1961; 4,194 in 1962; 4,109 in 1963; and 4,222 in 1964.

Burglary (269 arrests last year), and grand theft auto (378 arrests) made up by far the biggest part of Long Beach major offenses by juveniles. All others totaled 190.

"Arrests for auto-theft increased 54.3% in the four years, 1961-64," said Capt. Landsdowne. "The National Auto Theft Bureau estimates that 70% of the 200 cars stolen daily in California are stolen by juveniles."

(Combined Wire Services)

A killer tonado carved a bloody swath through Conway, Ark., Saturday night, killing at least five persons and injuring about 200.

The twister cut a path of destruction a half-mile wide in its death dance, destroying at least 60 homes, an industrial plant, a church and tossing 40 planes at an airport into nearby residential yards as if they were small toys.

The tornado sideswiped a school for mentally retarded children, the Arkansas Children's Colony, but there were no serious injuries.

ED NABHOLZ, chairman of the Faulkner County Red Cross disaster committee, said the best estimate he could make was that there were at least 200 injured. Ambulances brought some of the injured to Little Rock 30 miles to the south, because Conway hospitals were overflowing.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Ona Noe, Mrs. J. H. Gwatney, 81, Esther Perkins and Mrs. Oliver Coleman, 60, all of Conway, and Lloyd McFall of Fort Smith, Ark.

A Bean Lake, Mo., trailer court was heavily damaged.

A Typical April Day Forecast

The Southland storm is taking its time departing, and residents may look for a few light showers today. Weather Bureau experts predicted Saturday night.

Mostly, however, it will be a pleasant, although coolish day. The sun will break through from time to time. There will be gusty winds.

Skiers and mountain buffs should be able to reach their destinations if they use chains. The snow level is about 3,500 feet.

SEVERAL highways into the San Bernardino Mountains were reopened Saturday by the California Highway Patrol. California 19 still was closed from Snow Valley to Big Bear. The only route to Big Bear was California 38.

PILOT'S DEATH DIVE AIMED AT EX-WIFE

Investigators probe debris where pilot John Covarrubias, 38, crashed "like a kamikaze" early Saturday morning into Pittman, Nev., bar owned by his former wife, Nellie. Covarrubias, a Las Vegas contractor, earlier had told his ex-wife, "You don't have long to live." Then he took off in his plane and about 40 minutes later plunged it into bar. He was killed, but his former wife was unhurt. (Story, Page A-7.)

Pan Air Flights Resume

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 10-day strike of Pan American World Airways pilots was settled Saturday and the company immediately announced that its flights would resume today.

Harold E. Grey, president of Pan Am, said in New York that terms of the settlement would not be made public until drafting of the new work contract agreement had been completed. He did not say how long this would take.

Leverett Edwards, a member of the National Mediation Board who announced the settlement, said the agreement involved "about 40 pages of fine print."

LBJ Warns All of U.S. Will, Ability

World Cautioned Not to Mistake America's Purpose

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson "softly but firmly" warned the world Saturday to make no mistake about America's willingness and ability to defend freedom though it seeks only peace.

Recalling his offer on Wednesday of "unconditional discussions" for a peaceful settlement of the war in Viet Nam, Johnson noted that he had emphasized U.S. "firmness and determination to carry out our commitments" there.

SPEAKING at the dedication of a new Job Corps training center here for youths who seek skills to rise from a background of poverty, he said he wishes such efforts could be applied throughout the world.

"Three decades ago, 30 years ago," said Johnson, "the course of history for the world was set upon a tragic direction because other men in other nations misread our American purpose, misjudged our American will and—most of all—miscalculated the spirit and the stamina of our American youth."

"There must not be any mistakes like that made today. Because I am determined to use whatever talents are mine to make certain that America is not misunderstood in the world today."

"IN THIS setting, and under these circumstances, which mean so much to me, I would like for a moment today to speak from my heart to the hearts of men and women everywhere in all this world to say a few things:

"Beyond these shores we of America have only one purpose—that purpose is peace in the world for all men, peace for ourselves, and peace for all mankind of all countries."

L.B. Sailor Killed

Gary B. Ellsworth, 23, a sailor from the USS Kearsarge, was killed Saturday night when his motorcycle ran a red light and rammed into a car at 10th Street and Alamitos Ave., police said. 'IT WAS HIM OR ME'

Scared by Bandit's Gunfire, Clerk Pulls Pistol, Kills Him

By ANDY PARK

A Long Beach liquor-store clerk shot and killed a 41-year-old armed robber Saturday night in a gunfight.

Max Schwab, 54, of Los Angeles, the clerk at the Whistler Liquor Store, 1022 E. Pacific Coast Highway, told Officers Doug Bostard, William Alverson and R. Schroeder the bandit entered the store shortly after 7:30 p.m.

"There were some people in the store," Schwab said, "so he picked up a pint of wine, came to the counter and asked for a package of cigarettes and waited until the other customers left."

"Then he pulled a gun, told me, 'I hate to do this but this is a stickup, give me all your money.' Then while I was reaching in the cash drawer, he fired a shot."

Schwab, a 17-year-veteran of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Reserve, pulled a snub-nosed .38-caliber revolver from a holster and shot Jesse West of 2164 Myrtle Ave. West was dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital.

Robert Windrim, 19, a stock boy in the liquor store, was in the back of the building when West was killed.

"I ran out and saw this guy lying on the floor so I called police," Windrim said.

Schwab said the robber had merchandise—the wine and cigarettes—worth 67 cents in his hand when he attempted the holdup.

"I had almost $200 in the cash register and I've never been held up before. When I heard him fire that shot at me, I figured it was him or me, so I drew my pistol and fired."

JFK MENTION

First Lady Weeps at Ceremony

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson sobbed quietly Saturday while sitting on the speakers' platform during a speech by the President.

The First Lady's grief apparently was stirred by Johnson's extemporaneous invoking of the memory of the late President John F. Kennedy and his role in shaping the program which has become known as the antipoverty war.

The President had finished his prepared speech at the formal dedication of Camp Gary as a Job Corps camp, one of the units in the poverty-program effort to salvage and train school dropouts.

Then he spoke of Abraham Lincoln and of Kennedy, describing his slain predecessor as "the man who originally conceived of the poverty program and who dreamed of it, but was not spared to see his dreams come true."

Nixon, Russian Educator Clash

MOSCOW (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned for the first time Saturday to the scene of his 1959 finger-waving kitchen debate with then Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev. This time Nixon talked about Viet Nam and the Republican Party and got into a lively exchange with another Communist official.

During a visit at Moscow University and a 40-minute talk with Assistant Rector Nikolai Selyezov, Selyezov remarked that he had trouble answering his students' questions about the United States. Among these questions, he said, was:

"Why in that free country was the president (Kennedy) killed?"

Nixon retorted with the questions: "What happened to Beria? Why was he killed? Trotsky—what happened to him?"

THE RECTOR shot back: "He (Trotsky) was killed on American territory."

Lawrence P. Beria, former Soviet secret police chief, was executed in 1953 and old-time Bolshevik Leon Trotsky was assassinated in Mexico City in 1940.

Nixon continued: "If you want to talk about force, then we could talk about Soviet action against the freedom fighters in Hungary."

LATER, answering news-men's questions during a sightseeing tour of the Kremlin, Nixon said "the Soviet Union should have the same basic interest in stopping Communist Chinese aggression in Viet Nam."

He said that in the sense of not wanting another world war, the Russians appear sincere in a desire for peace. But he said the question of whether they would "discontinue support of revolutions around the world" was another matter.

Nixon arrived in Moscow by train for a 24-hour stop-over from Helsinki, Finland, where he was representing business interests of legal clients.

L.A.C. Says: 40% Tax on Your Gasoline

The 1-cent-a-gallon "temporary" gasoline tax increase may not seem much for drivers to pay toward helping the flood-devastated areas in Northern California. But it is just one more tax on automobiles. It means a 35% to 40% tax on gasoline in this state. Only cigarettes and liquor come close to or exceed this.

The 1-cent-added tax taking effect April 1 brings the total California gasoline tax to 12 cents a gallon—8 cents to the state and 4 cents to the federal government. If you are paying 30 cents a gallon for gasoline, this means a 40% tax. It also means that if you are getting 12 miles to the gallon, it is costing you 1 cent a mile just for the tax. If you drive an average of 1,000 miles a month, your gas tax is $120 a year—more or less depending on mileage you get on a gallon of gasoline.

This is, in effect, a sales tax. But it is 10 times the 4% general retail sales tax now collected. The state now collects 3 cents tax on a package of cigarettes, which will probably go to 8 cents this year. In addition, federal taxes will bring the total tax to about 15 cents a package, or about 50% of the cost of a package. New York has just doubled its state tax on cigarettes to 10c a package. In addition, New York city collects 4 cents and the federal tax is 8 cents—making the total tax 22 cents on a package. It may be argued this discourages cigarette smoking—but there is little evidence that it does.

One of the most profitable industries in this country is the illegal production and sale of distilled liquors. It is profitable because the taxes are so high, the saving of them by bootleggers allows them to sell at lower prices. As of now, the federal tax is $10.50 a gallon of 100-proof liquor. The state tax is $1.50 a gallon. On a fifth gallon bottle this totals $2.50 or about 50% of the selling price. The taxes have not discouraged consumption. But they do encourage bootlegging.

In their scramble for more money to finance ever increasing budgets, all levels of government are seeking new tax sources. Property taxes now take more than 2% of fair market value each year. There are promises that these taxes will be held in check. But no promise is given that spending will be held in check. The result is, higher sales, use, gasoline and other consumer taxes.

It is probable the gasoline tax is the most costly of any of these consumer taxes. With industrial plants spread around rural areas, workers drive many miles to work. Their car expenses in many cases exceed the cost of owning their homes. The worker who drives 40 miles a day, five days a week, or 200 miles, is paying an average of $10 to $20 a week for his car operation—repairs and depreciation. A large portion of this is in taxes on the gasoline, oil and tires on his car.

The new one cent state gasoline tax for the balance of this year is expected to produce $58 million for the northern flooded areas. That means about $76 million a year—or for the total 12 cent gasoline tax, the auto users in this state are paying around $921 million a year just for taxes on gasoline. It is no wonder they are wondering if this new one cent tax will really be "temporary," or like most other such taxes, will become permanent.—L.A.C.

A RESPONSIBLE LOCAL COMMUNITY BUILDER SINCE 1922

Moderation Advised for Republicans

The national director of press and public relations for the 1964 Goldwater-Miller campaign Saturday told area members of United Republicans of California that the GOP can capitalize if it can be "positive, personal, compassionate, constructive."

Executive director of the statewide, 14,000-member UROC, Rus Walton, who now operates his own advertising-public relations firm in Los Altos, said Republicans can realize a "tremendous opportunity" if they can accomplish these goals.

"REPUBLICANS must offer constructive solutions to problems like Viet Nam and the proposed state withholding tax, not merely recite the problem," Walton warned. UROC, he said, stands in the "broad middle of the GOP," and has the task to build "the true conservative image, neither reactionary on the right, nor liberal to the left."

Walton said there are now too many divisions within the party. The "great core of Republicans are conservative—given to moderation—not extremists," he said. He told more than 80 members at a regional meeting in the Lafayette Hotel that the GOP "must unite on a basis of principle, not personality."

HE SAID the true voice of conservatism was not heard in 1964 during Barry Goldwater's campaign, and that his real position on issues never got through to the public. He said Goldwater too frequently appeared as a reactionary, not a conservative. "The Republican Party needs to develop conservative, compassionate, personal arguments and solutions, not slogans and not cliches," Walton asserted.

Takes Note of Plight of U.S. Farmers

KANKAKEE, Ill. (AP)—U.S. Rep. L. C. Arens, R-Ill., says in President Lyndon B. Johnson's legislative program covering health, education, poverty, urban renewal, housing and crime no mention is made of the "plight of our farmers."

He said the House-Senate Joint Economic Committee has a statement filed by the Independent Bankers Association on March 3 that "should give us pause."

It said: "Rural banks cannot much longer continue to supply credit needs of rural America and that in the absence of adequate profits in agriculture essential to reduction of ever-increasing debt, the time approaches when banks will have to terminate credit availability to thousands of farmers in rural America."

More Tourists
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslavia was visited last year by 2,227,000 foreign tourists. That was 27% more than the number in 1963.

DOUGLAS JOB GROWS 8 Saturn S-IVBs Ordered by NASA

Douglas Missile and Space Systems Division, Huntington Beach, will produce eight additional Saturn S-IVB rocket stages under a $76.3-million contract received from National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Douglas officials said the order brings to 18 the number of S-IVB stages under firm contract.

The eight new stages will be built for use as second stage of NASA's Saturn IB launch vehicle. In a modified version, officials said, the S-IVB also serves as the third stage of the Saturn V launch vehicle for the Apollo manned flight to the moon.

The Douglas stage uses high-energy liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen as propellants. It is approximately 60 feet long, and 22 feet in diameter. It is powered by a Rocketdyne J-2 engine producing 200,000 pounds of thrust.

Peking Calls LBJ's Talk Offer Swindle

TOKYO, Sunday (UPI)—Communist China today denounced President Johnson's offer of unconditional discussions on Viet Nam as "a big swindle."

In an article in Peking People's Daily, "Observer" charged that President Johnson's Baltimore address reflects "increasing difficulties and isolation" for the United States.

"Observer" is generally believed to be a very high-ranking Chinese Communist official—possibly even Communist Party Chief Mao Tse-tung.

The commentary charged that far from offering unconditional discussions, President Johnson actually raised three conditions.

"THE FIRST IS for an independent South Viet Nam securely guaranteed which altogether rules out the reunification of Viet Nam and flouts the Geneva agreements."

"The second is for a South Viet Nam free from attack, which means that the South

UAW Local Votes to End Ford Strike

Members of the United Auto Workers Local 923 voted Saturday to end their strike, which began March 25, against the Ford Motor Co. plant in Pico Rivera.

Don Shifflett, spokesman for the local, said members voted 799 to 57 to ratify an agreement which negotiators had reached Thursday. The strike by 1,885 workers was over grievances which included health and safety problems and production standards.

He Gets Mail Like Santa— But Oh, What a Difference

By BILL DUNCAN

R. A. Riddle is receiving from 100,000 to 800,000 letters a day — most of them contain money — but don't get the idea he is the world's most popular man.

He seldom even sees the letters and never opens them.

Riddle is the Los Angeles director of internal revenue and he gets mail from nearly every wage-earner in the seven-county Southern California region.

IF YOU haven't sent a letter to Riddle, he's expecting one by midnight April 15 — the deadline for filing income tax returns.

Ever wonder what happens after you mail your return?

The mailman delivers the letters to 714 S. Hill St., Los Angeles, where workers unload tons of letters and start the U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, Form 1040, on its journey through a maze of checks.

Along its way the form will make many stops, some only momentary, others long enough for someone to check every notation made by the taxpayer.

AS THE form arrives, still sealed in the envelope, it is fed into a machine of revolving knives that slice open the envelope in a split-second.

With the envelope ripped open and the form still tucked inside, it moves into a huge room down the hall where hundreds of workers open the mail and sort its contents into baskets marked "1040 with remittance," "1040 without remittance," and "1040A," the IBM card sort form.

Nimble fingers remove wire paper clips, straight pins, needles, safety pins and staples used by the taxpayer to bind attachments to the standard government income tax form. These holding devices are replaced — in typical government fashion — with government-approved paper clips measuring to government specifications, 11/16ths by 6/16ths.

AT THE END of a working day a small mountain of these attaching objects will have been collected at each sorting desk.

CLERKS STILL SORT and screen your federal income tax forms, but a computer checks for errors. Full automation is scheduled for 1967.

SHREDDER OPENS tax returns in Los Angeles Internal Revenue Service office, which receives reports from several hundred thousands taxpayers daily.

The empty envelope is "candled" to make sure it is empty and then discarded in a wastebasket. The wastebasket periodically is removed to another room where its contents are emptied into a Rube Goldberg device and candled a second time to make such a check or some document hasn't been overlooked by the sorter.

BACK AT the sorting desk, a worker bundles the form with others and places it in a huge laundry-type cart for the second leg of the trip.

These carts are picked up and transported by truck to the Federal Building, 312 N. Spring St. The carts are lifted by freight elevator to the 10th floor where clerks begin the first "official" scrutiny of the tax report.

The very first check is to see whether the form has been signed properly. If not, the form goes into a basket marked "imperfect" and eventually is returned to the sender.

THE FORM moves to another section where clerks determine if the figures appear in proper columns. No effort is made to check the taxpayer's computation.

When the form leaves this desk, the ones with remittances and the ones without go separate ways, but will be rejoined later.

The ones with payments go to an accounting office where a comptometer operator totals up the figures to see if the amounts jibe with the remittance. If not, the payment is kept and the taxpayer notified a balance is owing. If it is an overpayment, adjustments will be made later along the line.

The checks, money orders and other forms of payment are deposited in two Los Angeles banks. The average daily deposit is about $28 million during income tax time. The lowest has been $1 million a day; the highest, $116 million.

WHEN the accounting process ends, the form is sent to the ninth floor where it is coded and bundled for shipment to the IRS Service Center in Ogden, Utah. The Utah center is one of seven across the nation where information of taxpayers is being programmed for a full computer system scheduled to go into effect in 1967 at Martinsburg, W. Va.

In Utah, the 1040 form gets its first real check and double-check from the taxman. This is where the periods, commas, numbers, dollar signs, cent marks are subject to question. And many do get questioned.

Riddle is expecting to hear from you by midnight, Thursday. His crew is ready to open your mail.

As best as he can determine, Du Puy says, 43 concerns now manufacture an estimated 3 million wheelbarrows a year. Most of them are exported, and he feels the best market would be in underdeveloped countries.

Du Puy says he didn't want any of the companies to be caught short, so all were included immediately after the patent had been issued — that they were infringing on a patented commodity. He doesn't care to speculate for the moment, either, on his future plans now that he has the patent.

Russ Answer Anti-Semite Charges in U.N.

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT
GENEVA (UPI)—For the first time Soviet Russia is arguing back in an international forum against charges of anti-Semitism.
The question is being debated here in the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, which is drafting an international convention to prohibit all forms of religious intolerance.
Russia's chief scouser on the Anti-Semitism charge is Israel. The future of 23 million Russian Jews—one sixth of the world's Jewish population—may depend on the outcome of this debate. It is due to conclude April 15.
Second, the Russian government has been greatly embarrassed by Israel's charges.
Third, the Soviet Union wants to keep western Communist parties on its side and realizes that public opinion in the West will not tolerate a state policy of anti-Semitism.
Israel's complaints include——Russian Jews are being made the scapegoats for economic ills.
—While other religious communities in Russia are allowed to observe their religious practices, such facilities for Jews are being systematically withdrawn.
—Moscow has permitted publication of the Russian Orthodox and Protestant versions of the Bible, the Muslim directorates and the Koran, but not the Hebrew Bible.
—Russian Jews have only one synagogue and one rabbi for every 16,000 believers while the Russian Orthodox have one each for every 1,000 believers and Baptists one minister and place of worship for 500 believers.
—Other religions may produce ritual objects but not the Jews.
—The Jews may not have unleavened bread for Passover.
—Russian Jews may not communicate with co-religionists even in Communist countries.

tries or organize on a national basis white churches may receive foreign delegations and even make trips abroad.
—Moscow has permitted the publication of anti-Semitic literature.
THE SOVIETS insist they discriminate against no one. But they also say that if all Russians were free to adhere to any belief or religion in any manner, they might join religious sects which endangered the country.

Doubt Seagrave's Burma Hospital Can Keep Going

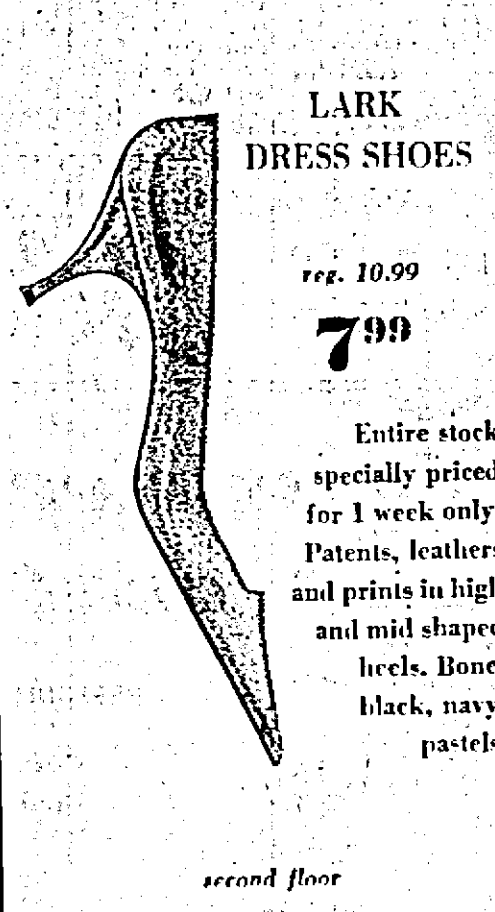

By PETER BOOG
NANKHAM, Burma (AP)—Dr. Gordon Seagrave's staff wants to carry on its work, but one of the Burma surgeon's associates says only a miracle can save the remote mountain hospital of Nankham, where the missionary doctor, who died at his hospital March 28 at age 68, said in his will that he prayed that work there would go on.
Despite this dogged spirit, the chances of keeping the hospital going look slim. In the past year, the decision was made to stay out of Nankham, probably a token of appreciation for Seagrave's lifetime of devoted service in the northern wilderness.
Seagrave's colleague, Dr. Joseph Newhall, says the hospital is "short on funds, and countries because the hospital north of Mandalay. It has a proud tradition of day-and-night service—even before electricity was introduced in 1952. Seagrave once performed major operations by candlelight.
Newhall says it's almost impossible for an American doctor to get a residence permit to work at Nankham. Newhall—with his wife, three children and two adopted Shan twins—hopes to fight to the end. "All of us

Dixie Town Devastated by Tornado

By a twister funnel that slashed a 100-foot swath through 25 trailers. Most of the trailers were damaged and six persons were hospitalized.

Twisters were sighted from northwest of Leavenworth, Kan., northeastward through De Kalb, Mo. Leavenworth is about 20 miles northwest of Kansas City.

Fresh rains added more water to swollen rivers in the Midwest flood zone Saturday where more than 8,000 persons have been driven from their homes.

Rain fell on flood-weary Mankato, Minn., but the Minnesota River backed off fractionally from peak levels. A crest appeared to have been reached—about one foot short of earlier predictions.

THE RIVER reached 29.07 feet in Mankato at midnight, retreated to 28.96, then rose to 29 feet again. Joseph Strub, hydrologist with the Minneapolis Weather Bureau, said it appeared the river would hold steady for another 48 hours.

Vice President Humphrey flew over the flood-stricken area.

The flood threat continued to mount in the Mississippi River valley in Wisconsin, but the worst was over in the Pecatonica and Kickapoo River basins.

Gov. Warren Knowles of Wisconsin and a team of state officials made a 600-mile aerial inspection of high-water dangers along the western edge of the state. The governor said the major danger spot was about five miles north of La Crosse. He declared a state of emergency for the La Crosse area.

"IT'S VERY bad," said Knowles. "I've ordered the National Guard's engineers to use dynamite if that is needed to break the ice jam."

11-YEAR-OLD MOTHER AND BABY

Schwab said the robber had merchandise — the wine and cigarettes — worth 67 cents in his hand when he attempted the holdup.

"I had almost $200 in the cash register and I've never been held up before. When I heard him fire that shot at me, I figured it was him or me, so I drew my pistol and fired."

The bullet struck West in the chest at a distance of less than five feet.

Officers late Saturday were unable to find the bullet fired from West's small revolver and theorized he had one round in the chamber which was a blank, although the rest of the ammunition was live.

"He may have fired that blank to scare the clerk," Officer Bostard said. "It cost him his life."

Cypriot Factions Exchange Firing

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Firing broke out between Greek and Turkish Cypriot positions in the Kokkina area of north-west Cyprus Friday night. U.N. peace force headquarters reported Saturday.

A U.N. announcement said no casualties were reported by either side, though more than 500 shots were heard.

A Long Beach jeweler reported a $25,000 jewel burglary to Long Beach police.

Orval Nelson, of 6915 Delta Ave., told police a burglar entered his home sometime between 4 and 8 p.m., and removed two professional display cases filled with jewels worth approximately $25,000.

He told a newsman burglars had struck the company he works for frequently, but he refused to name the company.

Jilted Girl's Five Bullets Fail to Kill

William Stewart Smith, 30, shot five times by a jilted girl friend, was reported in fair condition Saturday night at Hoag Memorial Hospital, Newport Beach.

Carol Elaine Richards, 29, of 3026 Coolidge Ave., Costa Mesa, was booked on suspicion of attempted murder following the Friday night shooting in Smith's apartment at 311 Edgewater Place, Newport Beach.

DETECTIVES said Miss Richards told them "I shot him because I'm a jilted woman. I guess."

She said she and Smith had been dating for several months but recently had broken up.

Detectives said a woman identified as Patricia Hood, no age or address given, was hiding in a closet in Smith's apartment at the time of the shooting.

Boy for Gigi Perreau

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—Actress Gigi Perreau gave birth to a five-pound-three-ounce boy Saturday in Queen of Angels Hospital. The baby was the second child for the actress and her husband, Frank Gallo. They have a 2-year-old daughter, Gina Marie.

part of the week trying to evolve and enunciate a program that I hoped would be war against war itself. In a tripod, three-pronged speech that I made in Baltimore on Wednesday evening to the nation and to the world, I made clear our firmness and our commitments, and our determination to carry out our commitments; our readiness and our willingness to engage in unconditional discussions; and our Christian and great humanitarian desire to participate in helping to develop other parts of the world."

The White House confirmed Saturday night that President Johnson will sign into law today the historic $1.3-billion aid-to-education bill.

The White House said Johnson would do so in mid or late afternoon in a ceremony at the one-room schoolhouse he attended as a youth—about a mile from his ranch.

IN OBVIOUS reference to South Viet Nam, the President declared in his speech:

"Where we have given our commitments to others, we shall keep them—for we have made a binding commitment to ourselves, that peace shall not be lost and freedom shall not perish from this earth."

"I hope I speak softly but firmly when I say to all—let none misjudge—let none doubt—the will that supports this American purpose of peace and freedom."

The President returned to a scene of his own youth—San Marcos, where he attended what is now Southwest Texas State College—to speak at the highly sentimental ceremony dedicating the Job Corps center.

The center is at Camp Gary, which he recalled he helped develop as a young congressman "to train young men for war."

Our new nursing home is centrally located near the Long Beach Freeway on Imperial in the City of Lynwood. Just across the street from the St. Francis Hospital. The MARLINDA will be fully equipped to accommodate 130 patients and guests. We will offer private rooms, as well as semi-private and wards. Recreation areas with television and motion pictures, spacious interior patios for sunning and exercise, and of course, the cheerful care which has been associated with our nursing homes for over 20 years. In our humble opinion, we believe we have an abundance of tender, loving care to offer each of our patients.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Angry Husband in Kamikaze Dive

PITTMAN, Nev. (AP)—A private pilot—bent on murder and suicide—plunged his twin-engine plane in a death dive early Saturday on a barroom owned by his former wife, police reported.

The plane hit with the fury of a napalm bomb—but only pilot John Covarrubias, 38, was killed.

Flames and flying masonry showered dancers and drinkers, injuring three patrons, one seriously. But Mrs. Nellie Covarrubias, 34, who said her ex-mate threatened to kill her after she refused to take him back, escaped uninjured.

"It was a kamikaze sort of thing," said Detective I.A. Jack Perkins. (Kamikazes were World War II Japanese suicide pilots.)

Perkins said that two hours after the death threat, Covarrubias' $75,000 Cessna 210 skimmed a few feet over the busy Phoenix-Las Vegas highway and hit three parked cars outside the Branding Iron bar, enveloping it in flames.

The plane's nose and two wrecked autos smashed a 10-foot hole in the side of the yellow-painted, 30x50-foot bar. Customers ran screaming in panic as blazing gasoline streamed inside.

North Viet Bridge, Roads Bombed

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—More than 120 U.S. warplanes fanned out over Communist North Viet Nam Saturday, striking at a strategic bridge and highways. Officials said all got back safely after meeting little ground fire and no air challenges from Red MIGs.

A Viet Cong-South Vietnamese firefight three miles from Da Nang gave 1,400 newly arrived U.S. Marines their first glimpse of the Viet Nam war but they did not become engaged. The ground troops came ashore concurrent with the arrival of the first four of 18 F4 Phantom jets flown by Marine pilots.

Murderess Executed by Firing Squad

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—A 40-year-old woman was executed Saturday by a firing squad.

In 1963 Alkaterini Dimitria was sentenced to death for poisoning her 78-year-old mother, her aunt, her brother and her 5-year-old nephew by putting insecticide in their food or coffee.

Police said she was impassive as the end came, saying only: "I repent what I have done."

She told the court she wanted revenge on her family because they wanted to get rid of her after she was abandoned by her husband, Alkaterini band.

Berlin Harassment Ended

BERLIN (UPI)—The Russians Saturday cut short their war games west of Berlin and ended harassment of this isolated city as the U.S. Army sent a combat infantry battalion here from West Germany in a show of force.

The Soviet and East German Communists made no attempt to interfere with the American troop convoy as it rolled to West Berlin over the 110-mile highway crossing Communist East Germany.

Malaria Perils Gls in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army anxiously is seeking an antidote for a mosquito-borne and drug-resistant type of malaria threatening U.S. troops in South Viet Nam.

The research, it was revealed Saturday, has been given top priority at the Walter Reed Institute of Research here, at the Army Environmental Hygiene Agency in Edgewood, Md., among medical teams working in Thailand and Malaysia, and at the University of Michigan and other institutions conducting Defense-financed medical investigations.

Linda Darnell Tells Love to Daughter, Dies

CHICAGO (UPI)—Sultry actress Linda Darnell, one of the world's most beautiful women when she reigned as a Hollywood queen, died Saturday of burns received when she dashed into a blazing room in an heroic search for a friend's child.

The 43-year-old star of the 1940's and 50's died at 2:15 p.m. CST in the famed Sumner L. Koch burn unit of Cook County Hospital. Burns covered 80% of her body, but she was able to talk shortly before her death with her teen-age daughter.

Some of the nation's top burn experts had worked for 33 hours in hopes of saving the life and beauty of the Dallas-born brunette who came to Hollywood when she was only 15 and went on to star in 50 movies.

LITTLE HOPE had been held out for her life since she was carried early Friday from the charred home of her long-time friend and onetime personal secretary, Mrs. Richard Curtis, in a fashionable section of suburban Glenview.

According to friends of the Curtis family, Miss Darnell tried trying to save a teen-age girl who was already safe.

Although she had been listed in "very, very critical" condition, Miss Darnell appeared to show some improvement after she was brought to the burn unit. Her adopted daughter, Charlotte, 16, visited her and doctors said she was "slightly improved."

THE ACTRESS was conscious during the half hour she spent with her daughter and her last words were to her.

At the Cook County morgue, where her mother's body was brought, Charlotte said of her mother's last words: "She just expressed her love for me."

A CORONER'S inquest will be sworn in, but it will be a formality, Thelan said. Dr. John A. Boswick Jr., director of the burn unit, said Charlotte read from a stack of telegrams almost a foot high from show business celebrities throughout the country.

Miss Darnell's face had been severely burned and her eyes were closed. But when she heard her daughter's voice "you could tell she enjoyed it," Boswick said.

Miss Darnell and Mrs. Curtis had stayed up Thursday night to watch a late movie on television called "Star Dust" in which Miss Darnell starred with John Payne.

"It was the third movie she'd made and she giggled all the way through it," Mrs. Curtis said.

Mrs. Curtis went to bed and Miss Darnell stayed downstairs to read newspapers. At 3 a.m. CST, Patricia Curtis awakened the women. She said she could feel there was a fire downstairs.

MISS DARNELL said "keep calm, Pat" and told Mrs. Curtis to get wet towels and wrap them around their faces. Mrs. Curtis told her daughter to climb to a ledge and jump. Then she said "This way, Linda," and found her friend was not with her.

A friend of the family, who asked that his name not be revealed, said Mrs. Curtis told him she was sure Miss Darnell had gone downstairs to the living room in the belief that Patricia was there. Firemen found the actress' body, clad in charred pajamas, huddled behind the sofa where the fire appeared to have started.

The actress underwent 2½ hours of surgery at Skokie Valley Community Hospital and seven more hours at the Koch burn unit after she was transferred there Friday night.

Cook County hospital issued an appeal for blood donors Friday night. Offers of blood and skin grafts came in from throughout the county.

Despite the signs of improvement, it became apparent at 1 p.m. CST that the actress was failing. Boswick transferred there Friday night, was with her when she died.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Angry Husband in Kamikaze Dive

PITTMAN, Nev. (AP)—A private pilot—bent on murder and suicide—plunged his twin-engine plane in a death dive early Saturday on a barroom owned by his former wife, police reported.

The plane hit with the fury of a napalm bomb—but only pilot John Covarrubias, 38, was killed. Flames and flying masonry showered dancers and drinkers, injuring three patrons, one seriously. But Mrs. Nellie Covarrubias, 34, who said her ex-mate threatened to kill her after she refused to take him back, escaped uninjured.

"It was a kamikaze sort of thing," said Detective Lt. Jack Perkins. (Kamikazes were World War II Japanese suicide pilots.)

Perkins said that two hours after the death threat, Covarrubias' $75,000 Cessna 210 skimmed a few feet over the busy Phoenix-Las Vegas highway and hit three parked cars outside the Branding Iron bar, enveloping it in flames.

The plane's nose and two wrecked autos smashed a 10-foot hole in the side of the yellow-painted, 30x50-foot bar. Customers ran screaming in panic as blazing gasoline streamed inside.

North Viet Bridge, Roads Bombed

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—More than 120 U.S. warplanes fanned out over Communist North Viet Nam Saturday, striking at a strategic bridge and highways. Officials said all got back safely after meeting little ground fire and no air challenges from Red MIGs.

A Viet Cong-South Vietnamese firefight three miles from Da Nang gave 1,400 newly arrived U.S. Marines their first glimpse of the Viet Nam war but they did not become engaged. The ground troops came ashore concurrent with the arrival of the first four of 18 F4 Phantom jets flown by Marine pilots.

Murderess Executed by Firing Squad

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—A 40-year-old woman was executed Saturday by a firing squad.

In 1963 Aikaterini Dimitrea was sentenced to death for poisoning her 78-year-old mother, her aunt, her brother and her 5-year-old nephew by putting insecticide in their food or coffee.

Police said she was impassive as the end came, saying only: "I repent what I have done."

She told the court she wanted revenge on her family because they wanted to get rid of her after she was abandoned by her husband.

Police, 225-Pound Solon Scuffle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A freshman congressman from Iowa says police started to book him after he scuffled with three of the them outside a precinct station a week ago, but deleted his name from the book after learning his identity.

Rep. John C. Culver, D-Iowa, told newsmen about the incident Friday after they had been given some details by Washington police.

Culver, 32, who stands 6 feet 2 and weighs 225 pounds, is a former Harvard fullback and onetime legislative assistant to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

REP. CULVER
Ex-Fullback at Harvard

CULVER said he had dinner last Friday night with a group of Iowans, and then had some drinks with them before dropping them off at their hotel and hailing a cab to take him to his home in the Chevy Chase section of the city. He said he dozed off.

"I wasn't intoxicated," Culver said. "I was dead tired, I was full. And then there were those drinks."

Police quoted the cab driver, whose name was not disclosed, as saying his fare mumbled two addresses, but that both proved to be wrong, so he drove to the Eighth Precinct station to ask for help.

Police Sgt. Harold D. Bowers said he tugged at the man sleeping in the cab a couple of times but got no response. To his aid came Detective Pts. Robert G. Dennell and Douglas C. Taylor. They helped the man out of the back and onto the sidewalk.

"THE FIRST thing I knew," Culver said, "there were these three guys I'd never seen before pulling and hauling me quoted the police. "We can't arrest congressmen for misdemeanors."

HE SAID police then drew red lines through his name in the arrest book, and he inked it over more thoroughly with a pen. Then, he said, the police provided him transportation home.

The story came to light when a woman telephoned Washington newspapers anonymously and asked why they hadn't printed anything about the arrest of a Congress member "out at No. 8."

When police were queried, they gave their version on orders from Police Chief John B. Layton, who said that, in fairness, Culver should be notified. The congressman then called in reporters.

"I'M NOT proud of what happened," Culver said. "I had quite a job explaining it to my wife and mother and I'm not trying to hide it. If my whole career is going to be wrecked by this one incident, that's the way it's going to be. It's the honest way of doing it. It's the most difficult thing I've had to do in my whole life, but being in public life I'm prepared to face it."

Omarr Reads the Stars

By SYDNEY OMARR

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do not permit others to dictate your close life. Be pleasant where children are concerned. But insist that duties are carried out. Put views across with confidence.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You could gain major objective. Strive willingness to expand. Invest time in your dreams. Means give serious thought to personal project. Then you can find constructive methods.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You may find it difficult to "get along" with people. Go with the flow. You require change of pace. Do some reading. Catch up on mail, calls. Be receptive. You will succeed.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Attention centers around special projects. Check for bargains, unusual information. Be aware of details. Personal will accomplish much. Attend church or choir.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 20): Avoid jumping to conclusions. Permit logic to rule. Emotional. Remain calm in face of confusion. Cycle remains high. But some attention. Members may take abstemious view. Be patient.

VIRGO (Aug. 21-Sept. 20): Check with one you admire. Your intuition will prove accurate. But you need reassurance. Get accurate. But you need reassurance. Get accurate. But you need reassurance.

LIBRA (Sept. 21-Oct. 20): Give to some financial advice. Be sympathetic but firm. Be quiet within. Not prone to become emotionally involved. Good to obtain needed privacy. Stand tall.

SCORPIO (Oct. 21-Nov. 20): Stress ambition. Ability to handle responsibility. Refuse to take too much for granted. You will be rewarded. Extra efforts. Double check—especially directions, numbers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 21-Dec. 20): Take day through indirect methods. Shortest distance may actually take longest time. Message. Monthly clear by tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 21-Jan. 19): Break through red tape. Deal with those in authority. Express views. Be honest with others—and with yourself. Then you achieve remarkable degree of understanding.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): In any dispute involving friends—remain neutral. What appears to be "stern" is merely big wind. Do more listening than talking. Stay clear of long-range commitments.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Mingle to try forces issues. Utilize "soft sell" approach. Good to have minor matters. Then major projects will also advance.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: you are a sensitive, intuitive individual and often display ESP. Hard for others to fool you—but you do, at times, fool yourself.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Virgo, Libra, Sagittarius, Cancer, Scorpio. Friend of long standing has information you seek. Check!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): "Shakeup" likely in connection with work patterns. Remain neutral where inter-office disputes are concerned. Accept changes. Make adjustments. Display good sportsmanship.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Make choice between romantic notions and realistic appraisal. You may discover that what you possess... is vital to your happiness. Reach out for maturity.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be aware of necessities. But don't get completely bogged down in routine. Be imaginative. Strive future possibilities. Avoid negative conflict. Through reasonable attitude.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Avoid unnecessary travel. Finish one task at a time. Avoid scattering your forces. Dealings with in-laws require delicate handling. Control temper.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 20): Unusual expenditures. Indicated. Accent harmony. greater home comfort. But don't go overboard for items in luxury class. First to basic needs. Then you get more pleasure from other purchases.

VIRGO (Aug. 21-Sept. 20): Evaluate position. Some necessary to tear down in order to rebuild. Don't hang on to outmoded methods. Accent talent, ability to choose quality. Be analytical, logical.

Conservationists Attack Grand Canyon Dam Plans

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
Los Angeles Bureau

WASHINGTON — Fearing that the hand of man may damage the ages-old splendor of the Grand Canyon, conservationists have launched a determined attack on proposed construction of two dams in northern Arizona.

The conservationists are aiming at the heart of a delicately balanced agreement between California and Arizona interests on allotment of water in the river's lower reaches.

Under fire is the proposed construction of the Bridge Canyon and Marble Canyon dams, keystones in the central Arizona project which would water large sections of thirsty Arizona. The project, in turn, has been guaranteed California support in exchange for Arizona's pledge to assure California its 4.4 million acres feet a year allotment of Colorado River water until water can be brought to the basin from elsewhere.

THE BRIDGE Canyon Dam has particularly concerned conservationist groups, spearheaded by California's Sierra Club. They have claimed that the dam, which would in effect create an upstream extension of Hoover Dam's Lake Mead, would flood extensive parts of the canyon. The Marble Canyon Dam would wipe out miles of the Little Grand Canyon in remote north-central Arizona, they charge.

Congressmen, particularly those from the West, have gotten blizzards of mail from persons who fear that the dams will desecrate the region.

The Interior Department, which sponsored the legislation after California and Arizona interests reached agreement, concede that the Bridge Canyon Lake will indeed reach for about 13 miles into the Grand Canyon. But, they say, it would be a comparative rivulet in the vastness of the 217-mile long, mile-deep gap.

Storied House Is Uncovered in England

BEDFORD, England (AP)—An architect and an archaeologist say they have uncovered in a children's day nursery features of a medieval building they contend is the interpreter's house of John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress."

The building is believed to be the hard core of the original Hospital of St. John built here in the middle of the 14th Century. The original oak roof timbers of the main hall have been found hidden behind a ceiling—all in sound condition.

FURTHERMORE, say the pro-damners, the lake would be in a section of the canyon visited largely only by a few hardy souls who brave its rapids in small craft. The same holds for Marble Canyon.

But the conservationists say that even this amount of intrusion in to the Grand Canyon's wilderness is too much—like a bear's nose under a tent flap—and they've begun banging away at the bill even before it emerges from its temporary den in the House Interior & Insular Affairs Committee.

The committee is expected to hold hearings on the bill within two months and the real barrage is expected then.

Meanwhile, Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, began sniping at the bill from the Senate floor.

IN A SPEECH last week, Lausche said the dams represent "inconsistency" on the part of Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, who he said plunged for wilderness measures on one hand and proposed to spend billions to destroy a wonder of the world.

Lausche challenged the need for the dams and asked that they be stricken from the bill. He attacked the concept of building dams for producing "high cost power" to finance construction of "wasteful, fast siltng reservoirs out in the middle of the desert, a hundred miles from anywhere."

Lausche's denunciation echoed the sentiments of the North American Wild Life Natural Resources Conference held here two weeks ago. The conference made it clear that its member organizations would seek to dynamite the dam proposal.

Should they succeed in wrecking the proposal, a compromise laboriously hammered out by California and Arizona leaders, it would unquestionably renew the long bickering between the two states over allotment of Colorado River water.

Starlight Serenades Sets Concert Dates

Dates for three of this summer's four Starlight Serenade pops concerts were set Friday at a meeting of the Long Beach Symphony Association's committee for the popular annual series.

Wallace Arntzen, committee chairman, announced after the meeting at the Chamber of Commerce building, 121 Linden Ave., that the three concerts will be held in Bixby Park June 29, July 13 and July 27. The date for a fourth finale concert to be held at Avalon, Catalina Island, will be arranged with Avalon town authorities, he said.

Mrs. Herman H. Ridder, who was founding chairman of the Starlight Serenades and led them through three seasons of resounding success until her recent resignation, was unanimously elected honorary chairman on motion of Arntzen, seconded by Cecilia Tallchett.

LUBA Kadavy was elected vice chairman.

Other members of the committee are Marvin Cloyd, Jim Hurley, Maurice Jones, John Letick, Laura Killingsworth, John and Sue McDonald, Winn Nott, Walter Polack, Mottell Peek, Bernard J. Ridder Jr. and Evelyn Whaley.

LBJ Approach--Olive Branch and Sword

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

President Johnson abruptly switched policy last week and offered the North Viet Nam Communists "unconditional" talks on ending the South Viet Nam war.

It was both an olive branch and sword approach, contingent on the Hanoi regime and Red China guaranteeing pro-Western South Viet Nam's independence.

First reaction from both was a flat rejection, parroted by Soviet Russia and Poland which accused the U.S. of endangering world peace.

Heart of the President's proposal was a billion dollar-plus cooperative economic development plan for all East Asia in which even the Communists would share.

THE alternative, Johnson warned, was war and more war — a warning underscored as 220 Navy and Air Force planes pounded more North Vietnamese targets, some near China's border, and Marine reinforcements and supersonic fighter planes were rushed to Viet Nam.

Some of the raiders were attacked by unidentified Russian-made MIGs 35 miles south of China's Hainan Island. A dogfight followed. The MIGs fled, with one trailing flames.

A Peking broadcast said the MIGs were Chinese. If true, it would be the first such clash between American and Chinese Communist forces since the Korean War. Peking also claimed one U.S. plane downed another American plane with a missile intended for a MIG.

THE DEFENSE Department denied Peking's charge that the U.S. planes intruded over Hainan Island.

A hard-driving Congress also made the headlines.

The House passed a $6 billion package bill for old age health insurance and bigger Social Security benefits. Early Senate approval was expected. Johnson had given it top priority.

The Senate completed congressional action on the President's $13 billion public and parochial school aid bill—another high priority welfare measure—after defeating attempts to force an early constitutional test.

Both chambers worked at top speed to produce bills to carry out Johnson's urgent demand for legislation guaranteeing Negroes the unhampered right to vote.

The developments added up to a spectacular score sheet for the administration.

THE President spelled out his Viet Nam peace plan in a nationally televised address at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. He underwrote it with these words:

"We will never be second in the search for a peaceful settlement... but we will not be defeated... will not grow tired... will not withdraw" in the face of the Communist goal of "total conquest" of Viet Nam and eventually all Southeast Asia.

Heretofore he had barred talks of any kind until North Viet Nam withdraws across the 17th parallel.

For the first time he specifically named Red China as "the deepening shadow" over "this war and all Asia." Retreat from South Viet Nam, he said, would not end the war but spread it to other nations the United States is pledged to defend.

JOHNSON'S historic Asian economic plan would be under United Nations auspices. The people of Southeast Asia would cooperate in development of their own program after which U.S. resources—money, machinery, food, clothing, etc.—would be fitted into it. Other nations, including Russia and North Viet Nam, were invited to participate.

"We cannot wait for peace to begin the job," the President said.

U.N. Secretary General

JAMES B. CAREY
Steps Down

Thant, a Burmese who had been critical of U.S. Vietnamese policy, quickly accepted Johnson's suggestion that he help initiate the program. Thant later met with former World Bank President Eugene Black, named by the President to head a team of distinguished Americans to inaugurate the U.S. phase.

In other news spheres, the President flew to his Texas ranch for a week-end of relaxation.

The Senate passed and returned to the House a $15.3 billion defense authorization, including money for an advanced strategic bomber.

A so-called Early Bird satellite—a space station for trans-Atlantic telephone-television transmission for the Communications Satellite Corp. (Comsat)—was parked in perfect orbit over the equator. It opened the businessman's era in space.

JAMES B. Carey resigned as veteran president of the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) after the Department of Labor reported union trustees had falsely reported his re-election over insurgent leader Paul J. Jennings. The union board unanimously seated Jennings. Carey, one time boy wonder of labor, also was asked to resign as a vice president of the AFL-CIO, but refused to do so.

The Justice Department announced the arrest and indictment of two men on charges of selling defense secrets to Soviet agents. Accused were Sgt. Robert Lee Johnson, 43, a Defense Department courier, and James Allen Mintkenbaugh, 46, San Martin, Calif., a former Army comrade of Johnson's.

The Supreme Court ruled unanimously that state courts must comply with a federal constitutional rule by providing any person accused of a crime the right to confront and cross-examine witnesses against him.

The court also decreed that a TV advertiser may not resort to sham to prove something about a product, even if his claim is true. The decision was a victory for the business-policing Federal Trade Commission.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced arrangements with the British government for the Royal Air Force to buy $1 billion of F111 supersonic fighter planes.

Rep. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., son of the late President, was defeated in an election attempt to replace former Democratic Rep. Samuel Yorty as mayor of Los Angeles.

Former senator and Supreme Court Justice Sherman Minton died at New Albany, Ind. He was 74. Death also claimed Albert Cardinal Meyer of Chicago after brain surgery. He was 61.

Cancer Is Most Prevalent in Areas of Good Living

Editor's Note: A veteran science editor traces the grim pattern of cancer around the world in this sixth article from his important new book.

(Seventh in a Series)

By PAT McGRADY

Cancer probably affects every animal species that walks, crawls, flies, swims, or burrows under the earth. But its most tragic victim is man.

Insurance company figures indicate that in hours lost from work and other financial effects, cancer costs Americans each year more than $12 billion.

This is, of course, the least of its costs. The truly extortionate price is in human beings—in mothers, fathers, wives, husbands, sons and daughters.

The American Cancer Society offers these figures for last year: Stricken by cancer—540,000 people in the United States. Within five years some 360,000 of these will be dead, almost all of them from cancer.

In 1964, some 290,000 Americans died of cancer—155,000 men, 130,000 women and almost 5,000 children.

Until 1949, more women than men died of cancer. At that point two potent factors reversed the trend:

1. The rocketing rise in lung cancer among men, doubling every decade, and

2. The decreasing death rate in women.

About 2.6 million people die of cancer each year throughout the world. At any given time more than six million have cancer.

CANCER is a "disease of civilization." As a curious sidelight, until 1935 there was very little cancer among animals in the Philadelphia Zoo. Then, the zoo improved the diet. All walking, crawling and flying creatures which earlier had been dying of malnutrition and related diseases began to live much longer—and the cancer rate in all species promptly started to soar.

Cancer is most prevalent in areas of good eating, good housing and good medical care. In regions where people die early of malnutrition, infections, warfare, cannibalism, addictions, poor medical attention or filth, the cancer death rate is very low.

these age-standardized statistics showing the cancer fatalities per 100,000 population:

Austria 177, Scotland 176, Finland 171, Switzerland 164, England and Wales 161, West Germany 158, Netherlands 156, Chile 153, United States 141, Northern Ireland 140, France and Canada 139, Israel (Jewish population only) 138, Norway 134, Australia and New Zealand 130, Sweden 127, Italy 121, Japan and Puerto Rico 119, Trinidad and Tobago 103, Guatemala 95, Portugal 85 and Ceylon 29.

Only in the body site it attacks does cancer discriminate between races, nationalities, religions and socioeconomic groups.

One of the more reasonable explanations is for skin cancer. The fairer the skin the more susceptible it is to cancer induced by weather and the rays of the sun.

One of the more marked phenomena is the rarity of cancer of the uterine cervix among Jewish women throughout the world. One study indicates these tumors are nine times as common among non-Jews as among Jews. The reason most often given—and sometimes disputed—is circumcision among Jewish males.

In southern and western parts of Africa, liver cancer comes early in life and is very common. Ninety percent of all cancer in some Bantu tribes is of the liver (due to inadequate diet?).

SOMETHING in poverty (would it be early marriage?) brings cervical cancer to the poor, according to a dozen surveys from Bombay, India, to New York City. And something in riches (could it be late maturity and marriage?) makes breast cancer prevalent among the well-to-do.

Hawaii, a mosaic of ethnic groups, offers a mosaic of cancer patterns. Hawaii's Japanese have a high stomach cancer rate (possibly due to their low socioeconomic status and typical Japanese diet). These are other variables among Hawaii's polyglot people.

Liver cancer—high among Filipinos (who subsist on a diet high in carbohydrates, low in Vitamin B1); lung cancer—low among Japanese and Filipino men who are relatively light smokers; breast cancer—five times as low among Japanese women as among other Hawaiian females (Japanese women nurse their infants and have an early menopause); cancer of the large intestine—most frequent among Caucasian women (due possibly to their diet and bowel habits); prostate cancer—nine times as frequent among Caucasians as Japanese men (attributed by one source to more regularity in sexual intercourse and early mating by the Japanese); nose and throat cancers—high among Chinese who drink often and copiously of hot teas; uterine cervix cancer—most common among Hawaiian and part Hawaiian women who have poor medical care during and after pregnancy.

SUCH UNUSUAL predictions of some cancers raise many questions. For instance: Is stomach cancer a dietary affair? This disease is 50% more frequent in Newfoundland, where salt cod is a favorite dish, than in neighboring Canada in general.

One study in Buffalo, N.Y., showed this: The poorer the man, the more susceptible he was to cancers of the stomach, liver, esophagus, lung and larynx. The poorer the woman, the more she was to cancers of the stomach, liver and cervix. Indeed poverty seemed to have only one virtue—it protected to some degree against cancer of the female breast.

Cancer death rates, generally, are on the rise. In one area of the world, however, one kind of cancer will relent while the same cancer pursues its upward trend everywhere else.

During the past 30 years, American and British deaths from cancer of the uterus, liver and stomach have dropped 50%. In the same 30 years, mortality from cancer of the breast has remained remarkably steady, while leukemia and cancer of the pancreas have risen in males and females almost everywhere. Intestinal cancer deaths have risen rapidly in American Negroes, slowly in American whites.

Nobody knows why. (Tomorrow: Failure, timidity and hope on cancer.)

THE SAVAGE CELL

Cancer Is Most Prevalent in Areas of Good Living

Editor's Note: A veteran science editor traces the grim pattern of cancer around the world in this sixth article from his important new book.

By PAT McGRADY

Cancer probably affects every animal species that walks, crawls, flies, swims, or burrows under the earth. But its most tragic victim is man.

Insurance company figures indicate that in hours lost from work and other financial effects, cancer costs Americans each year more than $12 billion.

This is, of course, the least of its costs. The truly extortionate price is in human beings — in mothers, fathers, wives, husbands, sons and daughters.

The American Cancer Society offers these figures for last year: Stricken by cancer—540,000 people in the United States. Within five years some 360,000 of these will be dead, almost all of them from cancer.

In 1964, some 280,000 Americans died of cancer—155,000 men, 130,000 women and almost 5,000 children.

Until 1949, more women than men died of cancer. At that point two potent factors reversed the trend: 1. The rocketing rise in lung cancer among men, doubling every decade, and 2. The decreasing death rate in women.

About 2.6 million people die of cancer each year throughout the world. At any given time more than six million have cancer.

CANCER is a "disease of civilization." As a curious sidelight, until 1935 there was very little cancer among animals in the Philadelphia Zoo. Then, the zoo improved the diet. All walking, crawling and flying creatures which earlier had been dying of malnutrition and related diseases began to live much longer—and the cancer rate in all species promptly started to soar.

Cancer is most prevalent in areas of good eating, good housing and good medical care. In regions where people die early of malnutrition, infections, warfare, cannibalism, addictions, poor medical attention or filth, the cancer death rate is very low.

these age-standardized statistics showing the cancer fatalities per 100,000 population:

Austria 177, Scotland 176, Finland 171, Switzerland 164, England and Wales 161, West Germany 158, Netherlands 156, Chile 153, United States 141, Northern Ireland 140, France and Canada 139, Israel (Jewish population only) 138, Norway 134, Australia and New Zealand 130, Sweden 127, Italy 121, Japan and Puerto Rico 119, Trinidad and Tobago 103, Guatemala 95, Portugal 85 and Ceylon 29.

Only in the body site it attacks does cancer discriminate between races, nationalities, religions and socioeconomic groups.

One of the more reasonable explanations is for skin cancer. The fairer the skin the more susceptible it is to cancer induced by weather and the rays of the sun.

One of the more marked phenomena is the rarity of cancer of the uterine cervix among Jewish women throughout the world. One study indicates these tumors are nine times as common among non-Jews as among Jews. The reason most often given — and sometimes disputed — is circumcision among Jewish males.

In southern and western parts of Africa, liver cancer comes early in life and is very common. Ninety percent of all cancer in some Bantu tribes is of the liver (due to inadequate diet?)

SOMETHING in poverty (would it be early marriage?) brings cervical cancer to the poor, according to a dozen surveys from Bombay, India, to New York City. And something in riches (could it be late maturity and marriage?) makes breast cancer prevalent among the well-to-do.

Hawaii, a mosaic of ethnic groups, offers a mosaic of cancer patterns. Hawaii's Japanese have a high stomach cancer rate (possibly due to their low socioeconomic status and typical Japanese diet). These are other variables among Hawaii's polyglot people:

Liver cancer—high among Filipinos (who subsist on a diet high in carbohydrates, low in Vitamin B1); lung cancer—low among Japanese and Filipino men who are relatively light smokers; breast cancer—five times as low among Japanese women as among other Hawaiian females (Japanese women nurse their infants and have an early menopause); cancer of the large intestine — most frequent among Caucasian women (due possibly to their diet and bowel habits); prostate cancer—nine times as frequent among Caucasian as Japanese men (attributed by one source to more regularity in sexual intercourse and early mating by the Japanese); nose and throat cancers—high among Chinese who drink often and copiously of hot teas; uterine cervix cancer — most common among Hawaiian and part Hawaiian women who have poor medical care during and after pregnancy.

SUCH UNUSUAL predictions of some cancers raise many questions. For instance: Is stomach cancer a dietary affair? This disease is 50% more frequent in Newfoundland, where salt cod is a favorite dish, than in neighboring Canada in general.

One study in Buffalo, N.Y., showed this: The poorer the man, the more susceptible he was to cancers of the stomach, liver, esophagus, lung and larynx. The poorer the woman, the prone she was to cancers of the stomach, liver and cervix. Indeed poverty seemed to have only one virtue — it protected to some degree against cancer of the female breast.

State Spurs Fight on Segregation

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state agency attempting to eliminate all-day took steps to beef up alleged de facto segregation in public schools.

By a unanimous voice vote, the board adopted a proposal asking the federal government for $148,000 to enable the Commission on Equal Opportunities in Education to add two specialists to its staff.

No federal opposition was expected, a spokesman said. Specific objectives of the three-year program under commission director Wilson C. Riles would be to:

—Develop community programs that would support desegregation.

—Plan policies and programs that would prevent a recurrence of racial imbalance.

—Search out new ways to keep instruction at a high level in desegregated situations.

—Establish personnel training programs that would underscore desegregation problems.

—Resolve any school administrative problems that might arise in a desegregated area.

Funds for the commission, which operates under the Department of Education, would be channeled through the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Spoonfuls Separate Economy Run Top 3

By BOB BECKMAN
L. P. T. Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y.—The Froelich-Droke duo of Downey, leading all week in their classes in the 1965 Mobil Economy Run, Saturday also were locked in a three-way contest for the over-all best mileage record as the 48 cars halted here before making the final leg Sunday to Times Square in New York City.

Byron Froelich's miles-per-gallon average after 2,832 miles in a Ford Falcon 170 was 25.9386, best of the small-engine, compact-car entrants.

DARRELL Droke, meanwhile, was recording 25.0141 mpg in a Ford Fairlane to lead the intermediate-sized, six-cylinder cars.

Nearly all 48 competing cars, including those of Droke and Froelich, saw reduced economy figures as the run swung into heavier eastern traffic. Gordon Madison of Los Alamitos, driving a Chevy II Nova in the large-engine, compact-car division, failed to gain on the class leader. His average upon reaching Albany was 22.8006.

A RAMBLER 440 headed the division at 25.9593, best of the entire field at the end of the sixth day of the transcontinental run, and the figure Froelich and Droke must beat.

Other division leaders and their averages: Class D (intermediate-size, eight-cylinder, low price), Dodge Coronet, 20.9839; Class E (full-size, six-cylinder), Chevrolet Biscayne, 21.4522; Class F (full-size), Chrysler New Yorker, 17.3570; Class S (special sports), Plymouth Barracuda, 21.6525.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Honey was money in the pockets of many Kentuckians in 1964.

The Kentucky Agriculture Department says production of honey in the state doubled last year to 2.5 million pounds.

Honey brought state beekeepers an estimated $872,000. Beeswax sales amounted to about $22,000.

Class E (full-size, six-cylinder), Chevrolet Biscayne, 21.4522; Class F (full-size), Chrysler New Yorker, 17.3570; Class S (special sports), Plymouth Barracuda, 21.6525.

L.B. Seeks Ways to Boost A-Shelter Space

By GEORGE WEEKS

If given a half hour's advance warning, Long Beach could shelter 189,160 persons—36% of the peak need—from radiation effects in the event of nuclear attack.

Given longer time, 100,000 more could find space in excess shelters in the downtown and port areas.

But it would cost nearly $36 million to provide for the city's maximum need by 1970.

Lacking money on that scale, city officials have under review interim measures for more effective use of available shelter and for increasing protection without massive outlays.

Among them are:

1. Printing and distributing a one-page map showing all shelter facilities in the city and advising persons in unsheltered areas on what they could do to protect themselves. Cost of printing and mailing 150,000 copies is estimated at $8,700.

2. Marking the 110 shelters not now marked, at a maximum cost of $3,300.
3. Possible development of 9,000 additional spaces through the installation of ventilation in existing facilities at a cost of $64,516.
4. Assignment of definite responsibilities to various city departments to help ease the deficit of shelter spaces—a shortage that admittedly cannot be erased without a big and costly program of constructing special shelters. The latter is regarded as primarily a federal responsibility.

a nation-wide 50-city community shelter project.

Councilmen accepted the report last week. Appropriation of funds for the limited measures open to the city, pending more substantial federal participation, was reserved for future sessions.

The $35,935,454 estimate of cost for maximum protection is based on projections to 1970 covering both population and shelter growth. The city's peak population—the maximum number likely to be in Long Beach at any given time—is forecast at 560,159 for that year. New construction is expected to add 58,000 shelter spaces in the interim. All facilities would then protect some 247,000, or 44.1%.

ALTHOUGH ACKNOWLEDGING that a completely satisfactory shelter plan cannot be effected in the absence of large-scale financing, the report emphasizes that the city of Long Beach is not without a Community Shelter Plan.

City Manager John R. Mansell noted that Long Beach

is in the front rank of cities preparing available shelters, with more than 300 buildings and other facilities on the official list.

To keep the plan updated, the report recommends these departmental activities:

Department of Building and Safety—Monitor construction to determine new buildings with fallout shelter potential; work with individual builders to incorporate shelter spaces in construction; assist individual home owners desiring to improvise or construct their own shelters.

Planning Department—Establish and keep up to date surveys showing the relationship of new buildings to population areas to be protected.

Department of Emergency Preparedness—Administer the shelter map and public information program; maintain liaison with other departments working on the shelter program; develop a shelter annex for the city's emergency preparedness plan, utilizing the new report.

COUNTY LIBRARY

Record Number of Books Issued

L. P. T. LOS ANGELES BUREAU

Circulation of books and magazines by Los Angeles County Public Library totaled 1,073,623 in March—the largest monthly figure ever recorded in the department.

County Librarian William S. Geller said the figure was a 13.8% jump over the circulation during March 1964.

As compared with March of 10 years ago, Geller said, the 1965 figure represented an increase of 110%.

Most city and community libraries of the county system showed "substantial" increases over last year, Geller said. Among the largest jumps was Gardena Public Library, whose circulation last month was 18,989, as compared to only 7,738 in March 1964.

Other branches in this area with large gains were Bellflower, with 14,749 as compared to 11,610 last year; Compton, 12,045 to 10,489; Lakewood, 30,467 to 27,159; North Torrance, 12,904 to 7,868; and Paramount 7,267 to 5,252.

With Malcolm Epley

DEPENDING on how the news hit you, I suppose, our paper on some recent days may or may not have seemed as delectable as a chocolate cake. But that was the way it was wrapped.

That's right, chocolate cake wrappers were our last resort when the marathon rainstorm caused a great big shortage in the wax bags used by Southern California newspaper publishers to keep copies dry on delivery at readers' doors.

When the rains started, the L.P.T. had a million wax bags on hand, seemingly an ample supply at this season of the year for any emergency. But the weather played wet tricks on us, and when we saw the supply running low we ordered more.

So did everybody else, and our circulation dept. contacted every wax paper supplier on the Pacific Coast trying to get more stock. Finally, it located a company in L.A. that could supply several thousand chocolate cake wrappers, and that's what we've been using lately.

If you're money-minded, it may interest you to know that we've recently spent $8,800 for wax paper.

STORMY weather has prompted bird-lovers to more feeding activity than usual. Frank Finch has been putting out suet in his backyard and the birds of the neighborhood have been feasting on it in a big way.

A Bixby Knolls bird-lover had an interesting experience. He ordered some stale bread at a bakery, intending to feed it to the feathered friends at his place.

He noted the girl who waited on him looked at him compassionately. When he got home and unwrapped the bread, he found two loaves so fresh they were still a little warm. He's sure that girl figured he was ordering cheaper stale bread for himself and using the bird thing as an excuse.

LAST year Mrs. Glen Jones of Lakewood went to one of those storage on sales and bought, insides unseen, a box that turned out to hold the second half of a set of Encyclopedia Americana.

The other day she was back at the same place for another sale, and picked out a box she suspected might contain books. She thought possibly even, it could be a first half of the Encyclopedia Americana.

It was half a set of the Americana, all right, but it was another last half!

Mrs. Jones, who lives at 4336 Hedda, is ready to do business with anybody who has a first half of the reference book set.

DRIFTWOOD—Mention here the other day of the practice of wearing a copper bracelet to ward off arthritis may have brought some snorts of disbelief, but there are some people around town who have done just that. One woman called to report she has been wearing a copper bracelet since 1952. She thinks it works.

Residents of the Colorado Lagoon area have reported spotting a big black swan swimming in the lagoon recently. Sam Barclay asserts one of the wettest spots in the area during rainstorms is around the Bellflower Blvd. on-ramps to the San Diego Freeway. He thinks that is a little odd because the entire area was reconstructed recently in connection with the freeway development. It's bad because brake-linings get wet just before cars enter the freeway.

Maybe the merchants who have U.S. Flags for sale could do some good for their business with a little advertising of same. I'm getting calls again from people who claim they have trouble finding Flags in the stores.

Pageants, Promotion Costs Told

During the current fiscal year, Los Angeles County taxpayers are contributing $2,355,543 to help finance such community projects as symphony orchestras, art museums, lifeguard services, trade and visitor promotion, and various fairs and pageants.

L. S. Hollinger, chief county administrative officer, said in a report to county supervisors that appropriations total $1,201,886 in "aid to other governments and non-profit organizations," $1,102,157 for "exploitation," and $51,500 for "exposition."

THE REPORT was requested last week by Supervisor Frank G. Bonelli. Bonelli also asked for the number and amounts of requests filed to date for the 1965-66 fiscal year.

Although many of the organizations receiving funds this year have not yet made requests for 1965-66, Hollinger said, most of the requests that have been made are for the same amount now appropriated.

The largest single item by far is the $684,357 appropriated to the All Year Club of Southern California to finance a nationwide advertising campaign to bring visitors to Southern California.

ONE SIGNIFICANT increase in the requests came from the City of Los Angeles for aid in providing lifeguard service at city beaches.

During the current year, the county is contributing $100,000 each to the cities of Los Angeles, Long Beach and Santa Monica to help pay the added costs of lifeguards caused by the use of beaches by persons living outside those cities.

The city of Los Angeles, however, maintains the present contribution is inequitable and has asked $420,466 next year. Long Beach has not submitted its request.

OF THE TOTAL $2.3 million allocation this year, $455,691 goes to various musical organizations. Among these are Long Beach Community Symphony, $20,000; Long Beach Civic Light Opera, $5,000; Compton Civic Symphony Orchestra, $2,500; Downey Symphonic Society, $3,000; and South Bay Civic Symphony, $1,000.

OTHER LOCAL area organizations receiving funds this year are: Long Beach Safety Council, $2,500; San Pedro Fishermen's Fiesta, $15,000; Long Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau, $21,900; Downey Art Museum, $5,000; International Beauty Congress, $20,000; Lakewood Pan-American Festival and Parade, $1,500; Long Beach Art Center, $10,000; and World Trade Week, $2,500.

Requests are coming in each week. On the agenda of Tuesday's meeting are the $584,357 request from All Year Club, $21,900 from Long Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau, and $1,000 from the Los Angeles Memorial Day Committee, Inc.

14-Foot Walls and Locks Keep Young People From Leaving Their 'Swank Private Club'

CLARENCE CABELL...
His one problem: "Too many"

NURSE GRACE HALL...
Checks on sick "inmate"

CHIEF MAURICE JACKSON...
Lots of hot soup

By MARY NEISWENDER

Average stay: One month.

Average weight gain: 20 pounds.

They go to school.

Have free medical and dental care.

Play on several acres of green, manicured lawn.

Go to movies in their own theater.

Dance every weekend in their own "canteen".

Sleep in private rooms.

And the only difference between their facility and a swank, private club is a 14-foot high wall and locks on all the doors.

There are, however, a few things the "kids"—aged 8 to 18—can't do, officials point out.

THEY CAN'T ADJUST their own hot water for showers—too many "accidental scaldings" of youngsters by the older, rougher element.

They can't "give away" food—too many incidents of intimidation by the older rougher element.

Reason: They've been committed to the juvenile detention facility at Los Padrinos by the courts for crimes ranging from stealing hub caps to murder.

"There's only one minor problem," says Clarence E. Cabell, director, "the facility was built to handle 200 boys and 83 girls—but we have 300 boys and 103 girls."

Consequently, things are a little crowded.

NEWCOMERS to the 23-acre center have to sleep on mattresses on the floors until a room is vacated.

"In the girls' section, it's the hardest," says Cabell, a University of California at Los Angeles graduate.

"Most of the 'extras' sleep in the day room, then they have to clean it up for breakfast—then clear away the dishes so they can use the room as a classroom—then they have to clear away the books, and bring back the dishes for lunch—then clear away the lunch to make room for school—then back to the dishes for dinner—then clear this all away to bring back their mattresses in order to sleep."

"I imagine the girls—especially the ones that sleep in the room—get pretty tired of it."

Despite the fact that they sleep on the floor, they're tucked in with gentle hands.

"We try to make it easier for them—try to get them to understand why they're here—and what it will be like wherever they go from here," Cabell says.

FROM THE DOWNEY institution some go to youth camps, some go to the Youth Authority facilities, some go into foster homes.

"We try to establish a down-to-earth atmosphere—try to treat them like human beings—something many of them have lacked in the past."

A Los Angeles resident, Cabell maintains the most of the "inmates" are at his "school" because they had no "father to look up to."

"I don't make excuses for these kids," says the 43-year-old juvenile worker, "but how can they look up to their fathers—when most of the fathers are lying down all the time?"

"Today's fathers," the director says, "aren't fathers."

"They're pals or buddies to their kids—and the kids have all the buddies they need at school."

"Or they've quit being fathers—either through drink or allowing their wives to take over the father's role."

"It's pretty hard for a kid to have respect for anything—law included—if he first doesn't have respect for his father."

THE OHIO-BORN director, who has a 14-year-old son, claims his staff tries to bolster respect for individuals and the law.

"We don't like a stuffy, therapeutic, inflexible social worker attitude," Cabell says. "And I don't think we have one here—I think we have a system that works."

And although, he admits, the system doesn't work all the time, the respect for authority remains.

"I happened to be visiting in San Quentin a few years ago, and ran into more than 100 of my former 'inmates' here."

Their stay at Los Padrinos apparently didn't do any good, but when you figure how many we have run through here since we opened in 1957, I think our system is successful."

The "system" includes teaching both boys and girls how to "get along in society."

"Most of these boys know how to act towards girls—how to 'small talk' with them."

"Of course," he adds, many of the boys could teach the counselors a lot about girls—if we let them."

AS SOON AS the juvenile arrives at the Downey center, he is "integrated" into activities as quickly as possible, Cabell says.

"We have to establish a strong relationship in a short period of time."

Each inmate is assigned to a counselor, and is kept under close mental and physical scrutiny 24 hours a day. Classrooms are on a multi-level basis, to permit "slow learners to learn without being scoffed at by the fast learners."

The entire 24 hours, officials point out, is mapped out for the inmates, including their play time.

Work—helping with the cooking, painting and various maintenance chores—is assigned on a "privilege" basis.

"Here we consider work a privilege, not a punishment," Cabell points out.

PRIVILEGES INCLUDE going to a weekly movie and a weekly dance. The top 40 of 300 boys and the top half of the girls are allowed to go to the "teen canteen" dances.

"And even this privilege has helped. The appearance of the inmates improved 100%."

"Our back-breaker is the overcrowding, especially in the girls' section," the director says, "but we should have some relief with the opening of a new detention center at Sylmar in June."

But until then, the veteran juvenile worker says, they'll keep sleeping in the halls and on the floor.

He'd rather have them sleeping on the floor at Los Padrinos than in a private room in San Quentin.

LOS PADRINOS HALL BUILT TO HOUSE JUVENILE OFFENDERS NOW HOUSES THEM ON FLOOR FOR LACK OF SPACE

L. B. Seeks Ways to Boost A-Shelter Space

By GEORGE WEEKS

If given a half hour's advance warning, Long Beach could shelter 189,160 persons—36% of the peak need—from radiation effects in the event of nuclear attack.

Given longer time, 100,000 more could find space in excess shelters in the downtown and port areas.

But it would cost nearly $36 million to provide for the city's maximum need by 1970.

Lacking money on that scale, city officials have under review interim measures for more effective use of available shelter and for increasing protection without massive outlays.

Among them are:

1. Printing and distributing a one-page map showing all shelter facilities in the city and advising persons in unsheltered areas on what they could do to protect themselves. Cost of printing and mailing 150,000 copies is estimated at $8,700.

2. Marking the 110 shelters not now marked, at a maximum cost of $3,300.

3. Possible development of 9,000 additional spaces through the installation of ventilation in existing facilities at a cost of $64,516.

4. Assignment of definite responsibilities to various city departments to help ease the deficit of shelter spaces—a shortage that admittedly cannot be erased without a big and costly program of constructing special shelters. The latter is regarded as primarily a federal responsibility.

a nation-wide 50-city community shelter project.

Councilmen accepted the report last week. Appropriation of funds for the limited measures open to the city, pending more substantial federal participation, was reserved for future sessions.

The $35,935,454 estimate of cost for maximum protection is based on projections to 1970 covering both population and shelter growth. The city's peak population—the maximum number likely to be in Long Beach at any given time—is forecast at 560,159 for that year. New construction is expected to add 58,000 shelter spaces in the interim. All facilities would then protect some 247,000, or 44.1%.

ALTHOUGH ACKNOWLEDGING that a completely satisfactory shelter plan cannot be effected in the absence of large-scale financing, the report emphasizes that the city of Long Beach is not without a Community Shelter Plan.

City Manager John R. Mansell noted that Long Beach

is in the front rank of cities preparing available shelters, with more than 300 buildings and other facilities on the official list.

To keep the plan updated, the report recommends these departmental activities:

Department of Building and Safety—Monitor construction to determine new buildings with fallout shelter potential; work with individual builders to incorporate shelter spaces in construction; assist individual home owners desiring to improvise or construct their own shelters.

Planning Department—Establish and keep up to date surveys showing the relationship of new buildings to population areas to be protected.

Department of Emergency Preparedness—Administer the shelter map and public information program; maintain liaison with other departments working on the shelter program; develop a shelter annex for the city's emergency preparedness plan, utilizing the new report.

COUNTY LIBRARY Record Number of Books Issued

I, P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Circulation of books and magazines by Los Angeles County Public Library totaled 1,073,623 in March—the largest monthly figure ever recorded in the department.

County Librarian William S. Geller said the figure was a 13.8% jump over the circulation during March 1964.

As compared with March of 10 years ago, Geller said, the 1965 figure represented an increase of 110%.

Most city and community libraries of the county system showed "substantial" increases over last year, Geller said. Among the largest jumps was Gardena Public Library, whose circulation last month was 18,989, as compared to only 7,738 in March 1964.

Other branches in this area with large gains were Bellflower, with 14,749 as compared to 11,610 last year; Compton, 12,045 to 10,489; Lakewood, 30,467 to 27,159; North Torrance, 12,904 to 7,868; and Paramount 7,267 to 5,252.

DEPENDING on how the news hit you, I suppose, our paper on some recent days may or may not have seemed as delectable as a chocolate cake. But that was the way it was wrapped.

That's right, chocolate cake wrappers were our last resort when the marathon rainstorm caused a great big shortage in the wax bags used by Southern California newspaper publishers to keep copies dry on delivery at readers' doors.

When the rains started, the I, P-T had a million wax bags on hand, seemingly an ample supply at this season of the year for any emergency. But the weather played wet tricks on us, and when we saw the supply running low we ordered more.

So did everybody else, and our circulation dept. contacted every wax paper supplier on the Pacific Coast trying to get more stock. Finally, it located a company in L.A. that could supply several thousand chocolate cake wrappers, and that's what we've been using lately.

If you're money-minded, it may interest you to know that we've recently spent $8,800 for wax paper.

STORMY weather has prompted bird-lovers to more feeding activity than usual. Frank Finch has been putting out suet in his back yard and the birds of the neighborhood have been feasting on it in a big way.

A Bixby Knolls bird-lover had an interesting experience. He ordered some stale bread at a bakery, intending to feed it to the feathered friends at his place.

He noted the girl who waited on him looked at him compassionately. When he got home and unwrapped the bread, he found two loaves so fresh they were still a little warm. He's sure that girl figured he was ordering cheaper stale bread for him-

Pageants, Promotion Costs Told

I, P-T Los Angeles Bureau

During the current fiscal year, Los Angeles County taxpayers are contributing $2,355,543 to help finance such community projects as symphony orchestras, art museums, lifeguard services, trade and visitor promotion, and various fairs and pageants.

L. S. Hollinger, chief county administrative officer, said in a report to county supervisors that appropriations total $1,201,886 in "aid to other governments and non-profit organizations," $1,102,157 for "exploitation," and $51,500 for "exposition."

THE REPORT was requested last week by Supervisor Frank G. Bonelli. Bonelli also asked for the number and amounts of requests filed to date for the 1965-66 fiscal year.

Although many of the organizations receiving funds this year have not yet made requests for 1965-66, Hollinger said, most of the requests that have been made are for the same amount now appropriated.

The largest single item by far is the $884,357 appropriated to the All Year Club of Southern California to finance a nationwide advertising campaign to bring visitors to Southern California.

ONE SIGNIFICANT increase in the requests came from the City of Los Angeles for aid in providing lifeguard service at city beaches.

During the current year, the county is contributing $100,000 each to the cities of Los Angeles, Long Beach and Santa Monica to help pay the added costs of lifeguards caused by the use of beaches by persons living outside those cities.

The city of Los Angeles, however, maintains the present contribution is inequitable and has asked $420,466 next year. Long Beach has not yet submitted its request.

OF THE TOTAL $2.3 million allocation this year, $455,691 goes to various musical organizations. Among these are Long Beach Community Symphony, $20,000; Long Beach Civic Light Opera, $5,000; Compton City Symphony Orchestra, $2,500; Downey Symphonic Society, $3,000; and South Bay Civic Symphony, $3,000.

OTHER LOCAL area organizations receiving funds this year are: Long Beach Safety Council, $2,500; San Pedro Fishermen's Fiesta, $15,000; Long Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau, $21,900; Downey Art Museum, $5,000; International Beauty Congress, $20,000; Lakewood Pan-American Festival and Parade, $1,500; Long Beach Art Center, $10,000; and World Trade Week, $2,500.

Requests are coming in each week. On the agenda of Tuesday's meeting are the $884,357 request from All Year Club, $21,900 from Long Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau, and $1,000 from the Los Angeles Memorial Day Committee, Inc.

Average stay: One month.

Average weight gain: 20 pounds.

They go to school.

Have free medical and dental care.

Play on several acres of green, manicured lawn.

Go to movies in their own theater.

Dance every weekend in their own "canteen".

Sleep in private rooms.

And the only difference between their facility and a swank, private club is a 14-foot high wall and locks on all the doors.

There are, however, a few things the "kids" — aged 8 to 18 — can't do, officials point out.

THEY CAN'T ADJUST their own hot water for showers — too many "accidental scaldings" of youngsters by the older, rougher element.

They can't "give away" food — too many incidents of intimidation by the older rougher element. And they can't leave.

Reason: They've been committed to the juvenile detention facility at Los Padres by the courts for crimes ranging from stealing hub caps to murder.

"There's only one minor problem," says Clarence E. Cabell, director, "the facility was built to handle 200 boys and 83 girls — but we have 300 boys and 103 girls."

Consequently, things are a little crowded.

NEWCOMERS to the 23-acre center have to sleep on mattresses on the floors until a room is vacated.

"In the girls' section, it's the hardest," says Cabell, a University of California at Los Angeles graduate.

"Most of the 'extras' sleep in the day room, then they have to clean it up for breakfast—then clear away the dishes so they can use the room as a classroom — then they have to clear away the books, and bring back the dishes for lunch — then clear away the lunch to make room for school — then back to the dishes for dinner — then clear this all away to bring back their mattresses in order to sleep.

"I imagine the girls — especially the ones that sleep in the room — get pretty tired of it."

Despite the fact that they sleep on the floor, they're tucked in with gentle hands.

"We try to make it easier for them — try to get them to understand why they're here — and what it will be like wherever they go from here," Cabell says.

FROM THE DOWNEY institution some go to youth camps, some go to the Youth Authority facilities, some go into foster homes.

"We try to establish a down-to-earth atmosphere — try to treat them like human beings — something many of them have lacked in the past."

A Los Angeles resident, Cabell maintains the most of the "inmates" are at his "school" because they had no "father to look up to."

"I don't make excuses for these kids," says the 43-year-old juvenile worker, "but how can they look up to their fathers — when most of the fathers are lying down all the time."

"Today's fathers," the director says, "aren't fathers."

"They're pals or buddies to their kids — and the kids have all the buddies they need at school.

"Or they've quit being fathers — either through drink or allowing their wives to take over the father's role.

"It's pretty hard for a kid to have respect for anything — law included — if he first doesn't have respect for his father."

THE OHIO-BORN director, who has a 14-year-old son, claims his staff tries to bolster respect for individuals and the law.

"We don't like a stuffy, therapeutic, inflexible social worker attitude," Cabell says. "And I don't think we have one here — I think we have a system that works."

And although, he admits, the system doesn't work all the time, the respect for authority remains.

"I happened to be visiting in San Quentin a few years ago, and ran into more than 100 of my former 'inmates' here."

"Their stay at Los Padres apparently didn't do any good, but when you figure how many we have run through here since we opened in 1957, I think our system is successful."

The "system" includes teaching both boys and girls how to "get along in society."

"Most of these boys know how to act towards girls—how to 'small talk' with them."

"Of course," he adds, "many of the boys could teach the counselors a lot about girls — if we let them."

AS SOON AS the juvenile arrives at the Downey center, he is "integrated" into activities as quickly as possible, Cabell says.

"We have to establish a strong relationship in a short period of time."

Each inmate is assigned to a counselor, and is kept under close mental and physical scrutiny 24 hours a day. Classrooms are on a multi-level basis, to permit "slow learners to learn without being scoffed at by the fast learners."

Hahn Court Plan a Bad Proposal

ARE THE PROMISED savings of central government more important than the real and present benefits of local operation and control?

That is the issue raised by Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn's proposal to consolidate the county's 23 municipal courts into a single county-wide district with branches in the various communities.

Supervisor Hahn argues that consolidation would save the taxpayers millions of dollars a year by eliminating the need for hiring new judges. Under his proposal, cases could be transferred from one court to another as need might dictate.

THIS IS A PLAN to move government another step away from the citizen. Instead of being elected by and responsible to a specific community, judges would be selected at large. A Long Beach citizen might be called upon to vote on judges he never heard of, or to take his case before judges located at a distance from his own community.

Making all city halls mere branches of a central county system of government might be more economical and efficient than the present system of separate municipalities, but would the greater economy and efficiency (which are only an assumption) justify eliminating local rule?

James A. Hayes, Vice Mayor of Long Beach, states: "Our judicial system is designed to render services to us in the community. Courts have historically served and should always serve the convenience of witnesses and parties to lawsuits and their attorneys. How can a judicial system possibly fit this definition if parties in Long Beach (have their cases transferred to) some other court far removed from their homes and offices?"

Actually, the transfer of cases from one court to another is now possible at the Superior Court level but is only rarely done because of the problems and costs involved in moving parties, attorneys, and witnesses.

The case for economy through centralization is by no means proven. It has been observed, and not entirely facetiously, that if one office with 10 clerks and one supervisor is combined with another office with 10 clerks and one supervisor, the result is one office with 25 clerks and three supervisors. In government, the whole has a way of costing more than the parts would cost if they were operated separately.

THE HAHN PLAN would destroy something valuable—home rule—without providing equal value in return. There is even some doubt that it would produce the relatively minor benefits promised. It is a bad proposal and should be rejected.

Car Repair Issue

WHEN PRIVATE BUSINESS fails to keep its own house in order, it invites interference and restriction by government.

Fraud in the TV repair business in this state led to the creation of a public agency to police television repair work.

Like the workings of the TV set, the operation of an automobile is a mystery to most ordinary citizens. This ignorance on the part of car owners has been exploited by unscrupulous firms. As a result, the State Assembly now has before it a bill to create a division of auto repair dealer registration, whose job would be to conduct investigations and check on car owners' complaints of fraud.

We do not form the generalization that all car repair firms, or dealerships where car repairs may be performed, are crooked. But as in every other enterprise, bad apples exist in the car repair industry. Their existence has hurt the reputation of the entire industry. So now government action is proposed as a protection to the public and the honest elements of the industry, although it would be preferable, if it could be effectively done, for it to police itself.

Solution for Closing State's Revenue Gap Will Be Delayed

I, P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—There is no indication which of two alternatives will be taken to close an anticipated $250 million revenue gap of the state budget.

One possibility would be slashing state services. So far this politically-hazardous course has few if any Sacramento advocates.

The more likely possibility still is a revenue program similar to the massive property tax-reform legislation proposed by Assemblymen Jesse Unruh, D-Inglewood, and Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland.

Gov. Brown has said he has his own revenue program in the works. Though the legislative session is more than half over, the governor has yet to publicly reveal his program.

The Senate also has completed deep-research projects on revenue reform, and possibly may unveil its own program later on.

It is the probable head-on clash of separate Assembly, Senate and gubernatorial revenue programs which accounts for the cloudy fiscal picture in Sacramento.

Lawmakers and public officials ordinarily are masters of compromising differences.

But unless they can agree to a single revenue-reform program, service slashes will be the only alternative. Final decision is likely to come in the closing hours of the legislature.

Gov. Brown is still thought to be at odds with the Unruh-Petris plan for wiping out the business inventory tax. This is a key part of their revenue package—which calls for a mandatory rollback in school taxes. Under the Unruh-Petris tax plan, other revenue measures are to be tapped so property taxes can be reduced statewide by $670 million. Cost of the plan: higher sales taxes, income taxes, cigarette taxes and real estate transfer taxes.

LONG BEACH finally has wound up with a Senator with a Long Beach background—with nary a reapportionment bill enacted. It turns out that Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Orange County, received his master of arts degree from Long Beach State College.

GOV. BROWN finally got in the last word with Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, after Thomas questioned whether Brown or State Finance Director Hale Champion runs the state. Brown, agreeing to a Thomas request to open Palos Verdes State College next autumn, turned to the San Pedro assemblyman and said: "Now, Vince, who do you say is running the state?"

THE CALIFORNIA Dining and Beverage Assn. has found a new gimmick for helping legislators who carry bills supported by the association. The Association's April bulletin thanked Assemblyman George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, for carrying a bill, supported by the association to place a quota on the number of beer licenses. In a subsequent section of its April bulletin, the Association recommended Deukmejian and two other Long Beach attorneys for law business.

"The above attorneys were selected by our executive board and approved by our board of directors after a careful screening of their experience in handling the problems of ABC accusations and misdemeanor cases in municipal court as well as their capable practice in other legal matters," said the association's bulletin.

Deukmejian said he also has authored one bill which the association opposes. He has not received any new law clients on the basis of the association's bulletin, he added.

However, the association's bulletin is bound to raise some eyebrows. It also recommends law business to another attorney, Assemblyman Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park.

Such is the twilight zone when a $500-a-month lawmaker is hired as a part-time legislator by California citizens. Of necessity, he runs a private business or a profession on the side.

Deukmejian's personal motives are no doubt the purest in his relations with the restaurant lobby. Virtually all lawmakers at times are offered special favors from lobbyists to woo their support on certain measures. And regardless of the lawmaker's personal intent, some of these favors may work out to aid the personal business or profession of the lawmaker.

L.B. Women Cut Significant Figure in Political Matters

I, P-T Political Editor

PARTIES HONORING Sen. George Murphy last night in Los Angeles and former President Dwight Eisenhower tomorrow in Palm Springs have an interesting common denominator in the participation of Republican women of Long Beach.

Senator Murphy has frequently and publicly credited his push into a U.S. Senate candidacy last year to GOP women here.

And Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach is general chairman of the Palm Springs luncheon honoring Ike and Mamie at the El Mirador Hotel. Mrs. Dorothy Goodnight of Long Beach is a principal figure in that tribute too as state president of the 64,000-member California Federation of Republican Women.

Long Beach has the added distinction of having Mrs. Ann Bowler as Republican National Committeewoman for California for a four-year term.

The Eisenhower affair was sold out weeks in advance. A space designed for 800 has been adjusted to handle 1,100. Some 300 ticket applications were returned.

It's possible this manifestation of Ike's popularity grows from a blend of affection for the war hero who accepted the German surrender in Rheims almost exactly 20 years ago and for the political figure who hoisted a GOP pennant over the White House for the only time in the lean Republican years since Hoover. The blend may include a portion of warmth turned on an ex-President now in his 75th year.

It also could be a sign of Republican times, an indicator that the rank and file respects the Eisenhower type of counsel for party resurgence. The nominal Republican leadership seems bent in that direction.

After Goldwater's defeat, former Vice President Nixon called for rebuilding the party "in the mainstream of American political life." Ike called for "correcting the image that the party stands primarily for the rich and the privileged." New National Chairman Ray Bliss wants to broaden the party's base.

LEONARD HALL, GOP national chairman during Ike's years, noted recently that Ike's election was a personal victory, not a party victory, and added, "... we have not had a true-blue national Republican victory since 1928." Hall charged Republicans have permitted the party to become too exclusive, giving the appearance of being an organization of white Anglo-Saxon Protestants. "We have been trying to elect national candidates with the descendants of the people who came over on the Mayflower, and that boat wasn't big enough."

Well, whatever the direction, it won't be too surprising to see Long Beach women in the forefront of the movement. This city has witnessed some other political milestones. In fact, in 1916 there was a passing in the night here which some observers say elected Democrat Woodrow Wilson over Charles Evans Hughes.

HUGHES AND California U.S. Senate candidate Hiram Johnson sat in their Virginia Hotel rooms each waiting for the other to call and pay his respects. They didn't get together and Johnson backers took this as an affront. Hughes looked like the sure winner in the national presidential tally. But California's vote, reported the day after election day, swung the Electoral College in favor of Wilson.

Estes Kefauver, the late Tennessee senator, reached his decision to run for the Democratic presidential nomination in December, 1951, after conferring with party friends in the Wilton Hotel here.

Minister's View on Free Speech

EDITOR:

Why did the Unitarian Church permit the Young Democrats to meet in its buildings recently to hear a Communist speaker?

Because the City of Long Beach, in defiance of the American tradition of free speech, closed the doors of its own property to them where they usually convene: the public library.

Churches in Hitlerian Germany were sometimes unjustly accused of remaining silent when the government was suppressing voices of dissent. The churches of America must speak and fight when freedom or justice are threatened by civil, military, private or other agencies.

Historically, Unitarians like Jefferson, Horace Mann and Emerson have risked misunderstanding and calumny to demonstrate their support for human rights.

Truth can only emerge from the arena of responsible and open discussion. To suppress any idea is to become an intellectual ostrich. Disagreement sharpens thought. To confuse listening to any speaker with sympathy or agreement is immaturity unworthy of civilized man.

Though Unitarians, as a whole, have no more acceptance for Mrs. Healey's position than for that of the Rightist, Fred Schwarz (who will address the Young Democrats in June at the library), they will oppose subtly tyrannical efforts to prevent the community from hearing all points of view on subjects of concern. Hence we responded to an appeal for a place to meet, though the young Democrats, Mrs. Healey or the topic have no relationship to our institution.

It is time that the city fathers moved into step with the American concepts of freedom.

Mother Lauds Aide Service

EDITOR:

For several weeks one of our children has been home sick. As time passed, relatives and friends as baby sitters were used up. I was tied up at home and had to break appointments.

In the middle of all this gloom I recalled a feature story by Elise Emery on the Family Aide Service. I called Miss Lucie A. Hayes at the California Employment Office. The next day a lovely lady showed up. I broke out of the house for three hours and returned to find two happy children, and a sparkling neat house. The aide couldn't have been more accommodating and competent.

I am writing in hopes of further spreading the good word to a harried mother or other helpless shut-ins about this fine service, and also to thank you for letting the public know about it.

The aide was very enthusiastic about her job too as she feels that she is putting her spare time to very good use. Let's hope that more ladies will take the training course!

Foul Language From Ministers

EDITOR:

It is time someone came to bat for the reputation of all the true, ordained ministers who preach the gospel of Jesus Christ. As a believer in Jesus Christ, I was shocked to hear of the atrocious and foul language used by some of the so-called "reverends" and "ministers" in the recent marches in Alabama. This demonstration of profane language used by these "ministers" severely hurt the cause of Christ and His real dedicated men of God who are called to this high and noble profession. It is a hideous thing to see and hear these men who call themselves ministers act and talk in this manner and expect God's blessing upon them. The Bible foretells of these very days and events which are now upon us.

May God continue to bless His church and His ministers until His blessed return.

'New Breed' of Unionists Put Message Across

Distributed by Newsday Specials

IT WAS A FRIGHTENING picture that has stayed with me, and I am not one of those who use that word frightening every day.

THE TAXI DRIVERS of New York City had refused to be organized into a union. Back in 1934, for instance, the drivers had to fight the goons who overturned their cabs and beat them up, but the hackies remained unorganized. So it has remained until this year, and the professional unionists did not like that. There are only 11,000 cabs in the city, but they are a public conveyance and the public had a constant reminder of the fact that in all these years, the unionists had been unable to compel the hackies to join up. From the professional unionists' point of view, that was a disgrace, and it could not continue.

So this year the unionists went all out. Although there had just been a fare increase, that made no difference to the unionists. They began working on the hackies early in the winter, finally calling a meeting in Madison Square Garden, which was attended by several thousand hackies. To make sure the meeting would be attended, the unionists announced that the hacks were not to roll that day. Some did, and their tires were spiked, windshields were smashed, some members of the public and some hackies got hurt. At meeting-time the hacks were not rolling.

The head of the electrical workers' union said it did not matter if some people got hurt. What mattered was that the hackies had to come into the union. The head of the garment workers screamed and waved his arms and said his union had 180,000 members who would support the hackies, and he emphasized the word financially. The mayor of New York, who will run for reelection this year, sat there with the head of the electrical workers and the head of the garment workers, and thereby gave quasi-official support to the take-over. The mayor is not personally popular with the hackies, but the garment workers and the electricians are big unions and he needs them.

YOU LOOKED DOWN at the first few rows in the audience, and you saw the new breed of professional unionists, who obviously had never driven hacks for a living. And interspersed among them were the union tumblers. A tumbler is a cheerleader, a master of ceremonies. It is a Yiddish word that used to be applied to the entertainment directors at the summer hotels in the Catskills. Danny Kaye, for instance, started out as a tumbler. But Willie had his tumblers at the Republican convention in 1940; Goldwater had them. Hitler had them.

The meeting ended, and the unionists had won. After all those embarrassing years of shame, all they had to do was smash a few cab windows, injure a few citizens, spike a few tires, and get Van Arsdale of the electricians and Dubinsky of the garment workers and Wagner of City Hall on a platform, and the hackies succumbed. You can buy beer at Madison Square Garden, but this was not even a beer-hall putsch.

Well, not quite. But it's the way you get your message across if you want to organize the recalcitrant. Some violence, a large quantity of inconvenience to the public, the promise of financial support by Big Labor, and the active cooperation of compliant politicians.

A few days later Martin Luther King demanded a total economic boycott of Alabama industry, and did he not state that he would enlist the support of the unionists? Had he not already been photographed with another Detroit boy, Walter Reuther? Had not various governors sent their representatives to Selma? The naive, the outraged, the victimized, the men and women who loathe the Ku Klux Klan seem to join with the exhibitionists, the sub-verters, the sinister, and decent indignation reinforces the new fascism.

WE ARE LOOKING in the wrong direction for the new fascism, which will not be called fascism and will not be identifiable by swastika armbands. The Hitler-Mussolini kind began in beerhalls and in marches, among middle class people who were more or less committed to some form of socialism. We saw what happened to them, and to the rest of the world in the process. The word Socialist remains in the official title of the U.S.S.R., where fascism seems to flourish. The socialism which Eisenhower saw creeping into our system of government is now inherent to it (with some help from Eisenhower himself). The latent evil in goodness is not always apparent. Cancer is the life force gone wild.

Hahn Court Plan a Bad Proposal

ARE THE PROMISED savings of central government more important than the real and present benefits of local operation and control?

That is the issue raised by Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn's proposal to consolidate the county's 23 municipal courts into a single county-wide district with branches in the various communities.

Supervisor Hahn argues that consolidation would save the taxpayers millions of dollars a year by eliminating the need for hiring new judges. Under his proposal, cases could be transferred from one court to another as need might dictate.

THIS IS A PLAN to move government another step away from the citizen. Instead of being elected by and responsible to a specific community, judges would be selected at large. A Long Beach citizen might be called upon to vote on judges he never heard of, or to take his case before judges located at a distance from his own community.

Making all city halls mere branches of a central county system of government might be more economical and efficient than the present system of separate municipalities, but would the greater economy and efficiency (which are only an assumption) justify eliminating local rule?

James A. Hayes, Vice Mayor of Long Beach, states: "Our judicial system is designed to render services to us in the community. Courts have historically served and should always serve the convenience of witnesses and parties to lawsuits and their attorneys. How can a judicial system possibly fit this definition if parties in Long Beach (have their cases transferred to) some other court far removed from their homes and offices?"

Actually, the transfer of cases from one court to another is now possible at the Superior Court level but is only rarely done because of the problems and costs involved in moving parties, attorneys, and witnesses.

The case for economy through centralization is by no means proven. It has been observed, and not entirely facetiously, that if one office with 10 clerks and one supervisor is combined with another office with 10 clerks and one supervisor, the result is one office with 25 clerks and three supervisors. In government, the whole has a way of costing more than the parts would cost if they were operated separately.

THE HAHN PLAN would destroy something valuable—home rule—without providing equal value in return. There is even some doubt that it would produce the relatively minor benefits promised. It is a bad proposal and should be rejected.

Car Repair Issue

WHEN PRIVATE BUSINESS fails to keep its own house in order, it invites interference and restriction by government.

Fraud in the TV repair business in this state led to the creation of a public agency to police television repair work.

Like the workings of the TV set, the operation of an automobile is a mystery to most ordinary citizens. This ignorance on the part of car owners has been exploited by unscrupulous firms. As a result, the State Assembly now has before it a bill to create a division of auto repair dealer registration, whose job would be to conduct investigations and check on car owners' complaints of fraud.

We do not form the generalization that all car repair firms, or dealerships where car repairs may be performed, are crooked. But as in every other enterprise, bad apples exist in the car repair industry. Their existence has hurt the reputation of the entire industry. So now government action is proposed as a protection to the public and the honest elements of the industry, although it would be preferable, if it could be effectively done, for it to police itself.

Solution for Closing State's Revenue Gap Will Be Delayed

I, P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—There is no indication which of two alternatives will be taken to close an anticipated $250 million revenue gap of the state budget.

One possibility would be slashing state services. So far this politically-hazardous course has few if any Sacramento advocates.

The more likely possibility still is a revenue program similar to the massive property tax-reform legislation proposed by Assemblymen Jesse Unruh, D-Inglewood, and Nicholas Pelis, D-Oakland.

Gov. Brown has said he has his own revenue program in the works. Though the legislative session is more than half over, the governor has yet to publicly reveal his program.

The Senate also has completed deep-research projects on revenue reform, and possibly may unveil its own program later on.

It is the probable head-on clash of separate Assembly, Senate and gubernatorial revenue programs which accounts for the cloudy fiscal picture in Sacramento.

Lawmakers and public officials ordinarily are masters of compromising differences.

But unless they can agree to a single revenue-reform program, service slashes will be the only alternative. Final decision is likely to come in the closing hours of the legislative session.

Gov. Brown is still thought to be at odds with the Unruh-Petris plan for wiping out the business inventory tax. This is a key part of their revenue package — which calls for a mandatory roll-back in school taxes. Under the Unruh-Petris tax plan, other revenue measures are to be tapped so property taxes can be reduced statewide by $670 million. Cost of the plan: higher sales taxes, income taxes, cigarette taxes and real estate transfer taxes.

LONG BEACH finally has wound up with a Senator with a Long Beach background—with nary a reapportionment bill enacted. It turns out that Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Orange County, received his master of arts degree from Long Beach State College.

GOV. BROWN finally got in the last word with Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, after Thomas questioned whether Brown or State Finance Director Hale Champion runs the state. Brown, agreeing to a Thomas request to open Palos Verdes State College next autumn, turned to the San Pedro assemblyman and said: "Now, Vince, who do you say is running the state?"

THE CALIFORNIA Dining and Beverage Assn. has found a new gimmick for helping legislators who carry bills supported by the association. The Association's April bulletin thanked Assemblyman George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, for carrying a bill, supported by the association to place a quota

on the number of beer licenses. In a subsequent section of its April bulletin, the Association recommended Deukmejian and two other Long Beach attorneys for law business.

"The above attorneys were selected by our executive board and approved by our board of directors after a careful screening of their experience in handling the problems of ABC accusations and misdemeanor cases in municipal court as well as their capable practice in other legal matters," said the association's bulletin.

Deukmejian said he also has authored one bill which the association opposes. He has not received any new law clients on the basis of the association's bulletin, he added.

However, the association's bulletin is bound to raise some eyebrows. It also recommends law business to another attorney, Assemblyman Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park.

Such is the twilight zone when a $500-a-month lawmaker is hired as a part-time legislator by California citizens. Of necessity, he runs a private business or a profession on the side.

Deukmejian's personal motives are no doubt the purest in his relations with the restaurant lobby. Virtually all lawmakers at times are offered special favors from lobbyists to woo their support on certain measures. And regardless of the lawmaker's personal intent, some of these favors may work out to aid the personal business or profession of the lawmaker.

I, P-T Political Editor

PARTIES HONORING Sen. George Murphy last night in Los Angeles and former President Dwight Eisenhower tomorrow in Palm Springs have an interesting common denominator in the participation of Republican women of Long Beach.

Senator Murphy has frequently and publicly credited his push into a U.S. Senate candidacy last year to GOP women here.

And Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach is general chairman of the Palm Springs luncheon honoring Ike and Mamie at the El Mirador Hotel. Mrs. Dorothy Goodknight of Long Beach is a principal figure in that tribute too as state president of the 64,000-member California Federation of Republican Women.

Long Beach has the added distinction of having Mrs. Ann Bowler as Republican National Committeewoman for California for a four-year term.

The Eisenhower affair was sold out weeks in advance. A space designed for 800 has been adjusted to handle 1,100. Some 300 ticket applications were returned.

It's possible this manifestation of Ike's popularity grows from a blend of affection for the war hero who accepted the German surrender in Rheims almost exactly 20 years ago and for the political figure who hoisted a GOP pennant over the White House for the only time in the lean Republican years since Hoover. The blend may include a portion of warmth turned on an ex-President now in his 75th year.

It also could be a sign of Republican times, an indicator that the rank and file respects the Eisenhower type of counsel for party resurgence. The nominal Republican leadership seems bent in that direction.

After Goldwater's defeat, former Vice President Nixon called for rebuilding the party "in the mainstream of American political life." Ike called for "correcting the image that the party stands primarily for the rich and the privileged." New National Chairman Ray Bliss wants to broaden the party's base.

LEONARD HALL, GOP national chairman during Ike's years, noted recently that Ike's election was a personal victory, not a party victory, and added, "... we have not had a true-blue national Republican victory since 1928." Hall charged Republicans have permitted the party to become too exclusive, giving the appearance of being an organization of white Anglo-Saxon Protestants. "We have been trying to elect national candidates with the descendants of the people who came over on the Mayflower, and that boat wasn't big enough."

Well, whatever the direction, it won't be too surprising to see Long Beach women in the forefront of the movement. This city has witnessed some other political milestones.

In fact, in 1916 there was a passing in the night here which some observers say elected Democrat Woodrow Wilson over Charles Evans Hughes.

HUGHES AND California U.S. Senate candidate Hiram Johnson sat in their Virginia Hotel rooms each waiting for the other to call and pay his respects. They didn't get together and Johnson backers took this as an affront. Hughes looked like the sure winner in the national presidential tally. But California's vote, reported the day after election day, swung the Electoral College in favor of Wilson.

Estes Kelauever, the late Tennessee senator, reached his decision to run for the Democratic presidential nomination in December, 1951, after conferring with party friends in the Wilton Hotel here.

Minister's View on Free Speech

EDITOR:

Why did the Unitarian Church permit the Young Democrats to meet in its buildings recently to hear a Communist speaker?

Because the City of Long Beach, in defiance of the American tradition of free speech, closed the doors of its own property to them where they usually convene: the public library.

Churches in Hitlerian Germany were sometimes unjustly accused of remaining silent when the government was suppressing voices of dissent. The churches of America must speak and fight when freedom or justice are threatened by civil, military, private or other agencies.

Historically, Unitarians like Jefferson, Horace Mann and Emerson have risked misunderstanding and calumny to demonstrate their support for human rights.

Truth can only emerge from the arena of responsible and open discussion. To suppress any idea is to become an intellectual ostrich. Disagreement sharpens thought. To confuse listening to any speaker with sympathy or agreement is immaturely unworthy of civilized man.

Though Unitarians, as a whole, have no more acceptance for Mrs. Healey's position than for that of the Rightist, Fred Schwarz (who will address the Young Democrats in June at the library), they will oppose subtly tyrannical efforts to prevent the community from hearing all points of view on subjects of concern. Hence we responded to an appeal for a place to meet, though the young Democrats, Mrs. Healey or the topic have no relationship to our institution.

It is time that the city fathers moved into step with the American concepts of freedom.

Mother Lauds Aide Service

EDITOR:

For several weeks one of our children has been home sick. As time passed, relatives and friends as baby sitters were used up. I was tied up at home and had to break appointments.

In the middle of all this gloom I recalled a feature story by Elise Emery on the Family Aide Service. I called Miss Lucie A. Hayes at the California Employment Office. The next day a lovely lady showed up. I broke out of the house for three hours and returned to find two happy children, and a sparkling neat house. The aide couldn't have been more accommodating and competent.

I am writing in hopes of further spreading the good word to a harried mother or other helpless shut-ins about this fine service, and also to thank you for letting the public know about it.

The aide was very enthusiastic about her job too as she feels that she is putting her spare time to very good use. Let's hope that more ladies will take the training course!

Foul Language From Ministers

EDITOR:

It is time someone came to bat for the reputation of all the true, ordained ministers who preach the gospel of Jesus Christ. As a believer in Jesus Christ, I was shocked to hear of the atrocious and foul language used by some of the so-called "reverends" and "ministers" in the recent marches in Alabama. This demonstration of profane language used by these "ministers" severely hurt the cause of Christ and His real dedicated men of God who are called to this high and noble profession. It is a hideous thing to see and hear these men who call themselves ministers act and talk in this manner and expect God's blessing upon them. The Bible foretells of these very days and events which are now upon us.

May God continue to bless His church and His ministers until His blessed return.

'New Breed' of Unionists Put Message Across

Distributed by Newsday Specials

IT WAS A FRIGHTENING picture that has stayed with me, and I am not one of those who use that word frightening every day.

THE TAXI DRIVERS of New York City had refused to be organized into a union. Back in 1934, for instance, the drivers had to fight the goons who overturned their cabs and beat them up, but the hackies remained unorganized. So it has remained until this year, and the professional unionists did not like that. There are only 11,000 cabs in the city, but they are a public conveyance and the public had a constant reminder of the fact that in all these years, the unionists had been unable to compel the hackies to join up. From the professional unionists' point of view, that was a disgrace, and it could not continue.

So this year the unionists went all out. Although there had just been a fare increase, that made no difference to the unionists. They began working on the hackies early in the winter, finally calling a meeting in Madison Square Garden, which was attended by several thousand hackies. To make sure the meeting would be attended, the unionists announced that the hacks were not to roll that day. Some did, and their tires were spiked, windshields were smashed, some members of the public and some hackies got hurt. At meeting-time the hacks were not rolling.

The head of the electrical workers' union said it did not matter if some people got hurt. What mattered was that the hackies had to come into the union. The head of the garment workers screamed and waved his arms and said his union had 180,000 members who would support the hackies, and he emphasized the word financially. The mayor of New York, who will run for reelection this year, sat there with the head of the electrical workers and the head of the garment workers, and thereby gave quasi-official support to the take-over. The mayor is not personally popular with the hackies, but the garment workers and the electricians are big unions and he needs them.

YOU LOOKED DOWN at the first few rows in the audience, and you saw the new breed of professional unionists, who obviously had never driven hacks for a living. And interspersed among them were the union tumblers. A tumbler is a cheerleader, a master of ceremonies. It is a Yiddish word that used to be applied to the entertainment directors at the summer hotels in the Catskills. Danny Kaye, for instance, started out as a tumbler. But Willie had his tumblers at the Republican convention in 1940; Goldwater had them. Hitler had them.

The meeting ended, and the unionists had won. After all those embarrassing years of shame, all they had to do was smash a few cab windows, injure a few citizens, spike a few tires, and get Van Arsdale of the electricians and Dubinsky of the garment workers and Wagner of City Hall on a platform, and the hackies succumbed. You can buy beer at Madison Square Garden, but this was not even a beer-hall putsch.

LUIS GARRETÓN, WB6GOV, AND HOME STATION

IT'S HIS HOME TOWN

As Quake Hit Valparaiso, 'Ham' Operator Kept Busy

Luis A. Garretón is a native of Valparaiso, Chile. Valparaiso is the sister city of Long Beach, Calif. Long Beach is now Luis' home. That, coupled with the fact that Luis is a ham radio operator, was enough to put Luis' home radio station, WB6GOV, on the air almost continually for a few days after Valparaiso was hit with a devastating earthquake on March 28. Luis had another very compelling reason for getting in contact with Valparaiso—his mother, father, brother and a "few dozen" other relatives live there. A few scant hours after the quake, Luis was in touch with CE3CT, Allan Morris, and CE3WZ, Juan Bruilet, in Valparaiso who were able to ascertain that Luis' family was safe. From then on he was in the emergency radio traffic business.

FROM HIS home station at 6364 Marita St. he maintained communication with Chile. He received more than 50 long distance telephone calls from all over the United States and Canada with requests for emergency messages to Chile.

Biggest thrill of all for Luis came when he was approached by Mayor Edwin W. Wade, Dr. Miguel Bravo, consul general of Chile in Los Angeles, and Dr. Rayland Madison, president of the Sister City committee of Long Beach.

They had an emergency message to send to Guillermo Guzman, president of the Sister City Committee of Valparaiso. The message said that medical equipment and supplies were on the way to Valparaiso Children's Hospital from its sister city.

Luis' ties with Valparaiso are close—but his heart is in Long Beach, he says, which is after all pretty tightly linked with Valparaiso.

He works for Texaco—but he spends some of his free time at Long Beach City College taking advanced electronics to polish up on his radio techniques.

Torch Club Is 'Think' Arena

By MARK CLUTTER

Long Beach now has a club which does not stand for anything, passes no resolutions and does not promote any specific causes.

And yet, according to founder Harry Krusz, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, the club will make a substantial contribution to the cultural and civic health of the city.

The name is the Torch Club, and it is one of 250 in the United States and Canada.

Its only purpose is better understanding of current problems.

"THE TORCH Club discusses topics which are ardently prepared and given amidst a background of dignity and intellectualism—and which may be dissected with reckless abandon," Krusz said.

"This is a discussion group of carefully selected men who must hold degrees in recognized professions or be members of the Armed Forces."

The Torch Club, which has held four meetings, is still in the formative stage. There are now 37 members. Fifty is the maximum membership.

Officers are architect William Lockett, president; R. S. Walker, D.D.S., vice president; Krusz, secretary-treasurer, and Ernest LaBelle, assistant secretary-treasurer.

THE TYPICAL Torch Club meeting begins with an address by an expert on the chosen topic. The members then subject him to a barrage of questions and challenges.

The meetings thus far indicate the character of the club.

Malcolm C. Todd, M.D., a local leader in the fight against Medicare, presented problems connected with the proposed legislation.

Attorney James Pino spoke on the impact of divorces on society. "In 1940 for every 12 marriages there was a divorce filed," he said. "In 1950, for every five marriages there was a divorce filed. In 1960, for every two marriages there was a divorce filed," he said.

THE COST to the public in terms of aid to children alone is very high. It is estimated that 300,000 children in California alone are receiving such aid, and that 95% are from broken homes.

To reverse the trend, Pino urged an enlarged and more realistic program of education for marriage beginning in early years by homes, churches and schools.

Police Chief William Moore discussed the police problem of dealing with homosexuality, which has been complicated by the Carol Lane case which invalidated the rights of communities to pass laws to regulate or suppress sexual immorality.

LUIS GARRETTON, WB6GOV, AND HOME STATION

IT'S HIS HOME TOWN

As Quake Hit Valparaiso, 'Ham' Operator Kept Busy

Luis A. Garretton is a native of Valparaiso, Chile.

Valparaiso is the sister city of Long Beach, Calif.

Long Beach is now Luis' home

That, coupled with the fact that Luis is a ham radio operator, was enough to put Luis' home radio station, WB6GOV, on the air almost continually for a few days after Valparaiso was hit with a devastating earthquake on March 28.

Luis had another very compelling reason for getting in contact with Valparaiso—his mother, father, brother and a "few dozen" other relatives live there.

A few scant hours after the quake, Luis was in touch with CE3CT, Allan Morris, and CE3WZ, Juan Bruilet, in Valparaiso who were able to ascertain that Luis' family was safe.

From then on he was in the emergency radio traffic business.

FROM HIS home station at 6364 Marita St. he maintained communication with Chile. He received more than 50 long distance telephone calls from all over the United States and Canada with requests for emergency messages to Chile.

Biggest thrill of all for Luis came when he was approached by Mayor Edwin W. Wade, Dr. Miguel Bravo, consul general of Chile in Los Angeles, and Dr. Rayland Madison, president of the Sister City committee of Long Beach.

They had an emergency message to send to Guillermo Guzman, president of the Sister City Committee of Valparaiso.

The message said that medical equipment and supplies were on the way to Valparaiso Children's Hospital from its sister city.

Luis' ties with Valparaiso are close—but his heart is in Long Beach, he says, which is after all pretty tightly linked with Valparaiso.

He works for Texaco—but he spends some of his free time at Long Beach City College taking advanced electronics to polish up on his radio techniques.

Torch Club Is 'Think' Arena

By MARK CLUTTER

Long Beach now has a club which does not stand for anything, passes no resolutions and does not promote any specific causes.

contribution to the cultural and civic health of the city.

The name is the Torch Club, and it is one of 250 in the United States and Canada. Its only purpose is better understanding of current problems.

"THE TORCH Club discusses topics which are ardously prepared and given amidst a background of dignity and intellectualism—and which may be dissected with reckless abandon," Krusz said.

"This is a discussion group of carefully selected men who must hold degrees in recognized professions or be members of the Armed Forces." The Torch Club, which has held four meetings, is still in the formative stage. There are now 37 members. Fifty is the maximum membership.

son, local leader in the fight against Medicare, presented problems connected with the proposed legislation.

Attorney James Pino spoke on the impact of divorce on society. "In 1940 for every 12 marriages there was a divorce filed," he said. "In 1950, for every five marriages there was a divorce filed. In 1960, for every two marriages there was a divorce filed," he said.

such aid, and that 95% are from broken homes.

To reverse the trend, Pino urged an enlarged and more realistic program of education for marriage beginning in early years by homes, churches and schools.

Dean Francis J. Flynn gave a detailed account of the Torch Clubs in San Antonio, Texas, and Lincoln, Neb.

Lex Club to Meet, Make Reunion Plans

Twelfth annual reunion of men who served aboard the U.S.S. Lexington (CV-2) will be held at the Edgewater Marina Hotel here June 23-26.

Rear Adm. Philip Nickum Jr., USN (Ret), of Monrovia, will be principal speaker. He served on the Lexington as ensign from 1927-31.

To make plans for the reunion, a business meeting of the Lex Club will be held at the Edgewater April 24. Further information about the meeting and reunion may be obtained from the club secretary, Johnny L. Pancake, 2008 Franciscan Way, Apt. 200, Alameda, Calif.

Free Harbor Boat Tour Trips Monday

"Know Your Harbor Day" will be celebrated by the Port of Long Beach Monday. One hour, free narrated harbor tours will depart from Pierpoint Landing starting at 10 a.m.

Tours will point out extensive development at the harbor.

No tickets are required for the trips and four boats will be in operation from Pierpoint to carry passengers.

Q. Where should I buy a good car?
A. From a dealer with integrity. This is of major importance to you. Check his reputation to be sure your purchase is fair, not a deal that will be recalled later as being unsatisfactory. We at Harbor Chevrolet will do everything possible to make your purchase a happy memory.
It is important to consider the service you will receive after delivery as well as the character and integrity of the salesman with whom you are doing business. We at Harbor Chevrolet have established on the West Coast. This allows us to service the product year in and year out because they know they can back your purchase with service.

If you are willing to work hard each week, don't pass up this ad.
If you are a man of average intelligence,
I want to talk to you.
I know what you are probably thinking as you read this ad, the same as I thought many times, when I was job hunting. "This is just another job with a lot of promises." Believe me, it is not!
I don't care what your previous experience has been, if you are able to open your mouth and talk to me,
I will show you how to earn more money than you ever thought possible with this company. If accepted you will be employed by one of the largest concerns in the country.

PERMANENT JOBS ARE AVAILABLE NOW AT HARVEY ALUMINUM IN TORRANCE
IF YOU ARE A RED-BLOODED AMERICAN SEEKING TO WORK AMONG A FAMILY OF FREE PEOPLE COME TO WORK AT HARVEY ALUMINUM WHERE HUMAN DIGNITY IS RESPECTED
If you want a steady job, come to Harvey Aluminum. We are hiring men and women, skilled and unskilled, for permanent work of all classifications.
If you are skilled, we'll start you at the regular rate for your experience. The job will be full time and permanent.
If you want to learn a trade, we will teach you. We will pay you the going wage while you learn.
We want people who want steady jobs and are tired of layoffs. We want people who want the security of permanent work. We want people who want to have a home and car and the better things for themselves and their children.
Harvey has been in the Los Angeles area for 50 years. We have never had an interruption in business. For 50 years, we have helped the community grow and we have grown with the community. Our payroll dollars, coming from products sold all over the world, serve our employees well and these payroll dollars benefit the community.
Our present labor difficulty is the result of a dispute with personalities who wish to restrict trade advancement.
You can share in the opportunities that only a good permanent job can give you and your family. Remember, we will help you develop a skill if you want a better paying job.
For a permanent job with all the benefits of steady year around work, come to:
HARVEY ALUMINUM

Queen of Paris Courtesans in '90s Dies at 96

NICE, France (A)—Caroline Otero, last of the great courtesans who quenched it over Paris night life in the Gay Nineties, died in poverty Saturday. She was 96.

Known as "La Belle Otero," she then dripped diamonds and pearls which legend said were given to her by kings, princes and industrial magnates. She died in a tiny room by the railroad tracks—years behind in her rent.

Neighbors said she kept with her a packet of Czarist bonds with a face value of $1 million given her by a Russian nobleman. The Bolshevik revolution made them worthless.

CREED—Lewis F., oil company executive, of 1911 E. Seventh St., died Friday. Surviving are wife, Margie; band, Frederick M.; son, Fred; daughters, Mrs. Jean Chamrick K.; daughters, Mrs. J. Berlain, Mrs. Jody Kingland; mother, Mrs. Mae Sturdy; Neill Blakely, Mrs. Warren; Mrs. Helen Haun; Eldred Kuppinger; sisters, Mrs. Mary Rishel; brothers, Mrs. Edwin Kelley, Mrs. Zane Byron, Ben Higbie. Service Tuesday, 2 p.m., Mottell's Mortuary.

RYAN—Mrs. Helen D., of 1502 Michelson St., died Saturday. Surviving are husband, James; son, Ken Lamkin; sister, Mrs. Gertrude Hayes; brother, Lee Deimstra. Service Monday, 12:30 p.m., Westminster Memorial Park Mortuary.

Teacher Shortage to Be Discussed

Area school administrators and state college officials will convene a second time in Long Beach April 22 to discuss ways of meeting an impending critical shortage in elementary school teachers. The session, sponsored jointly by the Long Beach school district and state college, will start at 1:30 p.m. in Boyd High School auditorium.

65 Girls to Go on YMCA Tour

Sixty-five Long Beach girls, members of the Tri-Gra-Y Club sponsored by Los Altos YMCA, will leave Tuesday for a two-day visit to San Diego. The girls will be overnight guests of the Copley YMCA in San Diego. Included on their itinerary are Mission Bay Park, Sea World, the Maritime Museum, Coronado, Balboa Park and the zoo. Tuesday night, the girls will have a special campfire program in Balboa Park.

Queen of Paris Courtesans in '90s Dies at 96

NICE, France (AP)—Caroline Otero, last of the great courtesans who queened it over Paris night life in the Gay Nineties, died in poverty Saturday. She was 96.

Known as "La Belle Otero," she then dropped diamonds and pearls which legend said were given to her by kings, princes and industrial magnates. She died in a tiny room by the railroad tracks—years behind in her rent.

Neighbors said she kept with her a packet of Czarist bonds with a face value of $1 million given her by a Russian nobleman. The Bolshevik revolution made them worthless.

MUSIC IN EUROPE

Visiting Musical Past Stimulating

By JULIEN MUSAFIA

PARIS — One's emotional zart could derive from that comprehension of music can be greatly stimulated by visiting the homes where some of the great composers lived and created their masterpieces.

One of these is Mozart's birth-house, situated in the picturesque little town of Salzburg, half way between Vienna and Munich.

It is with a quickened heart-beat and feeling of awe that one begins to climb the stone stairs in the clean and sturdy centuries-old apartment house, towards the third floor, the stairs on which young Mozart must have walked so many times.

Upon opening the old door with large forged-iron door handle, there is a little surprise in seeing the three spacious rooms of the apartment comprising an area larger than the average apartment in California.

AN AGED sofa, a few chairs, the heating stoves, pictures of the family and a few tables with manuscripts and a knock-knocks belonging to Mozart are thinly spread in the rooms.

A marker where his crib stood and his tools of learning and creation: a piano, a clavichord and a violin, are the most touching sights. One could look and marvel at the limitless inspiration that Mo-

NO LESS moving is to see Mozart's apartments in Vienna, after his fortunes began to fade, such as the "Figaro House," where he composed the "Marriage of Figaro," and follow the thread of his life to the steps of the Saint Stephan Cathedral, a few blocks away, where his body stood for a moment before being deposited in a common grave for paupers.

The homes of Beethoven, Bruckner, Mahler, Johann Strauss and others are also well preserved in Vienna, a city that treasures and re-veres its glorious past.

The "Pere Lachaise" cemetery in Paris also gives the traveler an opportunity to "touch the past." Standing before the modest but well kept graves of Bizet, Cherubini, Rossini and Chopin, tries futilely to reconcile the fragility of man with the strength of his works. Chopin's grave is always strewn with flowers brought there by anonymous admirers.

Paul Newman Stars in 'Moving Target'

HOLLYWOOD—Paul Newman will star in "The Moving Target," suspense murder mystery. The production is scheduled to start June 1.

MUSIC IN EUROPE

Visiting Musical Past Stimulating

By JULIEN MUSAFIA

PARIS — One's emotional comprehension of music can be greatly stimulated by visiting the homes where some of the great composers lived and created their masterpieces.

One of these is Mozart's birth-house, situated in the picturesque little town of Salzburg, half way between Vienna and Munchen.

It is with a quickened heartbeat and feeling of awe that one begins to climb the stone stairs in the clean and sturdy centuries-old apartment house, towards the third floor, the stairs on which young Mozart must have walked so many times.

Upon opening the old door with large forged-iron handle, there is a little surprise in seeing the three spacious rooms of the apartment comprising an area larger than the average apartment in California.

AN AGED sofa, a few chairs, the heating stoves, pictures of the family and a few tables with manuscripts and knick-knacks belonging to Mozart are thinly spread in the rooms.

A marker where his crib stood and his tools of learning and creation: a piano, a clavichord and a violin, are the most touching sights. One could look and marvel at the limitless inspiration that Mozart could derive from that fragile piano, without metal frame, with reversed black and white keys, of only five octaves in range.

NO LESS moving is to see Mozart's apartments in Vienna, after his fortunes began to fade, such as the "Figaro House," where he composed the "Marriage of Figaro," and follow the thread of his life to the steps of the Saint Stephan Cathedral, a few blocks away, where his body stood for a moment before being deposited in a common grave for paupers.

The homes of Beethoven, Bruckner, Mahler, Johann Strauss and others are also well preserved in Vienna, a city that treasures and re-veres its glorious past.

The "Pere Lachaise" cemetery in Paris also gives the traveler an opportunity to "touch the past." Standing before the modest but well kept graves of Bizet, Cheru-bini, Rossini and Chopin one tries futilely to reconcile the fragility of man with the strength of his works. Chopin's grave is always strewn with flowers brought there by anonymous admirers.

Schedule Is Tailor-Made for Dodgers

Fast Start Likely as Drysdale Faces Patsies in Opener

By GEORGE LEDERER
L. P. T. Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — Captain Maury Wills gave the Dodgers something to think about today: "The faster you start, the tougher it is to be caught."

They couldn't catch Wills Saturday, although the track was far from ideal. On a damp field, Wills had such a head start that he stole three bases and scored from second on an infield grounder to start the Dodgers to a 7-3 exhibition victory over the Senators.

Monday, when the real race begins in New York, the field may not be much better, but the schedule is tailor-made for solid Dodger pennant footing.

THE DODGERS open against their all-time patsies and, after five games on the road, play 25 of their next 42 games at home. They will face second-division clubs of 1964 in 22 of the first 41 games.

Last year, the Dodgers were not as fortunate and were out of the race almost before it began. They opened against St. Louis, Cincinnati and Milwaukee, the eventual 1-2-3 finishers, and lost 10 of their first 12.

"The early schedule definitely is in our favor," says Don Drysdale, who draws his sixth opening-day pitching assignment in the Dodgers' eighth Southern California season. Drysdale has won his last three openers after losing the first two and is an odds-on choice to make it four in a row.

DRYSDALE had a 5-0 record against the Mets last year and has lost to them only once in 14 decisions. He had an excellent spring, winning all five of his decisions and finishing with 16 scoreless innings for an earned-run-average of 2.14.

The Dodgers have been almost as successful as Drysdale against New York's new breed. They won 15 of 18 last year and 47 of 54 in three years. Last year they scored more runs (93) and allowed fewer (44) against the Mets than against any other club.

If the Dodgers need more statistical encouragement, they can get it from the record of Al Jackson, Drysdale's opponent Monday. Jackson is one of the few left-handers who hasn't bothered the Dodgers. He hasn't defeated them in six decisions.

THE DODGERS hate to think where they might have finished without the Mets.

Giving the Dodgers another break in the schedule are three days off in the first eight. Thus, manager Walter Alston can operate with a staff of three starters and Sandy Koufax can take his time as the doctor ordered.

After an off day Tuesday, Claude Oster is scheduled to April showers hint that baseball can not be far behind, and when the umpire yells "play ball" Monday, The Independent, Press-Telegram will be on hand from coast-to-coast.

At Shea Stadium in New York, George Lederer will report the battle between the Dodgers' Don Drysdale and the Mets' Alvin Jackson. Several hours later, Ross Newhan will take his seat in the Dodger Stadium press box to report the duel between the Angels' Fred Newman and Cleveland's Ralph Terry.

Lederer has seen every Dodger game, at home and on the road, since the club discovered the Gold Coast in 1958. Newhan will be starting his fifth year with the Angels and is the dean of Southern California writers traveling with the club.

In today's Sports Section, Lederer and Newhan predict the outcome of the National and American League pennant races, while in Southland Magazine they present features on Willie Davis and Dean Chance.

While the Dodgers traded Frank Howard this winter and the Angels parted with Bo Belinsky, I, P-T sports editor Hank Hollingworth revealed that Lederer and Newhan are not on the block.

"They are," said Hollingworth, "untouchables."

Nicklaus' 64 Tames Rivals

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AUGUSTA, Ga. — Big Jack Nicklaus grabbed the Augusta National monster course by the throat and shook it to death Saturday with a record-tying eight-under-par 64 which threatened to wreck the 29th

Masters golf tournament. Nicklaus called his superb 31-34 round "the finest I ever shot in my life" and it was good enough to give him a comfortable five-stroke margin over Little Gary Player of South Africa and an almost insurmountable eight-stroke lead over defending champion Arnold Palmer. Among them, these "big three" have accounted for all the Masters' championships since 1959, and although they started Saturday's third round all even with identical 138 totals, Nicklaus soon left both far behind.

The round, featured by 300-yard drives and putts of phenomenal length without a single bogey, gave the Golden Bear of Columbus, Ohio, a 54-hole score of 202.

Palmer could do no better than par 72 on the warm, windless day for a 210 total, tied with 34-year-old Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., for third place.

Two challengers from out of the pack—Mason Rudolph, a bespectacled tour veteran from Tennessee, and former U.S. Open champion Gene Littler—joined Nicklaus in a birdie assault on the 6,980-yard, par 72 course and moved into contention. Rudolph, with a streak of four straight birdies and five in a stretch of six holes, fired a 66 for 211 and Littler, canning eight birdies in the last 16 holes, shot a 67 for 212, tying Tommy Aaron, who chipped in on the final hole for a 71.

Channel 2, 1 p.m.

However, there seemed no catching the bull-strong Nicklaus in today's climactic round. He is at the peak of his game and brimming with confidence.

Nicklaus said, "I've never putted better" and added with a smile, "My drives and approach shots didn't hurt me, either. "My adrenaline is running so strong that I am using 6-irons where normally I'd use a 5. I am all pumped up inside."

No man ever played the first 54 holes better in this golf Olympics, started by the immortal Bob Jones in 1934.

The previous best total for three rounds was 205, made by Ben Hogan in his record year of 1953 and duplicated by Palmer in winning the third of his four titles in 1962.

Nicklaus needs only a par 72 today to tie the 274 set by Hogan 12 years ago, when he won the Masters, U.S. Open and British Open in a professional little slam.

Lloyd Mangrum set the single round record with a 64 in the opening round of 1940.

A gay, carnival crowd of 50,000 swarmed over Augusta's resplendent acres for the third round, and big Jack gave them a show they will never forget.

Splitting the broad fairways with cannon shots off the tee and dropping putts from 15 to 25 feet, the 25-year-old boy wonder played the outgoing nine in 31 shots, tying the record of Cary Middlecoff in 1955.

He started his charge at the 555-yard second, where he recovered magnificently for a birdie after sending his drive into a cluster of pine trees to the right of the fairway.

Powerful drives enabled him to birdie both the 13th and 15th. Nicklaus acknowledged that he used 5-iron second shots on these holes, measuring 475 and 520 yards, respectively.

Nicklaus, Masters winner in 1963 and past winner of both the Open and PGA championship, shrugged off references to his bid for Hogan's scoring title.

"I only want to win," he

THIS, OF course, will be a key start in McBride's bid to regain a position in the Angels' rotation. Currently, two righthanders, Dean Chance and Fred Newman, and three lefthanders, Marcelino Lopez, George Brunet and Rudy May, are in command of the five starting berths.

A return to form by McBride would permit Rigney to move one of the southpaws into a bullpen vacancy.

Seattle presents one of the most attractive rosters in minor league baseball. Included in its lineup are ex-Angels Tom Satriano, Joe Koppe and Ed Kirkpatrick; outfielder Jackie Warner, one of the most promising finds of the Palm Springs camp, and highly-sought bonus baby Rick Reichardt.

RETURNING to within a ground rule double of the Wilson High diamond on which he first gained prominence will be Seattle manager Bob Lemon. Last year at Hawaii, Lemon was one of the key links in the Angels' chain of player development.

This will be the Angels' first-ever playing venture in Long Beach although business manager Cedric Tallis spent the good part of one year here attempting to con-

Schedule Is Tailor-Made for Dodgers

Fast Start Likely as Drysdale Faces Patsies in Opener

By GEORGE LEDERER
I. P-T Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — Captain Maury Wills gave the Dodgers something to think about today: "The faster you start, the tougher it is to be caught."

They couldn't catch Wills Saturday, although the track was far from ideal. On a damp field, Wills had such a head start that he stole three bases and scored from second on an infield grounder to start the Dodgers to a 7-3 exhibition victory over the Senators.

Monday, when the real race begins in New York, the field may not be much better, but the schedule is tailor-made for solid Dodger pennant footing.

THE DODGERS open against their all-time patsies and, after five games on the road, play 25 of their next 42 games at home. They will face second-division clubs of 1964 in 22 of the first 41 games.

Last year, the Dodgers were not as fortunate and were out of the race almost before it began. They opened against St. Louis, Cincinnati and Milwaukee, the eventual 1-2-5 finishers, and lost 10 of their first 12.

"The early schedule definitely is in our favor," says Don Drysdale, who draws his sixth opening-day pitching assignment in the Dodgers' eighth Southern California season. Drysdale has won his last three openers after losing the first two and is an odds-on choice to make it four in a row.

DRYSDALE had a 5-0 record against the Mets last year and has lost to them only once in 14 decisions. He had an excellent spring, winning all five of his decisions and finishing with 16 scoreless innings for an earned-run-average of 2.14.

The Dodgers have been almost as successful as Drysdale against New York's new breed. They won 15 of 18 last year and 47 of 54 in three years. Last year they scored more runs (93) and allowed fewer (44) against the Mets than against any other club.

If the Dodgers need more statistical encouragement, they can get it from the record of Al Jackson, Drysdale's opponent Monday. Jackson is one of the few left-handers who hasn't bothered the Dodgers. He hasn't defeated them in six decisions.

THE DODGERS hate to think where they might have finished without the Mets.

Giving the Dodgers another break in the schedule are three days off in the first eight. Thus, manager Walter Alton can operate with a staff of three starters and Sandy Koufax can take his time as the doctor ordered.

After an off day Tuesday, Claude Osteen is scheduled to April showers hint that baseball can not be far behind, and when the umpire yells "play ball" Monday, The Independent, Press-Telegram will be on hand from coast-to-coast.

At Shea Stadium in New York, George Lederer will report the battle between the Dodgers' Don Drysdale and the eMIs' Alvin Jackson. Several hours later, Ross Newhan will take his seat in the Dodger Stadium press box to report the duel between the Angels' Fred Newman and Cleveland's Ralph Terry.

Lederer has seen every Dodger game, at home and on the road, since the club discovered the Gold Coast in 1958. Newhan will be starting his fifth year with the Angels and is the dean of Southern California writers traveling with the club.

In today's Sports Section, Lederer and Newhan predict the outcome of the National and American League pennant races, while in Southland Magazine they present features on Willie Davis and Dean Chance.

While the Dodgers traded Frank Howard this winter and the Angels parted with Bo Belinsky, I, P-T sports editor Hank Hollingworth revealed that Lederer and Newhan are not on the block.

"They are," said Hollingworth, "untouchables."

Nicklaus' 64 Tames Rivals

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Dig Jack Nicklaus grabbed the Augusta National monster course by the throat and shook it to death Saturday with a record-tying eight-under-par 64 which threatened to wreck the 28th

Masters golf tournament. Nicklaus called his superb 31-34 round "the finest I ever shut in my life" and it was good enough to give him a comfortable five-stroke margin over little Gary Player of South Africa and an almost insurmountable eight-stroke lead over defending champion Arnold Palmer. Among them, these "big three" have accounted for all the Masters' championships since 1959, and although they started Saturday's third round all even with identical 138 totals, Nicklaus soon left both far behind.

The round, featured by 300-yard drives and putts of phenomenal length without a single bogey, gave the Golden Bear of Columbus, Ohio, a 54-hole score of 202.

Palmer could do no better than par 72 on the warm, windless day for a 210 total, tied with 34-year-old Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., for third place.

Two challengers from out of the pack—Mason Rudolph, a bespectacled tour veteran from Tennessee, and former U.S. Open champion Gene Littler—joined Nicklaus in a birdie assault on the 6,980-yard, par 72 course and moved into contention.

Rudolph, with a streak of four straight birdies and five in a stretch of six holes, fired a 66 for 211 and Littler, canning eight birdies in the last 16 holes, shot a 67 for 212, tying Tommy Aaron, who clipped in on the final hole for a 71.

Channel 2, 1 p.m.

However, there seemed no catching the bull-strong Nicklaus in today's climactic round. He is at the peak of his game and brimming with confidence.

Nicklaus said, "I've never putted better" and added with a smile, "My drives and approach shots didn't hurt me, either.

"My adrenaline is running so strong that I am using 6-irons where normally I'd use a 5. I am all pumped up inside."

No man ever played the first 54 holes better in this golf Olympics, started by the immortal Bob Jones in 1934.

The previous best total for three rounds was 205, made by Ben Hogan in his record year of 1953 and duplicated by Palmer in winning the third of his four titles in 1962.

Nicklaus needs only a par 72 today to tie the 274 set by Hogan 12 years ago, when he won the Masters, U.S. Open and British Open in a professional little slam.

Lloyd Mangrum set the single round record with a 64 in the opening round of 1940.

A gay, carnival crowd of 50,000 swarmed over Augusta's resplendent acres for the third round, and big Jack gave them a show they will never forget.

Splitting the broad fairways with cannon shots off the tee and dropping putts of from 15 to 25 feet, the 25-year-old boy wonder played the outgoing nine in 31 shots, tying the record of Cary Middlecoff in 1955.

He started his charge at the 555-yard second, where he recovered magnificently for a birdie after sending his drive into a cluster of pine trees to the right of the fairway.

Powerful drives enabled him to birdie both the 13th and 15th. Nicklaus acknowledged that he used 5-iron second shots on these holes, measuring 475 and 520 yards, respectively.

Nicklaus, Masters winner in 1963 and past winner of both the Open and PGA championship, shrugged off references to his bid for Hogan's scoring title.

"I only want to win," he

Final Tuneup Before Debut vs. Cleveland

Rigney to Start 8 Regulars, Plus McBride on Hill

By ROSS NEWHAN

Long Beach, which snubbed an Angel bid to build here, is paid a visit by its soon-to-be next door neighbor today.

Whereas they once wanted to establish permanent residency, this time the Angels come only for an afternoon of recreation. They bring with them the Seattle Angels and may be seen in battle at Blair Field at 1:30 p.m.

Tickets priced at $2 and $1.25 (half-price in bleachers for children) go on sale at 9

TICKETS ON SALE

Tickets for today's Angel-Seattie game will go on sale at 9 a.m. at Blair Field.

a.m. For those of you who partake of Recreation Park only for the Iowa picnic, the game will be televised over KTLA (5).

This will be the Angels' final prep for Monday night's American League opener with Cleveland at Dodger Stadium and manager Bill Rigney has indicated he will start his first string.

THIS INCLUDES: Jose Cardenal, cf; Jim Fregosi, ss; Willie Smith, lf; Costen Shockley, lb; Lou Clinton, rf; Bob Rodgers, c; Paul Schaal, 3b; Bobby Knoop, 2b. The pitcher will be Ken McBride, whose determination to solve the mystery of his sub-par 1964 performance was a highlight of the Palm Springs encampment.

In his last assignment Tuesday against the Giants, McBride spun three hitless innings which caused pitching coach Marv Grissom to comment: "If he throws like that during the season he will have no problems."

Channel 5, 1:30 p.m.

THIS, OF course, will be a key start in McBride's bid to regain a position in the Angels' rotation. Currently, two righthanders, Dean Chance and Fred Newman, and three lefthanders, Marcelino Lopez, George Brunel and Rudy May, are in command of the five starting berths.

A return to form by McBride would permit Rigney to move one of the southpaws into a bullpen vacancy.

Seattle presents one of the most attractive rosters in minor league baseball. Included in its lineup are ex-Angels Tom Satriano, Joe Koppe and Ed Kirkpatrick; outfielder Jackie Warner, one of the most promising finds of the Palm Springs camp, and highly-sought bonus baby Rick Reichardt.

RETURNING to within a ground rule double of the Wilson High diamond on which he first gained prominence will be Seattle manager Bob Lemon. Last year at Hawaii, Lemon was one of the key links in the Angels' chain of player development.

This will be the Angels' first-ever playing venture in Long Beach although business manager Cedric Tallis spent the good part of one year here attempting to con-

Baseball in '65: It's Bound to Happen...

Things that are bound to happen during this coming baseball season:

On Monday the Dodgers' Walter Alston will scream that umpires are not enforcing the balk rule. The chant will continue until October.

Maury Wills will complain, with reason, that opposing second basemen and shortstops are deliberately trying to spike him as he steals another base.

Maury Wills will be a mass of bruises and cuts before May 1.

Bo Belinsky will lose a game and denounce the Phillies' defense as "the worst in baseball."

Bo Belinsky will claim that Philadelphia is a "lousy city" and will declare that he wishes he was back in Los Angeles "which is a swinging town."

Dick Stuart will pout, claiming "that Bum Belinsky is stealing all my head-lines."

Philadelphia fans (and writers) will wish that both Belinsky and Stuart would return to where they came from.

Somebody sitting on the Dodger bench will ask g.m. Buzzie Bavasi "to play me or trade me."

HANK

Bavasi will trade the malcontent—for a dozen bats and that extra water fountain O'Malley Ravine direly needs.

The Angels will scream that they'd win the pennant if they had "a decent home park."

Leon Wagner will agree . . . and will be quoted to that effect about 75 times.

Fans will telephone the I, P-T sports dept. screaming because the Dodgers don't televise more games.

Fans will phone to denounce the Dodgers and praise the Angels because the latter club televises more games.

Despite their "hatred" of the Dodgers more fans will turn out for Dodger games than Angel contests.

Walter O'Malley will explain (!) for the thousandth time why his Dodgers have so little road game TV.

Nobody will believe O'Malley.

BILL RIGNEY will panic and pull his starting pitcher in the first inning of the first game if the hurler gives up a hit or base on balls.

Bill Rigney again will utilize more pitchers than any manager in baseball.

Bill Rigney will apply pancake makeup for all the Angels' televised games . . . the better to see him when he yanks a pitcher, you know.

Willie Davis will run through the third base coach's stop signal at least 30 times.

The third base coach will lecture Willie but Willie will munch on an ice cream bar instead of listening.

Tommy Davis will win 30 games with his bat and lose 29 with his play in the outfield.

FRANK HOWARD will hit 30 home runs for Washington and Dodger fans (the same ones who hooted the giant the past few seasons) will scream for his return.

The Yankee "playboys" will hit the headlines at least three times.

The Yanks will not be in first place in June and all the reporters will write that their stars are getting too old.

The Yanks will win the American League pennant, despite their playboys and old age.

Derrell Griffith will be back on third base for the Dodgers in July "because the club needs more sock."

Dodger first base fans will take out added insurance when Griffith returns.

Sandy Koufax will have a sore arm after his first start.

Five thousand "fans" will prescribe a remedy for Koufax.

DURING HIS first slump, Jim Fregosi will gripe about Chavez Ravine.

Charlie Finley will attempt to move his K. C. franchise to Sioux Falls.

Al Lopez, after a three-game win streak, will insist the Chisox will win the A. L. pennant.

The spring sensations will be back in the bush leagues by May 15.

Dean Chance will sound off against Fred Haney and his Angel teammates in general.

When the Dodgers falter, George Lederer will have excuses for them.

When the Angels falter, Ross Newhan will have excuses for them.

At 5 p.m. the days of Dodger-Giant or Angel-Yankee games, our advertising dept. will plead for "Annie Oakleys" for their "important clients."

All this is bound to happen. Just wait and see!

WASHINGTON, D.C.— "Please hold all tickets until the result of the race has been declared official."

The words are familiar at Santa Anita, Hollywood Park, Los Alamitos and in the National League, where photo finishes are as common as cherry trees in the nation's capital.

The handicapping business, therefore, is a risky one. Climbing on a limb has its pitfalls everywhere and is doubly dangerous here where the first president set precedent by swinging a pretty good ax.

On the other hand, if one George was nutty enough to stand in a canoe to pose for a painting, another can wade fearlessly into the wave of National League pennant contenders.

Seven managers believe they have a chance to win and any one of the seven could be right because the league has produced six different champions in the last seven years. No team has been able to win successive pennants since the Braves of 1957-58 and only the Dodgers have managed to win twice in the last seven years.

The pattern should continue in 1965, a season that may put the photo finish camera to its severest test. The top five clubs finished only five games apart last year and each claims improvement. The Dodgers and Pirates, 13 games back, claim the most improvement.

The team that claims the pennant will have the best pitching, the best balance between offense and defense, and the best bench.

Such a team is Cincinnati, nosed out by St. Louis in the last two days of 1964. The Reds have grown up, nasally speaking, and are picked by this writer to reverse the order of finish.

The Reds were the best team in Florida, deep in pitching, fast afoot and much improved in hitting. The most beneficial change made by freshman manager Dick Sisler restored power-hitting Gordon Coleman to first base and moved Deron Johnson to third.

The switch weakens the defense, but the Reds led the league in that department last year and can afford to give some ground. They need Coleman's bat, capable of driving in close to 90 runs, as in 1961 and '62. Cincinnati won the pennant with Coleman at first in 1961.

Cincinnati pitching ranked second to the Dodgers last year in earned run average, but the Reds recorded more complete games, more strikeouts and allowed fewer walks. They can't match Don Drysdale and a healthy Sandy Koufax, but have more depth, better middle-inning relief and no arm problems.

The predicted order of finish: 1, Cincinnati; 2, St. Louis; 3, Milwaukee; 4, Dodgers; 5, San Francisco; 6, Philadelphia; 7, Pittsburgh; 8, Chicago; 9, Houston; 10, New York.

St. Louis has the benefit of left fielder Lou Brock from the start, but right field remains an unknown quality and the pitching isn't of pennant caliber, although it would be difficult to argue Bob Gibson out of his last World Series check.

The Cardinals will be there or thereabouts with consistent hitting.

Bobby Bragan again predicts that Milwaukee will outscore any team in either league and he has a good chance to be right. But the Braves need another starting pitcher, help in the bullpen and a rapid recovery by Hank Aaron.

No team enters the race in a more uncertain state than the Dodgers. For the third time in four years, the big IF is Koufax. If he and Johnny Podres can take their regular turns, they alone could make up the 13-game deficit of last year.

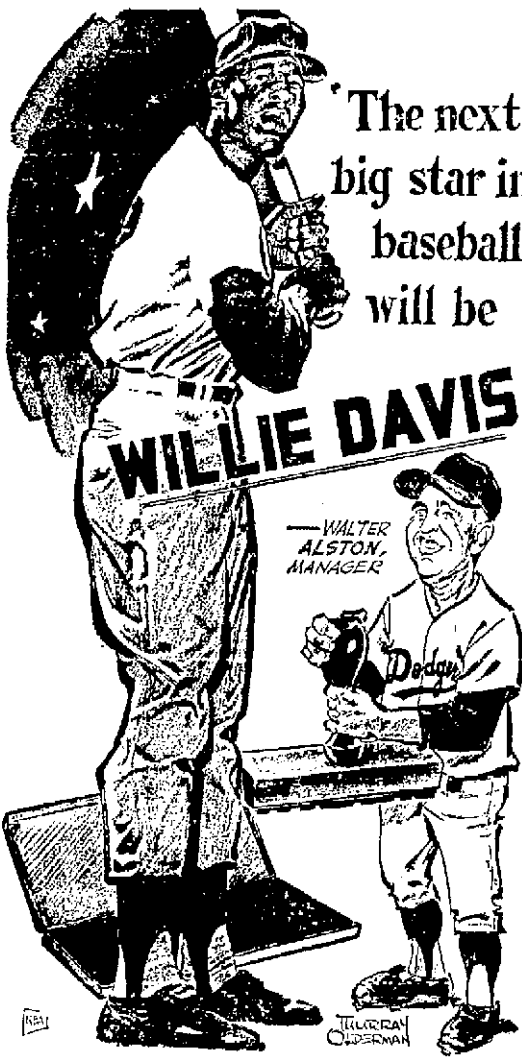

The Dodgers traded away 11 wins and 16 losses by Phil Ortega, Pete Richert and Nick Willite and gained Claude Osteen, who should have no trouble reversing that figure.

Tommy Davis hit in the spring as he did two and three years ago, but also fielded as he did last year to cancel any plus.

The Giants need more than Willie Mays and Juan Marichal. They need left-handed pitching, much improvement from Willie McCovey and a sound Orlando Cepeda. As long as Cepeda's knee is a question mark, the Giants are, too.

Philadelphia may be the best sixth-place team in history. The Phillies led by six games last Sept. 15 and fell apart overnight. The problem may be strictly mental, including Bo Belinsky and Dick Stuart.

ON POOL OR PITCHING, HE'S . . .

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM—E-3
Long Beach 15, Calif., Sunday, April 11, 1965

New Dean of Angel Players

By RED SMITH

PALM SPRINGS — Wilmer Dean Chance, the greatest pitcher ever foaled in Wooster, Ohio, moved in gingerly fashion around the little room where Freddie Frederico, trainer for the Angels, kneads cherubic torsos and massages seraphic sinews while Bill Rigney's celestial company courts health here on the desert.

Chance moved with a decided limp. Less than 24 hours earlier he had tried to throw a fast ball past Willie Mays. If Willie's line drive had been 18 inches higher, spectators would have seen an emergency appendectomy done live, putting both Chance and Dr. Kildare out of business.

The ball stayed low, though, and Chance, who had pivoted with the pitch, was nailed in the back of the leg with only a big, blue bruise resulting.

"The pitch was supposed to be a low fast ball," he said, "but it was belt high and he creamed it. I'll probably throw tomorrow and pitch again on Saturday. What you doing this afternoon, Fred?"

"Golf," said Fred Newman, the other half of Rigney's double-barreled pitching staff. "Shoulda seen me at pool last night, though. Over my head? Whoole! I murdered Bobby Locke, 50 to 28, the first game—"

"What was your longest run?" Chance asked.

"About 15."

Chance nodded approval. As the former roommate and after-dark companion of the great Bo Belinsky, he is clearly the club's recognized authority on the game.

Perhaps it is the Belinsky influence, but whatever the reason, pool has come along lately as a topic of clubhouse small-talk to take a place not far behind girls and—in the case of the Yankees — stocks and bonds. Wherever Chance travels, his own hand-tattooed cue goes along.

"I got six exhibitions scheduled in Washington this season," he told Newman. "For $1,200."

"Good," Newman said, "I'll play you and we'll split."

"You guys have an annual golf tournament," a visitor said. "Isn't it about time there was a ballplayers' pool championship, too?"

"You know who'd win it, don't you?" Chance said. "No, not Belinsky, not Mahaffey, Walt Alston. He can step up cold, first time in months, and knock off 50 like that. Bo's not in his league."

Chance is a tall young man, blue-eyed, with perfectly matched white fangs which show often in a jaunty grin. Like Jurgen's wife, he has not especial gift for silence whether the topic is pool, horse-racing — "that's Newman's game, he's a real degenerate" — pitching 30 victories in a season.

"Did Hal Newhauser win 30 in that big year of his?" somebody asked.

"No 29, and Dizzy Trout won 27 that year for the same club. Feller never won 30, either. The last in this league was Lefty Grove."

"Grove was 31 and 4," Newman said, shaking his head in wonderment. "When was that, 31?"

"He lives not far from me," Chance said, "in Norwalk, Ohio."

"Lefty Grove. You know, it says in the records that Dizzy Dean was the last to win 30 in the National League, but he didn't. He was behind in the eighth inning one game, and somebody else came in and threw one pitch and got the side out. Next inning the Cardinals went ahead and they gave the game to Dean, but that's not according to the rules."

Del Rice, the reformed catcher on Rigney's coaching staff, came in to have Frederico rub his arm. He'd been pitching batting practice.

"Do you throw spitters in batting practice?" he was asked. "They say Lum Harris did when he was coaching Baltimore."

Del shook his head. "I guess he was teaching the

READY FOR YANKEES

These two righthanders will be on mound when Angels face Yankees at Dodger Stadium Wednesday night. Yasminna (right), a belly dancer from Palm Springs, will throw out the first ball. Then Dean Chance (left) takes over.

"Who was it said you could get by in this league with just two pitches?" Newman asked. "An umpire, wasn't it? Said all you needed was a five fast ball and a good sinking spitter." He laughed delightedly.

"I was watching Whitey Ford in batting practice," a guy said. He goes to his lips with his fingertips every time now. Since his operation, he doesn't sweat on the left side."

"What!" Fregosi cried in mock astonishment, "you mean there's a pitcher in this league throws a spitter? I thought that was just a sinker."

Dean Chance, of course, is an uncomplicated pitcher who throws a fast ball. He throws it so fast that his earned-run average against the Yankees last year was .018. In 50 innings he gave New York's finest one run, a homer by Mickey Mantle.

"When Dean throws a spitter," Fregosi said, "he's doing you a favor."

Angels Win Anaheim Bow

Only 4,080 See Win Over Seattle
By ROSS NEWHAN

ANAHEIM—Given a choice on a gray, chilly day, Anaheim citizens chose Disneyland over their Angels.

While the parking lots of Walt Disney's famed playground a few miles to the south were packed, only 4,080 fans left gaping holes in the La Palma Park stands Saturday as the Angels made their Anaheim debut a successful one, whipping Seattle, 4-2.

Ironically, after much ballyhoo, the Angels almost never made it to Anaheim. Their bus was trapped by a freeway accident and the club arrived only 15 minutes before the game's start.

Willie Smith and Joe Adcock thundered homers, but the most important Angel development was taking place in Los Angeles where Bob Rodgers, batting .370 this spring, underwent X-rays of his right hand.

THE HAND was struck by a foul tip during an intrasquad game Friday in Palm Springs and swelled to such dangerous proportions that trainer Freddie Frederico insisted on X-rays. The pictures, however, showed only a bruise on the knuckle of Rodgers' middle finger and it is expected he'll be behind the plate Monday night when the Angels host Cleveland in the American League opener.

ANGEL ANGLES: Assistant general manager Marvin Milkes explained technicalities surrounding Gateways' refusal to let Seattle's Ed Cullum only for extra work. His contract had been assigned to Seattle. He was always on the roster. Fred Smith's homers Thursday night. Smith was struck off right-handed Jim McInchinnis. The latter hurler was recently obtained from Boston for Bob Olin. Costen Shockley is a clutch win the home batting crown. He went 1 for 2, leaving his average at .408.

ANGEL HOPES:

Chance's Whiffs . . . and 8 Big 'Ifs'

By ROSS NEWHAN

Asked for an evaluation of the team which will support his attempt to retain the Cy Young award, Dean Chance observed: "The Angels have more ifs than any club in baseball."

Chance would not expand so here is a brief look at the ifs who will duel Cleveland's Ralph Terry Monday night.

Julio Cardenal, cf: A 21-year-old Maury Wills type . . . Won job largely on speed, defense and minor league record . . . Question if can reach first enough to make speed pay off.

Jim Fregosi, ss: The 23-year-old American League's All-Star shortstop . . . Boasts speed, power and defensive acumen . . . Question if second-year-old was spring's most on-half slump was fluke or indicative.

Willie Smith, lf: The 26-year-old former pitcher whose pinch-hitting pyrotechnics year-old is recognized as best won regular job . . . Great defensive second baseman in strength and speed, needs de-league . . . Worked on hitting fensive sharpening . . . Ques- with Joe Gordon but may time if can hit left-handers again have tough time reaching .250 . . . Question if it's possible to repeat amazing '64 23-year-old ex-Phil led Angels glove work.

LEFEBVRE, FIVE OTHERS TABBED AS TOP ROOKIES TO WATCH THIS SEASON

NEW YORK (UPI)—Six rookies have been singled out by the United Press International's board of baseball experts to "make it big" during the 1965 season.

The six are:

—Outfielder Jim Northrup, 23, of the Detroit Tigers;
—Second baseman Jim Lefebvre, 22, of the Dodgers;

—Pitcher Jerry Stephens, 21, of the Boston Red Sox; —Second baseman Joe Morgan, 21, of the Houston Astros;
—Outfielder Paul Blair,

21, of the Baltimore Orioles;
Pitcher Bruce Howard, 22, of the Chicago White Sox.

A total of 33 rookies received support from the 24-man UPI board, representing every city in the major leagues, but only those six received as many as six votes.

Reds, Yanks to Keep World Series Date

Cincinnati vs. the New York Yankees! That's the pairing we anticipate six months from now in the World Series.

The two clubs last met in the October Classic in 1961... the Yanks routing the Redlegs in five games.

But they almost met again last year. Cincy had a one-game lead heading into the final two games, and was tied with the Cardinals going into the last day before losing out to St. Louis, which went on to nip the Yankees in a seven-game series.

Cincinnati appeared to be virtually home free with two games to go... especially since those games were with Philadelphia, which was staggering through a 10-game losing streak.

But the Phillies snapped out of their disastrous slump to take both of those games from the Reds, 4-3 and 10-0.

Cincinnati's fate was sealed in the next-to-last game. The Reds were never in the finale... being badly beaten.

Baseball, of course, is known as a game of inches... and this was never more vividly demonstrated than in the Reds' next-to-last game with the Phillies.

An "inch" was the difference between a victory, which would have clinched a tie, and a loss that ultimately paved the way for the Cardinals to nip them for the pennant.

LEWIS

THE REDS TOOK an early 1-0 lead in that game and were threatening to break things wide open. Vada Pinson was on second and Frank Robinson was on first with none out. Deron Johnson hit a long liner to deep left field. It looked like a sure hit, scoring two runs. But rookie Alex Johnson of the Phils raced back and at the last second, made a sensational one-handed catch.

Pinson and Robinson, of course, were well advanced on the basepaths when the young outfielder whirled and made a perfect throw to shortstop Bobby Wine, who quickly relayed the ball to Tony Taylor doubling Pinson at second, and Taylor's throw to first baseman Vic Power nipped the sliding Robinson for the third out.

It was the Phils' third triple play of the year, a new league record.

If the ball had been another inch away... it might have dribbled off Johnson's glove for a hit, or at the very worst left him in an awkward position to get off a quick throw.

That inch cost the Reds dearly.

WHY CINCINNATI and New York this year? Well, in the case of the Yankees, it is always wise to stick with a champion until defeated. Especially a champion that has proved so dominant... 14 pennants in 16 years.

In the second place, the Yankees are still the team to beat for there is no more solid front-line club when Mickey Mantle is reasonably healthy, and the pitching looks good —at least on paper—if Whitey Ford is able to contribute anything at all.

Injuries appear to be the only thing that could stop another Yankee sweep to the pennant. If they do run into trouble, it is certain they will deal quickly for a player or two.

AS FOR CINCINNATI, the Redlegs look as good as any of the six contenders in the wide-open National League race... and in addition to good speed and defense, they have outstanding pitching going for them. Only question seems to be in scoring runs. The attack has not been consistent since '61.

Pitching and defense alone make the Reds solid contenders. Last year, the Cincy pitchers led the league in strikeouts, gave up the fewest runs... and their 3.07 earned run average was second only to the Dodgers' 2.95.

The three main starters will be lefty Jim O'Toole (17-7), Jim Maloney (15-10) and Joey Jay (11-11). The club hopes to get at least 10 more wins from them this trip.

MALONEY, WHO WON 23 games in '63, had an off-year, yet still won 15. Jay was a tough luck pitcher all season, could have won 15 with a break or two along the line. He dropped 1-0 verdicts to the lowly Mets and Cubs, one being a two-hitter to Chicago; lost a 2-0 game to the Colts, and was beaten 2-0 by the Braves in September despite striking out 12 men.

Other starts will be handled by Joe Nuxhall (9-8), John Taitouris (9-13) and Sam Ellis (10-3 as a rookie).

Roger Craig, obtained from the Cardinals for Bob Purkey in a winter trade, will head up what figures to be an effective bullpen, which also will include southpaw Bill Henry, lefty Gerry Arrigo from Minnesota and Bill McCool. The latter won six games as a rookie last year.

OUTFIELDERS ROBINSON and Pinson are quality players. By his own personal standards, Robby only had a fair year in '64 (306 with 29 homers and 96 RBIs). Pinson was way off with .266, although he hit 23 homers and batted in 84 runs. Both predict better seasons.

The other outfielder, Tommy Harper, has been battling up a storm this spring and figures to improve on his .243 of last year.

The managing figures to be good. Dick Sisler, who succeeded Fred Hutchinson when the latter died of cancer after the conclusion of the '64 race, has sold himself to the players and, according to a source close to the Redlegs, may be able to get even more out of them because of his milder approach. As acting manager for seven weeks last season, he achieved a 29-18 record.

18 Clubs Go Monday-All Are Hopeful

By JACK HAND
By Associated Press

Washington and Cincinnati will share the opening day with seven other cities Monday in a unique nine-game baseball program that will include the first official major league indoor game at Houston's controversial domed stadium.

Except for Houston, where the humidity is controlled by the air conditioning system, weather will be a determining factor in attendance. It is expected that 268,000 fans will turn out Monday, plus 35,000 more in the lone Tuesday opener at Baltimore.

Virtually everybody expects to win the pennant in April. Even the New York Mets plan to escape from 10th place after three years in the cellar. But it is a long 162-game grind to Oct. 3.

ANOTHER WILD scramble is predicted in the National League where the St. Louis Cardinals won by a whisker last October. Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, San Francisco and possibly Los Angeles and Pittsburgh think they can push the Cardinals.

Chicago is talking of making the first division for the first time since 1946. Houston is dome-crazy and the Mets still hope. There is hope for everybody in the National where nobody has repeated since the 1957-58 Braves.

Even the perennial champion New York Yankees must fight off American League challengers from Baltimore and Chicago, with a possibility that darkhorse Cleveland, Detroit or power-laden Minnesota might make trouble.

The Yanks are odds-on favorites but the boys have had trouble separating the Cards, Phils, Giants, Reds and Dodgers in the National. The pre-season poll of baseball writers by The Associated Press had the Yanks and Cards the winners on a point basis but both the Phillies and Reds had many more first-place votes than St. Louis.

Sandy Koufax's arthritis has cast doubts on the Dodgers' potential. Hank Aaron's loss because of an ankle injury may hurt the Braves in the early stages. The Giants have tired of waiting for Orlando Cepeda's knee to come around and have announced Willie McCovey as their first baseman. Pittsburgh is without Bill Mazeroski, who suffered a broken bone in his right foot. The Pirates also don't know how much to expect from Roberto Clemente, the batting champ who is recuperating from malaria.

MICKEY Mantle has been in and out of the Yankee lineup due to leg and knee trouble and Elston Howard sat out a few games with a sore arm. These injuries, plus the extra curricular activities at a Fort Lauderdale bar have had a disturbing effect on the Yankee club.

Among the old faces in new places are ex-Boston player Dick Stuart, now at first for the Phillies who also have Ray Herbert, former White Sox pitcher, and Bo Belinsky,

ASTRO ANTICS

Smart-Aleck Board Has No Mercy for Pitchers

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Domed Stadium may turn out to be the most traumatic place in the world for the unfortunate visiting pitcher who throws a home run ball.

Let's reconstruct a scene Saturday in the exhibition game between the Baltimore Orioles and the Houston Astros.

It's the bottom of the third. Baltimore pitcher Dave McNally has already given up four runs in the first inning. Now there are two on base.

Houston's Jim Beauchamp slams a homer into the center-field bleachers. While the three runs cross the plate, nightmarish sounds and sights erupt from the $2 million scoreboard.

Shoulders slumped, hands on hips, McNally turns to watch.

In colored lights on the scoreboard, the dome blows off the stadium... home run flashes... rockets zip red tracings from end to end of the board... cowboys chase longhorn steers... and, finally, two big steer heads appear, each with a United States flag flying from one horn and the Lone Star flag of Texas from the other, while the loud speakers blare "The Eyes of Texas."

McNally slowly turns back to the mound. Can this be real? Is it really happening? Or is it only a horrible dream?

He tugs on his cap, woggles his shoulders, sticks out his chin and fires.

Low in heart and mind, he starts off the field. Is he allowed to make the long, lonely walk in a decent pall of gloom?

No, there's that infernal scoreboard lighting up again.

This time on comes an animated picture of a jowly, grim-visaged manager. His mouth opens wide and in giant, black capital letters float the words: "Pitcher out? To the showers?"

The scene changes to a slump-shouldered dejected pitcher ambling under a shower head. He removes his cap, and spray begins pelting him.

Mercifully, a black curtain rises and cuts off the tragic scene.

The crowd guffaws. McNally disappears into the dugout.

But what happens when somebody belts a homer off an Astro pitcher?

The scoreboard flashes "tilt." And the game goes on.

Barnett Health Key Factor as Lakers, Bullets Collide

By DOUG IVES
Amid charges and countercharges involving Jerry West, the health of Dick Barnett still should be the turning point tonight when the Lakers and Bullets break their 2-2 deadlock in the NBA's Western Division playoffs.

Barnett, suffering from a pulled groin muscle, will participate in pre-game warmups, then decide whether he is capable of going full tilt. A sidelined or half-speed Barnett would put the Lakers in deep trouble.

With the southpaw shooting sensation throwing in 40 points, the Lakers won the first two games of this series. They lost the third despite Dick's 18 points, then it became evident his

HARDWICK PBA STOUDEUR REBOUNDS VICTOR AFTER CLOSE FINISH

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Billy Hardwick, 22-year-old sharpshooter from San Mateo, Calif., won a three-way contest Saturday to capture the $25,000 first prize in Professional Bowling's Tournament of Champions.

Compiling a solid early lead, Hardwick staved off a strong finish by Dick Weber of St. Louis. Joe Joseph, the defending champion from Lansing, Mich., finished third.

The 35-year-old Weber won $12,500, Joseph $6,500.

Ilman Stars, but Aztecs Tops 49ers

FRESNO (UPI)—The San Diego State Aztecs, national college division swimming champions, rolled up 138 points to win the California Collegiate Athletic Association swimming title Saturday.

The Aztec's superior depth overcame Long Beach State, the defending CCAA champions, who scored 103 points in the three-day affair.

San Fernando Valley State tallied 70 points for third, while Los Angeles State placed fourth with 57. Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo followed with 34 and host Fresno State had 18.

Long Beach State's Gary Ilman, a double gold medal winner in the Tokyo Olympics, broke CCAA records in three events and helped his mates to another.

Ilman swam the 1,650-yard freestyle in 17:55.4 Saturday and anchored his team in the 400-yard freestyle relay which set a mark of 3:19.6. Friday, Ilman set marks in the 200-yard butterfly with a 2:01.2 clocking and also the 200-yard individual medley in 2:04.3.

VICTOR THE BEAR IN L.B. DEBUT

The biggest wrestling show of the year is scheduled for Tuesday night at Municipal Auditorium when Victor makes his debut.

Victor is the wrestling bear, a seven-foot grizzly that is unbeaten in the ring. His challenger is The Masked Destroyer, former heavyweight human champ. Four other bouts are on the card, including a solo match for reigning champion Pedro Morales.

long-range marksmanship was vitally missed in Friday's two-point loss.

Barnett's importance, however, has been overlooked, perhaps for obvious reasons. Laker coach Fred Schaus doesn't want a let-down in morale if Dick can't play, and Bullets boss Buddy Jeannette is preoccupied with stopping West.

Schaus says the key to victory is "we have to stay even on the boards, contain their guards... and run." Jeannette has already spoken his peace, namely to "slow down" West, who has scored 193 points (48.3) in four games.

Schaus was heartsick over Friday's last-minute loss. "The players laid their hearts on the floor... this is the greatest team spirit I've seen in pro basketball."

The sixth game of the series goes to Baltimore on Tuesday, and the seventh contest, if necessary, will be played in L.A. on Thursday.

The controversy involving West centers around the "hand-checking" of the Laker star by Wally Jones, Don Ohl and Kevin Loughery. Even quiet man West says "I can't go where I want to and I'm getting hit after every shot."

Jeannette, of course, denies his boys are overzealous in guarding the Laker superstar, and says "we don't stop him no matter what we do. I'd like to just slow him down... to something like 25 points."

Angry Celts' Coach Vows Series Win

BOSTON (AP)—Boston coach Red Auerbach, fuming over what he called a long count basket which ended the series Friday night, has guaranteed the Celtics will beat Philadelphia for their ninth straight Eastern Division title.

The teams tangle today in the Boston Garden. The game will be televised live at 2 p.m. on channel 7.

The controversial 35-foot shot by Hal Greer came off an out-of-bounds play with one second remaining. It tied the score and forced the extra play during which Wilt Chamberlain scored six of his 34 points. He also had 34 rebounds in the game.

Auerbach said it was impossible for Greer to take a pass, turn around, dribble the ball and get off a shot in one second.

"I'm not saying the timer was dishonest, but I guess rooting for the home team he might hesitate," said the Boston coach.

MILE RELAY DECIDER

Trojans Barely Decision Tribe

LOS ALTOS HILLS (AP)—Southern California's Trojans piled up a huge lead in the field events, then sped to a 15-yard victory in the mile relay to edge Stanford, 75-70, Saturday in a Pacific Athletic Conference dual track meet.

The Trojans swept the shot put and high jump, and also won the discus, triple jump and long jump to build a 41-22 lead in the field events.

Stanford swept the 220 and the mile and placed first and second in the 2-mile to gain a 70-70 tie with the Trojans.

USC won in the relay 3:13.1 against Stanford's 3:16.0.

THE MEET's only double winners were Stanford's Larry Questad and Paul Schlicke. Questad won the 100 in 9.9, the 220 in 21.6 and anchored the winning 440 relay squad in 40.9, bettering the meet record of 41.1.

Schlicke took the mile in 4:07.3 and the two-mile in 9:01.1. USC broke Stanford's domination of the distances by sweeping the 880. Bruce Bess won in 1:51.2. Dennis Carr and Charlie Oakley came:

second and third for the Trojans. USC's Mahoney Samuels set a meet record in the triple jump with a distance of 48-5 1/4.

The victory was USC's 30th in a row over Stanford. The Indians last beat the Trojans in 1933.

Montecarlo Bar Triumphs

12,432 at Alamitos Program

By DON HARDIN

The weatherman switched signals at Los Alamitos Race Course over the weekend, changing Friday's gloomy, rainy and muddy picture to one of sunshine, cold and stiff winds for Saturday's program.

But no matter what the weather, loyal quarter horse fans will turn out. The 7,125 total on Friday bettered last spring's opener and a whopping crowd of 12,432 witnessed most of the nine events Saturday and wagered $783,721 for the day.

OVER A strip which appeared to be getting back to normal, Montecarlo Bar won the featured $3,500 Newport Purse for AAA-minus horses at 350 yards by a half length over John L. Taylor, longest shot on the board. Miss Caprideck was third.

The winner paid $15.40, $9.20 and $4.60. John L. Taylor returned $17.40 and $6.00 and Miss Caprideck $3.40. Time was 18.2. April Finn lost his rider at the start.

Actor Robert Mitchum was in the winner's circle to greet the winner.

THE COMPANION feature of Saturday's card, the California State College of Long Beach Faculty Wives Purse, was won by Lucky Bantam, a longshot who beat out the heavily backed Low Roller by a nose. Mr. Triple Chick was third for the 400-yard run and the winner's time was 20.8.

Lucky Bantam returned $23.20, $7.60, $5.60. Low Roller paid $3.60 and $3.20 and Mr. Triple Chick $9.40.

There was a ring of clouds overhead all afternoon but the center of the ring was over the track itself and the sun shone just as brightly as the wind blew strongly and nary a drop of rain pelted the course.

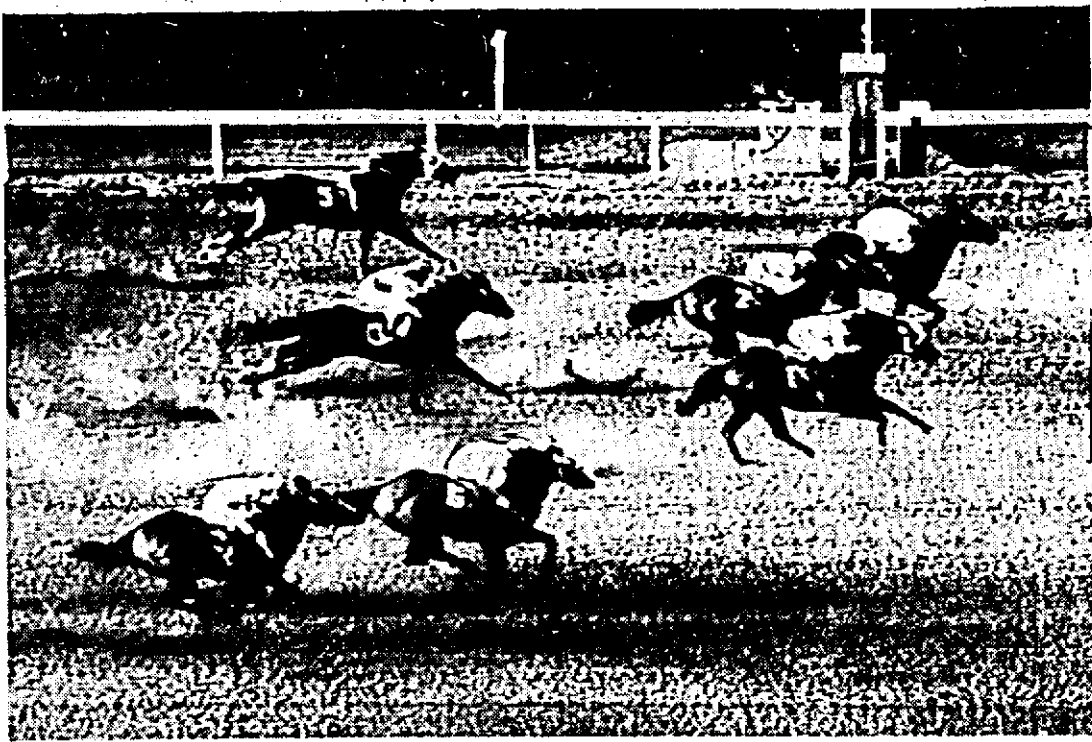

Change in the elements was such that the track, which was labeled "slow" at first post, was changed to "good" after the third race and respectable times were recorded.

WESTERN STABLES and its trainer, Earl Holmes, are having their troubles.

Friday, heralded Duplicate Copy acted up in the starting gate, bucking his shins, throwing rider Charlie Smith and was scratched. Then, as they were leading for the fifth race Saturday, favored Caro Go bolted out of the gate, throwing his rider and causing injuries to jockey Jack Robinson who was on Barred's Story in the next stall. Caro Go was scratched and Robinson treated for cuts and bruises and removed from his mounts.

SMITH was off all his mounts for the day due to the Duplicate Copy mishap. He banged a knee and his physician advised against attempting to ride during the program.

Duplicate Copy, off his performance in the gate Friday, now must be schooled to qualify again for another race. His qualifying test will probably be on Tuesday.

If you said rider for No. 5 horse, you're right. April Finn pulled April fool joke on jockey Gilbert Apodaca, throwing him at gate, then running race alone. This was feature race at Los Alamitos, won by Montecarlo Bar, with John C. Taylor second and Miss Caprideck third. April Finn was unplaced.

EXCELSIOR TO TENACLE: TIBALDO 2ND

NEW YORK (AP)—Tenacle, seldom a visitor to the winner's circle, wore down the pace-setting Tibaldo in the home stretch Saturday and won the $55,000 Excelsior Handicap at Aqueduct by 1 1/4 lengths.

Under 110 pounds, 13 less than packed by top-weighted Knightly Manner, Tenacle was clocked in 1:49 3/4 for his first stakes triumph. He had only two victories to show for 17 previous 1964-65 starts.

The winner earned $35,750 and paid $14.60, $4.90 and $3.60 to his backers in the crowd of 53,025.

RACING IN BRIEF

By The Associated Press

Tom Rolfe served notice he will be a contender for the May 1 running of the Kentucky Derby by posting a 2 3/4-length victory Saturday in the $34,025 Chesapeake Stakes at Laurel.

The winner was timed in 1:38 3/5 for the 1 1/16th-mile as he turned back Isle of Greece, another Derby candidate. As the favorite, Tom Rolfe paid $4.40, $2.40 and $2.20.

Tarenta and Bright Bauble won their divisions of the $20,000-added Ashland Stakes at Keeneland, each winning by a head in the 6-furlong dash. Tarenta broke time in 1:10 2/5 and Bright Bauble 1:10 3/5. Bauble blazed a new course record of 1:40 4/5 for the 1 1/8-mile feature.

Sports in Brief—Panamanian Wins Title

Ismael Laguna of Panama ended Carlos Ortiz' three-year reign as world lightweight champion Saturday night.

Laguna, 21, won the votes of referee Jersey Joe Walcott and a Panamanian judge in the 15-round bout at Panama City. An American judge called it a draw.

THE NATIONAL Football League is considering organizing a spring pro league, primarily for the benefit of television, with one franchise in Anaheim.

Tex Schramm, general manager of the Dallas Cowboys, said television interests are "very anxious" about the idea, which would involve a few NFL players.

The season would run from mid-January to Memorial Day.

THE MONTREAL Canadiens defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3-1, Saturday night to take a 3-2 edge in the Stanley Cup semifinals.

THE Massachusetts Boxing Commission made no statement after a four-hour meeting trying to iron out Sonny Liston's suspected tie-up with promoters of his May 25 title fight with Cassius Clay. . . . The Nan-kai Hawks say pitcher Masanori Murakami is being held out of baseball until the dispute with the S.F. Giants is settled. . . . The Atlanta 500, rained out last week, is scheduled today with Indianapolis champ A. J. Foyt in a Ford. . . . Dennis Ralston meets Manuel Santana for the Caribe Hilton tennis title at San Juan, P.R., today. . . . Oregon State basketball star Jim Jarvis broke a foot in a baseball game.

Plan the perfect second home in 9 easy steps

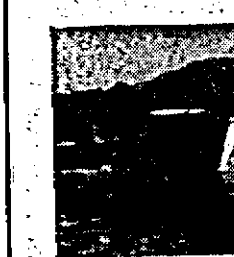

1 Find a place far from fog, smog and freeways.

2 But close enough for weekending.

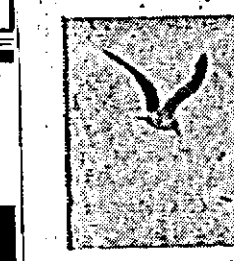

3 Make a lake: broad, blue, bordered with sandy beaches.

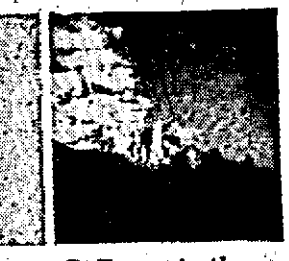

4 And a cool, swift river (name it the Colorado).

5 Stock both with millions of large, hungry fish.

6 Banish rain.

7 Decorate the horizon with mountains.

8 Build a marina clubhouse for companionship.

Hush, Sweet Golf MASTERS... Shot---It's Jack

AUGUSTA, Ga. (P) — It was like New York's Times Square during the rush hour—with trees—when Jack Nicklaus sent a screaming liner off the first tee Saturday afternoon in the Masters golf tournament.

Thousands of spectators lined the fairways and rimmed the first green.

Before Big Jack, the first of the three co-leaders to start, teed off, there was a steady hubbub. When he prepared to drive the crowd became so still you could hear a shadow fall in the bright sunlight.

Nicklaus' gallery, numbered more than 15,000 at times Saturday, and its leader was a petite mother-to-be who trudged over the 6,980-yard rolling course for the third straight day to see her hero in action.

She is Barbara Nicklaus, Jack's wife. She is expecting her third child this month, but this can't keep her away from the course.

"Being out here really doesn't make me nervous," she said. "Well, not any more nervous than being somewhere else."

Since it was announced earlier in the week that you couldn't buy a ticket for the final weekend, some enterprising characters went into business for themselves.

They manufactured counterfeit parking stickers. A Master committee-man said several hundred cars slipped into the parking lots with the phoney stickers.

The word was passed to the special police to keep on the watch for spectators who didn't wear the admission badges.

said. "I'm not interested in records or wide margins. I'll be happy to win by a shot."

The adrenalin that had Nicklaus charging never found its way to Palmer. While Arnie's Army suffered and groaned, Palmer took bogeys on three par-three holes.

Champagne Tony Lema, who started the day just two shots away from the Big Three of Nicklaus, Player and Palmer, saw his game collapse on a faulty putter. He bogied three holes in a row, round up with a 77 for 217.

Byron Nelson, the 52-year-old Texas rancher, who ruled the pro tour in the 1940s, was at 216, tied with Tommy Bolt. Nelson's long time rival, the great Ben Hogan, was at 217.

Nelson shot a 72 and Hogan, rallying, a 71. They will be watching each other closer than Palmer and Nicklaus in today's showdown.

LAKE'S BIRDIE-EYE VIEWS FROM AUGUSTA:

Range Won't Hold Nicklaus

(Ed. note: George Lake, golf professional at Long Beach's Recreation Park courses for 29 years, is attending the Masters Tournament. This is his birdie-eye view.)

By GEORGE LAKE

AUGUSTA, Ga.—You've never seen a golf tournament until you've seen the Masters.

I found out this weekend. With my wife, Za Mona, and John and Lou Belle Walters of Virginia Country Club, we are enjoying a golfers' paradise.

The beauty of the Augusta National Course takes your breath away. The azaleas, camellias and dogwoods are in bloom everywhere. The fairways bend between the Georgia pines and the grass is a lush green. The large, rolling putting greens are three-putt terrors.

Galleries are so huge, they have limited daily attendance to 20,000 and all the tickets were sold out before the tournament began. Everybody in Augusta naturally wants to attend, so the dentists—you know how dentists and doctors love golf—close up shop except for one who takes care of emergencies.

The most difficult thing in town is get served dinner. In one popular downtown restaurant, we had to wait in line outside for an hour and inside at the bar for another half hour before we were seated. On line outside, we were No. 52.

Everything on the course takes in consideration the comfort of the spectator. There are numerous bleachers and high mounds for vantage points and 11 scoreboards so you know instantly how each player stands with par.

We followed Ben Hogan when he shot 71 Thursday and I've never seen a man play better golf. He was never more than 10 feet off line on any shot from tee to green. If he could putt like some of the younger pros, he would have shot 62.

Every time Ben finished an approach shot, the crowd would cheer him all the way to the green.

Friday, we gallied Tony Lema and Tommy Bolt. Lema had a chance to take the lead, but made what I thought was a foolish gamble which cost him a double bogey on the par-five 13th.

Tony had hit a big drive and a good 2-iron which left him only a little pitch shot to the green. But the pin was at the extreme front edge of the green and there's a creek running in front of the green. Tony tried to hit it stiff and went into the creek.

The most amusing thing I saw was on the practice tee. The range must be 300 yards long, but Jack Nicklaus was hitting his drives so far, they were going on to the highway. So he had to move back behind the bleachers to continue practicing.

My greatest pleasure was shaking hands with Bobby Jones. That alone was worth the trip from Long Beach to Augusta.

Hush, Sweet Golf MASTERS--- Shot---It's Jack

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — It was like New York's Times Square during the rush hour—with trees—when Jack Nicklaus sent a screaming liner off the first tee Saturday afternoon in the Masters golf tournament.

Thousands of spectators lined the fairways and rimmed the first green.

Before Big Jack, the first of the three co-leaders to start, teed off, there was a steady hubbub. When he prepared to drive the crowd became so still you could hear a shadow fall in the bright sunlight.

Nicklaus' gallery numbered more than 15,000 at times Saturday, and its leader was a petite mother-to-be who trudged over the 6,980-yard rolling course for the third straight day to see her hero in action.

She is Barbara Nicklaus, Jack's wife. She is expecting her third child this month, but this can't keep her away from the course.

"Being out here really doesn't make me nervous," she said. "Well, not any more nervous than being somewhere else."

Since it was announced earlier in the week that you couldn't buy a ticket for the final weekend, some enterprising characters went into business for themselves.

They manufactured counterfeit parking stickers. A Master committee-man said several hundred cars slipped into the parking lots with the phoney stickers.

The word was passed to the special police to keep on the watch for spectators who didn't wear the admission badges.

said, "I'm not interested in records or wide margins. I'll be happy to win by a shot."

The adrenalin that had Nicklaus charging never found its way to Palmer. While Arnie's Army suffered and groaned, Palmer took bogeys on three par-three holes.

Champagne Tony Lema, who started the day just two shots away from the Big Three of Nicklaus, Player and Palmer, saw his game collapse on a faulty putter. He bogied three holes in a row, round up with a 77 for 217.

Byron Nelson, the 52-year-old Texas rancher, who ruled the pro tour in the 1940s, was at 216, tied with Tommy Bolt. Nelson's long time rival, the great Ben Hogan, was at 217.

Nelson shot a 72 and Hogan, rallying, a 71. They will be watching each other closer than Palmer and Nicklaus in today's showdown.

LAKE'S BIRDIE-EYE VIEWS FROM AUGUSTA:

Range Won't Hold Nicklaus

(Ed. note: George Lake, golf professional at Long Beach's Recreation Park courses for 29 years, is attending the Masters Tournament. This is his birdie-eye view.)

By GEORGE LAKE

AUGUSTA, Ga.—You've never seen a golf tournament until you've seen the Masters.

I found out this weekend. With my wife, Za Mona, and John and Lou Belle Walters of Virginia Country Club, we are enjoying a golfers' paradise.

The beauty of the Augusta National Course takes your breath away. The azaleas, camellias and dogwoods are in bloom everywhere. The fairways bend between the Georgia pines and the grass is a lush green. The large, rolling putting greens are three-putt terrors.

Galleries are so huge, they have limited daily attendance to 20,000 and all the tickets were sold out before the tournament began. Everybody in Augusta naturally wants to attend, so the dentists—you know how dentists and doctors love golf—close up shop except for one who takes care of emergencies.

The most difficult thing in town is get served dinner. In one popular downtown restaurant, we had to wait in line outside for an hour and inside at the bar for another half hour before we were seated. On line outside, we were No. 52.

Everything on the course takes in consideration the comfort of the spectator. There are numerous bleachers and high mounds for vantage points and 11 scoreboards so you know instantly how each player stands with par.

We followed Ben Hogan when he shot 71 Thursday and I've never seen a man play better golf. He was never more than 10 feet off line on any shot from tee to green. If he could putt like some of the younger pros, he would have shot 62.

Every time Ben finished an approach shot, the crowd would cheer him all the way to the green.

Friday, we galloped Tony Lema and Tommy Bolt. Lema had a chance to take the lead, but made what I thought was a foolish gamble which cost him a double bogey on the par-five 13th.

Tony had hit a big drive and a good 2-iron which left him only a little pitch shot to the green. But the pin was at the extreme front edge of the green and there's a creek running in front of the green. Tony tried to hit it stiff and went into the creek.

The most amusing thing I saw was on the practice tee. The range must be 300 yards long, but Jack Nicklaus was hitting his drives so far, they were going on to the highway. So he had to move back behind the bleachers to continue practicing.

My greatest pleasure was shaking hands with Bobby Jones. That alone was worth the trip from Long Beach to Augusta.

Cal Crew Glides to Easy Win

Drop Hay 'Bombs' to Save Fish

A 16-inch pipeline owned by the Texas-New Mexico Pipeline Company broke last week a mile above the Aneth trading post in southeastern Utah and oil flowed into the San Juan River, which feeds into Lake Powell, the new body of water created by Glen Canyon Dam. Fish and game experts said that literally thousands of trout and bass in the lake were endangered.

However, the 945th Troop Carrier Group, U.S. Air Force Reserves at Hill Air Force Base, the Bureau of Land Management and the Utah Fish and Wildlife Department dreamed up a quick idea to impound the oil before it reached the lake.

A logjam was set up at the mouth of the river. The Air Force loaded 86 bales of hay on a C119 troop carrier and "bombed" the river just back of the logjam.

The hay was expected to absorb all the oil. Then workers were to remove the bales from the river and burn them. Game warden Rodney John said that no effect on the fish in Lake Powell had been noticed.

The pipeline company officials said that less than 5,000 barrels of oil had been lost before the pipeline had been shut down and the break repaired.

When oil enters a lake, the oxygen supply to the fish is shut off and they die quickly.

"MARINE BAITS OF CALIFORNIA" is a new booklet published by the Department of Fish and Game and it could very well turn out to be a fisherman's best friend. It lists the kinds of baits found along California's 1,100 miles of shoreline, tells what kind of bait is best for certain species and gives instructions on how to attach baits to various kinds of hooks and fishing gear.

The authors of the book are Charles H. Turner, marine biologist for the California DFG, and Jeremy C. Sexsmith, fishery biologist for the Alaska DFG. Turner, the senior author, has worked for the DFG since 1956, when he graduated from UCLA with a degree in zoology. Currently he is in charge of the Marine Habitat Development Project, a federal aid to fish restoration.

Sexsmith worked with the California DFG from 1956 to 1960 when he left to accept employment in Alaska. Between 1958 and 1960 he worked on the Habitat Development Project and obtained much of the booklet's information on mollusks and crustaceans.

The DFG is quick to add that any fisherman would be wise to talk to bait dealers and ask what fish are taking mostly at the time of his trip. The booklet is general and perhaps the bait mentioned is not available in that particular area.

IF YOU CATCH A BASS anywhere in this area, look for a yellow vinyl tube protruding from the back of the fish near the dorsal fin. It is worth a dollar if you notify the Department of Fish and Game (Terminal 2-7224).

The DFG, with the aid of some expert anglers of the Sea Horse Spin Club of Newport Harbor, has just finished tagging 285 sand and spotted bass in a third annual program of studying bass growth and migration. One of the fish tagged before this year was caught just recently at the Barn Kelp, 32 miles from where it was released.

On the yellow vinyl tube is printed: "RETURN FISH AND GAME, SAN PEDRO, CALIF" and a designation including the letters CH followed by four digits. The DFG wants each angler catching a tagged bass to supply the information on where the fish was caught and by whom. Do not clean or hehead the fish. Biologists can learn more if they have the whole fish to study.

Weather was not on the bright side last weekend, but a few brave anglers showed up at Belmont Pier to start the season on the half-day boat and the barge Islander. Those trying the boat got catches of bass and halibut and those on the Islander caught bass, halibut, barracuda and jack smelt.

Weather-wise, it may be the same story this weekend, but the same hardy souls will be willing to get wet just to catch fish.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—There are some fishermen in Long Beach and vicinity who like to fish Matilija Lake (pronounced ma-ti-li-ha). If you are one of those, forget Matilija for quite a time. It has been drained and only a few acres of mud mark the late show.

It was drained so that water district engineers could inspect the dam. It probably will never be filled again because of faults found in the structure. DFG men rescued all the fish they could and replanted them in other lakes.

The Fish and Game Commission has approved the permanent closure of Junction Lake in Mono County in order to preserve a large brook stock of Kamloops trout. Sutherland Lake, near Ramona in San Diego County, will be opened for fishing April 21 and watch this sleeper. It is one of the best bass producers in Southern California and the bluegill are there by the thousands. Don't forget that a worm probably can do more to bluegill than any lure in your tackle box. There is a USFS campground two miles below the dam.

Lower Otay Reservoir, closed for several months, is scheduled to reopen on May 5. It, like Sutherland, will be open three days each week—Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays. San Vicente Lake will be opened sometime in July.

The powerful University of California crew swept to a lopsided four-length victory Saturday in the featured 2,000-meter race in the Long Beach Regatta at Marine Stadium.

It was the windiest and roughest day in the meet's history, but the smooth-as-silk Golden Bear varsity 8, coached by Jim Lemmon, a former Wilson High student, had little difficulty leaving the rest of the field in their wake.

San Diego State, Long Beach State and USC finished behind the Bears, who were timed in 6:52.1.

junior varsity race, but by only one length over surprising Orange Coast, while L.B. State perhaps showed future superiority with a victory over Cal in the freshman race—the closest battle of the afternoon. The 49ers' margin was one-half length.

Orange Coast won the varsity reserve race, beating the 49ers.

In club competition, Reed Adler of the Long Beach Rowing Assn. was the winner in the featured senior singles. Long Beach won every club race.

Charley Weishampel, also from LBRA, was a double winner, coping the junior singles and the 500-meter sprint.

A crowd estimated at 1,600 watched the activity.

MIAMI DRIVER DIES AFTER 150 MPH CRASH

LEMANS, France (AP)—Floyd (Lucky) Casner, 33-year-old ex-airline pilot from Miami, was killed Saturday when the Maserati he was driving in the trials for the 24-hour LeMans auto race skidded on the wet track and crashed.

The car landed on a golf course bordering the track and was demolished. Casner was taken to a LeMans clinic, where his death was announced three hours after the accident.

Casner was going about 150 miles an hour and approaching the Mulsanne turn at the end of the longest straight stretch on the course when the accident occurred.

ROCK ISLAND BOUND

Fincher, Top WSC Hurler, Recruited

By CHUCK MEDICK

K. G. Fincher, considered by most authorities to be one of the nation's outstanding softball pitchers, has left the Gardena Merchants and will fire his fastballs and bend his curves for the Rock Island, Ill. Argus this summer.

The shift in Fincher's home base is complex, the result may be new, tough legislation by the national organization. Fincher, a one-man mound staff for Gardena of the Western Softball Congress for the past two years, will pitch for the Argus during a four-month span starting May 10, a Rock Island source revealed.

He and Gardena teammate Don Leslie, a third baseman, also will work in Rock Island. GENERAL manager Murray Hurt of the Argus saw Fincher, a flame-throwing right-hander, pitch 40 innings in the 1964 World tournament and surrender only one earned run, and decided that's the man he must have.

One is reminded of the Zollner Pistons of the early 1940 era, Owner Fred Zollner, in his own words, set out to buy a world champion softball team, and left no stone unturned. Never in softball history was there such a dynasty, but the glory was short-lived. The team was declared profes-

L.B. CAPTURES CAL. RUGBY TITLE

SAN RAFAEL—The Long Beach Rugby Club captured the California state title here Saturday with a 6-3 win over Peacock Gap as Bill Bovee got off a 60-yard run and Jim O'Hara scored three points for the winners.

DOESN'T WANT ANYTHING TO LEAK OUT

Firm Puts Linings in Reservoirs, Canals

There are "silver linings" — then there are the kinds installed by Globe Linings, Inc., 1901 E. Wardlow Road, Long Beach.

Globe specializes in sales, engineering and installation of flexible, leak-resistant asphalt linings for water reservoirs, canals, ditches, lagoons, ponds and tanks.

Principal materials used include Panelcraft strips made by Envoy Petroleum Co., 1601 E. Spring St., and butyl, made by Carlisle Rubber Co., Carlisle, Pa.

Panelcraft asphalt material comes in panels which are flexible and become water-proof when bonded together. A major component is bitumen, a water sealant which is rather "old stuff" — having been used since the days of the Pharaohs in ancient Egypt.

Globe has been in business about 11 years, says its president, Howard D. Webb, who has a husky staff including:

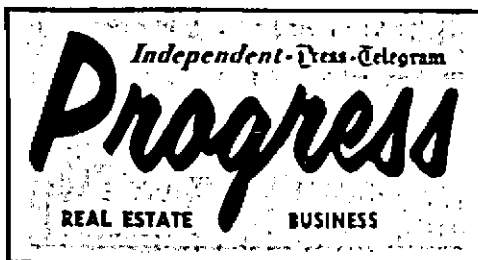

Ted Alsobrook, superintendent of construction; Howard Dial, construction manager; Henry Habegger, western regional sales manager; William Kays, chief engineer; and Jarl Sahol, regional sales manager out of Houston, Tex.

Interesting facet of the business is underwater inspection and repair of reservoirs. Three of the staff are expert scuba divers.

By VERN ANTHONY
EDITOR OF PROGRESS SECTION

Cracks and flaws in reservoirs are photographed under water to help locate leaks, said to be a major contributor to water waste. Repairs often can be made without emptying the water.

In fact, underwater inspection and repair work could help avert disasters such as happen when a dam breaks, it was noted.

Globe has done numerous prominent projects, including: Lining the reflecting pond around the Long Beach Water Department office building on Wardlow Road near Gardenia Avenue; pools at the new Los Angeles County Museum of Arts; the Long Beach Scherer Park lagoon; North American Apollo Test Facility reservoir at Downey; Redondo Beach Space Technological Lab pond; largest under-roof reservoir, at Oakland; giant water reclamation plant at Rancho Bernardo in San Diego County; and many others.

Plans are under way to line a huge water supply reservoir at Anaheim.

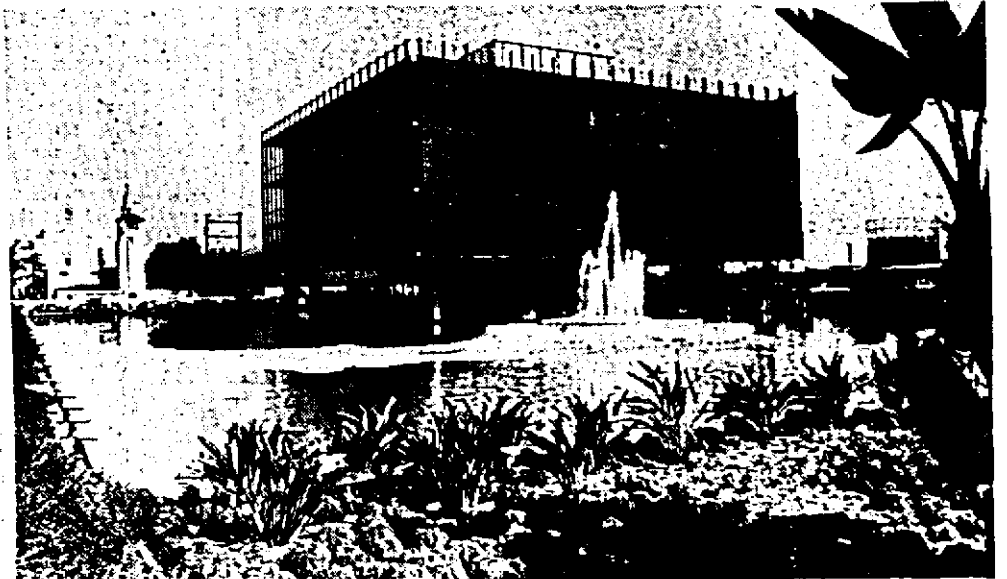

Globe has developed a floating roof for reservoirs. Proper covering helps reduce evaporation losses; keeps the water clean and safeguards against radio-active fallout, Dial said.

The firm was first to use an "inflated" roof, which has been especially advantageous in covering sewage digester tanks. The roof is held inflated by air pressure.

President Webb observed that the lining used is capable of application directly on compacted earth and that quake jolts are unlikely to cause leaks.

Gillespie Ends Long Career as Sea Captain

Capt. Harold R. Gillespie, one of the best known master mariners in the Pacific, will retire from the sea when he returns to San Francisco today from the current voyage of the SS Mariposa.

Captain Gillespie, who will be 65 next month, has sailed for Matson Navigation Co. 45 years. He made his first trip to sea at the age of 3 on the fullrigged sailing ship, Glory of the Seas, commanded and partly owned by his father, the late Capt. Henry Gillespie.

HE WAS NAMED master of the Matson freighter Makaweli in March, 1927, when he was just 27 years old, making him the youngest ship captain in the United States. Captain Gillespie was master of various Matson liners which served as troop transports in World War II. Later he served as master of Matson freighters and in August, 1953, succeeded the late Capt. Frank Johnson as permanent master of the Lurline. He took over the new Matsonia (since renamed Lurline) in 1961 and transferred to the Mariposa in South Seas cruise service in 1963.

The captain for years held the honorary title of "commander" of the Matson fleet when he was master of the then flagship Lurline. He and his wife live in Palm Springs.

STATEWIDE HONOR

Industrialists Eye 'Man of Year' Choice

A statewide committee of prominent California industrial leaders is seeking to honor some individual as the California manufacturer of the year for 1963.

Suggs Jolly, general manager of West Coast Operations, Swift & Co., heads a committee composed of past presidents of the CMA.

"In seeking to honor one individual, we hope to remind the public of the values of our free economic system," Jolly said last week.

Paul L. Davies, chairman of the board of the FMC Corporation, San Jose, was first recipient of this annual award. He was awarded a sculptured likeness at an award luncheon attended by Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown and Sen. George Murphy.

The second annual award luncheon will be Nov. 19th at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, Beverly Hills. A life-size bronze relief of the honored individual will be created by an outstanding sculptor. The Harvey Aluminum Corp. will mint an aluminum medallion displaying the likeness of the man of the year.

More than 1,000 manufacturers and friends are expected to attend this event.

More Americans Now Have 'Second' Incomes

A second income from a variety of public and private "nonwork" sources, much of it from savings and investments, has become a typical characteristic of today's family income structure and in many cases a significant addition to employment earnings and hence to purchasing power.

Figures compiled by the U.S. Bureau of the Census on the developments in consumer income over recent years indicate that for the first time about half of all families now have an extra income in addition to what they earn on a job or from self-employment.

This is close to twice the comparable proportion a decade ago. The growth trend has been persistent among farm as well as non-farm families, and it is evident throughout the range of family income and not merely among those in the top brackets.

The latest Census Bureau data show that 48 out of every 100 families had a second income in addition to earnings from their work in 1963, a decisive margin over the 44 out of 100 families that were dependent solely on earnings from employment.

This was the reverse of the situation at the beginning of the current decade in 1960 when half of all families reported an income from employment only and little over two-fifths had an extra income.

Home on Moon May Be Future Status Symbol

Decades from now the status symbol may be a moon home. The lunar lodge may replace the beach home or mountain cabin as the place to truly get away from the troubles of the world.

A variety of moon home models already have been designed, ranging in size from modest, one room efficiencies for two to more elaborate trailer-type homes.

Individual real estate interest in the moon is fantasy today, but the necessary engineering know-how to build a moon shelter is a reality.

COMPLETE design concepts of three lunar shelters and an unusual lunar vehicle were described last week at Cocoa Beach, Fla., by two Westinghouse engineers at the second annual Space Conference sponsored by the Canaveral Council of Technical Societies. R. E. Rudd and R. M. Sando told the scientists and engineers the shelters each contain the necessities to support two to three men on the moon for periods ranging from 30 to 45 days.

Exchanging Clinic Set

A fourth spring clinic on "Advanced Exchanging" will be sponsored by the International Traders Club, Exchange Division of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers, May 6 at the Continental Hotel, Chicago, it has been announced by the chairman of ITC, William E. Monsees, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

This clinic will be a workshop and will immediately precede the spring meeting May 7-11 in Chicago's Drake Hotel of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

NIREB is one of nine affiliates of the national organization which will conduct joint sessions during the spring meeting.

The men are members of the advanced space systems group at the Westinghouse defense and space center in Baltimore which is conducting extensive design work and studies of lunar systems.

TWO SHELTER designs included connecting work areas which easily could be created by a telescopic wall arrangement. The additional space could be used for vehicle maintenance or scientific projects requiring large work areas.

Rudd, program manager, said the shelters could provide the nation's lunar exploration program with the operational flexibility and man-days on the moon required to accomplish a wide range of explorations and scientific missions.

One unusual aspect of the system is that a lunar roving vehicle as well as a shelter could be transported to the moon in a single flight of the Saturn V.

Store Firm Sales Mount

City Products, of which Barker Bros. is a division, has announced that sales for all merchandise divisions in March were $30,549,309, an increase of 9.5% over March of last year, and an all-time high for March.

This is the 70th consecutive month in which sales of the company's merchandise division exceeded those of the corresponding month of the previous year. Merchandise sales for the first quarter of 1963 were $85,568,230, an increase of 9.9% over the period of 1962.

DOESN'T WANT ANYTHING TO LEAK OUT

Firm Puts Linings in Reservoirs, Canals

By VERN ANTHONY
EDITOR OF PROGRESS SECTION

There are "silver linings" — then there are the kinds installed by Globe Linings, Inc., 1901 E. Wardlow Road, Long Beach.

Globe specializes in sales, engineering and installation of flexible, leak-resistant asphalt linings for water reservoirs, canals, ditches, lagoons, ponds and tanks.

Principal materials used include Panelcraft strips made by Envoy Petroleum Co., 1601 E. Spring St., and butyl, made by Carlisle Rubber Co., Carlisle, Pa.

Panelcraft asphalt material comes in panels which are flexible and become water-proof when bonded together. A major component is bitumen, a water sealant which is rather "old stuff" — having been used since the days of the Pharaohs in ancient Egypt.

Globe has been in business about 11 years, says its president, Howard D. Webb, who has a husky staff including:

Ted Alsobrook, superintendent of construction; Howard Dial, construction manager; Henry Habegger, western regional sales manager; William Kays, chief engineer; and Jarl Sahol, regional sales manager out of Houston, Tex.

Interesting facet of the business is underwater inspection and repair of reservoirs. Three of the staff are expert scuba divers.

Cracks and flaws in reservoirs are photographed under water to help locate leaks, said to be a major contributor to water waste. Repairs often can be made without emptying the water.

In fact, underwater inspection and repair work could help avert disasters such as happen when a dam breaks, it was noted.

Globe has done numerous prominent projects, including: Lining the reflecting pond around the Long Beach Water Department office building on Wardlow Road near Gardenia Avenue; pools at the new Los Angeles County Museum of Art; the Long Beach Scherer Park lagoon; North American Apollo Test Facility reservoir at Downey; Redondo Beach Space Technological Lab pond; largest under-roof reservoir, at Oakland; giant water reclamation plant at Rancho Bernardo in San Diego County; and many others.

Plans are under way to line a huge water supply reservoir at Anaheim.

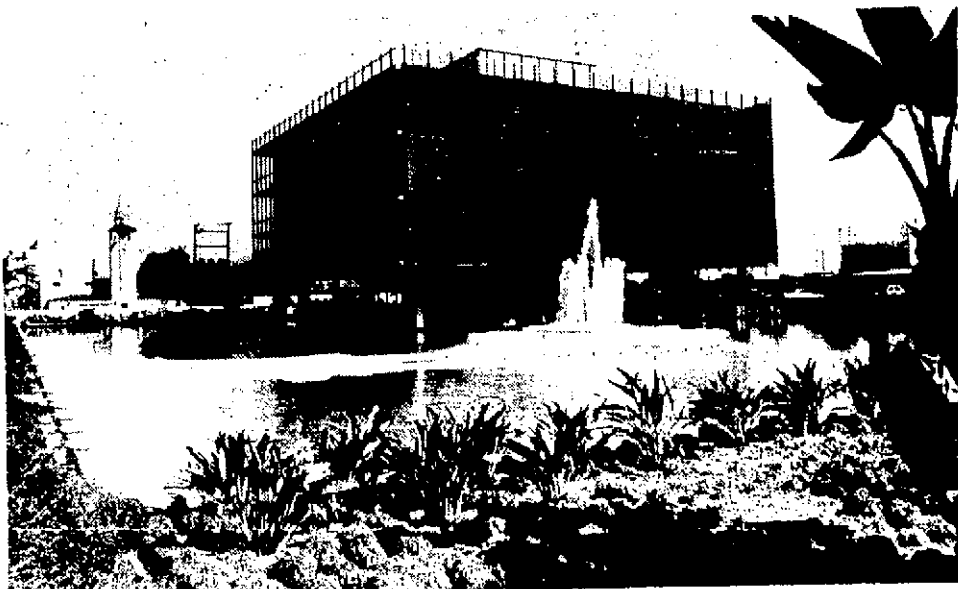

Globe has developed a floating roof for reservoirs. Proper covering helps reduce evaporation losses; keeps the water clean and safeguards against radio-active fallout, Dial said.

The firm was first to use an "inflated" roof, which has been especially advantageous in covering sewage digester tanks. The roof is held inflated by air pressure.

President Webb observed that the lining used is capable of application directly on compacted earth and that quake jolts are unlikely to cause leaks.

Gillespie Ends Long Career as Sea Captain

Capt. Harold R. Gillespie, 45, retired when he was 12 to the sea when he was 16 as deck boy on a steam schooner run by his father, the late Capt. Henry Gillespie. He served as master of Matson freighters and in August, 1953, succeeded the late Capt. Frank Johnson as permanent master of the Lurline. He took over the new Matsonia (since renamed Lurline) in 1961 and transferred to the Mariposa in South Seas cruise service in 1963.

He joined Matson Lines in 1920 as quartermaster on the old Wilhelmnia, a passenger-cargo ship in Hawaii service. His first officer's berth was on the old SS Maui as fourth mate in January, 1922. HE WAS NAMED master of the Matson freighter Makaweli in March, 1927, when he was just 27 years old, making his brother sailed with their parents on the sailing ship, which ran between Puget Sound and South America. Their mother gave them daily schooling aboard ship during the long voyages. Harold went Either suspended from the ceiling or hanging from a wall, the unit works exactly like a commercial TV camera. Two bright red lights indicate that the unit is on and "watching."

As each unit 'covers' 2,000 square feet, more than one unit would be necessary in large stores. A complete view of the store is televised through a central station.

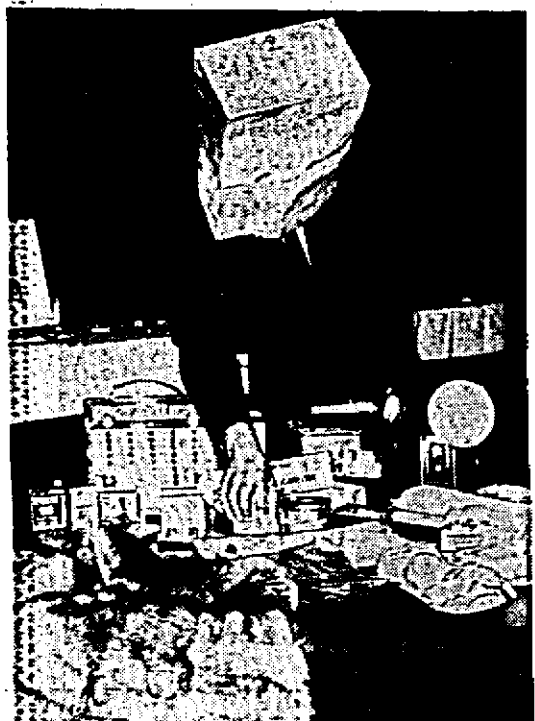

There, store personnel can watch the console and detect any shoplifting. The lawbreakers with the merchandise then would be apprehended outside the store.

Realty Spokesman Hits Cabinet Post Plan

Creation of a cabinet-rank Department of Housing and Urban Development that would exclude agencies covering three-fourths of federal assisted housing and most of 43 federal programs affecting urban development was called unsound by a representative of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in recent testimony before the Executive Reorganization Subcommittee of the Senate at Washington, D.C.

Speaking for the nation's 1,500 real estate boards comprised of 60,000 Realtors, Joseph C. Williamson, director of NAREB's Department of Governmental Relations, said the bill was a mere reshuffle of a similar measure rejected by Congress in 1962.

THE BILL misses its first objective, that of centralized administration of federal housing programs, he said, because two housing agencies excluded from the proposed Department—the Federal Home Loan Bank System and the VA Home Loan Program—provided financing for 1.6 million homes in the first 11 months of 1964. The agencies to be submerged in the new Department were responsible for only 545,341 units of housing during the same period.

"I want to emphasize that we voice opposition to this measure reluctantly because we hold in high esteem the agencies which would become part of the proposed department and the able public officials who have administered them in the past and who administer them today," Williamson said.

Low-rise "garden-type" apartments are increasingly popular. The Census Bureau reports that 80% of the multi-family buildings constructed in 1963, of more than five units, were three floors or less.

Building Material Dealers to Convene

Direct selling, extension of credit and legislation will be considered at the first annual Mid-Year Conference of the California Building Material Dealers Association, Inc., June 4 and 5, at the Highlands Inn in Carmel.

This was announced last week by Ralph H. Hilton, CBMDA managing director, following results of questionnaires circulated at March dealer meetings in Oakland, Los Angeles and San Diego.

Questions to be considered in the area of direct selling and extension of credit are as follows: (1) what policy and attitude should the building material dealer reflect toward the problems concerning supplier relationships? (2) what recommendations for improvement at both the supplier and dealer level would mitigate the situation? and (3) what adjustments can be made at both the supplier and dealer level?

The meeting represents the first time the leadership and membership of CBMDA have joined hands at the statewide level to hold an issues work-

$149 BILLION

Insurance Investments Set Record

Net increase in investments of U.S. life insurance companies during 1964 was the largest in history, as total assets rose to $149.3 billion at year-end, according to the Institute of Life Insurance.

The increase during the year was $8.2 billion or 5.5%. Well over half of the dollar increase was in mortgage loans on homes, apartments, farms, business and other properties.

Most life insurance investments represent funds set aside to meet future obligations to policyholders. Investment earnings help to keep down the cost of life insurance to policyholders.

LIFE COMPANIES ended 1964 with nearly $55.2 billion invested in mortgages, a net increase of $4.6 billion or 9.1%. Conventional urban mortgages were up 11.3%. Farm mortgages rose 13.3%.

A leading life insurance economist said the definite shift in emphasis to mortgages was due to the fact that heavy demand for this type of financing afforded higher interest yields than on corporate bonds.

HE ESTIMATED that about half of the increase in conventional mortgages was on family homes and the other half was on income-producing properties. Of the commercial mortgage financing, probably about one-third was on apartment buildings, for which life companies are the major source of funds, he said.

He predicted that the "boom" in new apartment construction would continue, although perhaps at a slower rate.

New office buildings and hotels also continue to be big factors in mortgage financing by life companies, he noted.

Office Reopened in Palm Desert

Bill Brooks, Long Beach Realtor, announced re-opening of his Palm Desert branch office on Hwy. 111 in association with Realtors Carl Henderson and John Michelson.

In addition to handling general real estate business in this desert branch office, Brooks plans to assist in the development of the industrial growth of the Coachella Valley.

on the first units of a $3 million development on six acres on Artesia Boulevard east of Obispo Avenue.

CalProp Investments Inc., El Segundo, plans 235 units in "Garden Park Apartments" to be built in three phases, all of them completed this year, said Victor Zaccagnin, president.

The first phase, which is now under construction, is a 53-unit furnished apartment building at 3251 E. Artesia. Designated as "Park East," the first project will occupy 22,900 square feet, not including carports. Major portion will provide for singles, with the remaining section designated for one and two-bedroom units.

The contemporary designed "Park East" will emphasize the CalProp "Country Club" theme with facilities designed for recreation, relaxation and privacy. Among highlights of the building will be a decorative tile facade which will offset a large lobby entrance and reception room.

RECREATIONAL features will include a large, heated swimming pool, detached recreation room, sundeck, barbeque area all situated in garden type setting. Additional features include a central gas air conditioning system, with individual controls in all units, and a central hi-fi system.

Construction of the first phase is expected to be completed on or about May 15, Zaccagnin said.

Phase two provides for construction of three buildings. Designated as "Park North" it will house 46 furnished singles and one-bedroom units similar to those of "Park East." This second section of the complex will rely upon a number of unique landscaping techniques to provide retention of its individuality in design. "Park North" will have its own detached recreation building with sundeck and will provide recreation facilities similar to story structures with sheltered parking for 258 vehicles.

CONSTRUCTION of "Park North" will get under way May 1. Third and largest part of the complex will be known as "The Gardens." Comprising 15 buildings, exclusive of N. Sepulveda Blvd. The firm maintains its own research, development, architectural, construction, and management departments, and currently owns and manages 1,043 units in the great Los Angeles area.

Major portion will provide for singles, with the remaining section designated for one and two-bedroom units.

The contemporary designed "Park East" will emphasize the CalProp "Country Club" theme with facilities designed for recreation, relaxation and privacy. Among highlights of the building will be a decorative tile facade which will offset a large lobby entrance and reception room.

RECREATIONAL features will include a large, heated swimming pool, detached recreation room, sundeck, barbecue area all situated in garden type setting. Additional features include a central gas air conditioning system, with individual controls in all units, and a central hi-fi system.

Construction of the first phase is expected to be completed on or about May 15, Zaccagnin said.

Phase two provides for construction of three buildings. Designated as "Park North" it will house 46 furnished singles and one-bedroom units similar to those of "Park East." This second section of the complex will rely upon a number of unique landscaping techniques to provide retention of its individuality in design. "Park North" will have its own detached recreation building with sundeck and will provide recreation facilities similar to

Creation of a cabinet-rank the VA Home Loan Program Department of Housing and Urban Development that million homes in the first 11 months of 1964. The agencies would exclude agencies covering three-fourths of federal to be submerged in the newly assisted housing and most Department were responsible for only 545,341 units of housing urban development was ing during the same period.

"I want to emphasize that we voice opposition to this measure reluctantly because we hold in high esteem the agencies which would become part of the proposed department and the able public officials who have administered them in the past and who administer them today," Williamson said.

Speaking for the nation's 1,500 real estate boards comprised of 80,000 Realtors, John C. Williamson, director of NAREB's Department of Governmental Relations, said the bill was a mere reshuffle of a similar measure rejected by Congress in 1962.

THE BILL misses its first objective, that of centralized administration of federal housing programs, he said, because two housing agencies excluded from the proposed Department—the Federal Home Loan Bank System and

1964 L.B. Building Permit Total Set at $66,719,000

Total valuation of all Long Beach building permits for 1964 was $66,719,000, according to Security First National Bank's latest survey of building and real estate activity in Southern California.

L. H. Showalter, vice president and manager of the bank's Long Beach office, said that during the past year permits were issued for a total of 3,397 family dwelling units in the city, based on the 1964 report prepared by the bank's research division.

INCLUDED in this figure are 456 single dwellings and 2,931 multiple units.

Copies of the new survey report are available to the public free of charge at all Security branches.

The bank's report, with numerous tabulations, documents the Southern California construction industry's second biggest year on record.

U.S. Attorney's Assistant to Talk

BELLFLOWER — Carolyn Frilan, assistant United States attorney, Southern California District, will be guest speaker at the regular monthly luncheon of the Women's Council, Bellflower District Board of Realtors Wednesday noon.

President Gladys Leahy announced the meeting will be held at the Board auditorium, 9921 Flower St.

Miss Frilan will speak on "Federal False Claim Act" and will recount some of her experiences since becoming an Assistant United States attorney in 1964.

Miss Frilan is a product of Bellflower, where she attended school, living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Frilan.

BUSINESS activity in Southern California took a slight downturn in March although maintaining the general level of the past few months, the bank reported.

Fait Buys Suburban Motors at Wilmington

WILMINGTON—A veteran auto dealer took over the Dodge franchise for Wilmington last week when Newell E. Fait purchased Suburban Motors, 445 E. Anaheim St., Wilmington.

Born in Montana, Fait has operated dealerships in Southern California for nearly two decades. As Chrysler-Plymouth dealer in Santa Ana, he achieved national recognition in the form of the Chrysler Corporation's Quality Dealer award. His automotive accounting systems have been imitated throughout the industry.

Among his former employees who have gone on to become dealers themselves are Jay Walker (Walker Dodge, Canoga Park); John Hondas (O. R. Haan, Inc., Santa Ana); Richard McCulloch (McCulloch Plymouth, La Habra); H. L. McPeck (McPeck Plymouth, Anaheim); and Mike Salta (Salta Pontiac, Long Beach). An active outdoor sportsman, Fait is an excellent golfer and avid skier, having garnered many trophies in these two of his favorite sports.

Fait announced appointment of Mel Schaum as general manager.

"It has been my experience that the road to lasting success as a dealer is through a combination of lowest prices and finest service," Fait said. "The public appreciates it when you don't hold out for big profits, and you soon attain volume sales as a result. Giving outstanding service makes sure that you retain that volume in the form of repeat business. And we consider it a real honor to represent the excellent Dodge automobile in the harbor area."

'HELPS' WITH REMODELING

Realtor Barbara Moss totes an armful of lumber to demonstrate remodeling activities under way in office building she has purchased at 500 E. Fourth St., where she has a real estate business.

Woman Realtor Buys, Remodels Office Bldg.

Acquisition of the office building and real estate business at 500 E. 4th St. was announced last week by Barbara Moss, Realtor, formerly of the firm Steele & Moss Enterprises. Her ex-partner, Harold K. Steele, earlier disclosed he had taken over the C. V. Jackson real estate office at 500 E. Carson St.

Mrs. Moss said remodeling of her building was under way, being done by D. J. Warren & Associates. She has been in business at the location for 10 years, previous to which she was executive director of the Long Beach Realty Board.

She now is chairman of the board's Multiple Listing Committee and in 1962 headed the California Real Estate Association's Multiple Listing activities. She helped establish multiple listing in Hawaii and at 47 other boards throughout the nation.

Associated with Mrs. Moss now are Clark Call, Stuart Graham, Dan Putnam, Glenn Hopkins, Elsworth Smith, Bea Stone, Elsie Uecker, Ursula Blechen, Helen Florine and Francis E. Long. Her staff is being indoctrinated, she said, in the latest techniques of real estate exchanging.

Builders to Hear Grundy

"Stocks and Bonds" will be the humorous topic of the guest speaker at the next dinner meeting of the Builders' Exchange of Long Beach, Monday night.

Speaker will be Jess W. Grundy, vice president, director and manager of the Long Beach office of Hill Richards Jess Grundy & Co., Inc., member of the New York Stock Exchange.

A graduate of Poly High, Long Beach City College and the University of California, Grundy is past exalted ruler of Long Beach Elks Lodge and a member of the speakers' panel of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange.

He is a widely known lecturer on investments and will speak following the cocktail hour and 7 p.m. dinner at the Lafayette Hotel.

Attend Conference at Hollywood, Fla.

Jerry J. Coursey, Jr., Long Beach general agent for the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., and six associates were named to attend the company's National Sales Conference at Hollywood, Fla., last week.

Those attending include: Lawrence G. Adams, Wilton H. Dykes, Russell M. Ford, Ernest H. Mazur, Thomas G. Meehan and Peter J. Whitney. The three day meeting brought together more than 500 of the firm's field representatives, general agents and home office executives.

Macco Corp. Earnings Up

Net income of Macco Realty Company, Paramount, rose 38% to $2,665,905 in 1964 from $1,936,065 a year earlier, President John Parker has reported.

This was equivalent to $1.77 per share on the 1,507,917 average number of shares outstanding during the year, as compared with $1.29 on an average 1,500,000 shares outstanding in 1963.

Macco Realty is traded over the counter.

THE FIRM now holds the largest Southern California land inventory of any developer, with an interest in about 100,000 acres.

Gross revenues were $27,987,657 as compared with $32,605,386 in 1963.

The variation in gross revenues was said to be accounted for by the time required in developing property from the acquisition of land through home construction and sales. In the first seven months of 1964, fewer homes than normal were at the sales stage.

However, with four major new projects begun late in '64 and early this year another cycle of activity was launched; and effects of this buildup are expected to be felt this year.

Announcement is expected soon of a major Macco development at Long Beach.

Flying Tiger Business Up

Domestic common carriage airfreight revenues of the Flying Tiger Line showed a gain of 50.2% for March, over the same month last year, Peter T. Albert, vice president of sales, announced. Freight revenues totaled $1,533,711 compared to $1,021,193 last year.

Albert said it was the largest monthly increase ever recorded by the carrier in airfreight traffic, and followed on top of an average gain of 32% in each of January and February.

For the first quarter of the year, airfreight revenues showed a gain of 39.5%, totaling $3,860,222 against $2,766,300.

"Freight traffic is now rising more sharply than at any other time in our experience," Albert said. "We attribute it both to increased airfreight service and a rapidly growing use of this service by industry, particularly in controlling and meeting inventory problems and achieving distribution of goods on a regular rather than an emergency basis."

More Mexican Farm Products Entering U.S.

NOGALES—Long lines of trucks crossing the border at Nogales these days attest to the fact that Mexico is becoming a heavy supplier of fresh winter and spring vegetables and melons in U.S. markets.

Mexico now sells approximately $34 million worth of these products in this country each year.

Exports of all agricultural products from Mexico into the U.S. have increased by 65% since 1952.

From 1955 to 1963 the export of fresh tomatoes from Mexico increased from 66 million pounds to 242 million pounds. Value, $17.5 million.

THE STORY behind this story was recently explored by a representative of the Council of California Growers on a trip down the west coast of Mexico.

It can be summarized in a few words: Irrigation and abundant labor.

During the past 12 years Mexico has doubled its irrigated acreage, from 6 million to 12 million acres. Nearly every major river either has been or is in process of being harnessed with huge dams being built by the government. And nowhere in Mexico is this more apparent than along a 600-mile stretch of the West Coast as far as Culiacan.

WITHIN THAT distance are seven major irrigation systems serving almost 3 million acres of rich farmland, most of them built since the late 40's and late 50's. Some are still being expanded.

Two of these, one on the Fuerte River and the other on the Yaqui, are each larger than the 450,000-acre Imperial Irrigation District in California.

'Electronic Package' Planned for 52 Offices

Dean Witter & Co. is planning to install an "electronic package" in its 52 offices providing one of the fastest and most comprehensive market information reporting services available.

The new equipment will feature a visual display of a broad range of market facts on easy to read, electronically operated display boards.

THE FIRM has signed an exclusive million-dollar contract with Ultronic Systems Corp. for the new stock market equipment. This marks the first time a major brokerage house has signed an exclusive agreement for company-wide electronic equipment.

The new equipment, due to be operating in about six months, will include the installation of Marketmasters, a package of panels displaying a variety of up-to-the-minute information including Dow-Jones averages every 90 seconds, up-to-the-minute industry average changes, most active stocks, current volume, and issues up, off and unchanged.

THE COMPLETE package gives the viewer the entire scope of the market at any given moment. Trends on a broad or specialized scale are clearly evident.

The electronic network is operated through a master computer in Pennsauken, N.J., which accumulates information from the nation's stock and commodity exchanges. The information is then sent out instantaneously to "slave" computers at 20 key locations in the U.S.

The speed is so rapid the greatest time lag from any receiving point to point of origin is one second.

A new compact, book-shaped balloting device is now on the market. It weighs about six pounds and sells for $185 per unit. When a citizen prepares to vote, he or she is handed a specially prepared punched card. In booth, card is slipped into device underneath printed ballot. To record choice, voter punches holes in data processing card with pen-like stylus. Up to 240 voting positions are available on each card. Photo at upper left illustrates how voter inserts card into machine. At upper right, she uses stylus to punch her choices in card. Lower left: she puts card, now inside envelope, into ballot box. Lower right: after polls close cards are taken to data processing center for high-speed tallying and printing of returns.

J. A. JOHNSON Promoted

Gas Division Chief Named

J. A. (Art) Johnson, 41, has been named new southeast division manager for Southern California Gas Co. according to F. M. Banks, president of the investor-owned utility. Johnson replaced C. T. Schweitzer who has been named metropolitan division manager. The new manager was born in Arkadelphia, Ark., and moved to Visalia in 1926. He started his gas company career in 1947 in the customer service department in northeast division. He has served as a board member of the Lawdale Chamber of Commerce, headed the 1963 Hawthorne Chamber of Commerce executive assistants committee and has served on the Hawthorne Kiwanis Club board of directors. Johnson and his family live at 10603 8th Ave., Inglewood, but will move to the Downey area.

Survey Shows How Weather Affects Buying

The weatherman can hit the nation's cash registers with a heavy hand. Gordon MacMillan, research director of Fredrick Atkins, Inc. has related retail sales to weather conditions for 27 years. His findings, as reported in American Investor, the American Stock Exchange magazine: The one major variable factor in customer buying patterns is the weather. One-tenth of an inch of precipitation between 7 and 11 a.m. cuts department store sales 1% for the day. For each degree colder than normal in the Spring, or warmer than normal in the Fall, sales will be off 1%. When temperatures remain colder than normal by 10 degrees for more than 10 calendar days, sales return to normal on the 11th day and hold throughout the cold wave period. The nation's retailers expect 1965 sales to top last year's record $18.3 billion by as much as 5%. Much, however, will depend on the weather.

Atlanta Spends to Promote City

Business leaders in Atlanta, Ga., recently raised $1,650,000 in less than 30 days for use in a three year program of industrial promotion for the city. Sparked by the Chamber of Commerce, the city has expended up to a half million dollars yearly since 1961 in this promotion. Better than 20,000 new jobs have been added each year and record building investments have been made in Atlanta in each year of the present program.

Slum to Slum Theory Disproved by U.S. Study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Federal housing officials believe they have the answer to urban renewal critics who say the federal bulldozer simply pushes poor families out of one slum and into another. Officials asked the Census Bureau to check just where such families are going once they are uprooted from their old slum homes. The Census Bureau's answer: 94% of the families displaced by urban renewal are finding decent, safe and sanitary housing. Well, almost. Census enumerators were unable to find one out of five of the uprooted families. In their words, 94% of the four-fifths who could be tracked down had moved to decent homes. Another way of putting it would be to say that 76% of all displaced families—three out of four—are known to have found decent housing. No doubt many of the others found it too.

Plan Tall Cranes at Oakland Port for 'Sea-Land'

A $2,240,000 improvement program which will include constructing two gantry cranes, each higher than a 20-story building, is being planned by the Port of Oakland and Sea-Land Service to meet the accelerating growth in the intercoastal container-ship trade. Sea-Land, the country's largest coastal shipping firm, operates container and trailer ships at Long Beach and other ports on the Pacific and Atlantic Coasts. Edward G. Brown, president, Oakland Board of Port Commissioners, said the port plans to finance the $2 million plus improvements through revenue bonds. Sea-Land has agreed to a 20 year preferential assignment contract with the Oakland port on two berths in the Outer Harbor terminal area. The agreement is subject to approval by the Federal Maritime Commission. Currently Sea-Land vessels are loaded and unloaded by cranes which are part of the ships' superstructure. But the company recently ordered six new jumbo container ships without the shipboard cranes.

Santa Ana Man to Address Trust Council in L.B.

Howard K. Barlow, C.L.U., of Santa Ana will speak on "Death, Taxes and Liquidity" at Thursday's luncheon meeting of the Estate Planning and Trust Council. It was announced by Orville Rundle, program chairman. A life underwriter, Barlow also is chairman of the Institute for Philanthropic Planning, an organization which disseminates information in the field of charitable endowments. He is a member of the Association for Advanced Underwriting and the Orange County Estate Planning Council. The meeting, to be held at the Petroleum Club in Long Beach, will be attended by council members in the life with five Scandinavian underwriter, bank trust of countries, according to the ficer, C.P.A. and legal professions.

Cromwell-Collier Report Reflects Recent Change

The Cromwell-Collier Publishing Company's 1964 Annual Report, mailed from New York to shareholders last week, reveals that the great- est contributions to last year's record sales of $112,808,000 (up 7% over the 1963 total of $105,161,000; earnings increased 57% to $6,956,000, also a record) came from subscription books, home study and college and professional books.

Standard Fruit Names New Exec to L.B. Terminal

Bruce Paschal, vice president of marketing of Standard Fruit & Steamship Co., New Orleans, has announced appointment of William H. Heintz, area sales manager of the company's Columbus - Detroit - Cleveland - Pittsburgh area, to west- ern regional sales manager of Standard, the nation's second largest importer of bananas.

In his new position with headquarters in Standard's recently dedicated Long Beach banana terminal, Heintz will be responsible for Standard's sales operations in all of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Utah, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and the western portions of Montana and Canada.

He began working for Standard Fruit in 1951, the same year he was graduated of building paper or roofing from Ohio State University with a degree in Business Administration. Other company assignments have taken him to Roanoke, Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

The 36 year-old native of Columbus is married and has three daughters.

PREDICTIONS

17% Climb in Building Costs Seen

By 1970, cost of building construction may rise by as much as 17%. Although this boost will be felt primarily by builders of projects such as office, industrial and institutional buildings, the rise also will be reflected in home-build costs, according to Engineering News-Record, McGraw-Hill publication. Most of the rise will be due to labor costs, it said last week. Annual wage increases appear to be inevitable and the size of increases may become even larger.

CONTRACTORS have little hope that labor productivity will rise anywhere near as fast as the combination of hourly base rates and fringe benefits, the magazine reports.

Also affecting building costs will be machinery prices which will keep edging upward, probably 1 or 2% a year.

Money is likely to become substantially more expensive, perhaps taking its first upward step within the next 12 months. It was predicted. This will apply particularly to working capital loans.

LONG-TERM borrowing that owners need to finance their new construction projects is also likely to rise in cost, but much more slowly than bank loans.

Building contractors' selling prices will move up a little more slowly than costs of basic materials and labor, because there will be some gains in productivity. But productivity will offset less than half the rise in wage rates, the forecast concluded.

Cromwell-Collier Report Reflects Recent Change

The Cromwell-Collier Publishing Company's 1964 Annual Report, mailed from New York to shareholders last week, reveals that the greatest contributions to last year's record sales of $112,808,000 (up 7% over the 1963 total of $105,161,000; earnings increased 57% to $8,956,000, also a record) came from subscription books, home study and college and professional books.

More than 56% of sales came from product areas in which the company was not active before 1960. Thus, although the parent corporation and four of its subsidiaries trace their history back to the 19th century, Cromwell-Collier today is a relatively young organization. Its present business is almost entirely education, and it is the only company which is a major factor in three of the most important areas of the educational market—encyclopedias, textbooks and home study.

Premier Homes' Flexible Financing Boosts Sales

SPACIOUS AND ELEGANT
Spacious elegance of Premier Homes North and South is evident in this model home living room at fast-selling Huntington Beach developments. Three and four-bedroom, two-bath Premier Homes are priced from $24,750.

There have been 47 Premier Homes sold in Huntington Beach the past four weeks, reports sales agent Frank McFarland of McFarland and Matlocks. "This is almost one-third of Premier Homes North and South, and is an excellent indicator not only of Premier value, but also of Huntington Beach's tremendous popularity," he said.

Premier is selling its Premier North and South subdivisions from the one sales office and model home display, just off Hwy 39 adjoining the south side of Fantastic Fair department store. The model home display includes a Russian house, built from actual Soviet plans, and furnished as close to contemporary Russian standards as possible.

The three and four-bedroom, two bath homes are offered in 6 floor plans and 16 exterior stylings. Prices start at $24,750, with VA no down, FHA minimum down and conventional financing available. Flexibility of financing has proved helpful to many buyers, McFarland reports.

Each home spotlights a "Total Convenience" kitchen. Double oven with independent controls for each, range, dishwasher, built-in foil and paper dispenser, custom bench-mounted food mixer and blender are all included in purchase prices.

Visitors take Bolsa Chica Road south from San Diego Freeway to Warner Ave. and turn left to Hwy. 39. Then turn left two blocks to Terman St. and the home display.

Huntington Harbour Plans Apartments

Hawkins & Lindsey, A.I.A., Los Angeles architects and land planners, has been selected to master plan and design a new cluster-housing and high-rise residential complex on a 25-acre site at Huntington Harbour.

L. W. Douglas Jr., president of Huntington Harbour, announced the assignment while revealing plans for this new expansion at the giant water-front community.

To Direct Research for Navy

Control Technology, Inc., 1232 Belmont Ave., announced it has been awarded a research contract by the Department of the Navy. The contract involves a 12-month study of the application of mathematical and computer techniques to control systems analysis.

Principal investigator for this study is Dr. Albert S. Jackson, CTT's president and director of research. He stated that the contract will cover research on requirements for cockpit instrumentation and assistance in the development of a human engineering handbook of techniques for man-machine system analysis and design.

College Park Home Sale Is Under Way

OFFERED IN COLLEGE PARK
This charming one-story home is typical of the three, four and five-bedroom models at the new College Park, where S & S Construction Co. announced 14 homes had been sold from floor plans and renderings in one weekend.

College Park, a new location of Garden Park homes near California State College, Long Beach, has been announced by a spokesman for S&S Construction Co., the builders.

The new College Park location is close to the beach and marina and offers a wealth of aquatic-activity possibilities.

"Sales of this new location are amazing," the spokesman said. "From floor plans and renderings alone, purchases have selected 14 new College Park homes in one weekend!"

Five, four and three-bedroom models with two and three baths are offered in a wide choice of floor plans and exterior design.

MATCHING color of the built-in gas range, oven, hood, exhaust fan and dishwasher highlight the Balanced Power kitchens, and colored plumbing enhances the bathrooms. Family rooms and distinctive fireplaces are featured at College Park, the spokesman said.

Prices from $24,400 to $31,900 with low down payment and 30 and 35-year financing through FHA are available, and veterans pay only costs and imposts.

Purchasers may select the site of their desired homes from the maps in the sales center. S&S Construction Co. has built more than 15,000 fine homes in this area, and their identification mark on a house is the discerning buyer's assurance of quality, the spokesman added.

Visitors are invited to the College Park site by driving east on Seventh St. to Studebaker Road, then north to College Park Drive, and right to the models.

ALERT INVESTORS BUYING NOW WITH EYE TO SECURITY TOMORROW

There's a new avenue of thinking these days. Wise people who are not ready for retirement right now are buying vacation homes which will later become their permanent, year 'round home when the time does come. Many are finding the ideal answer at Crystal-Aire Estates. The low down payment and monthly terms allow them to invest in a convertible second home now. Others, still employed in nearby communities, are taking advantage of the Crystal-Aire guaranteed trade-in program.

This plan guarantees the sale of their present home, releasing ready cash towards the immediate purchase of their new Crystal-Aire home, and other security investments.

In this charming, prestige area, nestled in a country club atmosphere at the foot of Mt. San Jacinto, handsome two-bedroom, air-conditioned homes are specifically designed for adult care-free living. The individual homes, each with a private patio, adjoin the complete recreation center which is equipped with spacious clubhouse, swimming pool, shuffleboard, putting greens, horseshoe and croquet.

Crystal-Aire Estates is located between the city of Hemet and the famous Gilman Hot Springs and golf course. It is within convenient walking distance of shopping areas and churches. A short drive leads to mountain playgrounds, Palm Springs and other desert resort areas, where golf courses abound.

The homes are priced at just $12,500 including a share in ownership of the recreation area. Monthly payments can be as low as $68, with a small monthly fee for maintenance. FHA and conventional terms available.

Park South Homes Centrally Located

The ease of everyday living is the keynote to the convenience-oriented design of the two-story, three and four-bedroom homes at Park South, a quiet, centrally-located community boasting freeway-close accessibility to both business areas and beaches.

At the intersection of 190th and Main Streets, Park South is just a few blocks from both the Harbor and San Diego freeways.

Plate Glass Firm Plans Fresno Plant

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. has announced it will build a multi-million dollar plant in Fresno for the manufacture of window glass.

The firm said it had purchased 200 acres at the southeast corner of North and Willow avenues at the south-east edge of Fresno. Construction plans were not announced but it was said engineering studies of the site will get under way immediately.

Tile Contractors Will Hear Insurance Talk

John Nelson, executive secretary of the Associated Tile Contractors of Southern California, has announced that Alex Rosen, group supervisor, Manhattan Life Insurance Co., will be speaker at the Tuesday membership meeting at the Rodger Young Auditorium, Los Angeles.

Rosen will discuss "a total protection plan for contractors — life insurance, disability income, pension."

Real Westerner Is W-Bar-B Ranch Boss

Verne Schell, a long-time Westerner who can shoot, rope and ride with the best, is bossman at W-Bar-B Ranch, Walker Basin, in Kern County, according to Don Smith, sales agent.

Schell has spent much of his life in ranching, and his prowess with a gun, horse or jeep is legend in the Basin, said Smith. Few flatlanders will ride to the ends in the hills with him in the four-wheeler, he said. And recently after a visitor demonstrated his country-club accuracy with 25 out of 50 hits on a clay-target shoot, Schell apologized for only knocking down 47 out of 50.

Not long ago Schell decided to share his "spread" with others who enjoy the broad country of rolling hills and sweeping valleys, spreading oaks and tall pines in Walker Basin west of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, so he tied in with two city folk, businessmen Harold Peate and John Roche, who also fell in love with the area.

THE THREE have teamed up and are offering this western ranch area to others who care to share the pleasures of the Great outdoors.

Premier Homes' Flexible Financing Boosts Sales

SPACIOUS AND ELEGANT

Spacious elegance of Premier Homes North and South is evident in this model home living room at fast-selling Huntington Beach developments. Three and four-bedroom, two-bath Premier Homes are priced from $24,750.

There have been 47 Premier Homes sold in Huntington Beach the past four weeks, reports sales agent Frank McFarland of McFarland and Matlocks. "This is almost one-third of Premier Homes North and South, and is an excellent indicator not only of Premier value, but also of Huntington Beach's tremendous popularity," he said.

Premier is selling its Premier North and South subdivisions from the one sales office and model home display, just off Hwy 39 adjoining the south side of Fantastic Fair department store. The model home display includes a Russian house, built from actual Soviet plans, and furnished as close to contemporary Russian standards as possible.

The three and four-bedroom, two bath homes are offered in 6 floor plans and 16 exterior stylings. Prices start at $24,750, with VA no down, FHA minimum down and conventional financing available. Flexibility of financing has proved helpful to many buyers, McFarland reports.

Each home spotlights a "Total Convenience" kitchen. Double oven with independent controls for each, range, dishwasher, built-in foil and paper dispenser, custom bench-mounted food mixer and blender are all included in purchase prices.

Visitors take Bolsa Chica Road south from San Diego Freeway to Warner Ave. and turn left to Hwy. 39. Then turn left two blocks to Terminus St. and the home display.

Huntington Harbour Plans Apartments

Hawkins & Lindsey, A.I.A., Heretofore a development of single-family residences, Huntington Harbour will offer a new dimension of home ownership with the completion of this phase of expansion.

L. W. Douglas Jr., president of Huntington Harbour announced the assignment while revealing plans for this new expansion at the giant water-front community.

To Direct Research for Navy

Control Technology, Inc., 1232 Belmont Ave., announced it has been awarded a research contract by the Department of the Navy. The contract involves a 12-month study of the application of mathematical and computer techniques to control systems analysis.

Principal investigator for this study is Dr. Albert S. Jackson, CTT's president and director of research. He stated that the contract will cover research on requirements for cockpit instrumentation and assistance in the development of a human engineering handbook of techniques for man-machine system analysis and design.

THE PROJECT will consist of 550 units within two high-rise structures and several two and three-story buildings. All within walking distance of a large marina, the new units are to be in a park-like setting with their own recreational and leisure time facilities. With ocean views throughout, the apartments will feature excellence of design and interior comfort.

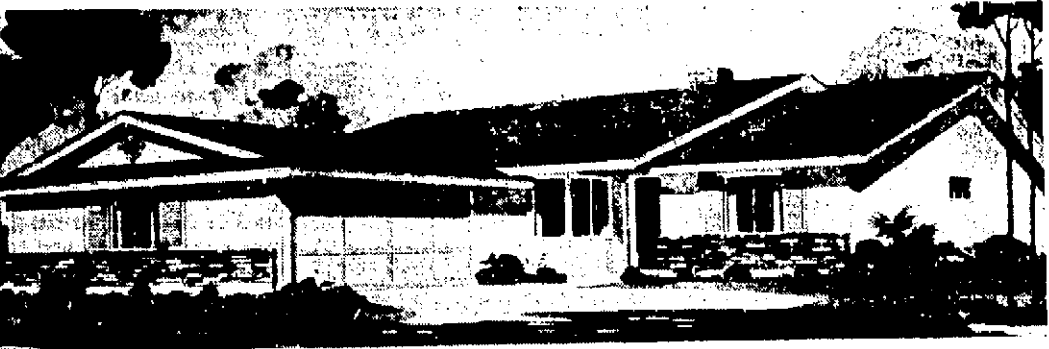

The apartment-homes will be available for sale later this year. Prices will range from $28,000 to $55,000. A limited number of these new units will be available for lease.

To Make Change on Missile Sites

NORTH HOLLYWOOD—A $2.3 million contract for modification of emplacement systems for the Air Force's Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile has been awarded Bendix Corp.

Bendix will modify some of the equipment and systems to accommodate the longer and heavier advanced Minuteman. The systems originally were designed for the first version of the missile.

College Park Home Sale Is Under Way

OFFERED IN COLLEGE PARK

This charming one-story home is typical of the three, four and five-bedroom models at the new College Park, where S & S Construction Co. announced 14 homes had been sold from floor plans and renderings in one weekend.

College Park, a new location of Garden Park homes near California State College, Long Beach, has been announced by a spokesman for S&S Construction Co., the builders.

The new College Park location is close to the beach and marina and offers a wealth of aquatic-activity possibilities.

"Sales of this new location are amazing," the spokesman said. "From floor plans and renderings alone, purchases have selected 14 new College Park homes in one weekend."

Five, four and three-bedroom models with two and three baths are offered in a wide choice of floor plans and exterior design.

MATCHING color of the built-in gas range, oven, hooded exhaust fan and dishwasher highlight the Balanced Power kitchens, and colored plumbing enhances the bathrooms. Family rooms and distinctive fireplaces are featured at College Park, the spokesman said.

Prices from $24,400 to $31,900 with low down payment and 30 and 35-year financing through FHA are available, and veterans pay only costs and impounds.

Purchasers may select the site of their desired homes from the maps in the sales center. S&S Construction Co. has built more than 15,000 fine homes in this area, and their identification mark on a house is the discerning buyer's assurance of quality, the spokesman added.

Visitors are invited to the College Park site by driving east on Seventh St. to Studebaker Road, then north to College Park Drive, and right to the models.

Park South Homes Centrally Located

The ease of everyday living is the keynote to the convenience-oriented design of the two-story, three and four-bedroom homes at Park South, a quiet, centrally-located community boasting freeway-close accessibility to both business areas and beaches.

At the intersection of 190th and Main Streets, Park South is just a few blocks from both the Harbor and San Diego freeways.

AMONG THE APPEALING homes to choose from at Park South is the three-bedroom residence offering full baths both upstairs and down. The master bedroom upstairs features plentiful wardrobes, a vanity alcove with large mirrors and a bath accented by cultured marble pullmans.

For the larger family, Park South offers a three-bedroom home with room to spread out upstairs in a "bonus room."

Offering the same quality kitchen features as in all Park South homes, the larger-family residence provides the pleasant extras of a separate dining room apart from a handy breakfast nook.

A UTILITY ROOM off the two-car garage is designed as a room for the washer and dryer.

The homes are priced from $24,500 with low down payment and terms available.

The development is best reached by taking the Harbor Freeway north to the 190th Street offramp, turning east on 190th (which becomes Victoria street) and proceeding to Main Street.

THE THREE have teamed up and are offering this western ranch area to others who care to share the pleasures of the Great outdoors.

Two-and-a-half acre parcels are being offered, Smith said, and W-Bar-B Ranch presents a wonderful opportunity for the weekend-rancher type. It is only a 2½-hour drive from Los Angeles, and is located 3500 feet up. The ranch is insured with mountain air and blessed with the splendors of four full seasons. Keeping of horses is allowed and the preservation of this historical area as a recreational locale is assured by reasonable building restrictions.

Further information may be obtained from Don Smith, W-Bar-B Ranch at 6314 Woodman, in Van Nuys.

ALERT INVESTORS BUYING NOW WITH EYE TO SECURITY TOMORROW

There's a new avenue of thinking these days. Wise people who are not ready for retirement right now are buying vacation homes which will later become their permanent, year 'round home when the time does come. Many are finding the ideal answer at Crystal-Aire Estates. The low down payment and monthly terms allow them to invest in a convertible second home now. Others, still employed in nearby communities, are taking advantage of the Crystal-Aire guaranteed trade-in program.

This plan guarantees the sale of their present home, releasing ready cash towards the immediate purchase of their new Crystal-Aire home, and other security investments.

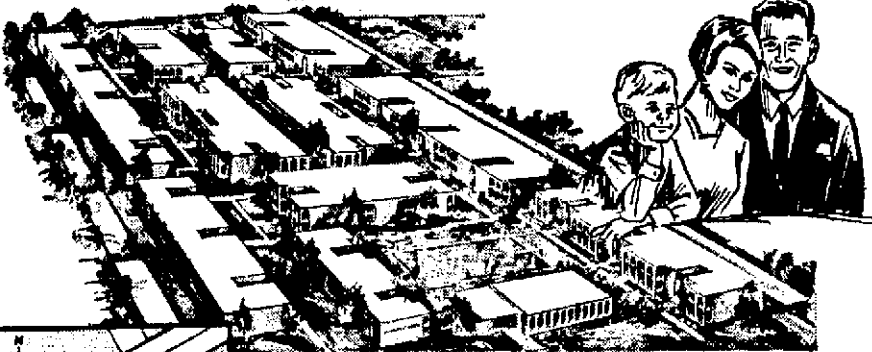

In this charming, prestige area, nestled in a country club atmosphere at the foot of Mt. San Jacinto, handsome two-bedroom, air-conditioned homes are specifically designed for adult care-free living. The individual homes, each with a private patio, adjoin the complete recreation center which is equipped with spacious clubhouse, swimming pool, shuffleboard, putting greens, horseshoe and croquet.

Crystal-Aire Estates is located between the city of Hemet and the famous Gilman Hot Springs and golf course. It is within convenient walking distance of shopping areas and churches. A short drive leads to mountain playgrounds, Palm Springs and other desert resort areas, where golf courses abound. The homes are priced at just $12,500 including a share in ownership of the recreation area. Monthly payments can be as low as $88, with a small monthly fee for maintenance. FHA and conventional terms available.

"We bought our home at Rossmoor Townhouses be- cause of the marvelous loca- tion with all that shopping just around the corner." This is one of the most fre- quent answers give by pur- chaser at the outstanding sub- community of homes adjacent to Rossmoor Center in a sur- vey just completed by Jay- marc Corp., developers of Rossmoor Townhouses.

Another popular advantage rated high on the list of Rossmoor Townhouse homeowners is the country club style of living with none of the usual exterior maintenance prob- lems, such as gardening, yard and pool work, exterior home painting, to worry about. Res- idents may choose one of three pools for swimming or play shuffleboard, enjoy the putting greens, lounge around the clubhouse or relax in the lovely atmosphere of their comfortable homes.

PRICED FROM $19,950, these mansion-type two, three, and four-bedroom homes are designed with luxury features to enhance this exciting new concept of living. Each home has an all-electric kitchen with built-in Americana oven and range, disposal, dishwasher, combination washer-dryer; two car garage; nylon wall- to-wall carpeting; private concrete patio; absolute privacy (no common walls).

HOW TO LIVE WELL ON A RETIREMENT BUDGET

The value of a dollar takes on new meaning when we retire. Rising costs . . . especially in housing . . . really cut into your monthly budget.

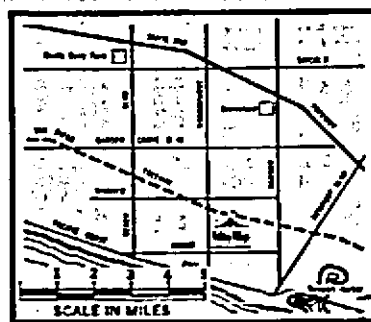

One way of beating these rising costs is to move to beautiful Holiday Village where you can have a spacious Garden Patio Home for as little as $89 a month . . . and that includes everything! What's everything? Well it includes a large swimming pool, shuffleboard, and even a recreation building where friendly neighbors gather for all sorts of social activity. It also includes a kitchen full of appliances — a washer and dryer — carpeting throughout. And you can forget your lawn mower . . . whether you're at home or away, all exterior maintenance and lawn care is done for you (covered by separate monthly payment).

If you'd like to save some of your housing dollars for other things and live in new comfort and convenience for as little as $89 a month, visit our model homes today. Bring this ad and receive free green stamps. Holiday Village Garden Patio Homes are located on Adams just east of Brookhurst in Huntington Beach . . . just 3 minutes from the ocean . . . walking distance to shopping. Models open 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

IBC 'fringe benefits

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
Women's News Director

Ticket investors are in for plenty of "fringe benefits" during the International Beauty Congress pageant in August.

Ninety-two of them, in fact!

Besides entertainment by TV movie-stage star Patricia Morison and the music of Lawrence Welk (during the Coronation Ball, Aug. 13), the 92 beauty contestants from as many states and countries will go swishing down the full-view ramp in honest-to-goodness swimsuits ... this time, with provocative fringe.

"No curve-covering playsuits this year," says IBC executive producer Wayne Dailard, who, since taking over the IBC production (this is his third go-around), has pulled all the strings necessary to gain swimsuit acceptance from the "modest" countries who, in years past, had insisted their contestants wear playsuits.

He used the sly approach to outwit (and outfit) the shy types. First year here, Dailard and committee selected a gingham playsuit ... then had it made up in knit swimsuit fabric to insure "that certain fit."

That broke the barrier. The knit was a hit with contestants—even Panama and Columbia, the one-time dissenters, shaped up. Last year, contestants showed off their 37-24-36 dimensions (give or take a little) in curve-revealing swimsuits.

ABOUT THIS year's suit, previewed for the first time on this page: "It's the best fitting suit I've ever seen," says man-behind-the-scenery Wayne Dailard. "It's not only fitting—it's proper."

"Only plunge is at the back ... and it's quite a plunge. But the suit is in good taste ... we'll always see to that."

Designer of this year's "Fringe Benefit" (that's the name she gives the suit) is the California fashion world's queen of action-swimwear-with-sex-appeal, Mary Ann DeWeese.

"I'm truly thrilled to be working on a Long Beach project once again."

It was she who designed the gold glamour swimsuits with action straps worn by contestants in Long Beach's International Water Ski Championships three years ago. She also designs most of the competition suits worn by Long Beach's gal ski champ, Vicki Van Hook.

A stunning woman with fantastic vitality, Mary Ann DeWeese heads (also does the designing for) her company—one of the few privately owned swimwear firms in the nation.

She's president, owner, designer, worker, wife, mother, sportswoman, hostess extraordinary ... and she cuts quite a figure in the swimsuit business.

Betty Friedan

By ELISE EMERY

Women are not free and equal human beings and it's their own fault, Betty Friedan charged recently at Long Beach City College.

The controversial speaker and author of "The Feminine Mystique" spoke at a morning lecture, "The Sexual Sell," an afternoon panel in the student lounge and after a tour of the Child Development Center.

Legally, the rights exist, she said, but women are dissuaded from using them for fear of not living up to the feminine image.

"But this image is one created by television and women's magazines in which woman's traditional world is home, kitchen and bedroom and perhaps a little community work.

"Television commercials present a degrading, dehumanizing picture of woman as a dreary, mindless household drudge whose first goal is to keep her skin white, but she can't even pick the right cleaner without the help of an elderly man. Her second purpose in life is to keep her hands soft and white. Basis of the commercials is that you can sell a woman anything if it promises to make her sexually attractive.

"They appeal to women's obsession with staying young, their wish to remain 16—or not more than 20 —at the time of their greatest sexual triumph when they were married."

Even fashion designers are making clothes that give a woman the look of a child—skirts inches above the knees and no bosoms. The common plot in women's magazines, Mrs. Friedan said, concerns a heroine never more than 25 who solves every crisis by having another baby.

"Girls think it's perfectly all right to leave school to work to put their husbands through college. They settle for that phoney, ridiculous 'degree,' PHT—Putting Husband Through.

"BUT SOMEHOW, in spite of their image of femininity, they feel a vague discontent which they fill by spending hours in beauty shops trying to stay 17 forever."

Mothers pass the image on to little girls, the dynamic, strongly-opinioned speaker said.

"They encourage dancing and dating when children are in the fifth grade and put bras on their daughters before there is anything to put in them. And the girls grow into their teens with a compulsion to get married and a blank, a lack of image of how to move on from there."

Little boys, Mrs. Friedan said, are asked "What do you want to be when you grow up?" They answer first cowboy, then later doctor, lawyer, astronaut.

"WE USUALLY don't even ask little girls—just tell them what a pretty dress they're wearing. If we do ask they say, 'I want to be a mommy like my mommy.' They should be thinking of the whole great world ahead, just as the boys are."

The solution?

Women must add to the three dimensional image of marriage, motherhood and housekeeping, a fourth dimension that stretches beyond the home.

"They must begin to take part in the human story, to move beyond the mere biological role of race perpetuation. Motherhood should not be separate from life but one minor part of life. Why not want to be whatever in the world there is, to make full use of your own unique abilities, and be a mother, too?"

"Women should have a new image of themselves and get a sense of being actors and leaders in our society, in the new fields of science and in the professions.

"Millions of women are taking too many aspirin, lying too many hours on an analyst's couch, suffering

WILD WAVES SAY

By act of congress(men)--capital!

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

IT WAS SIMPLY capital in the capital for vivacious Ann (Mrs. John) Bowler of Long Beach, Republican National committee woman. If you don't think so, let your eyes drift to the right.

Ann went to Washington, D.C., for the 13th annual Republican Women's Conference (returned yesterday). While there, she was honored at a luncheon by the California Congressional delegation, hosted by Congressman Craig Hosmer (32nd District) of Long Beach, seated at Ann's left.

"SPIRITED" welcome was given new provisionals of Children's Benefit League and their husbands when they were guests of Dell and Ray Hosier (Dell is neophyte's chairman) and Anita and Ray Frankel (she is co-chairman) at Frankel's home.

Honorees and spouses present were Dorothy and George Baumgardner, Gayle and G. P. Brandon, Jerri and Paul Curtis, Naomi and Ted Forsyth, Frances and John LaFleur, May and Ted Leach, Jan and John Leland, June and Lloyd Parker and Sharon Ann and Bill Zastrow.

One thing's for sure! CBL plans to field a big, winning team in all philanthropic games this year.

THRILL OF an ocean voyage, long vacation, was just beginning for Renate Olawski, when picture (below) was made aboard TS Bremen before sailing from New York Harbor.

Renate is off on a six-month tour of Europe which will include a visit with relatives in Braunschweig, Germany.

What gal wouldn't smile as guest of honor AND center of attention of 11 congressmen? Ann Bowler did.

included Dr. and Mrs. Seeley Mudd, the William Maloufs, the Gene Autrys and the Bob Reynolds—who are down there with their haloed friends, the Angels.

A CERTAIN GENT by name of Bill Gillis will be embarrassed that I mention this. But, so help me, his wife, Shirley, still has their Christmas tree up.

"For crying out loud, why?" asks me of her. Well, as woman-to-woman she made sense. But as Shirley-to-Bill, un uh. She was having a bridal shower in January and the flocked, graceful tree (neatly out of way in a corner, incidentally) was, she felt, perfect to decorate with bridal type stuff. One affair led to another—the tree always lending itself to a change of decor for the occasion.

Now she's saying it for Easter; will festoon it with bright baskets, eggs and then maybe it will be disposed of. However, there's still May Day, and Fourth of July, Labor Day—and, hey, Christmas is coming!

PRIDE IS A mother called Helen Franco—and no wonder. Daughter, Lynn (a junior at UCLA) was selected as one of six girls out of 3,000 applicants from all UC campuses to go on "Project India" and study there this summer. Eight boys were selected, in the U.S. State Dept. and university project. Students on junket will represent U.S. as collegian ambassadors of good will, touring universities and visiting civic groups. And they'll talk, talk, talk everywhere they go in the interest of Uncle Sam.

LONG BEACH Mounted Police Auxiliary has a race treat in store. They'll be guests of Mildred and Grace Vessels at the Los Alamitos Race Track Thursday (the gals' regular meetin' day). They'll keep business to a minimum—pleasure to a maximum having luncheon in the clubhouse. After this, and they are all pari-mutually agreed on it, they'll win every race. President Marvella McNulty promised them!

CELEBRATING "their" 27th wedding anniversary were Baba and Bill Graham and Pat and "Van" Van de Water. Baba and Bill, Pat and "Van" were married just one day apart, with Pat serving as Baba's maid of honor and next day, she was Pat's matron of honor. To note glad date they gathered at Mickey and John McWhinney's for cocktails and then dined in style at Karim's.

THROUGH Thursday's murky, rainy skies, Dorothy and "Mac" Thompson flew up in sunshine and away for a warm weather vacation in the colorful Caribbean. Montego Bay, Jamaica, San Juan in Puerto Rico, St. Thomas and Miami. Only be gone 12 days, but they should be rich with travel gaiety. Before they departed Grace Cooney gave them such a swinging farewell party... Dorothy said she felt as though the trip would be anti-climactic!

HAPPY NEWS this spring will bring travel results in the fall. Julian Engle (Randolph and Nell's son) will go to Madrid, with wife, Louise, on a Full-bright scholarship. "Julie" will pursue studies on his PhD in romance languages. He received his BA and MA in Spanish and Portuguese from UCLA; now teaches and studies at UC Berkeley.

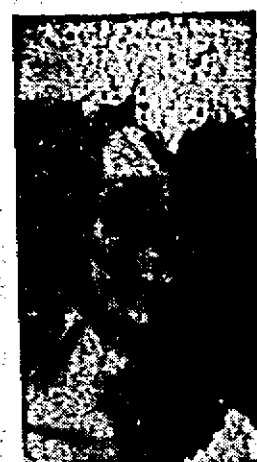

SCADS OF June and Jim Doherty's friends are spending this weekend—or will spend one of the next two of same—in the high desert country to see Jim play in "A Man Called Peter." When the three weekend run opened at Joshua Tree Friday, it marked Jim's 200th performance of the title role.

Easter weekend the show will be given in 29 Palms and the following in Desert Hot Springs. Martha Knowles is only other Long Beach cast member and she also played her 200th performance Friday.

Among localities planning to see one or more of the benefit performances are Lillian and Ed Hyka, Marilyn and Lloyd White, Millie and Maurie Bugbee, Darlene and Fred Capouch, Kay and Otto Slaton.

Martha and husband, Barney, will vacation in the desert between shows and June and her teenagers, Cam and Rob, will be houseguests of Doris Peters in Joshua Tree for spring vacation.

Incidentally, June and Jim coronated the Turtle Queen last weekend and will be special guests at the famous Joshua Tree Turtle Races May 1-2.

WED THIS WEEKEND

Couples honeymoon in Hawaii, Yosemite

Fierce-Erwin

In a gown of imported Italian silk with bouffant chapel train, Martha E. Erwin repeated nuptial vows with Charles H. Fierce III Friday evening in Lakewood Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Francis C. Erwin, 74 W. Pleasant St., and the late Mr. Erwin. Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Jane Allgood of Tacoma, Wash., and Charles H. Fierce II, Indianapolis.

MARY ERWIN, sister of the bride, was maid of honor with Karen Taylor, Mrs. Frank Berry and Mrs. Duncan McIntosh as attendants. Jerry Bloeser was best man with John Flanagan, Duncan McIntosh and Dick Roletta seating guests. Donna Rondon, flower girl, and Ronald Frier, ring bearer, completed the bridal party.

The bride, a graduate of Jordan High School, is now teaching in Westminster. She and her husband both were graduated from Long Beach State College, where she was a member of Alpha Phi. The groom, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, is now teaching in Los Alamitos.

Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, the newlyweds will reside in Seal Beach.

Riley-Capen

Now honeymooning in Yosemite, Sequoia and Las Vegas are newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Riley.

The couple (she's the former Pennie Lou Capen) exchanged vows Saturday in Wayfarers' Chapel, Portuguese Bend.

For the ceremony, the bride chose a gown of white ruffled organza and taffeta. Attending her were Mrs. Shirley Bear, her sister, matron of honor, Roberta Stansbury, the groom's twin sister, and Jean Weeden, bridesmaid. Tammy Sutherland was flower girl.

Other members of the wedding party included Richard Walter Albright, best man, and Monte L. Collins, the groom's brother, and William Reidy, ushers.

Both the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Capen, Westminster, and the groom, son of the William H. Rileys, Long Beach, were graduated from Poly High School.

She teaches for Los Alamitos School District and is an alumna of LBSC. He was graduated from City College and attends LBSC.

Upon return from their honeymoon, they will make their home in Long Beach.

For Ages 7 to 11 YW offers summer fun

"Register now for summer fun at the YWCA," says Mrs. Ronald Neuman, director of physical education and recreation at the Long Beach Young Women's Christian Association.

Sign-up begins Monday for the popular "Tiny Teens" class instructional program to be offered in July and August.

Girls from 7 to 11 may choose four classes from the following: swimming, baton, crafts, drill team, glee club, modern dance, tumbling and news reporter.

PWP to hear Synanon reps

Two members of Synanon, 59th St. foundation for the rehabilitation of dope addicts, will be guest speakers Friday at a meeting of Parents Without Partners, Inc., at American Legion Hall, 1215 E. Compton. Composed of parents rearing children alone, PWP invites interested individuals to hear this program on adoption, in light of rising percentage of teenage addiction.

President Marvella McNulty promised them!

CELEBRATING "their" 27th wedding anniversary were Baba and Bill Graham and Pat and "Van" Van de Water. Baba and Bill, Pat and "Van" were married just one day apart, with Pat serving as Baba's maid of honor and next day, she was Pat's matron of honor. To note glad date they gathered at Mickey and John McWhinney's for cocktails and then dined in style at Karim's.

THROUGH Thursday's murky, rainy skies, Dorothy and "Mac" Thompson flew up in sunshine and away for a warm weather vacation in the colorful Caribbean. Montego Bay, Jamaica, San Juan in Puerto Rico, St. Thomas and Miami. Only be gone 12 days, but they should be rich with travel gaiety. Before they departed Grace Cooney gave them such a swinging farewell party... Dorothy said she felt as though the trip would be anti-climatic!

HAPPY NEWS this spring will bring travel results in the fall. Julian Engle (Randolph and Nell's son) will go to Madrid, with wife, Louise, on a Full-bright scholarship. "Julie" will pursue studies on his PhD in romance languages. He received his BA and MA in Spanish and Portuguese from UCLA; now teaches and studies at UC Berkeley.

SCADS OF June and Jim Doherty's friends are spending this weekend—or will spend one of the next two of same—in the high desert country to see Jim play in "A Man Called Peter." When the three week-end run opened at Joshua Tree Friday, it marked Jim's 200th performance of the title role.

Easter weekend the show will be given in 29 Palms and the following in Desert Hot Springs. Martha Knowles is only other Long Beach cast member and she also played her 200th performance Friday.

Among localities planning to see one or more of the benefit performances are Lillian and Ed Hyka, Marilyn and Lloyd White, Millie and Maurie Bugbee, Darlene and Fred Capouch, Kay and Ohio Slaton.

Martha and husband, Barney, will vacation in the desert between shows and June and her teenagers, Cam and Rob, will be houseguests of Doris Peters in Joshua Tree for spring vacation.

Incidentally, June and Jim coronated the Turtle Queen last weekend and will be special guests at the famous Joshua Tree Turtle Races May 1-2.

WED THIS WEEKEND

Couples honeymoon in Hawaii, Yosemite

Fierce-Erwin

In a gown of imported Italian silk with bouffant chapel train, Martha E. Erwin repeated nuptial vows with Charles H. Fierce III Friday evening in Lakewood Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Francis C. Erwin, 74 W. Pleasant St., and the late Mr. Erwin. Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Jane Allgood of Tacoma, Wash., and Charles H. Fierce II, Indianapolis.

MARY ERWIN, sister of the bride, was maid of honor with Karen Taylor, Mrs. Frank Berry and Mrs. Duncan McIntosh as attendants. Jerry Bloeser was best man with John Flanagan, Duncan McIntosh and Dick Roletta seating guests. Donna Rondon, flower girl, and Ronald Frier, ring bearer, completed the bridal party.

The bride, a graduate of Jordan High School, is now teaching in Westminster. She and her husband both were graduated from Long Beach State College, where she was a member of Alpha Phi. The groom, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, is now teaching in Los Alamitos.

Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, the newlyweds will reside in Seal Beach.

Riley-Capen

Now honeymooning in Yosemite, Sequoia and Las Vegas are newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Riley.

The couple (she's the former Pennie Lou Capen) exchanged vows Saturday in Wayfarers' Chapel, Portu-guese Bend.

For the ceremony, the bride chose a gown of white ruffled organza and taffeta. Attending her were Mrs. Shirley Bear, her sister, matron of honor, Roberta Stansbury, the groom's twin sister, and Jean Weeden, bridesmaid. Tammy Sutherland was flower girl.

Other members of the wedding party included Richard Walter Albright, best man, and Monte L. Collins, the groom's brother, and William Reidy, ushers.

Both the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Capen, Westminster, and the groom, son of the William H. Rileys, Long Beach, were graduated from Poly High School.

She teaches for Los Alamitos School District and is an alumna of LBSC. He was graduated from City College and attends LBSC.

Upon return from their honeymoon, they will make their home in Long Beach.

FOR LEAGUE PROVISIONALS...

Getting-to-know-you week

1—Strawberry season, too!

It has been a week of getting-to-know-you coffee hours and tea parties for new provisionals of Assistance League and of its auxiliary, Las Hermanas.

Highlight of the week was a tea at League House honoring the newcomers. Subsequently, they were entertained at an informal coffee hour at the home of Mrs. William Gillis, 243 Rivo Alto Canal. (Photos of new provisionals accompanying this article were taken during the coffee hour.)

Provisionals introduced to the league at the tea were Mmes. Earl Beauchamp, B. Earle Brickley, Eugene Cahill, Bob Driscoll, Roger S. Enders, John W. Faris Jr., Edwin Harvey, Harry Landis, Harrison E. Moore, Jack Redie, Jack P. Weber and Lloyd Whaley. Welcomed into Las Hermanas was Mrs. Earl B. Milton.

Also honored were Mmes. John Brennan, Norman Jacques, C. Robert Langslet, Leslie E. Weed and Edward W. Beaubier, formerly Rick Rackers who have now gone into Assistance League membership.

GREETING GUESTS were Mmes. Melvin Campbell, founder of the Long Beach league; James V. Keipp, president; John Brooks, president nominee. Also Mrs. David Tallichet, chairman of Rick Racker Auxiliary to league, and Mrs. Emory Turner, chairman of Las Hermanas.

Others in the receiving line were Mrs. William Nesbitt, league vice-president in charge of provisionals, and Mrs. Harry Forman, Las Hermanas vice-chairman in charge of provisionals.

Hostesses at the tea table were league life members Mmes. Gordon Dougherty, Ray Underwood, William Clemo and H. Milton Van Dyke, also a charter member; Las Hermanas past chairmen Mmes. James Baker and William Crail; and league past presidents Mmes. Don Murphy, Mark Kuffel and Gus Walker, also a charter member.

Now, with their week of parties past, provisionals will go to work in earnest on their year of training. This includes participation in the Community Volunteer Office tour of Long Beach and placement in such volunteer league activities as the league-maintained Thrift Shop, its Girls' Clubs and the League House operation.

Provisionals "on camera"

Hunt-Atwater nuptials

St. Timothy Lutheran Church was setting for the marriage of Brent Hunt and Ellen Jo Atwater, Saturday during a 2 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Atwater; the bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hunt, all of Lakewood.

For her wedding vows the bride wore a floor-length gown of white organza and Venetian lace, styled with chapel train. Judi Hedrick was maid of honor; bridesmaids were Mary Ann Atwater, sister of the bride, Jackie Kurtz and Rebecca Atwater.

Ben Hunt was his brother's best man. Ushering 200 guests were James Hunt, another brother, Larry Gentile and Richard Atwater.

The newlyweds both are graduates of Lakewood High. Following a honeymoon in Palm Springs, they will make their home in Bellflower.

'James M. Hotchkiss and Mary J. Robinson wed

St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Altadena, was setting for the April 10 marriage of Mary Josephine Robinson and James Merle Hotchkiss. Rev. Patrick A. Tomter, the bride's brother-in-law, officiated.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd A. Robinson, Long Beach, wore her maternal grandmother's wedding gown—a 60-year-old dress of imported Swiss organdy and Belgium lace, made in Gibson girl style by her great-great aunt.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Patrick Tomter, her sister, matron of honor, and Janice Harrison and Mrs. Theodore Merrel, the groom's sister, bridesmaids.

Mrs. James Merle Hotchkiss studied for a year at the University of Vienna.

Her husband, an alumnus of the University of Wichita, Kan., presently is working on his Ph.D. at USC. He is majoring in special education.

Following a honeymoon in Santa Barbara, the newlyweds will make their home in Los Angeles.

THE GROOM, son of Mrs. Hubert Hotchkiss, Yates Center, Kan., and the late Mr. Hotchkiss, chose William Hotchkiss, his brother, as best man. Harold Gilliland and Rex Penegam were ushers.

The new Mrs. Hotchkiss, a graduate student at Cal State, Long Beach, was graduated from Poly High School and Mills College and

DO-IT YOURSELF

Recipe for a kitchen

By MARY NETH
Home Furnishings Editor

Mrs. George D. Johnson (mother of two) can't stay out of her kitchen. And no wonder. It's gone from gloom to glamor. It's been transformed from a cut-up cavern to a sleek studio—where family cooking's no longer drudgery, but creativity.

Like most young couples, the Johnsons put great stock in the 20th century efficiency—they also prize privacy, individuality.

Their large old home, an eight-room California bungalow, vintage 1907) offers plenty of the latter, but until recently was sadly lacking in streamlined workability.

After seven years of coping with an outdated kitchen—too little storage space; poorly designed cabinets; ugly, hard-to-keep-up work space—Mrs. Johnson pronounced she'd had enough.

SHE AND HER husband (a city engineer) went shopping for a shiny, new home. But they didn't like what they saw. They were repelled by "the stark barren look of the too new neighborhoods, the pinched in feeling of small tract lots."

They decided to remodel. First on the agenda: the kitchen, of course.

The Johnsons, pleased with the transformation (mostly wrought by dint of their own doing), now will tackle the rest of the home—room by room. "Done that way the job seems somewhat less formidable," they say.

When they finish, they'll have a charming, rambling old house with all the conveniences of a modern home.

A perfect place, they feel, for their children, now four and six, to spend their childhood.

HOW THEY DID IT

Remodeling and modernizing of archaic kitchen turned out to be simpler than Johnsons expected. They were able to redo room without major structure changes; found they could handle most of the work themselves.

First, walls and ceiling were stripped to frame. Then Johnson, who kept sharp eye out for materials he could work with on own, stapled in acoustical plastic ceiling.

The new sink was raised four inches; birch cabinets were built in; modern electric appliances (including a dishwasher and wall oven) were juggled to create better traffic pattern.

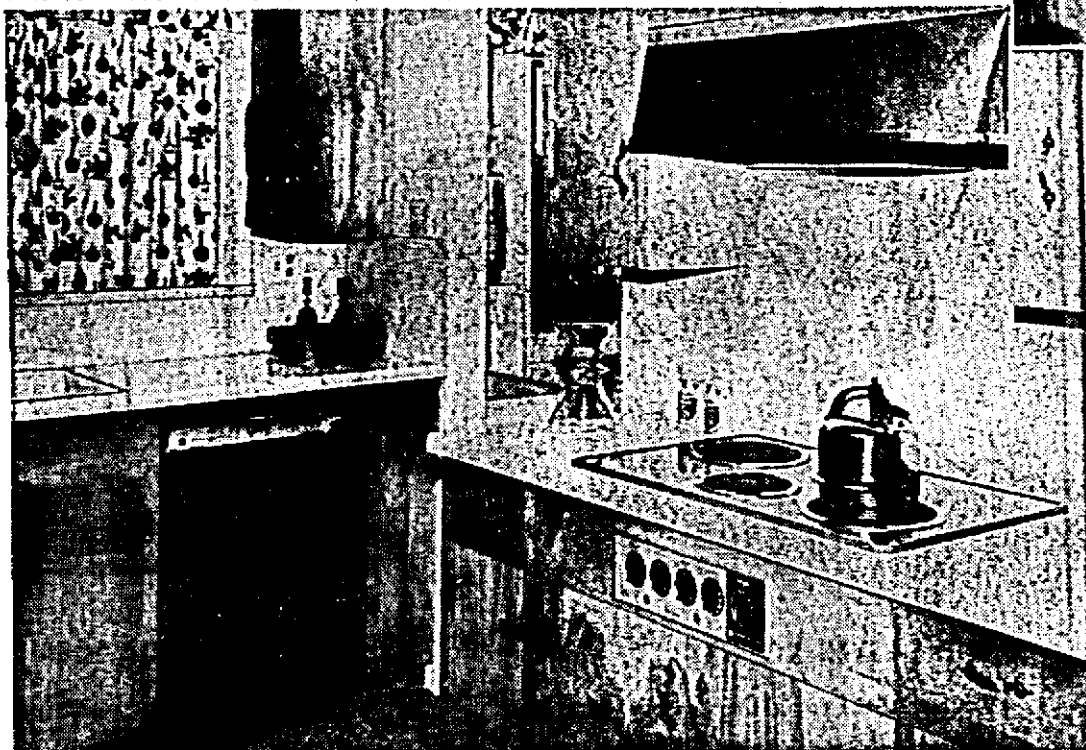

An awkwardly placed old broom closet was transformed into a useful pantry. The refrigerator was installed on platform—for easier cleaning—and cupboards were placed and designed for maximum efficiency—underneath the sink, revolving shelves; under work counter, file drawers for pots, pans, silverware.

As a final touch, unique below-cabinet lighting includes row of easily accessible outlets for small appliances.

Handsome built-in birch cabinet, above, replaces ugly old dish and chair, right. Besides providing needed dish storage it serves additional purposes: pull-out leaves make into snack tables for children; mother uses counter-top as kitchen telephone desk. Other, unseen changes: adjoining laundry area, now contains child center; small sink for back yard to house cleanups, paper cup disposer, clothes rack.

Mrs. Terhufen, a past president of Emblem Club 106, has held numerous offices in Women's City Club and was formerly a professional musician. She was featured vocalist with Madge-King Johnson's touring operatic company of South Dakota.

Mrs. Tyrone Richardson will be installing officer.

Ladies of the Elks meet twice monthly for card socials and feature a major charity event each October.

Arthur Outerbridge, South Gate, are parents of the groom.

Gowned in a wedding dress trimmed with chantilly lace, sequins and seed pearls, the bride was preceded by her sister, Connie Eien, as maid of honor, Judith Eien, her cousin, as bridesmaid. The groom chose Kieth Voettner as best man.

Following a trip to Palm Springs, the couple will reside in Lakewood.

Ferrell-Capen

St. Johns Presbyterian Church was the setting Saturday for the marriage of Judith A. Capen and John A. Ferrell.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Capen, 4350 Patero Way, wore a lace gown with illusion veil. Barbara Capen attended her sister as maid of honor; Sandra Hallamore and Beverly Waite were bridesmaids.

Daniel Ferrell, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Lynn Ferrell and John Windes seated the 200 guests.

The new Mrs. Ferrell was graduated from Millikan High and attended Long Beach State College. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ferrell, Long Beach, is an alumnus of Jordan High and Long Beach City College.

Following a honeymoon in Northern California, the newlyweds will make their home in Long Beach.

Wears bangs, too—but isn't noisy

Editor's note—Everyone knows Ringo Starr, the mop-headed Beatle who bangs the drum, but practically nobody knows Mrs. Richard Starkey. But in changing her name to "Mrs. Ringo," 18-year-old Maureen Cox entered the world of musical royalty. It has left her just about speechless, and that's the way she like it.

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — The 18-year-old wife of Ringo Starr — one of the world's best-known bridegrooms—is one of the world's least-known brides.

Maureen Cox, or Mrs. Ringo, is a small, shy girl of few words.

Since her Feb. 11th wedding to the Beatles' off-beat drummer, her public utterances have been about as rare as signatures of Button Gwinnett, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Maureen will not grant interviews.

"She doesn't want to get mixed up with publicity," said a spokesman for the mop-headed musicians, "and Ringo doesn't want her to, either."

A SEARCH of the records indicates that Mrs. Ringo (real married name Mrs. Richard Starkey) has spoken only a few sentences in public, all in answer to reporters' questions.

Her declarations were made in the flowerless backyard of a seaside villa in Hove on the English Channel, where she and her husband agreed to meet the press on the second day of their three-day honeymoon.

Even as she spoke, she nervously clutched her 24-year-old husband's hand.

Here's the record:

Question: "Has Ringo changed since you met him three years ago?"

Answer: "No."

Q: "Have you missed Ringo when he's gone away on tours?"

A: "He went away but he always came back to me."

Q: "Do you agree with marriage?"

A: "Yes."

Q: "Do you expect to have children?"

A: "Yes."

Q: "How many?"

No answer, but Ringo said: "Maureen hasn't made up her mind."

Q: "Are you enjoying your honeymoon?"

A: "Yes, but I don't like the publicity."

Q: "Can you cook?"

A: "No." But Ringo said, "She's not bad. She's learning."

Q: "Where did you meet Ringo?"

A: (very softly) "I can't remember."

EARLIER in the news conference, Ringo had said they met at Liverpool's Cavern Club where the Beatles got started three years ago.

Q: "Where are you and Ringo going to live?"

A: "I'm not really fussy where I live—providing it's with Ringo."

Q: "How does it feel to be married to a man that millions of girls all over the world would like to marry?"

No answer.

BORN MARY COX in Liverpool, she began calling herself Maureen shortly before she met Ringo.

By trade she was what the British call a hair-dresser—a girl who works in a beauty parlor.

Maureen looks a lot like a Beatle herself.

She has as much hair as Ringo, Paul McCartney, George Harrison or John Lennon. Like the Beatles, Maureen wears bangs that flop downward almost to her eye lashes. She wears her ears exposed, as do the Beatles. Shapely in the right places, she's about two and a half inches shorter than Ringo and he stands about 5 feet 7. Her education is not extensive, for she stopped school at the age of 15. That's when she met Ringo.

Maureen says she doesn't remember where Ringo proposed, but he said it was in London's Ad Lib Club, about 2 o'clock one chilly January morning. They will soon move into an apartment on London's fashionable and expensive Montagu Square.

WILL RINGO'S marriage affect the Beatles? The Beatles don't think so. John Lennon, who is, perhaps, the most articulate of the musicians said:

"You're bound to lose a few fans—the ones who believe that one day they might marry you." John is the other married Beatle. His wife is Cynthia and he keeps her out of the limelight.

"I don't think it'll really affect our popularity," Lennon went on. "There might be a re-shuffling of fans from one Beatle to another—at least that's what happened when I got married, but now they seem to carry on as if I'm not married."

Said George Harrison:

"I'm delighted they're married. Maureen's a nice girl and Ringo's a good bloke, but I realize the news of the marriage must be shattering for pop fans around the world."

"I suppose a lot of kids around the age of 13 or 14 might have thought to themselves—I stand a chance of getting Ringo."

"Some of them will probably start saying, 'Oh, well, I always did like Paul best anyway.'"

The Ringos come from the same backgrounds — modest, respectable working class residential sections of Liverpool.

On his marriage certificate, Ringo listed his father's profession as "confectioner." Maureen's dad was put down as "ship's steward."

For his own profession, Ringo said "musician." Maureen left hers blank.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

'Experience' can be costly!

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am very much in love with a Navy boy but we had a fight about my being a virgin. He thinks a girl should "have some experience" before getting married. I am just past 16 and never knew a lot of boys, so I deided to go out more and see what he meant by "experience." It never occurred to me I might get pregnant.

What do I do now? My boy friend won't marry me because the baby isn't his; the other guy won't because he thinks I'm a "run around."

DEEP TROUBLE

I just can't work up any sympathy for a girl who deliberately goes out and gets herself in trouble—no matter what the reason. And, I don't blame either guy for not wanting you now.

I can only suggest you tell your parents what has happened and let them help you.

M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Several couples have formed a little supper club and we take turns entertaining and going to a show.

One couple we enjoy very much but the one experience of eating in their home was enough. They have dogs and cats everywhere. The cats walk around on the counter tops, sniffing at the food, hair all over the furniture. We had to have our clothes cleaned before wearing them again.

Although we like these people, none of us can bring ourselves to eat in their home again. Their turn comes up very soon. If you can possibly help us, please do it soon.

EIGHT OF US

DEAR EIGHT:

I don't know how good you are at telling a little lie, but you might try, anyway. You don't want to hurt your friends but you don't want to dine there, sooooo, why not say that you and maybe another of the eight are highly allergic to cats or dogs, and/or both, and that your group has decided it would be better to let them off the hook dinnerwise, and you'll take their turn?

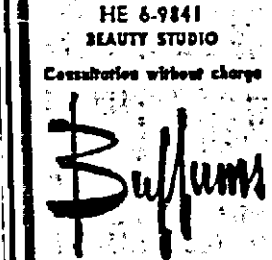

After all, this is an innocent little fib, ever so white, and much better than hurting their feelings.

Wears bangs, too--but isn't noisy

Editor's note—Everyone knows Ringo Starr, the mop-headed Beatle who bangs the drum, but practically nobody knows Mrs. Richard Starkey. But in changing her name to "Mrs. Ringo," 18-year-old Maureen Cox entered the world of musical royalty. It has left her just about speechless, and that's the way she like it.

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — The 18-year-old wife of Ringo Starr — one of the world's best-known bridegrooms—is one of the world's least-known brides.

Maureen Cox, or Mrs. Ringo, is a small, shy girl of few words.

Since her Feb. 11th wedding to the Beatles' off-beat drummer, her public utterances have been about as rare as signatures of Button Gwinnett, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Maureen will not grant interviews. "She doesn't want to get mixed up with publicity," said a spokesman for the mop-headed musicians, "and Ringo doesn't want her to, either."

A SEARCH of the records indicates that Mrs. Ringo (real married name Mrs. Richard Starkey) has spoken only a few sentences in public, all in answer to reporters' questions.

Her declarations were made in the flowerless backyard of a seaside villa in Hove on the English Channel, where she and her husband agreed to meet the press on the second day of their three-day honeymoon.

Even as she spoke, she nervously clutched her 24-year-old husband's hand.

Here's the record:

Question: "Has Ringo changed since you met him three years ago?"

Answer: "No."

Q: "Have you missed Ringo when he's gone away on tours?"

A: "He went away but he always came back to me."

Q: "Do you agree with marriage?"

A: "Yes."

Q: "Do you expect to have children?"

A: "Yes."

Q: "How many?"

No answer, but Ringo said: "Maureen hasn't made up her mind."

Q: "Are you enjoying your honeymoon?"

A: "Yes, but I don't like the publicity."

Q: "Can you cook?"

A: "No." But Ringo said, "She's not bad. She's learning."

Q: Where did you meet Ringo?"

A: (very softly) "I can't remember."

EARLIER in the news conference, Ringo had said they met at Liverpool's Cavern Club where the Beatles got started three years ago.

Q: "Where are you and Ringo going to live?"

A: "I'm not really fussy where I live—providing it's with Ringo."

Q: "How does it feel to be married to a man that millions of girls all over the world would like to marry?"

No answer.

HOW TO GET MARRIED

Type of wedding sets style for bride, et al

(Second in a series.)
By JUDY HAZLETT
U.P.T. Staff Writer

Your wedding is only three months away... my, how time flies! It seems like only yesterday that your engagement was announced and now it's almost time for the biggest day in your life. There are many important decisions to be made as soon as possible if your wedding is to run smoothly. The first big decision is what type of wedding will be preferable. There are many to choose from, but keep in mind the size of your budget, size of the two families and the number of guests you'll want to include.

The types of weddings may be divided into three categories: formal, semi-formal and informal.

To help you make a decision, here are the features of each type:

FORMAL WEDDINGS... formal attire for all members of the wedding party with 4 to 12 bridal attendants, ring bearer and flower girl if desired plus a best man and one usher for every 50 guests. The ceremony should be at a fashionable hour and may be held in church, hotel, club or garden with canopy, carpet, pew ribbons and door man.

Engraved invitations and announcements are a must, as are handsome and lavish flowers for decorations. The catered reception may be held at home, in the garden or in a hotel and, if outdoors, don't forget a lawn marquee.

Music at the reception will probably include a band and space for dancing.

The formal receiving line will include an announcer. The bridal table will be provided along with a table for the parents at a sit-down or semi-buffet meal of three courses with champagne.

For a formal wedding, the budget must be generous.

SEMI-FORMAL weddings... semi-formal attire for all members of the wedding party.

You will usually find one to four bridal attendants including the ringbearer and flower girl.

Other differences from the ultra-formal: number of guests, which is usually 75 to 100; dancing not required at the reception, a light menu for the reception or cocktail party, and the ceremony may be scheduled for any time of day or evening that is convenient.

INFORMAL WEDDING... the requirements are somewhat different for the smaller ceremony with only informal attire required.

One or two bridal attendants may be preferred; i.e., maid of honor and flower girl.

You have more of a choice as to place: church, chapel, home, club, hotel, garden, church parlor, city hall, county clerk's office or slipboard. Your invitations may be handwritten to the 50-75 guests on your list. The flower arrangements may be modest and no reception is required. If you decide on a reception, tea or cocktail party, wedding cake may be served with only a beverage (except tea, coffee or water).

NOW THAT you know what type of wedding ceremony you will have, consider the time.

You will make your own rules and set your own time if you are having an informal wedding, but there are several things to remember.

If you live in an area where there is extreme heat during the spring or summer months, you may want an evening wedding, usually set from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Or, you may favor a morning ceremony with noon or 12:30 p.m. favorable for most Protestant weddings. If you are Catholic, some fashionable ceremonies are planned with a Nuptial High Mass at noon. If you want Low Mass celebrated, 10 a.m. is a timely hour.

IF YOU PLAN to follow the services with a simple tea-time reception, 3:30 p.m. is a preferable hour.

The date of your marriage will be influenced by personal convenience. Although many people think June is one of the most favorable months, statistics show that April, May and October are also becoming popular.

Another point to consider is your honeymoon. If you plan to travel to a certain destination, consider the season and the weather. For instance, if you and your fiancé are fond of skiing and want a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe, you wouldn't want to plan a wedding in August when the ski slopes are covered with summer flowers.

As soon as the date and time have been chosen, contact your clergyman to confirm availability of church or synagogue.

CHOOSING attendants is next on the agenda for both yourself and the groom-to-be.

The maid or matron of honor, bridesmaids, best man and ushers should be first on your list with taper lighters, ring bearers, flower girls and junior bridesmaids depending on family preference and budget.

Preliminary plans now under way, you can begin with the invitation list. Consult both families and, remember, invitations must be mailed three weeks in advance.

Relax for a few days now until time to order the invitations and announcements. You have a wedding gown to choose before long, so be thinking of the style that is appropriate for your ceremony.

IN QUESTION

Dear Miss Hazlett:

I have been asked to be maid of honor at my cousin's wedding this June and I'm really excited. However, I am rather hazy on my responsibilities and duties. Could you fill me in? M.O., Long Beach.

Dear M.O.:

You will be the bride's most important attendant and have several obligations.

First, you will buy your own wedding ensemble—including dress, shoes, gloves and headpiece, unless it is of flowers. You will attend the rehearsal and see that the bridesmaids are properly dressed and on time for the ceremony. You will help the bride dress for her wedding or help with any preparations upon request.

If there is a guests' register or special book for just the wedding party to sign for memory's sake, this is your responsibility.

Before the wedding you may entertain the bride or the couple together.

You also will help with invitations when necessary and in displaying and listing wedding presents. J.H.

(Next Sunday: Invitations and Announcements.)

If you have questions concerning wedding etiquette either as bride, parent or guest, write to "How to Get Married," The Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach. All questions will be answered in this column or by mail.

Wray-Wayland vows read in Wayfarers' Chapel rite

Barbara Lois Wray and Wade Ky Wayland recited nuptial vows Saturday during an afternoon ceremony in the Los Altos Methodist Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kerwin N. Wray, 2731 Josie Ave., wore a silk organza gown with cape train edged with Chantilly lace.

Mrs. Robert Campbell was matron of honor with Toni Wayland, the groom's sister, Linda Baughn, Roberta Moffett and Janice Vandeventer completing the bridal party.

Mrs. Wade Ky Wayland

THE GROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Wayland, Phoenix, chose his brother, Land, as best man. John Wray, the bride's brother, Michael Wray, the bride's cousin, Doyle Meredith and Edward Joyce seated guests.

The new Mrs. Wayland was graduated from Millikan High School and attended Long Beach City College, where she was a member of Tammuz. Her husband attended Arizona State University and now is serving with the U.S. Marine Corps.

Following a trip to La Jolla, the newlyweds will reside in Long Beach.

College grads are wed

Reddick-Shannon

The North Long Beach Methodist Church was scene of the marriage of Linda Mae Shannon and Edward Arthur Reddick Saturday evening.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Duane Shannon, 6271 Cerritos Ave., wore an empire-styled gown with detachable train.

Kathy Shannon was her sister's maid of honor, Patsy Reddick, sister of the groom, Troy Goodman and Mrs. Fred Smith completed the bridal party.

THE GROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Reddick, 6375 Lemon Ave., chose his brother Ronald as best man with Fred Smith, Hugh Brandt and Ron Richardson seating guests. The newlyweds both were graduated from Jordan High School. The bride is a graduate of Long Beach Business College; her husband was graduated from LBCC and LBSC.

The couple will reside in Bellflower following a trip to Palm Springs.

Jackson-Thomas

Darlene Thomas and Dennis Jackson were married

Mrs. Edward A. Reddick

Mrs. Dennis Jackson

Saturday evening in the North Chapel of First Baptist Church.

The bride is daughter of Mrs. Leo Thomas, 2851 Eucalyptus Ave., and the late Mr. Thomas; parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Milton Jackson of Eugene, Ore.

MRS. GEORGE Hetrick was matron of honor; Mrs. Eddie Cook and Lola Gallo-way were bridesmaids, Elmo Schieve was best man with Wesley Ropp and Neal Herbert seating guests. Cheryl Hetrick, flower girl, and Larry Thomas, ringbearer, completed the bridal party.

The new Mrs. Jackson, who wore a gown of Chantilly lace with brush train, was graduated from Poly High School and LBSC. She now is teaching in Cubberley Elementary School. Her husband was graduated from Oregon State University.

Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, the couple will reside in Long Beach.

Oswald Jacoby

Yes, sir--this play is problem

A letter from New Rochelle reads: "I won the opening spade lead with the queen and led my ace of diamonds. West showed out and I had to lose two diamonds and three spades. My partner tells me that my two no-trump rebid with only 17 high card points was a poor bid, but I think that we belonged in three no-trump and that I was very unlucky. What is your opinion?"

I have to agree with South's bidding. He had to find some strong rebid to do justice to his fine hand and two no-trump was his best choice. He also was unlucky to find all four diamonds in one hand. With any other diamond break three no-trump would have been a cinch after the spade lead but his failure to make the contract was due to a combination of bad breaks.

If South had been a pessimist in the play he would have said to himself: "Suits do break badly on occasion. I only need five diamond tricks for my contract. Can I make them if an opponent holds all four?"

THEN he would have seen that he could handle a 4-0 diamond split if East held all four of them and proceeded to lead a low diamond toward dummy's eight.

East would win the trick and lead a spade back whereupon South would enter dummy with one ace and lead a diamond. East would have to play a diamond honor. South would win and get to dummy with the other ace and lead dummy's last diamond.

BULLOCK'S CHAMPAGNE PREVIEW

...an evening of fashion

Chic fashions against smart objects d'art will mark the spectacular champagne opening of Bullock's Lakewood Friday evening, April 21.

The contemporary Spanish-California design of the store will set the mood for the event—a festive Latin-themed evening of dining and wining, strolling troubadours and informal modeling.

But there'll be more than just an old Spanish-California feel to the exciting evening. The store is graced with objects d'art from every corner of the world—the Orient, Europe, Scandinavia.

CHAMPAGNE cocktails will be served prior to the alfresco buffet dinner and guests will have an opportunity to view the many exciting antiques and art pieces in the store during the course of the evening.

Reservations for the champagne cocktail dinner and preview of the new Lakewood Center store must be made this Wednesday. Mrs. William Carls is general chairman.

All proceeds will be divided equally among five local charity organizations: Memorial, Community, Pacific and St. Mary's Hospital of Long Beach and the Cerritos Communities Pool for the Handicapped in Lakewood.

All inquiries regarding invitations and reservations may be directed to the Lakewood Chamber of Commerce, 2787 South St.

Door to elegant fashion

Hand-carved antique doors from a hacienda in Spain, lend dramatic touch to decor of Bullock's Lakewood and form excellent background for Maurice Rentner's imported black and white woven stripe cotton suit. Culottes (far left) give illusion of skirt but allow graceful freedom of movement. Ensemble, by Geno of California, is modeled in front of antique pot-bellied porcelain Viennese stove featured in store's Rancho kitchen. Both costumes will be modeled informally, along with wide selection of other exciting fashions during benefit April 21.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Rung by rung to top aide

L. P. T. Food Editor
Were you to draw an imaginary ladder to illustrate the achievements of today's Chef of the Week, Bob Creighton, here's how the rungs would be defined:

Rung 1. Came to Long Beach in 1946 and began his career with the City in March, 1949, as an analyst in the Health Department.

Rung 2. Became business manager of the Health Department.

Rung 3. Transferred to the Budget and Research Division of the Finance Department.

Rung 4. Appointed chief of that division in 1956.

Rung 5. Promoted to position of administrative assistant to City Manager, "Chef" John Mansell, December of 1957.

Rung 6. Advanced to the position of assistant to City Manager in September 1962. He's still there!

Like Yankee Doodle Dandy, Creighton was born on the 4th of July, hailing originally from San Francisco.

He graduated from the University of California at Berkeley with an AB in Political Science. After World War II, Creighton resumed his academic training at USC, where he received his master's degree in Public Administration. His thesis won the John N. Pflüger honorary award as the outstanding public administration thesis of the 1955 academic year.

Creighton served three years during World War II, as a deck officer in the U.S. Navy aboard anti-submarine vessels in the Central Pacific. He later was assigned as sonar training officer, based at San Diego.

As city manager's top aide, Creighton handles many of the more complex assignments in the city manager's office, i.e., coordinates interdepartmental activities, negotiates leases, contracts and agreements. He assists in resolving administrative problems and prepares administrative reports.

Some of his stolen moments are spent in activities of the International Managers' Association, the Western ern Society of Public Administrators and the Western Governmental Research Association.

A hi-fi enthusiast, Bob's taste in music ranges from Bossa Nova to Beethoven. Right now, he is high on that popular "Girl from Ipanema." Yet, he has a kind word for the Beatles, who rate high with daughters, Kathy, 15, and Karen, 9.

Bob makes no claim to being a "do-it-yourselfer" at home, and concedes that cooking honors in his family belong to wife, Pat. However, the barbecue department at their El Dorado Park Estates home is strictly his responsibility. Preferring things simple, Bob offers his recipe for Barbecued Potatoes, which by the way, also can be cooked in the oven.

BARBECUED POTATOES
5 or 6 medium sized potatoes
1/2 cube butter or margarine
1 pkg. French Onion Soup Mix
Dice potatoes onto heavy duty aluminum foil (sheet about 24" long). Dot with butter or margarine. Sprinkle onion soup mix over potatoes. Place second sheet of aluminum foil (heavy duty) over potatoes and tuck in all edges. Barbecue potatoes for one hour. If cooked in oven, set temperature control at 400 degrees.

In Riverside, Dorothy Fitzgerald, president of the local group, is a nominee for state president-elect. Anna Shell, also a Long Beach member, has been nominated for state public relations chairman.

National BPW
Mrs. Gladys McPike will assume presidency of Long Beach National Business and Professional Women's Club, Inc., following a 7 p.m. dinner meeting Monday at Lakewood Country Club, 3101 E. Carson St. Mrs. Dessa Everts, president of Sierra Mar District, will serve as installing officer for Mrs. McPike and Mmes. Blanche Stevens and Helen Ruckrigel, vice presidents; Dorothy Dalton and Miss Rachael McKinnis, secretaries; Ruth Murphy, treasurer. Reservations for dinner may be made with Mrs. Florence Eachus, 259 Euclid Ave.

Altrusa Club
Altrusa Club of Long Beach will meet in joint session with the Downey Club for 6:30 p.m. social hour, 7 p.m. dinner, Monday at Sierra Restaurant in Downey.

Hoo-Hoo-Ette Club
Anderson's Restaurant in Maywood, 5729 Atlantic Blvd., will be setting for dinner meeting Monday of Hoo-Hoo-Ette Club 1, lumber women's organization of Los Angeles and surrounding areas.

ABW Chapter
American Business Women's Association, Long Beach International Chapter 2, will meet at Mr. C's Restaurant, 5305 E. Pacific Coast Highway, at 7 p.m. Tuesday to hear Lt. (jg.) N. R. Van Male, military personnel officer from U.S. Naval Station. Vocational speakers will be members, Virginia McCain and Alice Anderson.

Executive Housekeepers
Mrs. George Moore, president of Long Beach Community Hospital Auxiliary, and John O'Connor, Harbor General Hospital, will speak to Long Beach Unit of National Executive Housekeepers Association. The meeting will begin with 5:30 p.m. board session and 6 p.m. dinner Tuesday at Hody's Lakewood.

Long Beach Unified School District will present "A Musical Kaleidoscope" as its host night concert Monday at 8 p. m. in Long Beach Arena. Four thousand student musicians from local elementary, junior and senior high schools will perform for 4,000 visiting musicians who are attending the annual meeting of the western division of the Music Educators Conference. Joe Burger is shown rehearsing young players at Prisk Elementary School. He will direct 400 violin and cello players in the All-District Elementary Strings section of the program.

"RICHARD'S WINDOW," by Andrew C. Annenberg, is among prize winners in the Southern California Juried Exhibition at Long Beach Museum of Art.

Museum exhibition is dynamic and creative

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The third annual "Southern California Exhibition," on display at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., through April 25, is a real smasher, reflecting the dynamic atmosphere of the Southern California creative scene.

Every current thought, trend, style, and technique going is here, from the high-browed expressionism of Lance Richbourg's "Return of the Hero" to smooth serenity of one green leaf in Alex Vilunson's "Toward the Light." The high quality of the show is doubtless due, in large part, to the handsomeness of the prizes.

THE MAJOR winner, "Nude After Titian" by Jack Solomon, is Pop art. The reclining figure is a black silhouette against a pretty blue ground. A horizontal band of beige-brown tops the large work, and a band of hot yellow crosses the canvas at the torso of the figure. The words of the title are part of the composition.

John Baldessari's "My Heart Belongs To Dada But I Know Motherwell" is in the smoothly painted, hard edge technique. The pun of the title is acute, tying together two elements current in modern art—the capricious Dada revolt against sham, and Robert Motherwell, painter and high priest of post-World War II New York school of abstract expressionism.

LAIRD PLUMLEIGH'S "Pseudo Sportsman," a large collage, includes pasted-up clothing, newspaper, and synthetic resins which have been flame-blasted with a resultant impact as well as fascinating changes in the grey-beige color and textures. Rod Briggs's "Decibels Orange" verges on "Op" art... a bull's eye of concentric circles lies restlessly in the center of the smoothly painted canvas.

THE TARGET motif is also used by sculptor Steve Jennis who paints it on the tummy of his boxed figure. The head has lolled out of the hole in the top of the box, revealing a major skull injury in which are some rusty vacuum tubes. The perfect surfaces of morised wood and white plaster have been damaged, but the title says "Please Don't Crank Me" (that bright metal crank in the center of the target is pretty hard to resist!). Each of the 79 works deserves serious evaluation.

Postpone meet

Musical Arts Club has postponed its meeting, originally scheduled for Tuesday, to April 22.

Symphony Soloists

Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff, husband and wife duo-pianists, will be soloists with Long Beach Symphony tonight at 8 o'clock in the Convention Hall of Municipal Auditorium. They will perform concerto composed for them by Martinu.

TEMPLE RUBBINGS, Thai silk, copperware and hammered silver will be among articles shown by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Kopp of San Pedro when they speak Tuesday at 10:10 a.m. in Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

They will illustrate their two-part lecture, "The Arts of Thailand" and "America's Gift to Thailand" with colored slides.

The Koppes lived for five years in Bangkok, Thailand, and in Ching Mei, site of the country's ancient civilization, when Kopp was in charge of building two great arteries comprising the East-West Friendship Highway. This highway, which opened up the jungle, was a gift of the United States and all machinery was left in Thailand. A former Long Beach resident, E. J. Kennedy, now of Encino, was construction foreman and will attend the Tuesday program.

The lecture is co-sponsored by the American Association of University Women and the museum. It is free to the public.

OTIS ART INSTITUTE, 2401 Wilshire Blvd., is showing 70 works by 17 artists from Tamarind Lithography Workshop. The lithographs, in color and black and white, are recent ones never before exhibited. They will be on display through May 9. Hours are 12:30 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays, closed Mondays. There is no admission charge.

MARIE BUCHER, Long Beach Art Association member, won the first award in oils in the Laguna Art Association's April membership exhibit. The winning entry is titled "Figure No. 3." Virginia Garner and Carl R. Walline open a joint show of landscapes and seascapes today in a restaurant at 11053 Atlantic Ave. Viewing time is noon to 8 p.m. Sundays and 4 to 8 p.m. weekdays. A. Wellington Smith, 3710 E. Anaheim St., has submitted a painting to the third annual Benedictine Art Awards. It will compete with other entries for awards of $1,000, $750 and $500. The American Federation of Arts will make the selections in May.

CALIFORNIA artists may enter the All-California Art Exhibit which will be a feature of the Los Angeles Home Show June 10 through 20 in the Sports Arena.

Awards of $1,000, $200 and $100 will be made in the categories of oil, water color and sculpture. Entrants are limited to a single work, not previously exhibited in a juried show, and all entries will be on display in the arena. Works must be received by Brugger Fine Arts by May 8. For entry blanks and further regulations write to Laguna Studio Galleries, 1300 South Coast Blvd., Laguna Beach.

AN EXHIBIT of woodcuts, serigraphs and intaglios by Joan Binkoff opens with a reception today from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at Naples Fine Arts Gallery, 5604 E. Second St. It will continue through May 8.

Smothers act booked at Melodyland
The Smothers Brothers—two young men with fresh-scrubbed faces and memorable ears—will open a six-day run Tuesday night at Melodyland Theater, Anaheim. They will be assisted by singer Jack Jones, son of film star Alan Jones.

Tom and Dick Smothers have come far since they started as a team three years ago at San Jose State College. Off beat comedy is their special forte, but both are skilled as instrumentalists and folk singers. They have been compared as a comedy team to Laurel and Hardy, Abbott and Costello and Martin and Lewis.

are Messrs. and Mmes. Allan Platt, M. C. Gill, Charles Morse, Robert E. Bennett, Dallas Speers Jr., Brougham Morris, Thomas Wolfe Jr., Philip Shepherd and P. M. Knoll.

Purpose of the tour is to aid the Caroline Shaw Scherer Scholarships which are given annually to outstanding girls from the Southern California area to attend Radcliffe College in Cambridge, Mass.

Tour hours are 12:30 to 5 p.m. with tickets $3 each. Information may be obtained from Mrs. Thomas Budlong, 20329 Cantara Ave., Canoga Park, for the Los Angeles tour; and Mrs. Stephen Schloss, 15269 Carraera Drive, Whittier, for the Pasadena tour. Refreshments will be served at one of the homes on each tour.

Two ballets on program

Theater Arts Foundation will stage a double bill program April 23 at 8 p.m. and April 24 at 2 p.m. in Lakewood High School Auditorium.

Valerie Silver has choreographed both ballets.

"The Dancing Princesses," a new ballet, is set to music by Glazounov; Ralph Duckwall designed the stage set.

"The Puppet Showman" is danced to music by Strauss. Set designer is Dr. Maxine Merino.

Tickets may be reserved by calling Mrs. Elias Day, 3021 E. Second St. or the Academy of Ballet, 2740 E. Broadway.

"Can you tell me if a Negro couple will run into problems in Europe?"

AS NEAR as I can see you don't find any discrimination in Europe. With an occasional exception in England—and that in feeling rather than action. However, these things can be pretty subtle and I really don't know. I would like to be told by someone who has done it.

"We will be touring Japan. Is there a way to go to a real geisha party?"

KYOTO is the best town and the traditional home of the geisha schools. Your hotel should be able to set this up for you. Most local tours have a sort of sanitized geisha party. But why not have your own?

You get a room at a tea house—a machiai. Have the hotel reserve it and have dinner. Have them book a couple of geishas—they come from a central casting agency. You get the dinner. The girls dance. Make conversation with the latest jokes and giggle and sing. About $30 per person for a first class evening. Yes, you can take your wife.

"Once you mentioned the cats of Rome. Where do you see them?"

Roman cats date back so far that no one knows where they started. They don't belong to anybody. But people come down and feed them. You'll find dozens of them in the evening around the Colosseum. Lots of them around the Pantheon—my choice because there's a nice outdoor cafe across the piazza where you can sit and drink a cappuccino.

WESTERN MOTELS' HUMAN DYNAMO

He Drops Long Beach's Name Over Entire World

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

If you should wish to check up to find the man who's doing the biggest job of dropping the name of Long Beach over the world, don't overlook M. K. Guertin, a human dynamo who just doesn't know when to call it quits.

Just now, Guertin is up to his neck in the task of distributing six million Travel Guides of the Western Motels, Inc. (Best Western Motels/Best Eastern Motels) to virtually every corner of the earth.

Each guide points out that the home office of the company is located in Long Beach.

Last year, Western Motels spent $22,933.52 in postage on out-of-town mail. This year the bill will be bigger. In addition, the firm spent more than $50,000 for advertising, chiefly in trade journals circulating nationally, and each ad carried the Long Beach address of the home office.

JUST WHAT is Western Motels, Inc.? The world's largest referral group of better motor hotels and motels, that's what.

Which means that, at no cost to the traveler, every hotel or motel in the group features "guaranteed reservations" to the traveler, for the next night's stop in any one of more than 800 towns in every area of the nation, from Mexico to and including Canada.

This means that, upon leaving a Best Western/Best Eastern hotel or motel in the morning with a reservation for lodging that evening, a vacationist may drive as far as he likes—depending upon where he has made his reservation—and still be assured of the best accommodations.

Guertin was the originator of this plan and, because Western Motels has grown to 901 members with more than 50,000 rooms, he continues to be its biggest user.

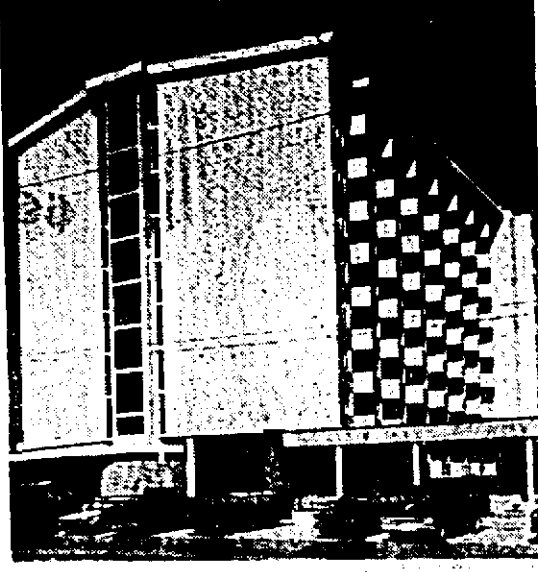

ALMOST 20 years ago, when he was traveling a great deal, Guertin conceived the idea that if better hotels and motels banded together in this manner, they could be of great service to the traveling public and at the same time help themselves.

So, working alone, he organized Western Motels in 1948, choosing only those lodging places that specialized in cleanliness, comfort, courtesy and service. He wound up the year with 60 in his group.

Just a short time ago the 200-room Americana Beach Lodge, Dayton Beach, Fla., became the 900th in the group. As in the early years, each hotel or motel is subject to rigid inspection at all times to determine whether it is maintained at the high standards originally set by Guertin. Last year, 134 members failed to keep progress and were dropped; but at the same time, 225 others were added.

Regional conferences are held where members are schooled in motel operation and Guertin, as vice president and executive secretary, traveled 21,000 miles last year to have a hand in these conferences.

profit organization, moved into its own attractive new office building at 3141 E. Broadway a few months ago. Guertin, who originally struck out alone, now directs 21 employees, four of them field representatives who are on the highways at all times inspecting member lodging places.

Lakewood's Pan-Am Fete April 19-25

Lakewood's Pan-American Festival, one of the Southland's most colorful events of the month, opens April 19 with a fanfare of flags and closes April 25 with a Fiesta parade that will draw entries from Mexico and all over the West.

The festival started as an over-the-fence chat by a former Bolivian consul with his neighbor and has grown mightily. Each year a different Latin-American country is honored, and Uruguay will be the honored nation this year.

An El Comienzo luncheon will be held April 19 followed by an exchange of flags by Bancroft Junior High School and an Uruguayan school.

Carlsbad holds its Spring Holiday April 19-25. In a parade April 24, floats will be decorated with fresh flowers.

Ojai holds its 66th annual Ojai Valley Tennis Tournament April 22-25. The valley makes a house party of the event, opening homes to players, and providing taxi services to the courts.

ICELANDIC Airlines, New York City, is the only bronco, cut-rate airline. The town you want is Hon-fleur on the Normandy coast. About three hours by train from Paris. Get in a pension (boarding house with meals). Or try a hotel there called Le Chat Noir. And get pension rates.

This is a wonderful old seaside town. Cobble streets. Old stone fortress buildings. (All the French explorers of North America sailed from here.) Wonderful stone harbor full of fishing boats. Great sea food. And fairly inexpensive for France.

For transportation along the coast, rent bikes. To cut still further, this part of the coast—they call it "the green coast"—is full of

"Can you tell me if a Negro couple will run into problems in Europe?"

"We will be touring Japan. Is there a way to go to a real geisha party?"

As near as I can see you don't find any discrimination in Europe. With an occasional exception in England—and that in feeling rather than action. However, these things can be pretty subtle and I really don't know, I would like to be told by someone who has done it.

You get a room at a tea house—a machiai. Have the hotel reserve it and have dinner. Have them book a couple of geishas—they come from a central casting agency. You get the dinner. The girls dance. Make conversation with the latest jokes and giggle and sing. About $30 per person for a first class evening. Yes, you can take your wife.

"Once you mentioned the cats of Rome. Where do you see them?"

Roman cats date back so far that no one knows where they started. They don't belong to anybody. But people come down and feed them. You'll find dozens of them in the evening around the Colosseum. Lots of them around the Pantheon—my choice because there's a nice outdoor cafe across the piazza where you can sit and drink a cappuccino.

WESTERN MOTELS' HUMAN DYNAMO

He Drops Long Beach's Name Over Entire World

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

If you should wish to check up to find the man who's doing the biggest job of dropping the name of Long Beach over the world, don't overlook M. K. Guertin, a human dynamo who just doesn't know when to call it quits.

Just now, Guertin is up to his neck in the task of distributing six million Travel Guides of the Western Motels, Inc. (Best Western Motels/Best Eastern Motels) in virtually every corner of the earth.

Each guide points out that the home office of the company is located in Long Beach.

Last year, Western Motels spent $22,933.52 in postage on out-of-town mail. This year the bill will be bigger. In addition, the firm spent more than $50,000 for advertising, chiefly in trade journals circulating nationally, and each ad carried the Long Beach address of the home office.

JUST WHAT is Western Motels, Inc.? The world's largest referral group of better motor hotels and motels, that's what.

Which means that, at no cost to the traveler, every hotel or motel in the group features "guaranteed reservations" to the traveler, for the next night's stop in any one of more than 800 towns in every area of the nation, from Mexico to and including Canada.

This means that, upon leaving a Best Western/Best Eastern hotel or motel in the morning with a reservation for lodging that evening, a vacationist may drive as far as he likes—depending upon where he has made his reservation—and still be assured of the best accommodations.

Guertin was the originator of this plan and, because Western Motels has grown to 901 members with more than 50,000 rooms, he continues to be its biggest user.

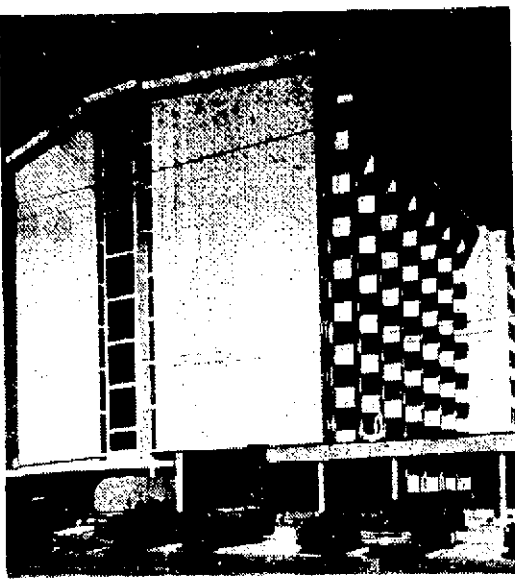

ALMOST 20 years ago, when he was traveling a great deal, Guertin conceived the idea that if better hotels and motels banded together in this manner, they could be of great service to the traveling public and at the same time help themselves.

So, working alone, he organized Western Motels in 1948, choosing only those lodging places that specialized in cleanliness, comfort, courtesy and service. He wound up the year with 60 in his group.

Just a short time ago the 200-room Americana Beach Lodge, Daytona Beach, Fla., became the 900th in the group. As in the early years, each hotel or motel is subject to rigid inspection at all times to determine whether it is maintained at the high standards originally set by Guertin. Last year, 134 members failed to keep progress and were dropped; but at the same time, 225 others were added.

Regional conferences are held where members are schooled in motel operation and Guertin, as vice president and executive secretary, traveled 21,000 miles last year to have a hand in these conferences.

How Western's "Total Vacations" can give you the most carefree holiday of your life.

Just what is a Western Airlines "Total Vacation"? It's pure relaxation—with every travel detail handled for you. For example, hotel reservations are made for you in advance, and you're assured of fine accommodations throughout, at the lowest possible rates. It allows you to leave your car at home—yet enjoy any type of surface transportation you choose. Luxury motor coach, modern train, U-Drive car, smooth-cruising ferry or steamer, even a houseboat—all are available to you on various tours. And because Western flies you right to where the scenery begins, you don't waste one precious moment of vacation time. Sight-seeing with experienced guides is also included. Yet you have plenty of free time to browse—to shop, take pictures, engage in sports, or just relax. And a "Total Vacation" is a real travel bargain, too—because so much is included, and because all the planning and arrangements are taken care of for you in advance. These are the vacations that take all the trouble out of travel—so whether you have three days, or thirty, every minute can be spent having fun.

Big, beautiful scenery awaits you

The North Country is the Big Country—from Alaska's majestic glaciers to Yellowstone's spectacular geysers, it's a land of breath-taking scenery, wide-open spaces, revitalizing climate...of glittering lakes and rivers, cathedral-like forests, wildflowers and wildlife. Like fishing? Head for Minnesota, with its 10,000 lakes...or for Yellowstone or Glacier National Parks, where there's fighting trout, and no license needed. Enjoy the mountains? Visit the mighty Pacific Northwest...or the magnificent Canadian Rockies. For a real change, see the fairy-tale spectacle of Alaska's Inside Passage...or Victoria's old English atmosphere. The following pages preview some of the excitement that awaits you on a North Country adventure.

Tour prices shown include:

Accommodations in double rooms (singles slightly higher); all transportation within the tour itself; guided sight-seeing; certain meals where mentioned. Your only additional expense is for other meals, laundry, souvenirs, tour taxes, and your low, round-trip Western Airlines fare to the point of tour departure. See the back page of this magazine for Western's fares. Then check the coupon to receive further, free information on the tours that interest you.

Western Airlines flies you right to where the North Country begins!

Go by air, and have more time there!

The Fan/Jet Airline of the West is your best way...your fast way...your economical way...to where the fun begins. Western's convenient schedules, friendly service and modern equipment really do "take the trouble out of travel." And you'll be surprised at how little it costs.

Here's how to pamper your budget on a Western Airlines vacation.

- Charge your Western flight to your American Express, Carte Blanche or Diners' Club card, take up to 24 months to pay.
- In California, charge your whole tour to your BankAmericard, with deferred payments, too.
- Save with Western's Family Plan on Coach or Deluxe.
- Get Western's 20% Group Fare discount when you fly with a group of 25 or more.

Your Travel Agent is the expert on North Country Adventures.

Traveling is so much easier, when you consult a professional. Your Travel Agent is an experienced travel planner, who has all the facts and figures available on the places you want to visit. Tell him which North Country area intrigues you most, how much you want to pay, how long you'd like to stay. He'll work out every detail for you in advance. For a holiday that's all fun and no problems, see your Travel Agent first.

Cruise the calm waters of Alaska's fabled "Inside Passage"... while an adventure in majestic scenery unfolds around you.

7-DAY ARCTIC ALASKA CRUISE TOUR

(ITAAT-8)

This week-long holiday shows you so much of Alaska—for so little money! Start with a scenic flight from Seattle to Juneau, Alaska's colorful capital, and a visit to Mendenhall glacier, largest and most rugged accessible glacier. Next, a short flight to gold rush country, and a night in Skagway; before you travel the famous "Trail of 98," via narrow gauge railway, to Lake Bennett for lunch. Return to Skagway to cruise the Inside Passage—a sheltered waterway that passes through a fairyland of icebergs. Visit Tracy Arm and Ketchikan on the voyage to Vancouver. Tour departs Seattle, returns Vancouver, May-September. Thrift Season, $295. Regular Season, $325.

11-DAY ALASKA HIGHWAY TOUR

(ITAHT-73)

All you have to do on this tour is relax and enjoy magnificent scenery! Start out by train, through beautiful British Columbia Cariboo country to Prince George. Then, via modern motor coach follow winding rivers past lovely lake country to Prince Rupert, gateway to Alaska. Cruise the famous Inside Passage, with stops in Ketchikan and Petersburg, to the gold rush center of Skagway. There, an exciting narrow gauge railway takes you over the "Trail of 98" to Whitehorse, in the Yukon. Here, board a Scenerama Highway Cruiser for the 6-day excursion to Seattle: via Watson Lake, the fur trading center of Fort Nelson, Dawson Creek, Fraser River Canyon, Harrison Hot Springs. Departs Vancouver, returns Seattle, May-August. Thrift Season, $325; Regular Season, $355.

9-DAY INSIDE PASSAGE CRUISE

(ATC-4)

Your big, comfortable ship is a grandstand seat for some of the world's most dramatic scenery!

Cruise past British Columbia's charming fishing villages and lumber camps... then enter the sheltered Alaska Inland Sea. Glide past icebergs, herds of sunning seals, glacier-lined fjords, gold rush towns, majestic mountains. See Juneau, Skagway, Ketchikan, and travel the narrow-gauge railway "Trail of 98." Departs Vancouver, May-October. Thrift Season, $225; Regular Season, $295.

Alaska Tours Include: fine accommodations, berths on ships, all transportation within tours, meals aboard ship, guides. Prices shown are for double rooms, standard berths. Many longer tours available. Prices plus air fare and tax.

OUR COVER

Whatever happens to the Southland's two major league teams in the coming season, the two baseball figures presented on today's cover should have a big finger in the pie. Upon the chances of Sandy Koufax to recover from arm ills and take his turn for the Dodgers and on the ability of the Angels' Dean Chance to emulate his remarkable season of last year depend much of the futures of the two clubs. Chance is the key to what appears to be a challenging Angel team as opening day draws near. A sound Koufax will head a solid phalanx of hurlers for O'Malley's men, what with Johnny Podres, Don Drysdale and Claude Osteen seemingly ready for regular rotation and a strong bullpen in back of them. For more about Koufax, Chance, the Dodgers and the Angels, turn to Page 7.

NEXT WEEK

In 1781, beside an old oak tree not far from where the Union Railroad Station now stands, the pueblo of Los Angeles was founded. Easter Sunday will be a day of rejoicing at this historic spot—Olvera Street—the climax to a religious celebration. Southland tells you about Olvera Street's past and present, and the religious celebration, next Sunday.

Adventure through breath-taking scenery in magnificent Glacier National Park...and enjoy the luxury of a tour by rail.

8-DAY GREAT NORTHERN GLACIER HOLIDAY

(GT-BGP-7)

Through lavish scenery that no one else can show you, Great Northern whisks you in modern comfort to a vast and unspoiled wonderland, glittering high in the Montana Rockies. Glacier National Park is preserved just as ancient glaciers carved it, into soaring peaks, jewel-like lakes, plunging waterfalls, hanging valleys. And all this breathless beauty is yours to explore on your Great Northern Holiday: by foot or horseback, along easy trails; via open-top motorcoach, cruising 100 miles of smooth highway; via power launch, as you glide over sparkling lakes. You'll cross into Canada, too, to glorious Waterton Lakes National Park. There your discoveries will range from picturesque villages to gigantic rock amphitheaters and hidden mountain lakes. In both parks you'll stay in storybook hotels, such as the Many Glacier and the Prince of Wales. And whether you prefer fishing for fighting trout (no license needed), or the more gentle sport of shooting bear and other wildlife (with a camera) you'll find pleasures galore in Glacier Park. $209.

15-DAY GLACIER & CANADIAN ROCKIES HOLIDAY

(GT-BGP-14)

All the features of Great Northern's 8-Day Holiday, plus an exciting week at fairytale spots such as Lake Louise and Banff; charming cities such as Vancouver and old-world Victoria. $359.

14-DAY GREAT NORTHERN 4-PARK HOLIDAY

(GT-BGP-13)

Two weeks of sheer scenic beauty, as you visit Yellowstone, Grand Tetons, Glacier and Waterton National Parks. Departs Yellowstone, returns Seattle. $319.

Go great—go Great Northern. You travel in stretch-out, move-about comfort on Great Northern's modern "Western Star." Prices include all rail fares, all other ground transportation, breakfasts and dinners, lodging in double rooms. Tours depart Seattle (except 4-Park Holiday), mid-June-August. All tour prices plus air fare and tax.

Yellowstone's brilliant spectacle of rugged canyons, flashing streams and mysterious geysers offers you adventure with conveniences.

3-DAY YELLOWSTONE FAMILY VACATION

(IT-BYP-2)

Here's family fun all the way, as you explore some of the world's most spectacular scenery! Children love the clownish bears that amble along the road, the friendly deer, the wild moose and elk.

Camera fans delight in the Grand Canyon of Yellowstone, with a waterfall twice the height of Niagara; the hourly spectacle of Old Faithful; the massive terraces and colorful hot springs at Mammoth; the shimmering majesty of Yellowstone Lake. Sportsmen will find husky trout (and no license is required); more than 150 miles of forest bridle trails; and boating past an ever-changing shoreline. Sightseeing motor coaches also take you to the Fountain Paint wonders the pleasant accommodations; delicious meals; and smooth, fast Western flight—and you have a "Total Vacation" that's all fun and no problems! Adults, $51.00; Children 5-12, $21.75. 4-DAY VACATION (IT-BYP-3) with extra time at Old Faithful, Adults, $65.00; Children, $26.75. 5-DAY VACATION (IT-BYP-4) with overnight stay at Yellowstone Lake and more time at Mammoth, Adults, $77.00; Children, $32.75.

6-DAY YELLOWSTONE & GRAND TETONS HOLIDAY

(IT-BYP-5)

All the features of the 5-Day Vacation, plus 2 nights at Jackson Lake and the Grand Tetons, and a 30-mile ride down the beautiful Snake River. Adults, $116.00; Children, $74.50.

U-DRIVE YELLOWSTONE VACATIONS

(IT-BYP-20)

Enjoy all the features of the 3-Day Family Vacation, including fine accommodations, at your own pace, in a spacious 4-Door Chevrolet Sedan, with 200 free miles, including oil, gasoline, insurance. From $59.00.

Yellowstone Vacations Include accommodations (prices shown, 2 to a room), breakfasts, dinners, sight-seeing via motor coach (or U-Drive), wildlife search drives. Prices plus air fare and tax.

Jim Bendicksen, talented young clarinetist joins his teacher, Walter Thalín, in a duet.

By Dottie Le Sage

GIVE the average newspaper reader an association test with the word "teen-age" and what will he be likely to say? Stolen hubcaps, freeway accidents, dope—crime and disaster, and infinitum.

Spend a few minutes with 17-year old Jim Bendicksen, senior at Lakewood High School and teen-age tragedy fades from your mind.

Jim's ultimate goal is to be principal clarinetist with a fine symphonic orchestra.

He is a member of the Lakewood band and the Madrigals. He has at different times been chosen to play in the All Western Orchestra, made up of young musicians from five western states; the All California Orchestra, and All California Cities Orchestra.

HIS LATEST achievement is his most exciting to date. Jim is California's winner to represent his state in the School Band of America-School Chorus of America, 1965 European Concert Tour.

It was Fred Ohlendorf, supervisor of music education for the Long Beach Unified School District who in his words, "exposed Jim to the idea of competing."

Edward T. Harn, director of SBA-SCA in his letter of notification to Jim said:

"Your acceptance in this elite organization reflects your outstanding accomplishments in the field of music, your excellent character and personality, and the high esteem in which you are held among your teachers and friends."

SINCE ITS founding July 1, 1959, the School Band of America has established itself as an integral part of the American music education scene. This organization was founded primarily for the purpose of giving outstanding American school musicians an opportunity to use their talents in the area of international understanding and at the same time acquire a first-hand knowledge of the cultural centers of the world.

On July 10, Jim and 122 other highly qualified young musicians and singers between the ages of 15-21 will fly from Kennedy Airport in New York to Ramsgate, England, which will be rehearsal headquarters for their month's tour.

Queen Elizabeth is expected to attend the Royal Festival Hall Command Performance. SBA-SCA will present 20 concerts to audiences totalling approximately 50,000.

Two outstanding concerts scheduled are in St. Marks Square, Venice and in The Meistersingerhalle, Nuernberg, Europe's newest and most beautiful concert hall, completed in 1963 at a cost of $10 million.

JIM HAS BEEN studying the clarinet for seven years, the last five with a teacher for whom he has the utmost respect—Walter Thalín, clarinetist with the Long Beach Municipal Band.

Thalín played under the direction of the world's greatest conductors, including Dimitri Metropolis. Walter Damrosch, Eugene Normandy, Leopold Stowkowski, Sir Thomas Beecham and others.

The world now seems to be Jim's oyster but with the hint of a black pearl inside. All members of the School Band of America, students, chaperones, and directors alike, are responsible for their own expenses.

Jim has paid $175 to date with $703 due by May 1. Jim, his family, friends and Thalín are pitching in to help collect the money.

All for a Dime!

Eugene Poore and 1916-D dime that he swapped for Sago palm in background.

By Bill Duncan

A SIX-FOOT Sago palm, landscaper between $700 and $1,000—perhaps even as much as $1,200. Eugene Poore of La Habra just bought a 250-year-old Sago palm for one thin dime.

The 10-cent Sago was purchased from La Habra landscaper Martin C. Rippens who had bought it "for considerably more than a dime" from a Pasadena homeowner whose property was condemned for a freeway site.

WHY SUCH a valuable plant could be sold for such a ridiculous price is the story of what makes collectors collect.

The dime with which the palm was bought was a 1916-D, extra fine shape coin—a collector's dream. Rippens is a coin collector and needed the 1916-D dime to complete his dime collection.

Poore, a vendor, often comes across valuable coins used for purchases in his machines. The trade was a natural.

Poore, who admits he had never even heard of a Sago palm before he spotted the one in Rippens' nursery, liked its growth pattern and its rare beauty. After Rippens told him the transplanted palm has a risk of survival—about an 80% chance of taking to its new surroundings—he did some extensive research. To protect his investment, Poore is now somewhat of an expert on the Sago palm.

THE PALM, believe it or not, is receiving vitamin shots and is fed a special diet to help it get used to the clay soil at Poore's North Hills homesite in La Habra.

The Sago palm, as it is popularly known, is actually not a palm at all. It is a cycad, a fern-like tropical evergreen. It has nothing in common with palms except general growth habits and a somewhat similar appearance.

Experts say, however, it is more palm-like than palms and that the Sago palm, or cycad, is a primitive seed plant from the jungles of a former geological age.

La Reina Rule

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have genealogy data on McCLELLAN.—H.S., Los Alamitos; H.M., Long Beach.

H.S., H.M.: McCLELLAN, as well as McClelland and McLellan, began as the Scottish clan name Mac-Giolla-Fhuilain, translated as "sons of the adherent of St. Fillan." Fillan was the archaic Gaelic term for "wolf," referring to the strength and stalwartness of a wolf. The McClellans were allied to Clan MacDonald and originated in Galloway, southwest Scotland. First records of this family are in the 1300s. They were granted estates in 1466. Their armorial shield is gold, emblazoned with two black chevrons. With this shield is the clan motto "Sapl qui reputat," meaning "He who considers is wise." Noted descendants include the American General George B. McClellan, 1826-1855.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like to learn about NEWELL.—M.B., Artesia; N.N., Harbor City.

M.B., N.N.: NEWELL is a condensed spelling of this family's home city of New hall in Cheshire, England. "New-Hall" portrayed "place of the new manor-house." The Newell shield mistakenly symbolizes the name source as "New-well," for it has three "wells" and three silver rosettes on a blue chevron across a silver background. An epitaph at the West Roxbury, Mass., cemetery is engraved with the statement, "Here lyes yehody of Mr. Robert Newell who died Feb. 17, 1741, in the 68th year of his life."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain HANSEN, HANSENS.—K.H., Chicago, Ill.; C.H., Long Beach.

HANSEN and the variation HANSENS are Danish. This lineage spread during the 12th to 15th centuries to other north European nations. Hansen represents "son of Hans or Henry." The root-name Henry designated "ruler of an estate." The Hansen shield is silver. The upper third has a red eagle on it; the center has a green tree; the lower third has a grapevine cutting with two grapes.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we learn about MCCORMACK.—W.M., Jacksonville, Ore.

W.M.: MCCORMACK emerged in modern times from the Scottish clan name MacMormail, as well as the Irish clan MacCormaic. In each country the clan founder was a brave battle leader called Cormaic, meaning "charioteer or driver of a war chariot." The clan shield is red, emblazoned with three red spots between three silver daggers, all on a chevron. The McCormack primordial motto "Sine timore" translates as "Without fear."

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have data on BERKHEIMER.—M.E., Long Beach.

M.E.: BERKHEIMER and the variation Berghammer are German, translated as "owner of a mountain home." The armorial shield for these names from Bavaria is blue. On it is a gold griffin holding a gold mallet. The griffin stands on a mountain peak. The mallet and mountain peak emblems refer to an erroneous deciphering of Berg-Hammer as "Mountain-hammer."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze MARQUIS.—H.M., Garden Grove.

H.M.: MARQUIS from France refers to a forefather who enacted the part of a marquis, a nobility rank between a duke and a count, in annual religious pageant. Marquis is primarily French, but descendants settled in Britain many centuries ago. Archibald Marquis was married at London in 1797. The Marquis shield from the French medieval province of Forez is blue, decorated with a golden pyramid.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform us on ESCOBAR.—T.E., San Pedro; L.E., Torrance.

T.E., L.E.: ESCOBAR, Spanish in origin, described the progenitor's estate as "place where Spanish broom bushes grow." Beautiful yellow and brown Spanish broom blossoms covered the Escobar estate hillsides. The family shield from Estremadura, Spain is gold. On it are three green "brooms" with handles downward.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze HUNT and DE LA HUNT.—L. H., D. H., D.B., Long Beach.

HUNT and the primitive original spelling "DE LA HUNT" were from "Hunt-ere," an early English term for a professional wild game hunter. The Hunt armorial arms has a black bugle below three silver stars on a red stripe. William Hunt of Yorkshire, England, settled in Massachusetts in 1635.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain MONETTE.—H. C., M. M., Long Beach.

H. C., M.M.: MONETTE began in medieval France as a matronym, that is, a surname handed down from a famous female ancestor. This lady was baptized Emonette meaning "prosperous protectress." No shield is locatable for Monette.

Alston Looks to New Year

Dodgers

Walter Alston and Dodgers have interesting if uncertain future.

Out to Regain Dignity

By GEORGE LEDERER

RESILIENCE has been the Dodger trademark of the post-World War II years. Four times they have rebounded from disaster to dignity, each time with only one key change in personnel.

After losing the pennant to the Cardinals in the playoff of 1946, the Dodgers broke color and pennant barriers in one move. They brought up Jackie Robinson and won in 1947.

They lost another playoff, to the Giants, in 1951, discovered relief pitcher Joe Black, won and established a dynasty that brought three more pennants through 1956.

When the walls of Ebbets Field began to crumble in 1957, the Dodgers showed signs of cracking, also. A combination of age, new environment, smog and the Coliseum screen resulted in their nosedive to seventh place in 1958.

A YEAR LATER, with Wally Moon the only notable newcomer at the start, the Dodgers battled back and won their second world championship.

After a third playoff loss in 1962, the trade for relief pitcher Bob Miller was instrumental in another climb to the top.

General Manager Buzzie Bavasi believed he was dealt such a good hand in 1963 that he decided to play it pat last year. The Dodgers drew only at the gate (2,228,751), which wasn't bad, but five clubs beat them in the standings, which wasn't good.

Dodger hopes soared at the start of spring training, then were dealt a blow by Sandy Koufax's arm trouble and injuries to several key players. However, injuries are healing and even Koufax is back with the club, although his pitching future hangs in the balance.

Beginning Monday, in New York, the Dodgers will attempt to regain their dignity, not to mention some 300,000 dropouts among the customers. It's a new deal and Bavasi was among the most active shufflers by providing practically half a new deck.

THE DODGER roster turnover is so immense that the club stands a good chance to operate in the black on program sales alone. At the start of spring training, even manager Walter Alston couldn't tell his players without a program. (And, for the benefit of grammarians, this is possible because Alston wouldn't tell them anything without meeting them first.)

The spring roster of 38 represented a turnover of more than 33% from last year and the opening day squad of 28 will have been altered 43%. The coaching staff is 100% new.

The first-year player rule, termed by Bavasi "the silliest thing I ever saw," is

Rigney Supers
Ready to Open

Angels

Will the Angels "pull it off?" Rigney scratches musing head.

Impress the League

By ROSS NEWHAN

IT IS A team of supers. . .

They call Bill Rigney super-skip, Bobby Knoop super-glove, Jim Piersall super-flake, Rick Reichardt and Tom Egan super-babies, Bob Lee super-body and some writers super-scribes. Next year, they will even have a super-stadium of their own.

The Los Angeles Angels have fun with the name game, but on the field they are making a serious impression on the American League largely through the efforts of one of the major league's true super-stars.

At 23 years of age, Dean Chance has already won the Cy Young Award for pitching excellence, hurled three shutout innings in an All-Star game, equalled a major league record for shutouts and accrued more notoriety of varied complexion than Richard Burton, Dr. Martin Luther King, Billy Graham and Art Aragon combined.

It is, however, a new Chance who leads the Angels into American League action Monday against Cleveland—although Dean is not expected to draw his first start until Wednesday when a team from New York calls upon the Angels at Dodger Stadium.

A GREAT DEAL of the past was removed from Chance's life when Bo Belinsky was traded to Philadelphia and the rest has ebbed away through that natural phenomenon of maturity. A farm boy Dean Chance was born and a farm boy Dean Chance will always be, but the sophistication of the city has left its first layer of finesse and he has learned that there are other avenues than those tinted by bright lights.

The battles with management and teammates and the neon escapades of the past are the property of history and, as such, should be forgotten, according to Chance. Proclaimed recently in a national magazine as the "enfant terrible" of the Angels, Dean erupted.

"Why must they always rehash the past?" he asked. "Why do they keep sticking it to me?"

It was Chance's only blue mood of the spring. The new Dean talks quietly and sparsely and the contentment with his $47,000 contract and the financial by-products of his mound success is obvious.

Where and when the new Chance emerged is difficult to say . . . perhaps it was the day he won the Cy Young Award, perhaps it was the day he scored his 20th victory, perhaps it was the day he signed a $20,000 contract with an after-shave manufacturer, perhaps it was the day he was responsible for seven newcomers on the roster. Four who are expected to stay are pitchers John Purdin and Mike Kekich, infielder Tommy Dean and outfielder Willie Crawford, whose total major league experience is 13 games.

This quartet represents a bonus investment of nearly $200,000, which explains their presence on the roster. They must be protected, so to say, on the big league roster for one year or the club could lose them for the first-year waiver price of $8,000.

BAVASI LIKES neither the rule, nor the odds, but says he "will match our four first-year men with any in baseball. It's a shame, though, to be that young, have that much ability and not be able to play. "It's a bad rule, too, for the fans. The Mets have 10 first-year players, Kansas City has nine and the Giants and we have seven, but we're still charging major league prices."

The Dodgers, Yankees and Mets proposed a different bonus rule, which, Bavasi explained, "would have limited the amount of money to be spent, but would not have legislated against industry."

Will super-star Chance win 20 again. Bob Knoop says "yes."

nominated for the Hickock Belt, perhaps it was during one of his many father-son talks with club president Robert Reynolds, perhaps it was all of these or perhaps it was none of these.

"REYNOLDS is a great man," admits Chance. "I can never repay my debt to him."

It was while Chance was conducting his siege against general manager Fred Haney over a $7,500 raise last season that Reynolds promised his brilliant right-hander that the raise would be his if he conducted his campaigns from the mound rather than a soap box.

The message took root and this spring the super-scribes have found the once deep well of Chance copy running dry.

"If I judged teammates harshly and spoke in anger in the past it was because I am devoted to winning and the only way to correct mistakes is by bringing them into the light where they can be discussed," says Chance.

"I myself made as many errors as my teammates," he continues, "and now, after each game, I try to analyze every pitch. At night, I give thought to the hitters I'll be facing the next day. I like to think I have become a student of the game."

The student will not predict his marks for the 1965 examination.

A for Arab, Z for Zyphyr

Refuting an often-expressed opinion that race horses have a corner on diversification of names, note this small sampling of boats in their slips at Long Beach Marina. The owners have tagged their prize possessions with almost every conceivable handle, from A for Arab to Z for Zephyr. A large majority selected their pet labels from the elements—the waves, seas, moon, clouds, and even from family names, sometimes with a gimmick such as the family name spelled backwards. Other monikers are in a humorous vein, constituting a play on words or pointing up the owner's sacrifice to become the proud owner of a boat. The Sleeping Armada

Almost 200 warships,
a fleet larger and more powerful than most navies of the world,

in San Diego Bay.

By LOU JOBST

A FLEET larger and more powerful than most of the world navies slumbers at anchor in San Diego Bay.

Known as the Pacific Reserve Fleet and numbering some 175 warships, this sleeping armada is tied up, row on silent row, along five narrow finger piers at the U. S. Navy Station in National City.

The San Diego group, ranging from giant aircraft carriers to tiny tugs, is the largest of seven so-called "mothball fleets," totaling 500 vessels the Navy maintains in readiness at various seaports around the U. S.

These ships, their guns plugged, electrical equipment and important machinery encased in special metal cocoons and sealed airtight below decks, can be put back into service in a matter of days in the event of a national emergency.

PORTIONS of the Southland "mothball fleet," first established in 1945, were called to active duty and put into action within a month during the Korean War and the Suez crisis.

The Pacific Reserve Fleet is commanded by Capt. Charles Samuel Hart, 50-year-old Naval Academy graduate and decorated veteran of both WW II and the Korean action.

His command numbers some 500 officers and men who find the duty different than anything else the Navy offers.

"It's something like working in a graveyard," says one "ghost fleet" veteran. "You get a spooky feeling, being the only man on a huge and silent ship."

MANY OF THE California-based inactive fleet, including its biggest ships, the 875-foot carrier Philippine Sea and the $80 million cruiser Los Angeles, were deactivated and put into mothballs at the Navy Shipyard in Long Beach.

After deactivation is completed and the unmanned ship is towed to the San Diego anchorage, it is kept in tip-top, battle-ready shape by a continuing program of inspection and maintenance.

This includes a fresh coat of rust-resistant paint from stem to stern every two years and a complete overhaul in drydock every five years.

Electrical anodes are dangled over the sides to give cathodic protection and prevent hull damage.

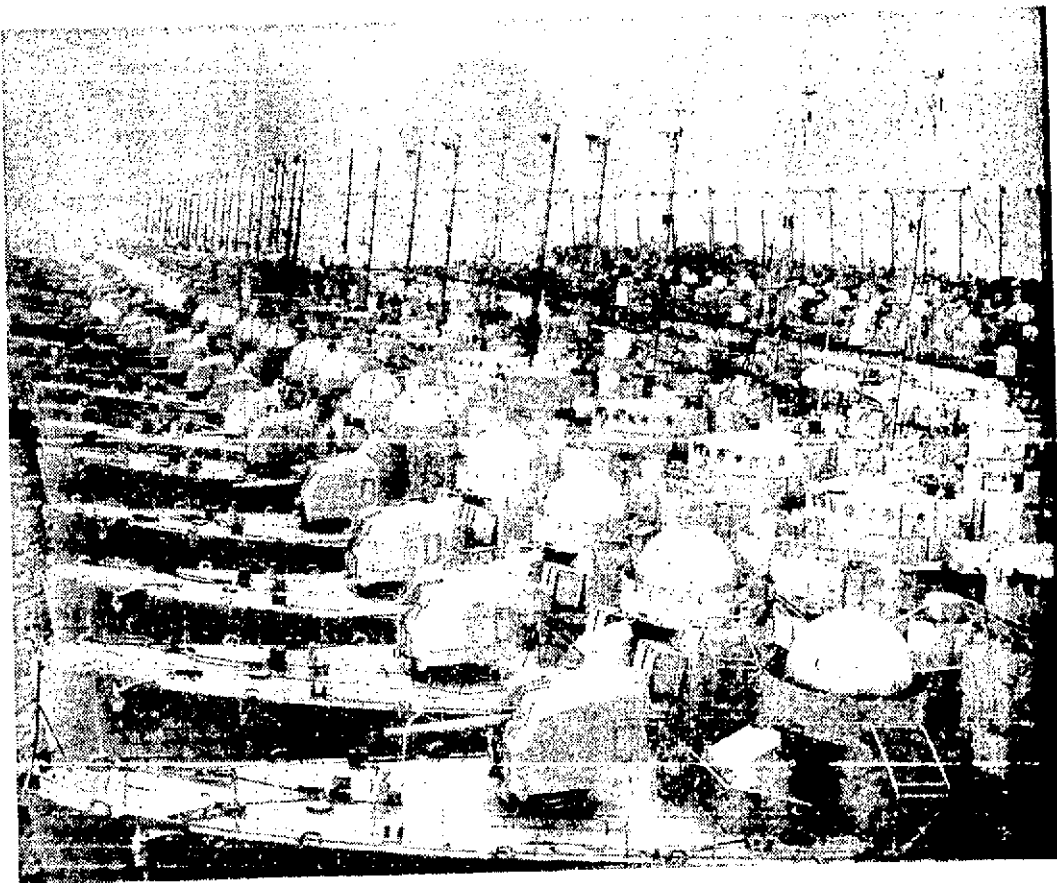

Dehumidifying machines are installed on each vessel to keep below deck areas and the stilled engine rooms dry and safe.

THE INTERIORS of each vessel are entered, checked for deterioration, repaired and resealed every 90 days.

Should any of the ships spring a leak, automatic alarms are set off.

The ghost fleet also maintains a rigid safety program.

To prevent any of the seamen from being hurt or lost aboard an empty ship while alone, the Navy requires the men to work in two-man teams to board and leave a vessel together.

Individuals boarding ships must leave their identification badges at the security shack. Should they fail to pick up the badges, an emergency search is launched.

Not all of the ships are inactive.

One, a sub tender, has been used as bachelor quarters and houses fleet offices, shops and the mess hall.

THE SAN DIEGO reserve fleet, which includes nine aircraft carriers, is dispersed by vessel types, destroyers tied to destroyers and troop transports to troop transports.

This is not only orderly, it facilitates maintenance and inspection procedures and allows for the maximum use of space in the crowded offshore mooring.

Although the American "mothball fleet," about half of the total U. S. naval forces, has dwindled in size in recent years, it is still an important and valuable arm of national defense.

As big as the combined navies of Italy (208), Japan (200) and Spain (100) it allows the U. S. to put on quick military muscle in times of crisis.

And it is cheap national insurance, too.

The cost to replace just one of the big capital ships or carriers would pay for the upkeep of the entire "mothball fleet" since World War II.

To replace this fleet would cost billions and take years, the Navy says.

Good Eggs to Ask to Easter Parties

IF YOU ARE in the upper age bracket and no longer eligible for visits from the Easter Bunny, you can still be a "good egg" and provide fun and decorations that the entire family can enjoy.

From a few empty eggshells, bits of florists tape, assorted glitter, glue, dyes, ribbons and other odds and needs, decorations with an Easter motif can be made in almost no time. They are easy to make and lots of fun too!

For instance, to make a Martian on a Flying Saucer:

Supplies

- 1 whole egg
- Easter egg dye
- 2 small eyes
- 3 large eyes
- White glue
- Purple sequins
- Small paper plate
- Gold spray
- 2 dark green pipe cleaners
- Scissors

Procedure

With tip of scissors make small perforations on end of egg and blow out contents. Rinse well and dye green. Glue on three eyes and sequins. Cut small piece pipe cleaner for mouth. Spray plate and hold until it sticks. Cut pipe cleaners in 3 2-inch lengths and 2 4-inch lengths. Glue small pieces in opening of head. Bend larger pieces for legs and attach.

Or a Carousel Space Ship for bunnies to ride:

Supplies

- 4 raw eggs
- Easter egg dye
- Assorted glitter
- 4 small daisies
- 4 two-inch colored plumes
- 4 small bunnies
- 4 purple pipe cleaners
- 2 styrofoam discs, 8 inches wide and 1-inch thick
- 6 inch styrofoam cylinder
- 3 yds. 1/2-in. lavender ribbon
- Styrofoam ball, size of baseball
- Scissors
- Straight pins
- Styrofoam glue
- Bunch violets

Procedure

With tip of scissors make small holes at ends of four eggs and gently blow out contents. Hold eggs lengthwise and draw an outline the size of a silver dollar on center of one side of eggs. Gently tap center until it breaks and then with fingers enlarge holes. Dye each egg Martian—he looks like a good egg, let's invite him to the party!—lands his Space Ship.

By Marie Von Allmen

a different color and cover with glue and sprinkle with glitter. Remove stems from daisies and glue into one end of each egg. Stick plume into other end. Through the large opening of eggs make small perforations on bottom of eggs for pipe stems to pass through. Glue cylinder in center and let dry thoroughly. Cut styrofoam ball in two and glue cut side in center of top disc.

Cut ribbons in short lengths and cross on top. Repeat on bottom disc. Thread eggshells onto pipe cleaners which have been cut to about 8-inch lengths. Place in carousel. Put bunnies in cockpits and place at different heights to simulate motion. Wrap arms of bunnies around posts. Pin violets to top.

Supplies should be available at a good hobby shop.

Carousel in Outer Space—That's the big deal little bunnies of today may (ouch!) eggspect!

Southland

OUR COVER

Whatever happens to the Southland's two major league teams in the coming season, the two baseball figures presented on today's cover should have a big finger in the pie. Upon the chances of Sandy Koufax to recover from arm ills and take his turn for the Dodgers and on the ability of the Angels' Dean Chance to emulate his remarkable season of last year depend much of the futures of the two clubs. Chance is the key to what appears to be a challenging Angel team as opening day draws near. A sound Koufax will head a solid platoon of hurlers for O'Malley's men, what with Johnny Podres, Don Drysdale and Claude Osteen seemingly ready for regular rotation and a strong bullpen in back of them. For more about Koufax, Chance, the Dodgers and the Angels, turn to Page 7.

NEWS WEEK

In 1781, beside an old oak tree not far from where the Union Railroad Station now stands, the pueblo of Los Angeles was founded. Easter Sunday will be a day of rejoicing at this historic spot—Olvera Street—the climax to a religious celebration. Southland tells you about Olvera Street's past and present, and the religious celebration, next Sunday.

Troubadours on the Go

thony Doe's Drama 1-A class at USC are going to find out whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune... for they are going to take the classic works of Anton Chekov to Southland neighborhoods that the sociologists describe as "culturally deprived."

Most in the audiences will be seeing their first live theater and the students as well as their teacher admit to apprehension. "The theatre has cut itself away from the majority of the population partly because of economics and partly because of reverse snobbery," claims drama teacher Doe. "Theater people automatically correlate low income with low intelligence or lack of interest in finer things, anything classic," continues Doe.

HE DOESN'T agree and neither do the students of the USC Experimental Drama Workshop. "We intend to find out," says Doe, who has scheduled his band of players to stow a portable stage and gay-coloured curtains in a rattly pickup truck for sojourns into low-income neighborhoods. If the experiment seems even mildly successful, the USC dramatists will enlarge their itinerary during the summer to public parks and playgrounds in all sections of Southern California.

All members of the cast are both dramatists and stagehands. They'll drive to street corner locations, unload sound equipment and bright-coloured flags to attract attention. Curtains will be strung on a quickly-assembled rigging of pipes to form a backdrop. The players will put on makeup in full view of the audience.

Their makeup for the Chekov one-act play titled "The Boor" (teacher Doe prefers to call it "The Bear") is much as that used by ancient dramatists — a half mask of whiteface with stark black outlines. In addition to the Chekov play, several pantomime sketches will be included in the one-hour show.

PERFORMANCES will be in Spanish when given in neighborhoods that are predominantly Mexican-American.

The students of the USC Experimental Drama Workshop speak softly of the idea being exported to other college campuses. "If each college would try it, it might do much good for the theater," says one.

"The world is rich with drama treasures that so few ever come into contact with," says Doe. "Museums filled with treasured paintings are free to all, but even neighborhood theater is priced high. The treasures of drama should be available to all."

It may be a worthy mission for college drama classes all over the country, the USC drama workshop members contend.

In a day of hillbillies and funny monsters in the nation's living rooms, the populace seems starved for good theater. This is one phase of the war on poverty.

"All the world's a stage, and all the men and women in it merely players. They have their exits and their entrances; and one man in his time plays many parts." —William Shakespeare.

SHAKESPEARE said "All the world's a stage" and a brave little band of reconstituted troubadours has set about proving it by taking classic theater to the people of Southern California.

A group of drama students at the University of Southern California, clad in past-centuries costumes, has undertaken what might be termed one of the nobler endeavors in the history of the theater.

In Elegant Mood

By Stella George

ALL THE NEEDS of a career woman for at-home hours are met by the apartment of Miss Ruth Muggli, 4530 E. 4th St.

A black stone entry leads to the living room which is furnished in Spanish Mediterranean style. The wood is dark, oiled walnut, shown to advantage by ivory carpeting. The long comfortable sofa and matching easy chair are upholstered in off-white hand-quilted linen. A graceful weeping willow tree is in the far corner, adding a color accent. Drapes are dark beige.

Accessories were chosen with care, in order to maintain the streamlined sophistication of the apartment. There is an original oil of the Arch de Triumph by DeVity above a console. On the console is a statuette of "The Kiss" by Auguste Rodin. Over the sofa Miss Muggli selected a Robert Wood landscape called "High Tide." A Spanish treasure chest has a place of honor on an end table, as do the fine candles on the coffee table. Hang-acquire a first-hand knowledge of the cultural centers of the world.

On July 10, Jim and 122 other highly qualified young musicians and singers between the ages of 15-21 will fly from Kennedy Airport in New York to Ramsgate, England, which will be rehearsal headquarters for their month's tour.

Queen Elizabeth is expected to attend the Royal Festival Hall Command Performance. SBA-SCA will present 20 concerts to audiences totalling approximately 50,000.

Two outstanding concerts scheduled are in St. Marks Square, Venice and in The Meistersingerhalle, Nuernberg, Europe's newest and most beautiful concert hall, completed in 1963 at a cost of $10 million.

JIM HAS BEEN studying the clarinet for seven years, the last five with a teacher for whom he has the utmost respect—Walter Thalín, clarinetist with the Long Beach Municipal Band.

Thalín played under the direction of the world's greatest conductors, including Dimitri Metropolis, Walter Damrosch, Eugene Normandy, Leopold Stowskowski, Sir Thomas Beecham and others.

The world now seems to be Jim's oyster but with the hint of a black pearl inside. All members of the School Band of America, School Chorus of America, students, chaperones, and directors alike, are responsible for their own expenses.

Jim has paid $175 to date with $703 due by May 1. Jim, his family, friends and Thalín are pitching in to help collect the money.

By Dottie Le Sage

GIVE the average newspaper reader an association test with the word "teen-age" and what will he be likely to say? Stolen hub caps, freeway accidents, dope—crime and disaster, ad infinitum.

Spend a few minutes with 17-year old Jim Bendicksen, senior at Lakewood High School and teen-age tragedy fades from your mind.

Jim's ultimate goal is to be principal clarinetist with a fine symphonic orchestra.

He is a member of the Lakewood band and the Madrigals. He has at different times been chosen to play in the All Western Orchestra, made up of young musicians from five western states; the All California Orchestra, and All California Cities Orchestra.

HIS LATEST achievement is his most exciting to date. Jim is California's winner to represent his state in the School Band of America-School Chorus of America, 1963 European Concert Tour.

It was Fred Ohlendorf, supervisor of music education for the Long Beach Unified School District who in his words, "exposed Jim to the idea of competing."

Edward T. Ham, director of SBA-SCA in his letter of notification to Jim said:

"Your acceptance in this elite organization reflects your outstanding accomplishments in the field of music, your excellent character and personality, and the high esteem in which you are held among your teachers and friends."

SINCE ITS founding July 1, 1959, the School Band of America has established itself as an integral part of the American music education scene. This organization was founded primarily for the purpose of giving outstanding American school musicians an opportunity to use their talents in the area of international understanding and at the same time

ing bookshelves are not enclosed.

A CIRCULAR table in the dining room extends to an oval when guests are present. The chairs have high cane backs, upholstered in wide stripes of aqua blue and gold. A candle holder is of circular wrought iron design with orange candles. A hanging globe lamp is above the table.

One of the many ways to make any home appear large-er is to have the same carpeting throughout. Miss Muggli has done this in her apartment. An avocado satin spread on the king-sized bed, in the bedroom contrasts with the light carpeting. Throw pillows are coral, gold, peacock blue and yellow. The wood used for the end tables and headboard is like that in the living room. Lamp bases are gold, shades are white. The painting is an abstract Parisian street scene reflecting all the colors used in the throw pillows.

THE KITCHEN is as functional as one in a large home. Copper appliances are an attractive addition. Push cabinets add to the smooth decor.

The bookcases, slat bench, and desk-style sewing machine were refinished by Miss Muggli in her spare time. She also spray painted the lamp bases in the bedroom.

Eugene Poore and 1916-D dime that he swapped for Sago palm in background.

By Bill Duncan

A SIX-FOOT Sago palm, landscaper between $700 horticultural experts and $1,000—perhaps even as say, would be hundreds of much as $1,200. Eugene Poore of La Ha-bra just bought a 250-year-old Sago palm for one thin dime.

The 10-cent Sago was purchased from La Habra landscaper Martin C. Rippens who had bought it "for considerably more than a dime" from a Pasadena homeowner whose property was condemned for a freeway site.

WHY SUCH a valuable plant could be sold for such a ridiculous price is the story of what makes collectors collect.

The dime with which the palm was bought was a 1916-D, extra fine shape coin—a collector's dream. Rippens is a coin collector and needed the 1916-D dime to complete his dime collection.

Poore, a vendor, often comes across valuable coins used for purchases in his machines. The trade was a natural.

Poore, who admits he had never even heard of a Sago palm before he spotted the one in Rippens' nursery, liked its growth pattern and its rare beauty. After Rippens told him the transplanted palm has a risk of survival—about an 80% chance of taking to its new surroundings—he did some extensive research. To protect his investment, Poore is now somewhat of an expert on the Sago palm.

THE PALM, believe it or not, is receiving vitamin shots and is fed a special diet to help it get used to the clay soil at Poore's North Hills homesite in La Habra.

The Sago palm, as it is popularly known, is actually not a palm at all. It is a cycad, a fern-like tropical evergreen. It has nothing in common with palms except general growth habits and a somewhat similar appearance.

Experts say, however, it is more palm-like than palms and that the Sago palm, or cycad, is a primitive seed plant from the jungles of a former geological age.

La Reina Rule

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have genealogy data on McCLELLAN.—H.S., Los Alamitos; H.M., Long Beach.

H.S., M.C. McCLELLAN, as well as McClelland and McLellan, began as the Scottish clan name Mac-Giolla-Fhaolain, translated as "sons of the adherent of St. Fillan." Fillan was the archaic Gaelic term for "wolf," referring to the strength and stalwartness of a wolf. The McClellans were allied to Clan MacDonald and originated in Galloway, southwest Scotland. First records of this family are in the 1300s. They were granted estates in 1466. Their armorial shield is gold, emblazoned with two black chevrons. With this shield is the clan motto "Sapl qui reputat," meaning "He who considers is wise." Noted descendants include the American General George B. McClellan, 1826-1855.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like to learn about NEWELL.—M.B., Artesia; N.N., Harbor City.

M.B., N.N.: NEWELL is a condensed spelling of this family's home city of New hall in Cheshire, England. "New-Hall" portrayed "place of the new manor-house." The Newell shield mistakenly symbolizes the name source as "New-well," for it has three "wells" and three silver rosettes on a blue chevron across a silver background. An epitaph at the West Roxbury, Mass., cemetery is engraved with the statement, "Here lyes ye body of Mr. Robert Newell who died Feb. 17, 1741, in the 68th year of his life."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain HANSEN, HANSENS.—K.H., Chicago, Ill.; C.H., Long Beach.

HANSEN and the variation HANSENS are Danish. This lineage spread during the 12th to 15th centuries to other north European nations. Hansen represents "son of Hans or Henry." The root-name Henry designated "ruler of an estate." The Hansen shield is silver. The upper third has a red eagle on it; the center has a green tree; the lower third has a grapevine cutting with two grapes.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we learn about McCORMACK.—W.M., Jacksonville, Ore.

W.M.: McCORMACK emerged in modern times from the Scottish clan name MacMormal, as well as the Irish clan MacCormaic. In each country the clan founder was a brave battle leader called Cormac, meaning "charioteer or driver of a war chariot." The clan shield is red, emblazoned with three red spots between three silver daggers, all on a chevron. The McCormack primordial motto "Sine timore" translates as "Without fear."

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have data on BERKHEIMER.—M.E., Long Beach.

M.E.: BERKHEIMER and the variation Berghammer are German, translated as "owner of a mountain home." The armorial shield for these names from Bavaria is blue. On it is a gold griffin holding a gold mallet. The griffin stands on a mountain peak. The mallet and mountain peak emblems refer to an erroneous deciphering of Berg-Hammer as "Mountain-hammer."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze MARQUIS.—H.M., Garden Grove.

H.M.: MARQUIS from France refers to a forefather who enacted the part of a marquis, a nobility rank between a duke and a count. In annual religious pageant, Marquis is primarily French, but descendants settled in Britain many centuries ago. Archibald Marquis was married at London in 1797. The Marquis shield from the French medieval province of Forez is blue, decorated with a golden pyramid.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform us on ESCOBAR.—T.E., San Pedro; L.E., Torrance.

T.E., L.E.: ESCOBAR, Spanish in origin, described the progenitor's estate as "place where Spanish broom bushes grow." Beautiful yellow and brown Spanish broom blossoms covered the Escobar estate hillside. The family shield from Extremadura, Spain is gold. On it are three green "brooms" with handles downward.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze HUNT and DE LA HUNT.—L. H., D. H., D.B., Long Beach.

HUNT and the primitive original spelling "DE LA HUNT" were from "Hunt-ere," an early English term for a professional wild game hunter. The Hunt armorial arms has a black bugle below three silver stars on a red stripe. William Hunt of Yorkshire, England, settled in Massachusetts in 1533.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain MONETTE.—H. C., M. M., Long Beach.

H. C., M.M.: MONETTE began in medieval France as a matronym, that is, a surname handed down from a famous female ancestor. This lady was baptized Emonette meaning "prosperous protectress." No shield is locatable for Monette.

SERVICES TO ATTRACT THOUSANDS

Easter at Sunrise

By Aubrey B. Haines

AS CREATION occurred before man appeared on earth, so Easter Sunrise services at the Hollywood Bowl began before the Bowl itself was built! In 1919, the late Dr. Hugo Kirchhofer first directed an Easter chorus which he organized for services at Los Angeles' Whitley Heights. Since it was successful, he arranged a chorus of children in the form of a cross for the first Bowl services two years later. On Easter morning, 1921, the first Hollywood Bowl Easter sunrise services were held, a celebration that has become a world-renowned tradition.

By far the best-attended Easter sunrise services in the West, they are rivaled only by rites at the Garden of the Gods, Colorado Springs. There, however, the worshippers must stand throughout the services, for there are no seats provided for them. At the Hollywood Bowl, wooden benches accommodate the crowds.

Upwards of 10,000 people from all over the world attend the Easter sunrise services at Mount Rubidoux, Riverside. An Easter pageant is presented every Easter morning atop Mount Ada, Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, as the sun rises over the Pacific Ocean.

ONE OF THE MOST beautiful locations for an Easter sunrise service is Mirror Lake, Yosemite. This service is considerably later than many others, because it takes a long time for the sun to get over the mountain peaks and shine on the sheltered lake.

Riders on horseback attend the Easter sunrise service at the Frontier Riders' Ring at Lakeside in San Diego County. At Twenty-Nine Palms, the service is at the Oasis, the site of the original 29 palm trees for which the town was named — although there no longer are 29 trees in the clump.

The Easter bunny will be official greeter at the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway beginning at 4:30 a.m. when the first cable car ascends Mount San Jacinto for the second annual Sunrise ride. The rising sun, at 5:14 a.m., will be greeted by Easter music on the 8,516-foot-high patio of the Alpine Chalet. The program will be repeated at 11 a.m.

In Palm Springs, the Easter service is on the fairway of the O'Donnell golf course.

A natural amphitheater that lies between hills of the Calhuenia Pass that separates Hollywood from the San Fernando Valley, Hollywood Bowl attracts worshippers for miles around. Arising early, they travel from Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino, and Riverside Counties. Early arrivals begin coming shortly after midnight. Finding seats as close to the front as possible, they spread blankets on the wooden benches and bundle themselves to shut out the chilly night air. By 3 o'clock people begin to pour in by the hundreds. Recently escalators have been installed to move the crowds with rapid facility. It is still dark when services begin at 5 o'clock.

BEFORE A LARGE cross atop a hill which overlooks the Bowl, eight white-clad trumpeters sound the call to worship, followed by the singing of a hymn. A choir in the background consists solely of young people. After the invocation the choir sings. A Scripture reading precedes the singing of a solo. By now daylight has broken through the clouds, and soon the Bowl lights will no longer be necessary. A noted actor reads an Easter poem to an organ accompaniment. Then the young people sing another anthem. An inspiring sight, their white robes enhance the setting, which contains lilies in the reflecting pool directly in front of the stage.

As a woman sings a solo, the listener suddenly discovers a lighted cross atop a near-by hill. Before an illuminated cross that stands behind a lily-banked stage, a choir sings, followed by the address of the morning, given by a renowned national or international figure on an inspiring theme. After the message a soloist sings, and the youth choir offers a concluding anthem. A benediction closes the services.

WORSHIP ended, the people step down from the terraces of seats to the nearest exits. Descending mobile ramps accommodate visitors safely and rapidly. Many persons have come with overburdened hearts and with problems that seem to defy solution. But corporate worship with 20,000 others makes tremendous impact upon their lives.

Alston Looks
to New Year

Dodgers

Walter Alston and Dodgers have interesting if uncertain future.

Out to Regain Dignity

By GEORGE LEDERER

RESILIENCE has been the Dodger trademark of the post-World War II years. Four times they have rebounded from disaster to dignity, each time with only one key change in personnel.

After losing the pennant to the Cardinals in the playoff of 1946, the Dodgers broke color and pennant barriers in one move. They brought up Jackie Robinson and won in 1947.

They lost another playoff, to the Giants, in 1951, discovered relief pitcher Joe Black, won and established a dynasty that brought three more pennants through 1956.

When the walls of Ebbets Field began to crumble in 1957, the Dodgers showed signs of cracking, also. A combination of age, new environment, smog and the Coliseum screen resulted in their nosedive to seventh place in 1958.

A YEAR LATER, with Wally Moon the only notable newcomer at the start, the Dodgers battled back and won their second world championship.

After a third playoff loss in 1962, the trade for relief pitcher Bob Miller was instrumental in another climb to the top.

General Manager Buzzie Bavasi believed he was dealt such a good hand in 1963 that he decided to play it pat last year. The Dodgers drew only at the gate (2,228,751), which wasn't bad, but five clubs beat them in the standings, which wasn't good.

Dodger hopes soared at the start of spring training, then were dealt a blow by Sandy Koufax's arm trouble and injuries to several key players. However, injuries are healing and even Koufax is back with the club, although his pitching future hangs in the balance.

Beginning Monday, in New York, the Dodgers will attempt to regain their dignity, not to mention some 300,000 dropouts among the customers. It's a new deal and Bavasi was among the most active shufflers by providing practically half a new deck.

THE DODGER roster turnover is so immense that the club stands a good chance to operate in the black on program sales alone. At the start of spring training, even manager Walter Alston couldn't tell his players without a program. (And, for the benefit of grammarians, this is possible because Alston wouldn't tell them anything without meeting them first.)

The spring roster of 33 represented a turnover of more than 33% from last year and the opening day squad of 23 will have been altered 43%. The coaching staff is 100% new.

The first-year player rule, termed by Bavasi "the silliest thing I ever saw," is responsible for seven newcomers on the roster. Four who are expected to stay are pitchers John Purdin and Mike Kekich, infielder Tommy Dean and outfielder Willie Crawford, whose total major league experience is 13 games.

This quartet represents a bonus investment of nearly $200,000, which explains their presence on the roster. They must be protected, so to say, on the big league roster for one year or the club could lose them for the first-year waiver price of $6,000.

BAVASI LIKES neither the rule, nor the odds, but says he "will match our four first-year men with any in baseball. It's a shame, though, to be that young, have that much ability and not be able to play."

"It's a bad rule, too, for the fans. The Mets have 10 first-year players, Kansas City has nine and the Giants and we have seven, but we're still charging major league prices."

The Dodgers, Yankees and Mets proposed a different bonus rule, which, Bavasi explained, "would have limited the amount of money to be spent, but would not have legislated against industry."

Rigney Supers
Ready to Open

Angels

Will the Angels "pull it off?" Rigney scratches musing head.

Impress the League

By ROSS NEWHAN

IT IS A team of supers. . .

They call Bill Rigney super-skip, Bobby Knoop super-glove, Jim Piersall super-flake, Rick Reichardt and Tom Egan super-babies, Bob Lee super-body and some writers super-scribes. Next year, they will even have a super-stadium of their own.

The Los Angeles Angels have fun with the name game, but on the field they are making a serious impression on the American League largely through the efforts of one of the major league's true super-stars.

At 23 years of age, Dean Chance has already won the Cy Young Award for pitching excellence, hurled three shutout innings in an All-Star game, equaled a major league record for shutouts and accrued more notoriety of varied complexion than Richard Burton, Dr. Martin Luther King, Billy Graham and Art Aragon combined.

It is, however, a new Chance who leads the Angels into American League action Monday against Cleveland—although Dean is not expected to draw his first start until Wednesday when a team from New York calls upon the Angels at Dodger Stadium.

A GREAT DEAL of the past was removed from Chance's life when Bo Belinsky was traded to Philadelphia and the rest has ebbed away through that natural phenomenon of maturity. A farm boy Dean Chance was born and a farm boy Dean Chance will always be, but the sophistication of the city has left its first layer of finesse and he has learned that there are other avenues than those tinted by bright lights.

The battles with management and teammates and the neon escapades of the past are the property of history and, as such, should be forgotten, according to Chance. Proclaimed recently in a national magazine as the "enfant terrible" of the Angels, Dean erupted.

"Why must they always rehash the past?" he asked. "Why do they keep sticking it to me?"

It was Chance's only blue mood of the spring. The new Dean talks quietly and sparsely and the contentment with his $47,000 contract and the financial by-products of his mound success is obvious.

Where and when the new Chance emerged is difficult to say . . . perhaps it was the day he won the Cy Young Award, perhaps it was the day he scored his 20th victory, perhaps it was the day he signed a $20,000 contract with an after-shave manufacturer, perhaps it was the day he was nominated for the Hickock Belt, perhaps it was during one of his many father-son talks with club president Robert Reynolds, perhaps it was all of these or perhaps it was none of these.

"REYNOLDS is a great man," admits Chance. "I can never repay my debt to him."

It was while Chance was conducting his siege against general manager Fred Haney over a $7,500 raise last season that Reynolds promised his brilliant right-hander that the raise would be his if he conducted his campaigns from the mound rather than a soap box.

The message took root and this spring the super-scribes have found the once deep well of Chance copy running dry.

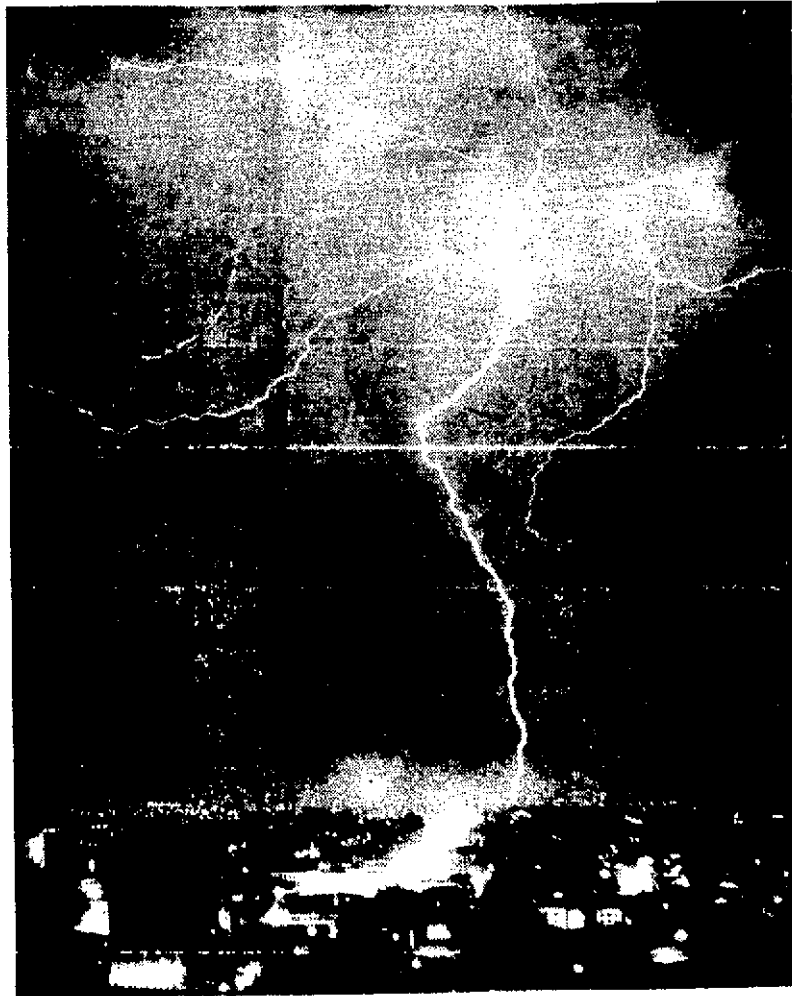

"If I judged teammates harshly and spoke in anger in the past it was because I am devoted to winning and the only way to correct mistakes is by bringing them into the light where they can be discussed," says Chance.

"I myself made as many errors as my teammates," he continues, "and now, after each game, I try to analyze every pitch. At night, I give thought to the hitters I'll be facing the next day. I like to think I have become a student of the game."

The student will not predict his marks for the 1965 examination.

When Skies Are Rent by Flame

When one of the Southland's comparatively rare lightning storms strikes, the skies present such wild spectacles as this thunderous smash at earth.

By JOHN RONSON

FINGERS OF brilliant white crackled across the black night sky, accompanied by the deep rumble of thunder.

High up in the Angeles National Forest, U.S. rangers, wrapped in rain slickers, watched apprehensively as more than 40 bolts of lightning slammed into the wooded slopes of the great recreation area.

Over Los Angeles International Airport, United Airlines Flight 527 jet from San Francisco began its landing approach when a shaft of lightning struck the great silver aircraft, bathing it in an eerie magnesium-like brilliance.

ALONG THE shore at Huntington Beach a stroller looked on in stunned fascination as a myriad limbed streak of incandescent flame crashed into the sea.

"There was a great eye-blinking burst of light and the ocean, at the spot the lightning hit, seemed to boil," he said. "But I know it was only my imagination or a trick of my eyes."

Flight 527 touched down safely with the nervous, storm-tossed aerial voyagers still unaware they had been hit by lightning.

The day dawned bleak and gray in Angeles Forest without a sign of smoke or fire anywhere on the horizon.

Southern California had ridden out another electrical storm, a relatively rare, but devastating meteorological phenomena in these regions.

In ancient times, such displays of heavenly wrath frightened mankind and led to myths of the gods rolling in chariots and firing flashing spears in battle, practice or for real.

LIGHTNING storms in the Southland inevitably knock out electrical power, hamper communications and disrupt other services in big areas.

They also kill, maim and destroy.

A 37-year-old vacationing woman electrical company worker was killed last September while strolling on the beach at Newport during a gusty daytime storm and in July 1961, a fisherman at Redondo Beach was electrocuted and three by-standers injured.

The same electrical storm set 13 forest fires.

And in summer storms of 1958 two children, ages 7 and 13, were killed by lightning at Big Bear Lake, five persons were killed and two hurt at San Francisco and two houses set afire in Norwalk and Downey.

BEING STRUCK by lightning is an incredible experience few people live to talk about.

One of those rare exceptions was Deon Bitter, 16, who was struck at a girl's camp about 14 years ago. Five others were killed in the tragedy.

"The lightning came up out of a rock at my back," she said, "and went down through my leg. I was knocked to the ground and couldn't get up.

"I saw the dead about me, but I could not get up. I could not breathe without artificial respiration."

Electrical storms seem to put everyone on edge and lightning, scientists say, apparently has wide effects on human behavior.

BOTH BIRTHS and deaths rise markedly during periods of high electrical activity, according to a survey by the World Meteorological Organization, a United Nations affiliate.

Lightning also has been proved to have a deleterious effect on human health, affecting such diseases as heart failure, arthritis, asthma, ulcers, rheumatism and even schizophrenia.

It has beneficial effects, too.

Wheat germ placed in a laboratory where an atmospheric electrical field was created grew 23% longer. (Continued on Page 37)

A for Arab, Z for Zyphyr

Refuting an often-expressed opinion that race horses have a corner on diversification of names, note this small sampling of boats in their slips at Long Beach Marina. The owners have tagged their prize possessions with almost every conceivable handle, from A for Arab to Z for Zyphyr. A large majority selected their pet labels from the elements—the waves, seas, moon, clouds, and even from family names, sometimes with a gimmick such as the family name spelled backwards. Other monikers are in a humorous vein, constituting a play on words or pointing up the owner's sacrifice to become the proud owner of a boat. Visit the big nautical corral and see for yourself!—JOHN H. NEAGLE.

Q. How did swordfish and sharks get into Lake Nicaragua? D.Y.

A. Geologists believe that this large fresh-water Nicaraguan lake was once a part of the Pacific Ocean. Volcanic activity caused a land mass to rise up and separate the two bodies of water, capturing in the new lake several species of salt-water fishes, including shark, swordfish, and tuna. Rivers draining into Lake Nicaragua gradually caused it to become salt-free. The captured fishes were forced to adapt to fresh-water conditions. Nicaragua is the largest lake between the Great Lakes and Peru.

Q. Is there any danger in storing a fur coat in my mothproof home closet, rather than in commercial storage? J.B.

A. Yes. While most persons believe that storage by a reputable business firm only protects furs against insect damage and theft, in reality such storage also lengthens the life of the garment. By strict regulation of the temperature and humidity levels, furs are kept soft and pliable, without color change. Usually, cold air is blown into the vault of a modern storage firm, and the temperature is maintained at about 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Periodically, however, the temperature is very rapidly lowered to about 18 degrees in order to kill any moth larvae. Relative humidity is maintained at 50 to 60 per cent.

Q. Is Marco Polo, the traveler, only a legendary character? F.Y.

A. No. Marco Polo was a Venetian merchant who traveled to the Orient in the 13th century. He began his journey in 1271, accompanied by his father and uncle. He arrived in what is present-day Peking in 1275. Marco became the favorite and agent of Kublai Khan, the Mongol emperor, and traveled widely throughout the East. In 1295, he returned to Venice and later dictated an account of his journey. This book became the chief source of information about the East during the Renaissance in Europe.

Did Shakespeare say: "Since brevity is the soul of wit ... I will be brief"? G.C.

The Sleeping Armada

Almost 200 warships,
a fleet larger and more powerful than most navies of the world, ride at anchor in mothballs
in San Diego Bay.

By LOU JOBST

A FLEET larger and more powerful than most of the world navies slumbers at anchor in San Diego Bay.

Known as the Pacific Reserve Fleet and numbering some 175 warships, this sleeping armada is tied up, row on silent row, along five narrow finger piers at the U. S. Navy Station in National City.

The San Diego group, ranging from giant aircraft carriers to tiny tugs, is the largest of seven so-called "mothball fleets," totaling 500 vessels the Navy maintains in readiness at various seaports around the U. S.

These ships, their guns plugged, electrical equipment and important machinery encased in special metal cocoons and sealed airtight below decks, can be put back into service in a matter of days in the event of a national emergency.

PORTIONS of the Southland "mothball fleet," first established in 1945, were called to active duty and put into action within a month during the Korean War and the Suez crisis.

The Pacific Reserve Fleet is commanded by Capt. Charles Samuel Hart, 50-year-old Naval Academy graduate and decorated veteran of both WW II and the Korean action.

His command numbers some 500 officers and men who find the duty different than anything else the Navy offers.

"It's something like working in a graveyard," says one "ghost fleet" veteran. "You get a spooky feeling, being the only man on a huge and silent ship."

MANY OF THE California-based inactive fleet, including its biggest ships, the 875-foot carrier Philippine Sea and the $80 million cruiser Los Angeles, were deactivated and put into mothballs at the Navy Shipyard in Long Beach.

After deactivation is completed and the unmanned ship is towed to the San Diego anchorage, it is kept in tip-top, battle-ready shape by a continuing program of inspection and maintenance.

This includes a fresh coat of rust-resistant paint from stem to stern every two years and a complete overhaul in drydock every five years.

Electrical anodes are dangled over the sides to give cathodic protection and prevent hull damage.

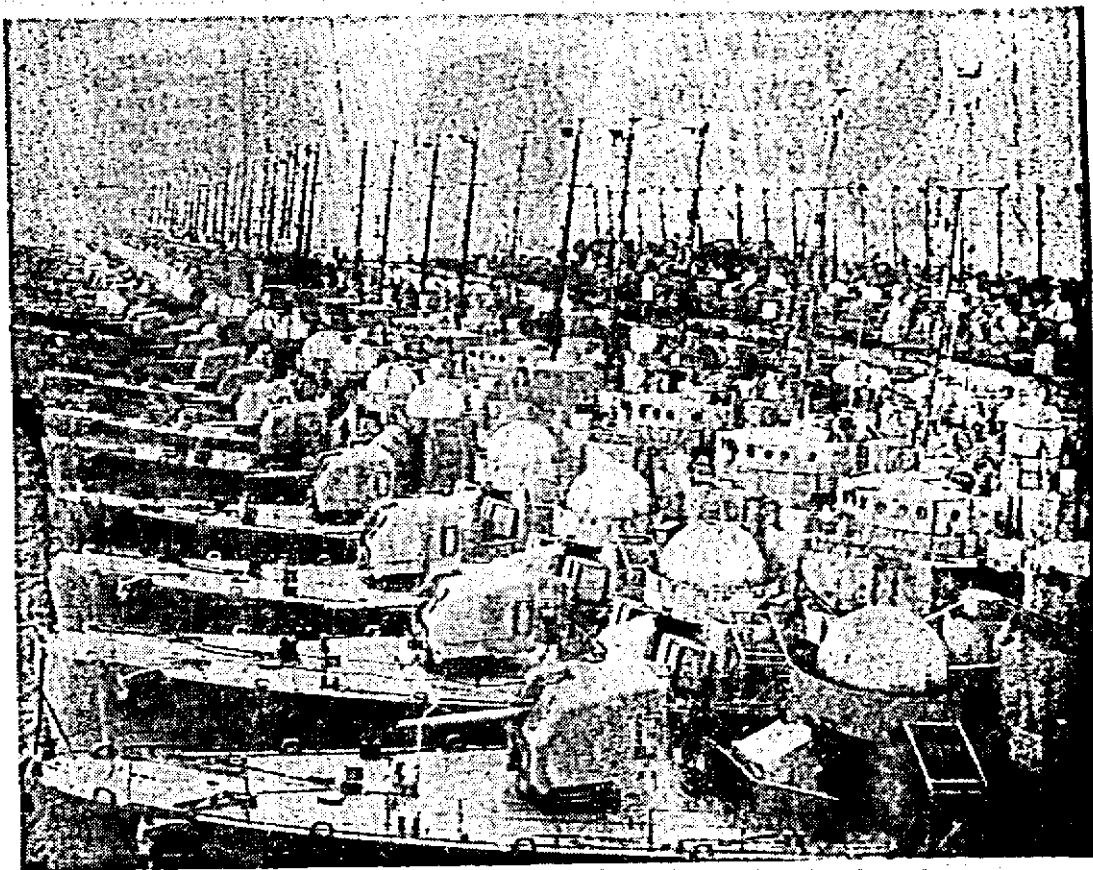

Dehumidifying machines are installed on each vessel to keep below deck areas and the stilled engine rooms dry and safe.

THE INTERIORS of each vessel are entered, checked for deterioration, repaired and resealed every 90 days.

Should any of the ships spring a leak, automatic alarms are set off.

The ghost fleet also maintains a rigid safety program.

To prevent any of the seamen from being hurt or lost aboard an empty ship while alone, the Navy requires the men to work in two-man teams to board and leave a vessel together.

Individuals boarding ships must leave their identification badges at the security shack. Should they fail to pick up the badges, an emergency search is launched.

Not all of the ships are inactive.

One, a sub tender, has been used as bachelor quarters and houses fleet offices, shops and the mess hall.

THE SAN DIEGO reserve fleet, which includes nine aircraft carriers, is dispersed by vessel types, destroyers tied to destroyers and troop transports to troop transports.

This is not only orderly, it facilitates maintenance and inspection procedures and allows for the maximum use of space in the crowded offshore mooring.

Although the American "mothball fleet," about half of the total U. S. naval forces, has dwindled in size in recent years, it is still an important and valuable arm of national defense.

As big as the combined navies of Italy (209), Japan (200) and Spain (100) it allows the U. S. to put on quick military muscle in times of crisis.

And it is cheap national insurance, too.

The cost to replace just one of the big capital ships or carriers would pay for the upkeep of the entire "mothball fleet" since World War II.

To replace this fleet would cost billions and take years, the Navy says.

Crab Pear Mousse

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) Bartlett pear halves | 3 tablespoons lemon juice |
| French dressing, creamy-style | 1 tablespoon white wine vinegar with tarragon |
| 1 can (7½ oz.) crab meat, flaked | ½ teaspoon onion salt |
| 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped | 1 cup dairy sour cream |
| 1 envelope (1 tsp.) unflavored gelatin | ½ cup whipping cream, whipped |
| ¼ cup cold water | Crisp greens |
| | 2 tablespoons French dressing |
| | 1 cup dairy sour cream |
- To prepare salad: Drain pears and dice 3 halves; marinate remaining pear halves in French dressing in refrigerator. In a mixing bowl toss together diced pears, crab meat and eggs; set aside. In a saucepan soften gelatin in cold water; heat to dissolve gelatin; add lemon juice, vinegar and onion salt. Fold sour cream, whipped cream and crab meat mixture into gelatin. Pour into 1-quart salad mold. Refrigerate until set. Unmold on greens on chilled serving plate. Garnish with marinated pear halves. Serve with Dressing. To prepare Dressing: Gently fold French dressing into sour cream. Serves 8.

Buttered Tomato Consomme

In a saucepan combine 1 large can (46 oz.) tomato juice with 2 cans (10½ oz. each) undiluted beef consommé. Heat to serving temperature. Pour into soup tureen and top with butter pats. Yield: approx. 8 cups.

Lemon Vegetable Salad

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|--|
| 1 pkg. (3 oz.) lemon-flavored gelatin | 1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) Bartlett pear halves, drained |
| 1½ cups boiling water | Crisp greens |
| 2 cups cottage cheese | 4 teaspoons lemon juice |
| ½ cup chopped celery | 2 teaspoons sugar |
| ¼ cup chopped green pepper | ½ teaspoon celery salt |
| 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento | ¼ teaspoon salt |
| 1 tablespoon chopped green onion | 1 cup dairy sour cream |

To prepare salad: In a mixing bowl dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Chill until jelly-like in consistency. Add cottage cheese, celery, green pepper, pimiento and onion. Place a drained pear half, cut side down, in bottom of each of eight, 5-ounce

Good Eggs to Ask to Easter Parties

IF YOU ARE in the upper age bracket and no longer eligible for visits from the Easter Bunny, you can still be a "good egg" and provide fun and decorations that the entire family can enjoy.

From a few empty eggshells, bits of florists tape, assorted glitter, glue, dyes, ribbons and other odds and needs, decorations with an Easter motif can be made in almost no time. They are easy to make and lots of fun too!

For instance, to make a Martian on a Flying Saucer:

Supplies

1 whole egg
Easter egg dye
2 small eyes
3 large eyes
White glue
Purple sequins
Small paper plate
Gold spray
2 dark green pipe cleaners
Scissors

Procedure

With tip of scissors make small perforations on end of egg and blow out contents. Rinse well and dye green. Glue on three eyes and sequins. Cut small piece pipe cleaner for mouth. Spray plate and hold until it sticks. Cut pipe cleaners in 3 2-inch lengths and 2 4-inch lengths. Glue small pieces in opening of head. Bend larger pieces for legs and attach.

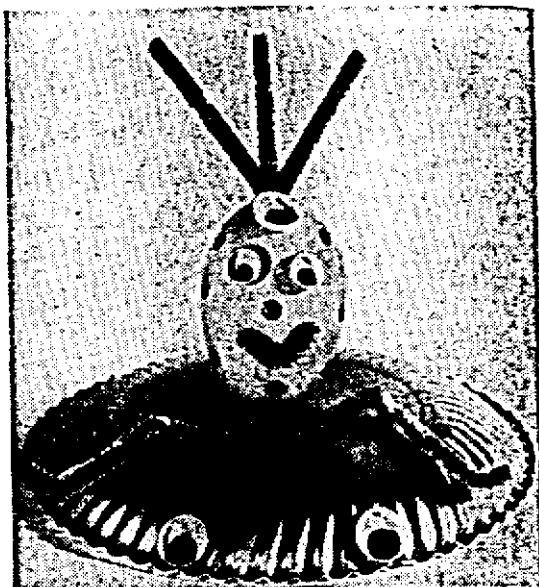

Or a Carousel Space Ship for bunnies to ride:

Supplies

4 raw eggs
Easter egg dye
Assorted glitter
4 small daisies
4 two-inch colored plumes
4 small bunnies
4 purple pipe cleaners
2 styrofoam discs, 8 inches wide and 1-inch thick
6 inch styrofoam cylinder
3 yds. 1/2-in. lavender ribbon
Styrofoam ball, size of baseball
Scissors
Straight pins
Styrofoam glue
Bunch violets

Procedure

With tip of scissors make small holes at ends of four eggs and gently blow out contents. Hold eggs lengthwise and draw an outline the size of a silver dollar on center of one side of eggs. Gently tap center until it breaks and then with fingers enlarge holes. Dye each egg

a different color and cover with glue and sprinkle with glitter. Remove stems from daisies and glue into one end of each egg. Stick plume into other end. Through the large opening of eggs make small perforations on bottom of eggs for pipe stems to pass through. Glue cylinder in center and let dry thoroughly. Cut styrofoam ball in two and glue cut side in center of top disc.

Cut ribbons in short lengths and cross on top. Repeat on bottom disc. Thread eggshells onto pipe cleaners which have been cut to about 8-inch lengths. Place in carousel. Put bunnies in cockpits and place at different heights to simulate motion. Wrap arms of bunnies around posts. Pin violets to top.

Supplies should be available at a good hobby shop.

Carousel in Outer Space—That's the big deal little bunnies of today may (ouch!) eggspect!

Recipe of the Week

GELATIN eggs go into salad for the Easter season in a recipe that wins $5 this week for Mrs. H. G. Hanbloom, 6 Seventh Place, Apt. F, Long Beach 90802. The recipe:

Salad for Easter

Allow 2 eggs per person. Punch small hole in one end of egg with a large needle. In the other end, make a large hole. Gently blow through the small hole to remove the egg. Place small piece of adhesive over small hole.

Have ready to use red, green, yellow, orange and purple gelatin. Prepare gelatin as usual except for using 1½ cups hot water instead of 2 cups, to insure firmness. Let cool. Fill the egg shells in desired colors. Let stand upright in egg cartons until well set.

To serve: Break shells and peel off from the gelatin eggs. Place 2 eggs in finely shredded lettuce nests or use green tinted cottage cheese for the nests.

Spring Salad Fashions

Note: Instead of individual molds, a 6-cup ring

mold may be used. Arrange drained pear halves in ring mold; if using small pear halves, place cut side down in mold. Carefully pour gelatin mixture over and around pears. Chill until firm. Serve with Lemon Dressing. If pears were placed cut side down in mold, spoon dressing in center of each pear half.

To prepare 6 individual salads, use six 6-ounce molds.

Angels Impress the League

(Continued from Page 7) "IF I DON'T win 20 I'll be truly disappointed," he says, and it is his only statement regarding the future.

There is a temptation to probe into the structure of the new Chance, for one remembers its shaky foundation. One is compelled to believe that the leopard does not lose its spots and Dean Chance does not change overnight.

The harvest from the magnificent 1964 crop was bountiful, but the locusts watch for the man who does not tend his field. The banquets were many and the rewards plentiful for Dean Chance and one examines the maturity for signs of a crack.

"Yes, I, too, was watching Chance carefully this spring," admits manager Rigney. "It would have been easy for him to dig it, to rest on his laurels. Maybe, he would have gotten away with it.

"The point is, he didn't try. He ran more than any pitcher in camp. He did more work than anyone in camp. He was always there when we looked for him. He went out of his way to help the youngsters."

IT IS, PERHAPS, Chance's devotion to winning that will not permit his pride to settle for anything less than a repeat of the 1964 season. It will be a demanding task.

The record itself, 20-9, is impressive, but the manner in which it was achieved was dazzling.

Only 5-4 at the All-Star break, Chance went on to win 15 more for 20 decisions. His major league-leading earned run average of 1.65 was one of the best of the modern era.

He hurled a major league-leading 11 shutouts and tied a major league record as five of them were by 1-0 scores. He led the league with 15 complete games and during one midsummer streak won nine in a row.

In a June game he struck out 15 Red Sox and five times he allowed only two hits. At Dodger Stadium his earned run average was 1.08 and his record was 11-3.

DURING JUNE he hurled 28 consecutive scoreless innings and against the pennant-winning Yankees he won four games without a defeat and a home run by Mickey Mantle represented New York's only run in 50 innings against the lean, strong farmer.

"He is the best right-hander in baseball," says Rigney.

"No offer of any magnitude would make us consider parting with Chance," says owner Gene Autry.

A super-star on a team headed for super-things is Chance. Make that Mr. Wilmer Dean Chance, a new man.

they Doe's Drama 1-A class at USC are going to find out whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune... for they are going to take the classic works of Anton Chekov to Southland neighborhoods that the sociologists describe as "culturally deprived."

Most in the audiences will be seeing their first live theater and the students as well as their teacher admit to apprehension. "The theatre has cut itself away from the majority of the population partly because of economics and partly because of reverse snobbery," claims drama teacher Doe. "Theater people automatically correlate low income with low intelligence or lack of interest in finer things, anything classic," continues Doe.

HE DOESN'T agree and neither do the students of the USC Experimental Drama Workshop. "We intend to find out," says Doe, who has scheduled his band of players to stow a portable stage and gay-colored curtains in a ratty pickup truck for sojourns into low-income neighborhoods. If the experiment seems even mildly successful, the USC dramatists will enlarge their itinerary during the summer to public parks and playgrounds in all sections of Southern California.

All members of the cast are both dramatists and stagehands. They'll drive to street corner locations, unload sound equipment and bright-colored flags to attract attention. Curtains will be strung on a quickly-assembled rigging of pipes to form a backdrop. The players will put on makeup in full view of the audience.

Their makeup for the Chekov one-act play titled "The Boor" (teacher Doe prefers to call it "The Bear") is much as that used by ancient dramatists — a half mask of whiteface with stark black outlines. In addition to the Chekov play, several pantomime sketches will be included in the one-hour show.

PERFORMANCES will be in Spanish when given in neighborhoods that are predominantly Mexican-American.

The students of the USC Experimental Drama Workshop speak softly of the idea being exported to other college campuses. "If each college would try it, it might do much good for the theater," says one.

"The world is rich with drama treasures that so few ever come into contact with," says Doe. "Museums filled with treasured paintings are free to all, but even neighborhood theater is priced high. The treasures of drama should be available to all."

It may be a worthy mission for college drama classes all over the country, the USC drama workshop members contend.

In a day of hillbillies and funny monsters in the nation's living rooms, the populace seems starved for good theater. This is one phase of the war on poverty.

"All the world's a stage, and all the men and women in it merely players. They have their exits and their entrances; and one man in his time plays many parts." —William Shakespeare.

By Jerome Hall

SHAKESPEARE said "All the world's a stage" and a brave little band of reconstituted troubadours has set about proving it by taking classic theater to the people of Southern California.

A group of drama students at the University of Southern California, clad in past-centuries costumes, has undertaken what might be termed one of the nobler endeavors in the history of the theater.

THE MEASURE OF VALUE

He Walked With Destiny

HOAGY CARMICHAEL writes about jazz and a life spent playing ragtime and jazz in "SOME-TIMES I WONDER" (Farrar, Straus, $5.50). His favorite, he admits, is Chicago jazz.

WHEN PULITZER Prize novelist Herman Wouk took up residence in the Virgin Islands six years ago, it became only a matter of time until he wrote a book set in the Caribbean.

That foregone conclusion is "DON'T STOP THE CARNIVAL" (Doubleday, $5), newest and undoubtedly the most delightful book yet by the author of such memorable works as "The Caine Mutiny," "Youngblood Hawke," and "Marjorie Morningstar."

Wry, ironic and funnier than anything Wouk has done before, "Carnival" is the story of a bored middle-aged New Yorker named Norman Paperman who chucks a successful career as a Broadway publicity man to buy a hotel on the make-believe island of Amerigo, somewhere in the Caribbean.

Paperman's misadventures on this tropical isle provide hilarious, side-splitting reading.

The cast includes a bevy of memorable new 'Woukish' characters including Hippolyte, a half-mad French handyman; Church Wagner, a youthful bartender who looks like Billy Budd, and Hazel, sexpot offspring of the hero.

By Vera Williams
Savannah Magazine Book Editor

I FELT as if I were walking with Destiny, and that all my past life had been but a preparation for this hour and for this trial....

Winston Churchill did walk with Destiny, this man of the century who led England in her darkest hour and saw victory achieved.

A headliner in the rush of Churchill books this spring is "CHURCHILL: Portrait of Greatness," pictorial biography with text by Pulitzer prize-winning Associated Press reporter Relman (Pat) Morin (Prentice-Hall, $3.95). Churchill's wit and wisdom, his genius and greatness, his victories and defeats, emerge in a sweeping narrative that offers a perceptive view of history from the days of Queen Victoria. Excellent photos. The cover, in color, is Karski's famous portrait of a benedicted Churchill.

Bill Adler, noted for his recent best-selling collection, "The Kennedy Wit," has compiled a selection of Sir Winston's verbal humor in "THE CHURCHILL WIT" (Coward - McCann, $3). Churchill's richest mots were reserved for his political enemies: He said Ramsay MacDonald possessed "the gift of compressing the largest amount of words into the smallest amount of thought"; of Clement Attlee, Labor party prime minister, he remarked "Attlee is a very modest man. And with reason." He said His Majesty's Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps had "all the virtues I dislike and none of the vices I admire."

FROM 1741 through 1867 Russia's eastern frontier was Russian America, known today as Alaska. The story of the Russians' occupation of the northwest corner of our continent, from their initial exploration eastward in the 17th Century to the purchase of the land by the United States in 1867 is recounted by Hector Chevigny in "RUSSIAN AMERICA" (Viking, $6.95).

Few people realize that Russian America covered more area than that of the 13 American colonies or that Russia's outposts extended as far north as the Yukon and as far south as California. Russia developed a trade by sea which stretched from the Orient to New England. The capital, New Archangel, the first seaport in western America, had 1,000 inhabitants before San Francisco had 100; it had a cathedral, a seminary, a college and two science institutes. Its shipyard, the first north of Hawaii, launched the first steam vessel built in the Pacific.

Chevigny feels that the Russians were the catalysts of American history in the Pacific. Because Russia's activities attracted the attention of seafaring nations such as England, France and Spain to this area, the United States was forced to move westward to defend what she considered her natural boundary on the Pacific.

YOU CAN'T keep the human spirit down, and what's been happening to Spanish literature under Franco's tight dictatorship is another proof of it. Ana Maria Maute's novel "THE LOST CHILDREN" (Macmillan $6.95) shows Spanish society today as ripped from its spiritual and ethical foundations. Her story takes place in a small Castilian village.

The impoverished landholding Corvo family proud, still swayed by the dictates of lineage, are its central characters. Tragedy overshadows the lives of all the Corvos. The old man, Gerardo, is lulled by anise. The daughter, Isabel, is an unhappy spinster, whose obsession is the need to regain the family honor, to rebuild the family home. The nephew, Daniel, has returned from the civil war, having fought against the family's traditions. He is dying of a lung ailment.

Gerardo's daughter by a peasant woman, the child of his second marriage, Monica, alone has the will to act, to change the surroundings for the sake of survival. Her liaison with the escaped convict Miguel Fernandez, in the forest is made to symbolize the deep desire to escape the past. And this too ends in disaster.

NOT A THIRD EYE, but a spot from which the light of wisdom shines, the dot on the forehead of this Buddha symbolizes his role as teacher of the divine wisdom (Pakistan 2d-3d century a. d.). This is one of 55 color plates from "THE ART OF BUDDHISM" by Dietrich Seikel (Crown, $6.95).

Out of such tragic materials Ana Maria Maute has made a novel with a sweep suggesting some of Spain's finest writers of the last century.

SAMUEL ASTRACHAN'S new novel, "THE GAME OF DOSTOEVSKY" (Farrar, Straus and Giroux, $4.95) centers around faculty life at a university campus in upper Manhattan. In their game of "Dostoevsky," combining elements of monopoly and charades, their subtle interrelations gradually come to light as they attack one another, reveal how they see themselves and their confreres. "The Game of Dostoevsky" depicts a world of people lost, bored and disillusioned, a world often marked by intellectual achievement and personal failure.

In Elegant Mood

By Stella George

ALL THE NEEDS of a career woman for at-home hours are met by the apartment of Miss Ruth Muggli, 4530 E. 4th St.

A black stone entry leads to the living room which is furnished in Spanish Mediterranean style. The wood is dark, oiled walnut, shown to advantage by ivory carpeting. The long comfortable sofa and matching easy chair are upholstered in off-white hand-quilted linen. A graceful weeping willow tree is in the far corner, adding a color accent. Drapes are dark beige.

Accessories were chosen with care, in order to maintain the streamlined sophistication of the apartment. There is an original oil of the Arch de Triumph by DeVity above a console. On the console is a statuette of "The Kiss" by Auguste Rodin. Over the sofa Miss Muggli selected a Robert Wood landscape called "High Tide." A Spanish treasure chest has a place of honor on an end table, as do the fine candles on the coffee table. Hanging bookshelves are not enclosed.

A CIRCULAR table in the dining room extends to an oval when guests are present. The chairs have high cane backs, upholstered in wide stripes of aqua blue and gold. A candle holder is of circular wrought iron design with orange candles. A hanging globe lamp is above the table.

One of the many ways to make any home appear large-

er is to have the same carpeting throughout. Miss Muggli has done this in her apartment. An avocado satin spread on the king-sized bed in the bedroom contrasts with the light carpeting. Throw pillows are coral, gold, peacock blue and yellow. The wood used for the end tables and headboard is like that in the living room. Lamp bases are gold, shades are white. The painting is an abstract Parisian street scene reflecting all the colors used in the throw pillows.

THE KITCHEN is as functional as one in a large home. Copper appliances are an attractive addition. Push cabinets add to the smooth decor.

The bookcases, slat bench, and desk-style sewing machine were refinished by Miss Muggli in her spare time. She also spray painted the lamp bases in the bedroom.

COIN ROUNDUP

A New Quirk

By Maurice M. Gould

NUMISMATIC history is being made in 1965. Due to the fact that the United States government is not issuing a proof set in 1965, many collectors have hopped on the foreign proof set bandwagon and millions of dollars are going to every foreign government producing mint or proof sets.

Many countries who hitherto have not bothered with the coin collector are now catering to him by issuing commemorative sets and some of them are issuing beautiful proof sets in presentation cases. France, South Africa, Malta, Pakistan, and other countries in various parts of the world are turning out material for the collector just as fast as the presses will operate.

One concrete example this year is the Canadian proof set phenomena when, within a few hours, the entire year's production was sold out and hundreds of thousands of orders were returned to the prospective purchasers. Millions of dollars were returned to the United States and then this money was sent all over the world, to all of the countries producing numismatic material. Even the new African countries have followed the trend and since they have no mints of their own, have proof sets struck in England, Austria and other mints.

The astute foreign governments have realized the great potential and the ultimate profits in the manufacture of proof sets for collectors and this is a means for the governments to obtain the much-sought-after U. S. dollars. It is certainly unfortunate that we could not produce the U. S. proof sets this year as the greater part of investment money was being used for the purchase of U. S. proof sets, on top of which, the government made a substantial profit on each set it sold.

The U. S. government can ill afford the flow of dollars to other countries and if this mad rush of money persists in being shipped overseas, the time may come when the government could possibly take steps to forbid the importation of foreign coins for collectors. This is something to think about!

MUCH HAS BEEN written in recent years about coin collecting, not always by authors familiar with this hobby and many misstatements have been made and the public accepts these as the gospel.

Many letters are received pertaining to Lincoln cents and one party will write, "I have a 1909 Lincoln cent with a vdb on the reverse. I read where this coin is worth $325."

Another party writes, "I have a 1909 Lincoln cent with the letter S and I understand my coin is worth more than $300."

These people, along with many others, have obtained their information from misinformed and self-appointed authorities. The Lincoln cent which is rare is dated 1909, it has the letter "S" under the date which stands for the San Francisco Mint, and on the lower part of the reverse are the initials "VDB" which stand for the designer, Victor D. Brenner. It is necessary to have all of the three features mentioned for the coin to be the rare 1909-S VDB. This is the Lincoln cent worth from $100 to $350 and is sought after by dealer and collector alike.

With lilies in the reflecting pool and a lily-banked stage, services at Easter sunrise are an annual event, providing scenes like one above.

SERVICES TO ATTRACT THOUSANDS

Easter at Sunrise

By Aubrey B. Haines

AS CREATION occurred before man appeared on earth, so Easter Sunrise services at the Hollywood Bowl began before the Bowl itself was built! In 1919, the late Dr. Hugo Kirchhofer first directed an Easter chorus which he organized for services at Los Angeles' Whitley Heights. Since it was successful, he arranged a chorus of children in the form of a cross for the first Bowl services two years later. On Easter morning, 1921, the first Hollywood Bowl Easter sunrise services were held, a celebration that has become a world-renowned tradition.

By far the best-attended Easter sunrise services in the West, they are rivaled only by rites at the Garden of the Gods, Colorado Springs. There, however, the worshippers must stand throughout the services, for there are no seats provided for them. At the Hollywood Bowl, wooden benches accommodate the crowds.

Upwards of 10,000 people from all over the world attend the Easter sunrise services at Mount Rubidoux, Riverside. An Easter pageant is presented every Easter morning atop Mount Ada, Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, as the sun rises over the Pacific Ocean.

ONE OF THE MOST beautiful locations for an Easter sunrise service is Mirror Lake, Yosemite. This service is considerably later than many others, because it takes a long time for the sun to get over the mountain peaks and shine on the sheltered lake.

Riders on horseback attend the Easter sunrise service at the Frontier Riders' Ring at Lakeside in San Diego County. At Twenty-Nine Palms, the service is at the Oasis, the site of the original 29 palm trees for which the town was named — although there no longer are 29 trees in the clump.

The Easter bunny will be official greeter at the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway beginning at 4:30 a.m. when the first cable car ascends Mount San Jacinto for the second annual Sunrise ride. The rising sun, at 5:14 a.m., will be greeted by Easter music on the 8,516-foot-chapel of the Alpine Chalet. The program will be repeated at 11 a.m.

In Palm Springs, the Easter service is on the fairway of the O'Donnell golf course.

A natural amphitheater that lies between hills of the Cahuenga Pass that separates Hollywood from the San Fernando Valley, Hollywood Bowl attracts worshippers for miles around. Arising early, they travel from Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino, and Riverside Counties. Early arrivals begin coming shortly after midnight. Finding seats as close to the front as possible, they spread blankets on the wooden benches and bundle themselves to shut out the chilly night air. By 3 o'clock people begin to pour in by the hundreds. Recently escalators have been installed to move the crowds with rapid facility. It is still dark when services begin at 5 o'clock.

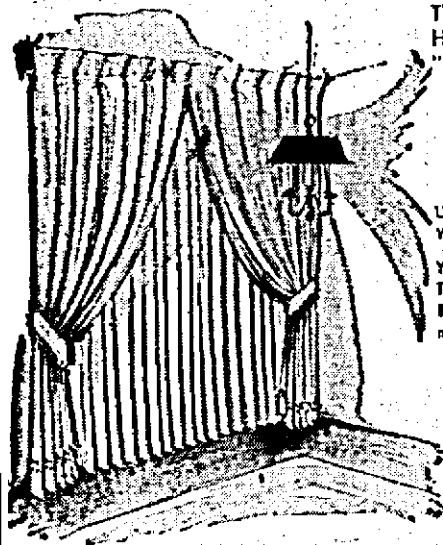

BEFORE A LARGE cross atop a hill which overlooks the Bowl, eight white-clad trumpeters sound the call to worship, followed by the singing of a hymn. A choir in the background consists solely of young people. After the invocation the choir sings. A Scripture reading precedes the singing of a solo. By now daylight has broken through the clouds, and soon the Bowl lights will no longer be necessary. A noted actor reads an Easter poem to an organ accompaniment. Then the young people sing another anthem. An inspiring sight, their white robes enhance the setting, which contains lilies in the reflecting pool directly in front of the stage.

As a woman sings a solo, the listener suddenly discovers a lighted cross atop a near-by hill. Before an illuminated cross that stands behind a lily-banked stage, a choir sings, followed by the address of the morning, given by a renowned national or international figure on an inspiring theme. After the message a soloist sings, and the youth choir offers a concluding anthem. A benediction closes the services.

WORSHIP ended, the people step down from the terraces of seats to the nearest exits. Descending mobile ramps accommodate visitors safely and rapidly. Many persons have come with overburdened hearts and with problems that seem to defy solution. But corporate worship with 20,000 others makes tremendous impact upon their lives.

Easter Tribute

By Lorena Fleissig

PAQUE and snowy white, these formal lilies (see illustration) suggest the upward look.

This buffet piece assembles quickly and for those who like to innovate, here is an example of using simple forms in design. Almost all design that is practical is built upon the basic forms or their variations. These are the circle, the square and the triangle.

This idea can be followed in carrying out new adaptations with the materials commonly found in the household. There is a super-surplus of expertly finished, well designed containers at the craftsman's disposal in glass, paper and plastic in varied shapes, sizes and colors. It is an easily available medium for the craftsman to use—always remembering that good form is beautiful of itself and the aim is to keep it simple.

A CLEVER THEME does not always work out on the first try so be prepared with extra materials, such as scissors or knife, ice pick or nail, paint and papers to work on.

Illustrated is a modern interpretation of the Easter theme using form and design. Used are eight white plastic foam coffee cups, six wooden knitting needles (found in a rummage sale), four narrow strips to represent leaves, cut from gold paper (white on black) and two oblong blocks approximately eight and ten inches in length, of styrofoam.

The coffee cups may be salvaged from the coffee break and carefully washed back to whiteness, or they may be purchased in most markets.

The cups are cut with scissors into four, five and six equal divisions down within an inch or less of the bottoms. The sections are then curved with the scissors into petal form. Different width petals provide simple variation.

THE LONG wooden knitting needles are shaped to a short point and painted or sprayed gold. The points are forced through the bases of the cups from the inside until the button-like ends are firmly seated and hold the cups upright.

Inserting the needle stems in the stacked styrofoam blocks requires some thought. There may be as many variations as the imagination suggests. The tallest stem is placed off center to the left at the top of the triangular pattern. Altogether, three are pushed down through the top platform and five in the lower step in an alternating effect. Five tapering strips for leaves, each an inch wide, are cut from paper that is gold on one side, white on the other (available in stationery stores). The base ends are pointed and inserted close to the gold stems. Bend the leaves past the next vertical stem. The colors, gold and white give an effect of simplicity and richness.

NOTE THAT the top block

of the foundation is placed flush at the back corner, while presenting a stair-step effect at the front and one side.

As stated before, good design in containers of all kinds is the result of much planning and expense, ready material to encore in a second act for the craftsman. An alliance of simplicity and imagination makes form itself the most outstanding feature of an effective arrangement.

Free Swimming Pool Planning Kit

If you are planning a pool this year here is your opportunity to get a free kit showing all phases of pool construction. Also included are tips on pool buying plus complete information on special equipment. Kit is packed with facts and ideas you will want to know before you build.

This free kit was put out by Anthony Pools, world's largest pool-builder.

Its authoritative information was developed by Anthony, based on the building of over 24,000 pools.

In the pictures and text it describes the way modern pools are constructed. The growing use of high-speed automatic equipment for excavation and gunite cementing has kept the price of Anthony pools low while prices in general have gone up. A modern pool is just about the biggest bargain you can get these days.

It is important that you choose a builder large enough to offer you modern speed and economy.

During the first four months of this year Anthony has built more pools in the greater Los Angeles area than the next three largest pool builders combined. This is a dramatic endorsement of Anthony's value, service, and reputation.

Kit also describes such Anthony exclusive accessories as Hilda-Sweep automatic pool cleaner—it is never removed from the pool—and Antho-Pure, the automatic pool purifier that holds up to six months' supply of Gardex.

Other sub-assemblies and accessories manufactured in Anthony's 15 acre plant and sold direct to the pool buyer help keep Anthony's price low.

Anthony Pools' stock is listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock exchanges.

For your free copy of this valuable kit, drop in or call Anthony Pools South Gate office at 5871 Firestone Blvd., phone SP 3-2210, TO 1-0331, or our Torrance office, 25412 S. Crenshaw Blvd., phone 832-5391 or our Anaheim office at 2050 So. Harbor, phone JE 4-3100.

When Skies Are Rent by Flame

When one of the Southland's comparatively rare lightning storms strikes, the skies present such wild spectacles as this thunderous smash at earth.

By JOHN RONSON

FINGERS OF brilliant white crackled across the black night sky, accompanied by the deep rumble of thunder.

High up in the Angeles National Forest, U.S. rangers, wrapped in rain slickers, watched apprehensively as more than 40 bolts of lightning slammed into the wooded slopes of the great recreation area.

Over Los Angeles International Airport, United Airlines Flight 527 jet from San Francisco began its landing approach when a shaft of lightning struck the great silver aircraft, bathing it in an eerie magnesium-like brilliance.

ALONG THE shore at Huntington Beach a stroller looked on in stunned fascination as a myriad limbed streak of incandescent flame crashed into the sea.

"There was a great eye-blinking burst of light and the ocean, at the spot the lightning hit, seemed to boil," he said. "But I know it was only my imagination or a trick of my eyes."

Flight 527 touched down safely with the nervous, storm-tossed aerial voyagers still unaware they had been hit by lightning.

The day dawned bleak and gray in Angeles Forest without a sign of smoke or fire anywhere on the horizon.

Southern California had ridden out another electrical storm, a relatively rare, but devastating meteorological phenomena in these regions.

In ancient times, such displays of heavenly wrath frightened mankind and led to myths of the gods rolling in chariots and firing flashing spears in battle, practice or for real.

LIGHTNING storms in the Southland inevitably knock out electrical power, hamper communications and disrupt other services in big areas.

They also kill, maim and destroy.

A 37-year-old vacationing woman electrical company worker was killed last September while strolling on the beach at Newport during a gusty daytime storm and in July 1961, a fisherman at Redondo Beach was electrocuted and three by-standers injured.

The same electrical storm set 13 forest fires.

And in summer storms of 1958 two children, ages 7 and 13, were killed by lightning at Big Bear Lake, five persons were killed and two hurt at San Francisco and two houses set afire in Norwalk and Downey.

BEING STRUCK by lightning is an incredible experience few people live to talk about.

One of those rare exceptions was Deon Bitter, 16, who was struck at a girl's camp about 14 years ago. Five others were killed in the tragedy.

"The lightning came up out of a rock at my back," she said, "and went down through my leg. I was knocked to the ground and couldn't get up."

"I saw the dead about me, but I could not get up. I could not breathe without artificial respiration."

Electrical storms seem to put everyone on edge and lightning, scientists say, apparently has wide effects on human behavior.

BOTH BIRTHS and deaths rise markedly during periods of high electrical activity, according to a survey by the World Meteorological Organization, a United Nations affiliate.

Lightning also has been proved to have a deleterious effect on human health, affecting such diseases as heart failure, arthritis, asthma, ulcers, rheumatism and even schizophrenia.

It has beneficial effects, too.

Wheat germ placed in a laboratory where an atmospheric electrical field was created grew 23% longer (Continued on Page 27)

Television Hideaway

Linda Evans, herself very decorative in Walt Disney's "Those Calloways," displays a very decorative cabinet for storing portable TV.

By Steve Ellingson

SCIENTIFIC discoveries usually evolve out of trial and error. So do decorating devices. And one of the problems facing decorators today is what to do with portable television sets.

The reason, of course, is that while portable are efficient, they have little aesthetic value and rarely add to the decor of the room in which they are used.

The solution to the problem is quite simple, build a cabinet like the one shown here with Linda Evans of Walt Disney's motion picture, "Those Calloways." This handsome cabinet has a number of advantages. It hides the portable when not in use. It's mounted on ball casters which make it easy to move about for the convenience of the viewers. The design is one that is compatible with any decor. The lower shelf is handy for books, recordings, etc.

NOT ONLY was the cabinet designed for your portable TV, but it also makes an excellent cabinet for the man assembling a television set from a kit and who wants a suitable cabinet of high style. Hi-fi and stereo systems can be worked into it with ease.

The wide variety of 3/4-inch hardwood veneer plywoods available, make it possible to construct this cabinet in wood to match your existing furniture. All materials are easily available from your local lumber dealer. The cost when you do this yourself is slight. Easy, too, when you use the full size pattern. It's something an amateur can undertake with success. Along with easy to understand directions are lots of photos clearly illustrating each step in construction.

FOR THE PLAN, specify TV cabinet Pattern No. 367 and send $1 in currency, money order or check with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Pattern Dept. Southland Magazine, Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Q. How did swordfish and sharks get into Lake Nicaragua? D.Y.

A. Geologists believe that this large fresh-water Nicaraguan lake was once a part of the Pacific Ocean. Volcanic activity caused a land mass to rise up and separate the two bodies of water, capturing in the new lake several species of salt-water fishes, including shark, swordfish, and tuna. Rivers draining into Lake Nicaragua gradually caused it to become salt-free. The captured fishes were forced to adapt to fresh-water conditions. Nicaragua is the largest lake between the Great Lakes and Peru.

Q. Is there any danger in storing a fur coat in my mothproof home closet, rather than in commercial storage? J.B.

A. Yes. While most persons believe that storage by a reputable business firm only protects furs against insect damage and theft, in reality such storage also lengthens the life of the garment. By strict regulation of the temperature and humidity levels, furs are kept soft and pliable, without color change. Usually, cold air is blown into the vault of a modern storage firm, and the temperature is maintained at about 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Periodically, however, the temperature is very rapidly lowered to about 18 degrees in order to kill any moth larvae. Relative humidity is maintained at 50 to 60 per cent.

Q. Is Marco Polo, the traveler, only a legendary character? F.Y.

A. No. Marco Polo was a Venetian merchant who traveled to the Orient in the 13th century. He began his journey in 1271, accompanied by his father and uncle. He arrived in what is present-day Peking in 1275. Marco became the favorite and agent of Kublai Khan, the Mongol emperor, and traveled widely throughout the East. In 1295, he returned to Venice and later dictated an account of his journey. This book became the chief source of information about the East during the Renaissance in Europe.

Did Shakespeare say: "Since brevity is the soul of wit ... I will be brief"? G.C.
A. Yes, in Hamlet.

Hedgehogs of the Seashore

By Charlene Geisel and Don Hackett

RESEMBLING a strange genus of undersea cactus, marine urchins, nature's ragged children of Neptune's domain, seem to sprout in crevices of rocky tideland pools and are objects of never-failing interest to children and adults alike who delight in exploring such areas when the waters are low.

The violet-hued sea urchin Strongylocentrotus purpuratus literally honeycombs the tide pools along the Southern California coast where they can be found huddled together in small hollow cavities, secure from the pounding of surf or destruction by voracious fishes. Some urchins excavate their own dwellings by chiseling away at a rock with their teeth, and constantly rotating in the same groove year after year. Armies of various species, grinding in rocky niches and upon coral atolls, are responsible for breaking loose, and creating, much of the sand sprinkled over islands throughout the South Pacific.

NORMALLY a phlegmatic creature, the sea urchin does move occasionally, especially in the more quiet tide pools. While walking, this animal extends great numbers of tube-feet from along its forest of moving spines. The long, whip-like feet stretch out and attach to the substratum with little suckers shaped like miniature bulbs. Some forms of urchins will remind the observer of ocean going space craft due to the quantity, and spacing, of the various apparatus required to propel them from place to place.

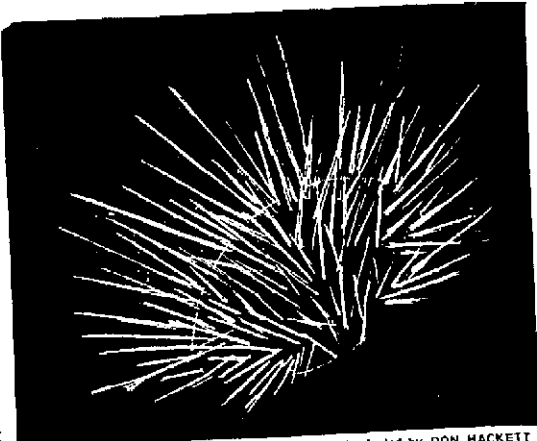

Sea urchins have long been the favorite of biology teachers, and students, because of their similarity to mammals in the areas of fertilization and cell division. The unfertilized eggs of pregnant female urchins can be artificially stimulated by chemical substances. Students are then able to observe the actual drama of creation unfold before their very eyes as the nucleus divides and divides again, beginning the step by step transformation into a completely new being.

THE AUTHOR once kept a living urchin in a marine tank. For a while the spiny-skinned animal was the only inhabitant of that aquarium. Then a hermit crab was added for company. The urchin had neither eyes nor ears, such as human beings have, to pick up evidence of this intruder. Nevertheless he at once set upon the hapless newcomer, cornering him and challenging his presence at every opportunity. Only the urchin's delicate sensitivity could possibly have aided him in the quest to protect what he felt was his own habitat.

Urchins have an unusual shape of their mouths and teeth. The mouth, a complicated muscular structure containing up to 40 separate parts, serves to regulate the movement of the teeth. The organ is located within the center of the animal's oral surface and was first noted by Aristotle, the Greek philosopher and scientist, who described it as "a horn lantern with the panes of the horn knocked out." To this day zoologists still refer to the five interlocking white teeth as "Aristotle's lantern."

NEARLY EVERYONE is familiar with the chalk-white sand dollar frequently washed ashore along Southern California's sandy beaches. However, most persons have had the opportunity to study and collect only this marine animal's skeleton. One who has done any swimming or skin diving in the Pacific may have caught glimpses of living sand dollars stretched out far below. While alive, this cousin of the sea urchin is deep purple. Tiny spines, measuring about 1/6 of an inch long, are so densely affixed to the animal's aboral surface that they give the sensation and appearance of a soft, luxuriant fabric, such as velvet.

Illustrated by DON HACKETT

Large beds of the sand dollar, Dendraster, occur in flat, sandy regions, usually not far from shore. They stand vertically upright, when surrounded by motionless water, with the major portion of their disc covered by sand; however, when a current is stirring, the entire bed of dollars will lean away from the disturbance in uniform proportion, one to the other.

Sea urchins may be observed at low tide along rocky shores. Sand dollars are usually located on sandy beaches in this area.

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) Bartlett pear halves | 3 tablespoons lemon juice |
| French dressing, creamy-style | 1 tablespoon white wine vinegar with tarragon |
| 1 can (7½ oz.) crab meat, flaked | ½ teaspoon onion salt |
| 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped | 1 cup dairy sour cream |
| 1 envelope (1 tsp.) unflavored gelatin | ½ cup whipping cream, whipped |
| ¼ cup cold water | Crisp greens |
| | 2 tablespoons French dressing |
| | 1 cup dairy sour cream |
- To prepare salad: Drain pears and dice 3 halves; marinate remaining pear halves in French dressing in refrigerator. In a mixing bowl toss together diced pears, crab meat and eggs; set aside. In a saucepan soften gelatin in cold water; heat to dissolve gelatin; add lemon juice, vinegar and onion salt. Fold sour cream, whipped cream and crab meat mixture into gelatin. Pour into 1-quart salad mold. Refrigerate until set. Unmold on greens on chilled serving plate. Garnish with marinated pear halves. Serve with Dressing. To prepare Dressing: Gently fold French dressing into sour cream. Serves 8.

Pep Pill Study

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

RESEARCHERS think that use of pep pills (amphetamine drugs) during pregnancy may be one cause of birth defects.

Preliminary evidence suggests a link between amphetamines and the appearance of a defect called myelomeningocele. This is a cleft or split in the spinal column with hernial protrusion of the spinal cord and its membranes.

Dr. Harris D. Riley of Children's Memorial Hospital in Oklahoma City found that a number of mothers with such babies had taken appetite suppressants (amphetamine-type) during pregnancy.

He and his associates have drawn no conclusions but are now initiating experiments to attempt to reproduce the condition in laboratory animals.

Myelomeningocele is correctable by surgery but has lasting effects such as paralysis of the lower part of the body.

A MEDICAL officer with the Federal Aviation Agency, warns of the dangers of drug-taking among pilots.

Dr. J. Robert Dille cites the case of the executive aircraft, flying lower than surrounding mountains in a thunderstorm. It crashed, killing its four occupants.

The pilot, noted earlier to have been in good spirits and resistant to suggestions that he wait for the weather to clear, was found to have three potent prescription drugs on his body.

They were dextro-amphetamine, which induces a sense of well-being; thyroglobulin, which stimulates metabolism; and secobarbital, which sedates.

Dr. Dille, a medical officer with the FAA's Civil Aeromedical Research Institute in Oklahoma City, says that drugs can interfere with perception, decision making and motor skills, to cause significant reduction in pilot performance.

A RESEARCHER has found abnormalities in blood vessels surrounding chronic stomach ulcers.

These vessels, an Australian doctor says, bear strong similarities to hardening of the arteries.

Arteries surrounding the ulcers showed degenerative changes akin to the loss of elasticity, thickening and hardening known as arteriosclerosis (artery hardening). They also contained fat deposits characteristic of atherosclerosis (thickening of arteries).

The report is in Archives of Pathology.

USE OF THE antibiotic kanamycin has shortened the hospital stay of aged male patients who have undergone prostate gland surgery, University of Washington doctors report.

Researchers say the agent has been successful in preventing postoperative infection, catheter complications and fever.

A NEW STUDY lends support to the belief that potassium iodide is beneficial in the treatment of childhood asthma.

A two-year study at a Denver hospital shows that this type of treatment produces moderate to significant improvement in a majority of instances.

The research was carried out at the Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital and under its medical director, Dr. Constantine J. Falliers.

There was considerable variability in individual response to treatment, he says.

"Asthma improved significantly in 18% of the children treated," Dr. Falliers told the American Academy of Allergy. "It improved moderately in another 46%." The remaining 36% were not helped.

(This column frequently reports advances in medical research and opinions of medical authorities not yet accepted in general practice.)

It's Later Than You Think

By Dick Westermann

BEING on time pays off. Being late penalizes. It always has and it always will.

A new coach took over a football team.

Three-quarters of an hour after practice started, a huffing and puffing 200-pound guard appeared—late for the fourth time that week.

"Turn in your suit," ordered the coach. "You're through for the season."

AN EMPLOYER asked that two boys apply for a helper's job. He would choose the one he liked. One appeared on time, and was hired. The other stopped for a soft drink, began talking to a girl, an hour slipped by. He arrived late. No job.

A young employee beat out a co-worker with 12 years seniority for an executive appointment. Why? He always was on time. The other fellow was late three mornings out of five. An early morning sales meeting can't be conducted until the boss arrives.

A YOUNG COUPLE, the toast of their group, planned to be married. The girl kept the boy waiting while she primped for one hour. She came down stairs to find him gone, and a note breaking their engagement.

A property appraiser was called by a real estate company to appraise some apartment buildings. A company official was to meet him at the property at 2 p.m. At 3 p.m. the official arrived with the keys. "Sorry, old fellow, I'm late again," he apologized.

"Not as sorry as you will be when you read this bill," said the appraiser. He pulled out a book, listing 65 locations where the official had kept him waiting 100 hours in a year and a half. The appraiser turned in a bill for $600, waiting fee.

To: Allstate Bonded Contractors

Dear Mr. Belcheff:

My family and I want to thank you for the wonderful work that was done on the family room you built for us.

The whole room was done to our liking, especially the fireplace, and the time element was most amazing.

We are enjoying the family room every minute of every day, and we would highly recommend your company to any of our friends and neighbors.

Thank you again,

Recipe of the Week

GELATIN eggs go into salad for the Easter season in a recipe that wins $5 this week for Mrs. H. G. Hanbloom, 6 Seventh Place, Apt. F, Long Beach 90802. The recipe:

Salad for Easter

Allow 2 eggs per person. Punch small hole in one end of egg with a large needle. In the other end, make a large hole. Gently blow through the small hole to remove the egg. Place small piece of adhesive over small hole.

Have ready to use red, green, yellow, orange and purple gelatin. Prepare gelatin as usual except for using 1½ cups hot water instead of 2 cups, to insure firmness. Let cool. Fill the egg shells in desired colors. Let stand upright in egg cartons until well set.

To serve: Break shells and peel off from the gelatin eggs. Place 2 eggs in finely shredded lettuce nests or use green tinted cottage cheese for the nests.

Spring Salad Fashions

Note: Instead of individual molds, a 6-cup ring

mold may be used. Arrange drained pear halves in ring mold; if using small pear halves, place cut side down in mold. Carefully pour gelatin mixture over and around pears. Chill until firm. Serve with Lemon Dressing. If pears were placed cut side down in mold, spoon dressing in center of each pear half.

To prepare 6 individual salads, use six 6-ounce molds.

Angels Impress the League

(Continued from Page 7) "IF I DON'T win 20 I'll be truly disappointed," he says, and it is his only statement regarding the future.

There is a temptation to probe into the structure of the new Chance, for one remembers its shaky foundation. One is compelled to believe that the leopard does not lose its spots and Dean Chance does not change overnight.

The harvest from the magnificent 1964 crop was bountiful, but the locusts watch for the man who does not tend his field. The banquets were many and the rewards plentiful for Dean Chance and one examines the maturity for signs of a crack.

"Yes, I, too, was watching Chance carefully this spring," admits manager Rigney. "It would have been easy for him to dog it, to rest on his laurels. Maybe, he would have gotten away with it."

"The point is, he didn't try. He ran more than any pitcher in camp. He did more work than anyone in camp. He was always there when we looked for him. He went out of his way to help the youngsters."

IT IS, PERHAPS, Chance's devotion to winning that will not permit his pride to settle for anything less than a repeat of the 1964 season. It will be a demanding task.

The record itself, 20-9, is impressive, but the manner in which it was achieved was dazzling.

Only 5-4 at the All-Star break, Chance went on to win 15 more for 20 decisions. His major league-leading earned run average of 1.65 was one of the best of the modern era.

He hurled a major league-leading 11 shutouts and tied a major league record as five of them were by 1-0 scores. He led the league with 15 complete games and during one midsummer streak won nine in a row.

In a June game he struck out 15 Red Sox and five times he allowed only two hits. At Dodger Stadium his earned run average was 1.03 and his record was 11-3.

DURING JUNE he hurled 23 consecutive scoreless innings and against the pennant-winning Yankees he won four games without a defeat and a home run by Mickey Mantle represented New York's only run in 59 innings against the lean, strong farmer.

"He is the best right-hander in baseball," says Rigney.

"No offer of any magnitude would make us consider parting with Chance," says owner Gene Autry.

A super-star on a team headed for super-things is Chance. Make that Mr. Wilmer Dean Chance, a new man.

Toe-Tapper Music Box

By Helen L. Gillum

IT DOESN'T boast translators, precisely engineered multiple keyboards or complicated electronic circuits — this rootin', tootin', Tonawanda Automatic Military Band Organ of yesterday, owned by Paul McGinnis of 1342 Market St. But it does have 103 melodious pipes, including 28 wooden violins, 13 wooden trumpets, 14 brass piccolos, 3 trombones, many open and stopped flutes, and various other controls and gadgets within its scrolled and gold-decorated hardwood cabinet.

There are also a bass drum on one end of the exterior and a snare drum with cymbal on the other, which harmonize snappily with the other instruments. And when the switch is flipped on the electric motor that runs the perforated paper music cylinders, some of the most stirring band music since the days of Sousa rolls forth.

also to be powered with water from the city mains.

THE ORGAN owned by McGinnis is 6 feet wide and 7 feet tall, and about 2 feet in depth. Ornate decoration typical of those days enhances it, including brass faces on each end and a beautiful paneled picture across the bottom. The panel, recently painted by an artist friend, is done after the style of Raphael, and features child-like angels against a pastel background.

The music rolls, 6 inches wide, are of the perforated kind like those of player pianos. (It is interesting to note that perforated music rolls were actually the basis of the principles used in modern business machines.) Each roll plays from 6 to 10 old-time tunes, which were taken from original scores arranged by band conductors long ago.

McGINNIS hasn't yet received a report from all his neighbors on his restored band organ. But, according to several who have heard it, it is a real "go-go" machine. As one little lady put it (she will never see 60 again), "I haven't danced in years — but this thing sure put my toes to tapping!" Another said, "It reminds me of the 'Pied Piper'—makes me want to go where it is!"

And, when someone flicks the switch and the full, spirited tones of "Onward Christian Soldiers," or "The Star Spangled Banner" pour forth, one knows what they mean. Particularly do McGinnis and a group of music-loving buddies who do not intend to let this bit of old Americana vanish if they can help it!

McGINNIS found his old musicmaker up near Monterey, where it had enjoyed better days on an old merry-go-round. Working from descriptions and pictures in vintage catalogs and other sources, McGinnis and a friend, Ed Schmidt of Lynwood, have done a remarkable job of putting back together again the band organ.

"Ed did most of the technical details", says McGinnis. "Luckily, we had most of the original mechanism with which to work. However, we did have to make a few new parts 'from scratch.'"

Military band organs were built by the North Tonawanda Musical Instrument Works, New York (near Niagara Falls), in the early 1900s. A 1906 catalog issued by the company declares that "Proprietors of roller skating rinks, ice rinks, park carousels, Ferris wheels, circling waves, show platforms, etc., find that our new improvements have made (our) Automatic Bands . . . perfect instruments for their uses . . ." It also states that "All of the new and snappy up-to-date music is promptly made and carried in stock . . ." Instruments were available in gas, steam, or electric-powered models, and

HOAGY CARMICHAEL writes about jazz and a life spent playing ragtime and jazz in "SOMETHING I WONDER" (Farrar, Straus, $5.50). His favorite, he admits, is Chicago jazz.

WHEN PULITZER Prize novelist Herman Wouk took up residence in the Virgin Islands six years ago, it became only a matter of time until he wrote a book set in the Caribbean.

That foregone conclusion is "DON'T STOP THE CARNIVAL" (Doubleday, $5), newest and undoubtedly the most delightful book yet by the author of such memorable works as "The Caine Mutiny," "Youngblood Hawke," and "Marjorie Morningstar."

Wry, ironic and funnier than anything Wouk has done before, "Carnival" is the story of a bored middle-aged New Yorker named Norman Paperman who chucks a successful career as a Broadway publicity man to buy a hotel on the make-believe island of Amerigo, somewhere in the Caribbean.

Paperman's misadventures on this tropical isle provide hilarious, side-splitting reading.

The cast includes a bevy of memorable new "Woukish" characters including Hippolyte, a half-mad French handyman; Church Wagner, a youthful bartender who looks like Billy Budd, and Hazel, sexpot offspring of the hero.

Southland Magazine Book Editor

"I FELT as if I were walking with Destiny, and that all my past life had been but a preparation for this hour and for this trial..."

Winston Churchill did walk with Destiny, this man of the century who led England in her darkest hour and saw victory achieved.

A headliner in the rush of Churchill books this spring is "CHURCHILL: Portrait of Greatness," pictorial biography with text by Pulitzer prize-winning Associated Press reporter Reiman (Pat) Morin (Prentice-Hall, $3.95). Churchill's wit and wisdom, his genius and greatness, his victories and defeats, emerge in a sweeping narrative that offers a perceptive view of history from the days of Queen Victoria. Excellent photos. The cover, in color, is Karsh's famous portrait of a bemedaled Churchill.

Bill Adler, noted for his recent best-selling collection, "The Kennedy Wit," has compiled a selection of Sir Winston's verbal humor in "THE CHURCHILL WIT" (Coward - McCann, $3). Churchill's richest mots were reserved for his political enemies: He said Ramsay MacDonald possessed "the gift of compressing the largest amount of words into the smallest amount of thought"; of Clement Attlee, Labor party prime minister, he remarked "Attlee is a very modest man. And with reason." He said His Majesty's Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps had "all the virtues I dislike and none of the vices I admire."

FROM 1741 through 1867 Russia's eastern frontier was Russian America, known today as Alaska. The story of the Russians' occupation of the northwest corner of our continent, from their initial exploration eastward in the 17th Century to the purchase of the land by the United States in 1867 is recounted by Hector Chevigny in "RUSSIAN AMERICA" (Viking, $6.95).

Few people realize that Russian America covered more area than that of the 13 American colonies or that Russia's outposts extended as far north as the Yukon and as far south as California. Russia developed a trade by sea which stretched from the Orient to New England. The capital, New Archangel, the first seaport in western America, had 1,000 inhabitants before San Francisco had 100; it had a cathedral, a seminary, a college and two science institutes. Its shipyard, the first north of Hawaii, launched the first steam vessel built in the Pacific.

Chevigny feels that the Russians were the catalysts of American history in the Pacific. Because Russia's activities attracted the attention of seafaring nations such as England, France and Spain to this area, the United States was forced to move westward to defend what she considered her natural boundary on the Pacific.

YOU CAN'T keep the human spirit down, and what's been happening to Spanish literature under Franco's tight dictatorship is another proof of it. Ana Maria Matute's novel "THE LOST CHILDREN" (Macmillan $6.95) shows Spanish society today as ripped from its spiritual and ethical foundations. Her story takes place in a small Castilian village.

The impoverished landholding Corvo family proud, still swayed by the dictates of lineage, are its central characters. Tragedy overshadows the lives of all the Corvos. The old man, Gerardo, is lulled by anise. The daughter, Isabel, is an unhappy spinster, whose obsession is the need to regain the family honor, to rebuild the family home. The nephew, Daniel, has returned from the civil war, having fought against the family's traditions. He is dying of a lung ailment.

Gerardo's daughter by a peasant woman, the child of his second marriage, Monica, alone has the will to act, to change the surroundings for the sake of survival. Her liaison with the escaped convict Miguel Fernandez, in the forest is made to symbolize the deep desire to escape the past. And this too ends in disaster.

Out of such tragic materials Ana Maria Matute has made a novel with a sweep suggesting some of Spain's finest writers of the last century.

SAMUEL ASTRACHAN'S new novel, "THE GAME OF DOSTOEVSKY" (Farrar, Straus and Giroux, $4.95) centers around faculty life at a university campus in upper Manhattan. In their game of "Dostoevsky," com-binning elements of monopoly and charades, their subtle interrelations gradually come to light as they attack one another, reveal how they see themselves and their confederates. "The Game of Dostoevsky" depicts a world of people lost, bored and disillusioned, a world often marked by intellectual achievement and personal failure.

names and to a whistle. Of course such training is not to be overdone, and there must never be any punishment connected with it.

A SPRINGER can learn to walk at heel, but his natural place is out front, and he should be encouraged to be ahead except when on lead. When he isn't looking, you can toss a dummy into cover and soon he'll be seeking it out. To get him to go to the right, then to the left, toss dog biscuits into cover. Of course get him accustomed to other types of ground.

Introduce the sporting dog to gun noise by feeding the pup and having the gun shot at some distance. Have the gun shot closer and closer as the puppy eats his daily meals. Soon he'll be accustomed to gun noise and will not shy from it.

Eventually you introduce the young dog to various game specimens and also a scent trail which you can make with a scent bag that you drag along the ground out of his sight. No guns are employed during the first lessons in the field. Most important is for him to drop when you command it or when you use a whistle to which you have trained him.

THE SPRINGER spaniel is a very beautiful dog and fits into the average family as a pet, show dog, or pal for dad in the field. The three pictured with this article are Davista South Riding Bridget, Whizzbang's Merry Go Round, and Ch. Davista South Riding Rinkies, all owned by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Davis, 10544 Olive St., Temple City.

In a series of biological lab studies the scientists found that fewer bees return to their hives on days of high atmospheric activity and that hamsters will break up their nests and drag their young to new locations to get away from an electrical field area.

IT HAS BEEN a long observed phenomena that many animals including horses, dogs and cattle become highly agitated before an electrical storm and absolutely terrified during one.

A statistical study, based on one million units, revealed that human births rise 11% during periods of high electrical activity and that deaths go up 20%.

The statisticians also learned that traffic accidents climbed 70% and general work accidents rose 20%.

Complaints from brain patients and amputees increased markedly, from 30 to 50%, when lightning is flying.

Paper Plant: Interesting Pest

By Joe Littlefield

HANDSOME specimen in landscaping, Tetrapanax papyriferum—better known as rice paper plant—is also a pest in its performance, sending up unwanted new growth from roots that spread out over wide areas. In planting this item for tropical effects, gardeners should give full consideration to its less desirable aspects.

The foliage and shadow patterns cast across a wall or patio are attractive and desirable, yet gardeners rue the day they set out a paper plant close to a house where there is a large area of soil for its roots to ramble through, then send up clusters of new plants that eventually become a nuisance.

We know how this plant grows because our neighbor had one at the corner of his front house. Roots from the rice paper plant grew under our driveway into our dichondra lawn. The experience was the same in our back yard. Roots from plants growing near the neighbor's back porch grew under our driveway and mingled with our roses. Some sprouts came up under our house! The safest places to grow such plants is in confined areas in patios or at the rear of yards to screen out an unsightly garage or yard, or to screen a telephone pole. These plants have been (Continued on Page 30)

Dodgers Out to Regain Dignity

As it is, the rule is baseball's version of aid to Appalachia, but its fault is that the poor can become rich without moving a muscle. The poorer clubs can cut scouting to a skeleton and still grab their share of talent in the special draft.

"WE LOST 20 such players in last year's draft and had to give up an entire minor league club (Salisbury, N. C.) for that reason. If that's helping baseball, I'll eat my bow tie.

"The American League is pushing these rules because clubs are trying to pull down the Yankees to their level instead of building up to them. It's a bad thing. Without the Yankees' attendance, what's the American League?"

Despite the first-year handicap, Bavasi is doing his best to build and win at the same time. He made a seven-player trade with Washington that brought pitcher Claude Osteen and third baseman John Kennedy. Both figure to be regulars, whereas Frank Howard was the only semi-regular of the five he gave up.

Bavasi also wasn't afraid to admit he made a mistake and brought back outfielder Dick Smith, who couldn't make it with the Mets. One year sometimes can make a big difference and the Dodgers believe Smith can make it here.

FROM A productive farm system come catcher Hector Valle and infielder Jim Lefebvre, the latter one of the most publicized rookies in Florida. Lefebvre, a baseball baby at 22, was force-fed in the Arizona winter instructional league and will be in the starting lineup Monday after only 2½ seasons of minor league experience.

A capsule rundown of the nine most prominent newcomers:

Purdin—24-year-old right-hander, received $8,000 bonus last spring after winning 20 games for U. S. Air Force team while stationed in Germany; won 14, lost 3 in pro debut at Salisbury, then pitched two-hit shutout vs. Cubs in first start for Dodgers in September.

"Throws as hard as anyone on staff," says Dodger farm director Fresno Thompson. Won 9, lost 9 in first year of organized ball. "At this stage of his career, he's ahead of Sandy Koufax," says scouting director Al Campanis.

Dean—19-year-old shortstop from Iuka, Miss., received $60,000 bonus. "Best young shortstop I've seen since PeeWee Reese," says Bavasi. Batted .224 in half a minor league season.

Crawford—18-year-old outfielder, was Los Angeles high school "player of year" in 1964. Batted .326 at Santa Barbara, .313 in 10 games with Dodgers.

Valle—24-year-old Puerto Rican, probable No. 2 catcher behind John Roseboro. Rated as excellent receiver.

Smith—25-year-old ex-Dodger, returned from Mets. Assets are speed, arm, some power. Probably will be platooned in outfield.

Lefebvre—22-year-old switch-hitter, can play second or third. "Makes double play as well as Bill Mazeroski," says Thompson. "Has major league bat, some power, great hands."

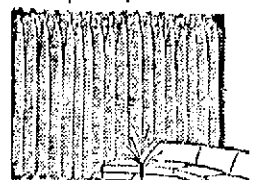

Osteen—25-year-old left-hander, won 15 for ninth-place Senators last year. Seven-year major league veteran, has outstanding control, good fast ball and added change of pace.

Kennedy—23-year-old third baseman, rated outstanding with glove, light with bat, but with chance to improve three-year American League average of .227.

COIN ROUNDUP

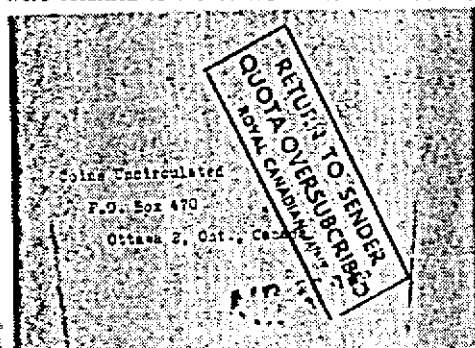

A New Quirk

By Maurice M. Gould

NUMISMATIC history is being made in 1965. Due to the fact that the United States government is not issuing a proof set in 1965, many collectors have hopped on the foreign proof set bandwagon and millions of dollars are going to every foreign government producing mint or proof sets.

Many countries who hitherto have not bothered with the coin collector are now catering to him by issuing commemorative sets and some of them are issuing beautiful proof sets in presentation cases. France, South Africa, Malta, Pakistan, and other countries in various parts of the world are turning out material for the collector just as fast as the presses will operate.

One concrete example this year is the Canadian proof set phenomena when, within a few hours, the entire year's production was sold out and hundreds of thousands of orders were returned to the prospective purchasers. Millions of dollars were returned to the United States and then this money was sent all over the world, to all of the countries producing numismatic material. Even the new African countries have followed the trend and since they have no mints of their own, have proof sets struck in England, Austria and other mints.

The astute foreign governments have realized the great potential and the ultimate profits in the manufacture of proof sets for collectors and this is a means for the governments to obtain the much-sought-after U. S. dollars. It is certainly unfortunate that we could not produce the U. S. proof sets this year as the greater part of investment money was being used for the purchase of U. S. proof sets, on top of which, the government made a substantial profit on each set it sold.

The U. S. government can ill afford the flow of dollars to other countries and if this mad rush of money persists in being shipped overseas, the time may come when the government could possibly take steps to forbid the importation of foreign coins for collectors. This is something to think about!

MUCH HAS BEEN written in recent years about coin collecting, not always by authors familiar with this hobby and many misstatements have been made and the public accepts these as the gospel.

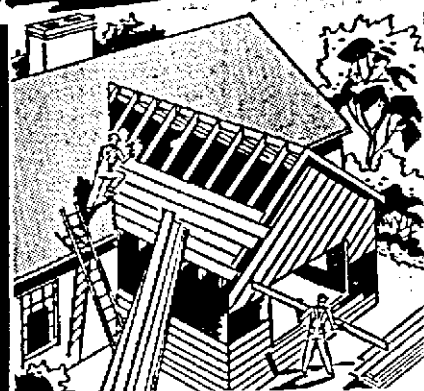

Many letters are received pertaining to Lincoln cents and one party will write, "I have a 1909 Lincoln cent with a vdb on the reverse. I read where this coin is worth $325."

Another party writes, "I have a 1909 Lincoln cent with the letter S and I understand my coin is worth more than $300."

These people, along with many others, have obtained their information from misinformed and self-appointed authorities. The Lincoln cent which is rare is dated 1909, it has the letter "S" under the date which stands for the San Francisco Mint, and on the lower part of the reverse are the initials "VDB" which stand for the designer, Victor D. Brenner. It is necessary to have all of the three features mentioned for the coin to be the rare 1909-S VDB. This is the Lincoln cent worth from $100 to $350 and is sought after by dealer and collector alike.

Tips on Gardening

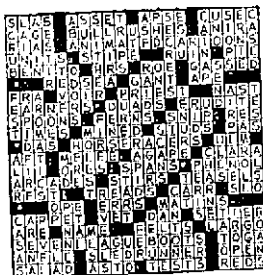

Garden tips for the week . . . The right tools make gardening easy, so make sure you have the correct ones for the jobs you'll be doing now.

This is a good time to put in new lawns. If the area now has a heavy weed crop, spray first with the weed killer your nurseryman recommends. Cultivate the soil to a depth of 9-10 inches and work in adequate quantities of organic matter.

When buying annuals, get enough of the same color and variety to give a showy effect. Remember that twice as many plants give ten times as much impact.

SOLUTION TO TODAY'S PUZZLE
(See Page 30)

IN A LAND where summer rains are few and far between, succulents will serve you well. These nearly indestructible plants suffer the worst conditions of drought without showing it, and you can't find a soil so poor they won't grow in it. Don't even look for one.

There are two big reasons for planting succulents, says the California Association of Nurserymen. One, they will thrive where other plants curl up and die, and, two, they offer enough interest in form and color to hold their own in highly competitive garden situations—in planter boxes, in rockeries and as edgings.

THE COMMONEST succulent seen in California is the familiar ice plant, which covers so many dry banks in coastal areas. And if you are about to turn up your nose, have another look at what this old standby can do. We refer not to the vividly colored variety, but rather to the more subtle members of the family with longer, fleshier leaves. Use it for spot contrast in a border or rockery. Use it to cover an entire bank, or try it in a large planter box, where it will trail over the side.

By Walter Finch

The brighter ice plants referred to above are too uncompromising in their color for some people, but when used as bank covers in the background, they can lend just the right amount of color. They are definitely in the no-trouble class, and you can't fault them for being so colorful.

STONECROPS or Sedums are more refined plants of growing interest to Californians. More and more they are being used to round out a perennial border or to hang from an overhead container. They are either upright or trailing and many of them have flowers of more than passing beauty and interest. One of the best Sedums is Showy Sedum with round, blue-green leaves and clusters of pink flowers topping each sturdy stem. It's an all 'round good choice for general garden use or for special attention.

A long time favorite and one of the most useful succulents is Echeveria, or Hen and Chickens. Tucked away among rocks, or featured in a special planter, Echeveria will always catch attention. The low growing, stemless rosettes, from which tall stems push up tubular blooms, are familiar to all. The common name derives from the appearance of a mature blooming plant hovering over its "brood" of smaller rosettes which have pushed out from its base. You can fill a parkway with these if you have patience.

VAGUELY FAMILIAR is the Houseleek family, which produces lowly rosettes of delicate shadings and tall flower stems of undeniable charm. Houseleek makes an excellent carpet if given time to spread out and in rockeries, or in tubs, it can be highly decorative.

There are so many succulents, it is really a shame

Succulents shown here are planned well in form, shape and size to border a lawn. They ask little from the soil.

to single out such a few. The Euphorbia, or Spurge family, from which comes the Christmas Poinsettia, also claims several low growing succulent members of note. The Aeoniums, large and showy clumps, something like a giant Houseleek, deserve attention; and the Aloe family has several members which will interest you, or should. Perhaps the best way to meet the many we haven't mentioned, as well as those we have, is to visit a C.A.N. nurseryman and see just what he has in stock. Start with a few and you'll add to them for years to come.

Easter Tribute

By Lorena Fleissig

OPAQUE and snowy white, these formal lilies (see illustration) suggest the upward look.

This buffet piece assembles quickly and for those who like to innovate, here is an example of using simple forms in design. Almost all design that is practical is built upon the basic forms or their variations. These are the circle, the square and the triangle.

This idea can be followed in carrying out new adaptations with the materials commonly found in the household. There is a super-surplus of expertly finished, well designed containers at the craftsman's disposal in glass, paper and plastic in varied shapes, sizes and colors. It is an easily available medium for the craftsman to use—always remembering that good form is beautiful of itself and the aim is to keep it simple.

A CLEVER THEME does not always work out on the first try so be prepared with extra materials, such as scissors or knife, ice pick or nail, paint and papers to work on.

Illustrated is a modern interpretation of the Easter theme using form and design. Used are eight white plastic foam coffee cups, six wooden knitting needles (found in a rummage sale), four narrow strips to represent leaves, cut from gold paper (white on black) and two oblong blocks approximately eight and ten inches in length, of styrofoam.

The coffee cups may be salvaged from the coffee break and carefully washed back to whiteness, or they may be purchased in most markets.

The cups are cut with scissors into four, five and six equal divisions down within an inch or less of the bottoms. The sections are then curved with the scissors into petal form. Different width petals provide simple variation.

THE LONG wooden knitting needles are shaped to a short point and painted or sprayed gold. The points are forced through the bases of the cups from the inside until the button-like ends are firmly seated and hold the cups upright.

Inserting the needle stems in the stacked styrofoam blocks requires some thought. There may be as many variations as the imagination suggests. The tallest stem is placed off center to the left at the top of the triangular pattern. Altogether, three are pushed down through the top platform and five in the lower step in an alternating effect. Five tapering strips for leaves, each an inch wide, are cut from paper that is gold on one side, white on the other (available in stationery stores). The base ends are pointed and inserted close to the gold stems. Bend the leaves past the next vertical stem. The colors, gold and white give an effect of simplicity and richness.

NOTE THAT the top block

of the foundation is placed flush at the back corner, while presenting a stair-step effect at the front and one side.

As stated before, good design in containers of all kinds is the result of much planning and expense, ready material to encore in a second act for the craftsman. An alliance of simplicity and imagination makes form itself the most outstanding feature of an effective arrangement.

Free Swimming Pool Planning Kit

If you are planning a pool this year here is your opportunity to get a free kit showing all phases of pool construction. Also included are tips on pool buying plus complete information on special equipment. Kit is packed with facts and ideas you will want to know before you build.

This free kit was put out by Anthony Pools, world's largest pool-builder.

Its authoritative information was developed by Anthony, based on the building of over 24,000 pools.

In the pictures and text it describes the way modern pools are constructed. The growing use of high-speed automatic equipment for excavation and gunite cementing has kept the price of Anthony pools low while prices in general have gone up. A modern pool is just about the biggest bargain you can get these days.

It is important that you choose a builder large enough to offer you modern speed and economy.

During the first four months of this year Anthony has built more pools in the greater Los Angeles area than the next three largest pool builders combined. This is a dramatic endorsement of Anthony's value, service, and reputation. Kit also describes such Anthony exclusive accessories as Hida-Sweep automatic pool cleaner — it is never removed from the pool — and Antho-Pure, the automatic pool purifier that holds up to six months' supply of Gardex.

Other sub-assemblies and accessories manufactured in Anthony's 15 acre plant and sold direct to the pool buyer help keep Anthony's price low. Anthony Pools' stock is listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock exchanges.

For your free copy of this valuable kit, drop in or call Anthony Pools South Gate office at 5971 Firestone Blvd., phone SP 3-2210, TO 1-0331, or our Torrance office, 25412 S. Crenshaw Blvd., phone 832-5391 or our Anaheim office at 2050 So. Harbor, phone JE 4-3100.

Paper Plant Needs Correct Garden Site

CHRYSANTHEMUMS may be grown in pots for fall color in patios or pots may be sunk into flower beds where flowers are lacking. Old, clumpy mums need attention right now. Dig up two-year and older clumps. Heel them in another part of the garden. "Heel in" means to transplant them. Don't prepare the soil before planting them, because they'll be there temporarily. Water the plants as soil dries. Put an inch layer of good grade steer manure or an organic mulch material over the top of the soil where mums were removed. Scatter four cupfuls of bone meal per 100 square feet of the already manure covered soil. Dig all this into a shovel depth and soak down well. A week later dig over again and soak in. About a week or so later still, rake over the soil. Dig up the mums heeled in and pull apart the clumps. Save the outer young plants with some roots on them. These shoots are called "Irish cuttings." Set the young individual plants in the prepared soil. Keep them moist till you notice new growth develop, then water them as needed. WATCH CLOSELY for aphids, white flies and leaf hoppers. Spray when necessary with an insecticide spray. A month later, start feeding the new mums lightly a balanced plant food. Don't phosphorus forces mums to grow leggy and vine-like, even though gardener might wisely follow through on the correct pinch tipping process periodically. So, fertilize the mums about once a month with a balanced complete plant food till buds form and barely start to show color and you'll have some lovely blossoms with stiff stems.

People always make fascinating subjects, whether you are shooting still pictures or movies. And the most appealing pictures show them doing something natural. Keep this in mind when you're taking pictures and always try to show your subjects in an unposed, relaxed situation.

Television Hideaway

Linda Evans, herself very decorative in Walt Disney's "Those Calloways," displays a very decorative cabinet for storing portable TV.

By Steve Ellingson

SCIENTIFIC discoveries usually evolve out of trial and error. So do decorating devices. And one of the problems facing decorators today is what to do with portable television sets.

The reason, of course, is that while portable are efficient, they have little aesthetic value and rarely add to the decor of the room in which they are used.

The solution to the problem is quite simple, build a cabinet like the one shown here with Linda Evans of Walt Disney's motion picture, "Those Calloways." This handsome cabinet has a number of advantages. It hides the portable when not in use. It's mounted on ball casters which make it easy to move about for the convenience of the viewers. The design is one that is compatible with any decor. The lower shelf is handy for books, recordings, etc.

NOT ONLY was the cabinet designed for your portable TV, but it also makes an excellent cabinet for the man assembling a television set from a kit and who wants a suitable cabinet of high style. Hi-fi and stereo systems can be worked into it with ease.

The wide variety of 3/4-inch hardwood veneer plywoods available, make it possible to construct this cabinet in wood to match your existing furniture. All materials are easily available from your local lumber dealer. The cost when you do this yourself is slight. Easy, too, when you use the full size pattern. It's something an amateur can undertake with success. Along with easy to understand directions are lots of photos clearly illustrating each step in construction.

FOR THE PLAN, specify TV cabinet Pattern No. 367 and send $1 in currency, money order or check with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Pattern Dept. Southland Magazine, Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

A FRIEND—whose hobby, like mine, is dining out—asked me this imaginative question the other night: "What if you were stranded on an island where, due to peculiar circumstances, you were required to eat the same fare day after day. And what if, by the same circumstances, you could choose what that item would be. What would you select?"

After considerable thought, during which I offered myself scores of delicious possibilities, I replied: "Prime rib au jus. I honestly believe I could eat it every day and not grow overly bored."

Of course, if I were marooned on an island it would be pretty hard to get delivery of the kind of prime rib I'd prefer. I like restaurant prime rib—fine-grained, juicy, and roasted medium rare. Several Long Beach restaurants prepare this delicacy especially well, among them the Corsican Room, 5430 E. Second St., Naples.

This smart dining place, with a Mediterranean-style decor, is now owned by John T. Webster, former president of the local realty board and a former chemist. His recipe for prime rib was acquired from the Corsican's former owner, Jack Bass. It is prepared by chefs George Eckert and Grace Lane according to Jack's exacting standards, including au jus which is particularly rich and flavorful. It's $4.50 with soup du jour, large fresh salad, baked potato, warm sourdough bread, beverage and ice cream.

The Corsican, closed Mondays, is open otherwise.

SUNDAY TREAT—Is today a special occasion for someone you know—a birthday or anniversary? If you'd like to enchant your honored guest, or guests, with something truly spectacular, try the flaming steak royale at Alfred Restaurant, 700 E. 45th St. Cooked and flamed at the table, the dish consists of a superb top sirloin cut into a butterfly shape, sauteed in a chafing dish with shallots in butter. It's $5.50 with hors d'oeuvres, soup or salad, potato, vegetable and wrapped candies as a desert tidbit. Equally entrancing are Alfred's other American and continental entrees, priced from $2.75.

RESSEMBLING a strange genus of undersea cactus, marine urchins, nature's ragged children of Neptune's domain, seem to sprout in crevices of rocky tideland pools and are objects of never-failing interest to children and adults alike who delight in exploring such areas when the waters are low.

The violet-hued sea urchin Strongylocentrotus purpuratus literally honeycombs the tide pools along the Southern California coast where they can be found huddled together in small hollow cavities, secure from the pounding of surf or destruction by voracious fishes. Some urchins excavate their own dwellings by chiseling away at a rock with their teeth, and constantly rotating in the same groove year after year. Armies of various species, grinding in rocky niches and upon coral atolls, are responsible for breaking loose, and creating, much of the sand sprinkled over islands throughout the South Pacific.

NORMALLY a phlegmatic creature, the sea urchin does move occasionally, especially in the more quiet tide pools. While walking, this animal extends great numbers of tube-feet from along its forest of moving spines. The long, whip-like feet stretch out and attach to the substratum with little suckers shaped like miniature bulbs. Some forms of urchins will remind the observer of ocean going space craft due to the quantity, and spacing, of the various apparatus required to propel them from place to place.

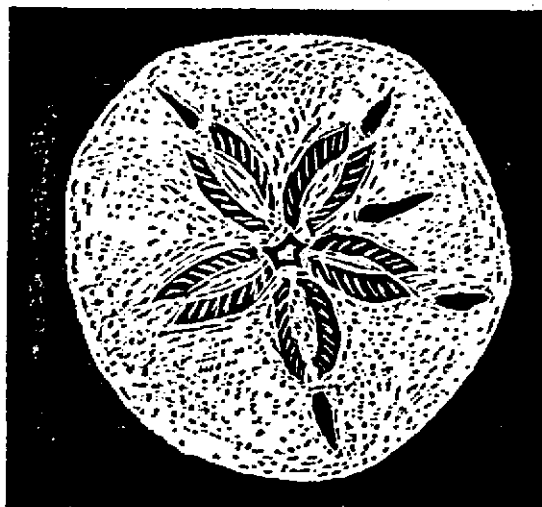

Sea urchins have long been the favorite of biology teachers, and students, because of their similarity to mammals in the areas of fertilization and cell division. The unfertilized eggs of pregnant female urchins can be artificially stimulated by chemical substances. Students are then able to observe the actual drama of creation unfold before their very eyes as the nucleus divides and divides again, beginning the step by step transformation into a completely new being.

THE AUTHOR once kept a living urchin in a marine tank. For a while the spiny-skinned animal was the only inhabitant of that aquarium. Then a hermit crab was added for company. The urchin had neither eyes nor ears, such as human beings have, to pick up evidence of this intruder. Nevertheless he at once set upon the hapless newcomer, cornering him and challenging his presence at every opportunity. Only the urchin's delicate sensitivity could possibly have aided him in the quest to protect what he felt was his own habitat.

Urchins have an unusual shape of their mouths and teeth. The mouth, a complicated muscular structure containing up to 40 separate parts, serves to regulate the movement of the teeth. The organ is located within the center of the animals' oral surface and was first noted by Aristotle, the Greek philosopher and scientist, who described it as "a horn lantern with the panes of the horn knocked out." To this day zoologists still refer to the five interlocking white teeth as "Aristotle's lantern."

NEARLY EVERYONE is familiar with the chalk-white sand dollar frequently washed ashore along Southern California's sandy beaches. However, most persons have had the opportunity to study and collect only this marine animal's skeleton. One who has done any swimming or skin diving in the Pacific may have caught glimpses of living sand dollars stretched out far below. While alive, this cousin of the sea urchin is deep purple. Tiny spines, measuring about 1/6 of an inch long, are so densely affixed to the animal's aboral surface that they give the sensation and appearance of a soft, luxuriant fabric, such as velvet.

Sand dollars are frequently found on sandy beaches, skeletons devoid of living cover.

Illustrated by DON HACKETT

Resembling a genus of undersea cactus, sea urchins are found in rocky tidal crevices.

Large beds of the sand dollar, Dendraster, occur in flat, sandy regions, usually not far from shore. They stand vertically upright, when surrounded by motionless water, with the major portion of their disc covered by sand; however, when a current is stirring, the entire bed of dollars will lean away from the disturbance in uniform proportion, one to the other.

Sea urchins may be observed at low tide along rocky shores. Sand dollars are usually located on sandy beaches in this area.

Pep Pill Study

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

RESearchers think that use of pep pills (amphetamine drugs) during pregnancy may be one cause of birth defects.

Preliminary evidence suggests a link between amphetamines and the appearance of a defect called myelomeningocele. This is a cleft or split in the spinal column with hernial protrusion of the spinal cord and its membranes.

Dr. Harris D. Riley of Children's Memorial Hospital in Oklahoma City found that a number of mothers with such babies had taken appetite suppressants (amphetamine-type) during pregnancy.

He and his associates have drawn no conclusions but are now initiating experiments to attempt to reproduce the condition in laboratory animals.

Myelomeningocele is correctable by surgery but has lasting effects such as paralysis of the lower part of the body.

A MEDICAL officer with the Federal Aviation Agency warns of the dangers of drug-taking among pilots.

Dr. J. Robert Dille cites the case of the executive aircraft, flying lower than surrounding mountains in a thunderstorm. It crashed, killing its four occupants.

The pilot, noted earlier to have been in good spirits and resistant to suggestions that he wait for the weather to clear, was found to have three potent prescription drugs on his body.

They were dextro-amphetamine, which induces a sense of well-being; thyroglobulin, which stimulates metabolism; and secobarbital, which sedates.

Dr. Dille, a medical officer with the FAA's Civil Aeromedical Research Institute in Oklahoma City, says that drugs can interfere with perception, decision making and motor skills, to cause significant reduction in pilot performance.

A RESEARCHER has found abnormalities in blood vessels surrounding chronic stomach ulcers.

These vessels, an Australian doctor says, bear strong similarities to hardening of the arteries.

Arteries surrounding the ulcers showed degenerative changes akin to the loss of elasticity, thickening and hardening known as arteriosclerosis (artery hardening). They also contained fat deposits characteristic of atherosclerosis (thickening of arteries).

The report is in Archives of Pathology.

USE OF THE antibiotic kanamycin has shortened the hospital stay of aged male patients who have undergone prostate gland surgery, University of Washington doctors report.

Researchers say the agent has been successful in preventing postoperative infection, catheter complications and fever.

A NEW STUDY lends support to the belief that potassium iodide is beneficial in the treatment of childhood asthma.

A two-year study at a Denver hospital shows that this type of treatment produces moderate to significant improvement in a majority of instances.

The research was carried out at the Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital and under its medical director, Dr. Constantine J. Falliers.

There was considerable variability in individual response to treatment, he says.

"Asthma improved significantly in 18% of the children treated," Dr. Falliers told the American Academy of Allergy. "It improved moderately in another 46%." The remaining 36% were not helped.

(This column frequently reports advances in medical research and opinions of medical authorities not yet accepted in general practice.)

It's Later Than You Think

By Dick Westermann

BEING on time pays off. Being late penalizes. It always has and it always will.

A new coach took over a football team.

Three-quarters of an hour after practice started, a huffing and puffing 200-pound guard appeared—late for the fourth time that week.

"Turn in your suit," ordered the coach. "You're through for the season."

AN EMPLOYER asked that two boys apply for a helper's job. He would choose the one he liked. One appeared on time, and was hired. The other stopped for a soft drink, began talking to a girl, an hour slipped by. He arrived late. No job.

A young employee beat out a co-worker with 12 years seniority for an executive appointment. Why? He always was on time. The other fellow was late three mornings out of five. An early morning sales meeting can't be conducted until the boss arrives.

A YOUNG COUPLE, the toast of their group, planned to be married. The girl kept the boy waiting while she primped for one hour. She came down stairs to find him gone, and a note breaking their engagement.

A property appraiser was called by a real estate company to appraise some apartment buildings. A company official was to meet him at the property at 2 p.m. At 3 p.m. the official arrived with the keys. "Sorry, old fellow, I'm late again," he apologized.

"Not as sorry as you will be when you read this bill," said the appraiser. He pulled out a book, listing 65 locations where the official had kept him waiting 100 hours in a year and a half. The appraiser turned in a bill for $600, waiting fee.

To: Allstate Bonded Contractors

Dear Mr. Belcheff:

My family and I want to thank you for the wonderful work that was done on the family room you built for us.

The whole room was done to our liking, especially the fireplace, and the fire element was most amazing.

We are enjoying the family room every minute of every day, and we would highly recommend your company to any of our friends and neighbors.

Thank you again,
Mrs. Janice Fey

BERT'S EYE VIEW

'Karen's' Mother Feels TV Needs 'Young Dr. Mary'

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

If Mary LaRoche could ever get over being a mother, she'd prefer a new television existence as a "Miss Ben Casey."

The charming co-star of the NBC-TV Monday night "Karen" series realized she had committed a tactical goof.

She beguilingly smiled at the NBC-TV public relations men seated at the luncheon table across from her and corrected herself:

"I mean a 'Miss Dr. Kildare,'" she said, in second-thought realization that "Ben Casey" was aired by an opposing network.

Some television doctoring of a non-medical nature—script surgeons officiated—has kept motherhood intact for Mary.

* * * * *

SHE IS "Karen's" mother and the role has assumed more maternal overtones since the setting of the situationer was moved from "90 Bristol Court" to a little house on Sycamore Street.

"Karen" was the lone mid-season survivor of a trio of situation comedies all originally packaged under the title of "90 Bristol Court," a semi-luxurious apartment house.

And Mother was a bewildered woman who was always keeping things from Father.

"There was more farce than family," said Mary.

Happily, the overall attitude, as well as the setting, was changed when the family moved to the little house.

Mary has now attained a feeling of identification with the mother role and no longer feels she's simply scenery.

* * * * *

AS MORE than simple scenery, Mary has appeared as a mother in the "Gidget" movies and in the "Bye Bye Birdie" movie.

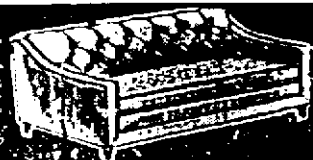

She is, in real life, the happy wife of actor Sherwood Price, but not a mother.

Actually being a mother might have helped her in the

Toe-Tapper Music Box

By Helen L. Gillum

IT DOESN'T boast transistors, precisely engineered multiple keyboards or complicated electronic circuits — this rootin', tootin', Tonawanda Automatic Military Band Organ of yesterday, owned by Paul McGinnis of 1342 Market St. But it does have 108 melodious pipes, including 23 wooden violins, 13 wooden trumpets, 14 brass piccolos, 3 trombones, many open and stopped flutes, and various other controls and gadgets within its scrolled and gold-decorated hardwood cabinet.

There are also a bass drum on one end of the exterior and a snare drum with cymbal on the other, which harmonize snappily with the other instruments. And when the switch is flipped on the electric motor that runs the perforated paper music cylinders, some of the most stirring band music since the days of Sousa rolls forth.

also to be powered with water from the city mains.

THE ORGAN owned by McGinnis is 6 feet wide and 7 feet tall, and about 2 feet in depth. Ornate decoration typical of those days enhances it, including brass faces on each end and a beautiful paneled picture across the bottom. The panel, recently painted by an artist friend, is done after the style of Raphael, and features child-like angels against a pastel background.

The music rolls, 6 inches wide, are of the perforated kind like those of player pianos. (It is interesting to note that perforated music rolls were actually the basis of the principles used in modern business machines.) Each roll plays from 6 to 10 old-time tunes, which were taken from original scores arranged by band conductors long ago.

McGINNIS hasn't yet received a report from all his

Music in the automatic manner of the early 1900s still comes clearly from this player.

neighbors on his restored band organ. But, according to several who have heard it, it is a real "go-go" machine. As one little lady put it (she will never see 60 again), "I haven't danced in years — but this thing sure put my toes to tapping!" Another said, "It reminds me of the 'Pied Piper'—makes me want to go where it is!"

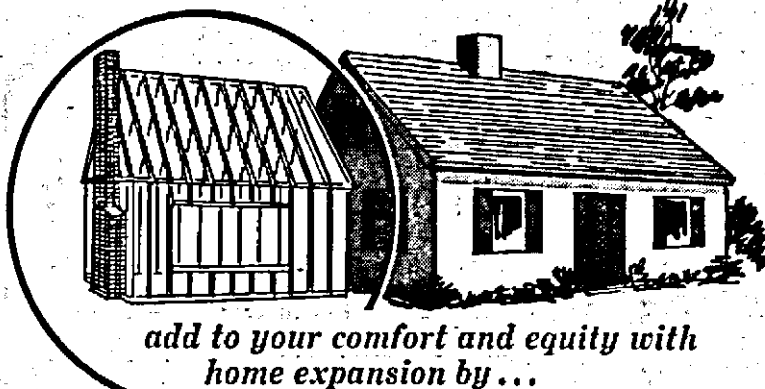

And, when someone flicks the switch and the full, spirited tones of "Onward Christian Soldiers," or "The Star Spangled Banner" pour forth, one knows what they mean. Particularly do McGinnis and a group of music-loving buddies who do not intend to let this bit of old Americana vanish if they can help it!

McGINNIS found his old musicmaker up near Monterey, where it had enjoyed better days on an old merry-go-round. Working from descriptions and pictures in vintage catalogs and other sources, McGinnis and a friend, Ed Schmidt of Lynwood, have done a remarkable job of putting back together again the band organ.

"Ed did most of the technical details", says McGinnis. "Luckily, we had most of the original mechanism with which to work. However, we did have to make a few new parts 'from scratch'."

Military band organs were built by the North Tonawanda Musical Instrument Works, New York (near Niagara Falls), in the early 1900s. A 1906 catalog issued by the company declares that "Proprietors of roller skating rinks, ice rinks, park carousels, Ferris wheels, circling waves, show platforms, etc., find that our new improvements have made (our) Automatic Bands . . . perfect instruments for their uses . . ." It also states that "All of the new and snappy up-to-date music is promptly made and carried in stock . . ." Instruments were available in gas, steam, or electric-powered models, and names and to a whistle. Of course such training is not to be overdone, and there must never be any punishment connected with it.

A SPRINGER can learn to walk at heel, but his natural place is out front, and he should be encouraged to be ahead except when on lead. When he isn't looking, you can toss a dummy into cover and soon he'll be seeking it out. To get him to go to the right, then to the left, toss dog biscuits into cover. Of course get him accustomed to other types of ground.

Introduce the sporting dog to gun noise by feeding the pup and having the gun shot at some distance. Have the gun shot closer and closer as the puppy eats his daily meals. Soon he'll be accustomed to gun noise and will not shy from it.

Eventually you introduce the young dog to various game specimens and also a scent trail which you can make with a scent bag that you drag along the ground out of his sight. No guns are employed during the first lessons in the field. Most important is for him to drop when you command it or when you use a whistle to which you have trained him.

THE SPRINGER spaniel is a very beautiful dog and fits into the average family as a pet, show dog, or pal for dad in the field. The three pictured with this article are Davista South Riding Bridget, Whizzbang's Merry Go Round, and Ch. Davista South Riding Rinkles, all owned by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Davis, 10544 Olive St., Temple City.

In a series of biological lab studies the scientists found that fewer bees return to their hives on days of high atmospheric activity and that hamsters will break up their nests and drag their young to new locations to get away from an electrified area.

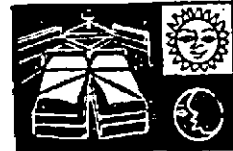

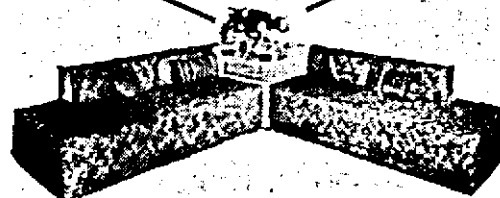

IT HAS BEEN a long observed phenomena that many animals including horses, dogs and cattle become highly agitated before an electrical storm and absolutely terrified during one.

A statistical study, based on one million units, revealed that human births rise 11% during periods of high electrical activity and that deaths go up 20%.

The statisticians also learned that traffic accidents climbed 70% and general work accidents rose 20%.

Complaints from brain patients and amputees increased markedly, from 30 to 50%, when lightning is flying.

Paper Plant: Interesting Pest

By Joe Littlefield

HANDSOME specimen in landscaping, Tetrapanax papyrifera—better known as rice paper plant—is also a pest in its performance, sending up unwanted new growth from roots that spread out over wide areas.

In planting this item for tropical effects, gardeners should give full consideration to its less desirable aspects.

The foliage and shadow patterns cast across a wall or patio are attractive and desirable, yet gardeners rue the day they set out a paper plant close to a house where there is a large area of soil for its roots to ramble through, then send up clusters of new plants that eventually become a nuisance.

We know how this plant grows because our neighbor had one at the corner of his front house. Roots from the rice paper plant grew under our driveway into our dichondra lawn. The experience was the same in our

As it is, the rule is baseball's version of aid to Appalachia, but its fault is that the poor can become rich without moving a muscle. The poorer clubs can cut scouting to a skeleton and still grab their share of talent in the special draft.

"WE LOST 20 such players in last year's draft and had to give up an entire minor league club (Salisbury, N. C.) for that reason. If that's helping baseball, I'll eat my bow tie.

"The American League is pushing these rules because clubs are trying to pull down the Yankees to their level instead of building up to them. It's a bad thing. Without the Yankees' attendance, what's the American League?"

Despite the first-year handicap, Bavasi is doing his best to build and win at the same time. He made a seven-player trade with Washington that brought pitcher Claude Osteen and third baseman John Kennedy. Both figure to be regulars, whereas Frank Howard was the only semi-regular of the five he gave up.

Bavasi also wasn't afraid to admit he made a mistake and brought back outfielder Dick Smith, who couldn't make it with the Mets. One year sometimes can make a big difference and the Dodgers believe Smith can make it here.

FROM A productive farm system come catcher Hector Valle and infielder Jim Lefebvre, the latter one of the most publicized rookies in Florida. Lefebvre, a baseball baby at 22, was force-fed in the Arizona winter instructional league and will be in the starting lineup Monday after only 2½ seasons of minor league experience.

A capsule rundown of the nine most prominent newcomers:

Purdin—24-year-old right-hander, received $9,000 bonus last spring after winning 20 games for U. S. Air Force team while stationed in Germany; won 14, lost 3 in pro debut at Salisbury, then pitched two-hit shutout vs. Cubs in first start for Dodgers in September.

"Throws as hard as anyone on staff," says Dodger farm director Fresno Thompson. Won 9, lost 9 in first year of organized ball. "At this stage of his career, he's ahead of Sandy Koufax," says scouting director Al Campanis.

Dean—19-year-old shortstop from Iuka, Miss., received $60,000 bonus. "Best young shortstop I've seen since PeeWee Reese," says Bavasi. Batted .224 in half a minor league season.

Crawford—18-year-old outfielder, was Los Angeles high school "player of year" in 1964. Batted .326 at Santa Barbara, .313 in 10 games with Dodgers.

Valle—24-year-old Puerto Rican, probable No. 2 catcher behind John Roseboro. Rated as excellent receiver.

Smith—25-year-old ex-Dodger, returned from Mets. Assets are speed, arm, some power. Probably will be platooned in outfield.

Lefebvre—22-year-old

switch-hitter, can play second or third. "Makes double play as well as Bill Mazeroski," says Thompson. "Has major league bat, some power, great hands."

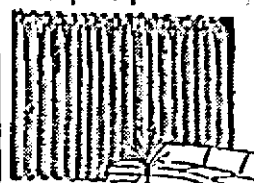

Osteen—25-year-old left-hander, won 15 for ninth-place Senators last year. Seven-year major league veteran, has outstanding control, good fast ball and added change of pace.

Kennedy—23-year-old third baseman, rated outstanding with glove, light with bat, but with chance to improve three-year American League average of .227.

portrayal of her varied maternal roles, Mary theorized.

On the other hand, she's successfully played a murderess five times in the "Perry Mason" series. And she's never really murdered anyone.

Which is another reason why she feels she can portray a woman doctor without actually going to medical school, although she once seriously considered medicine as her career.

"I can visualize the series," she said.

"It is a misconception that women doctors can't be as objective as men doctors."

"MISS" DR. Kildare would be objective, but vulnerable too. She would have problems with patients falling in love with her. She couldn't be anyone's wife.

"The opening script would be in a children's orthopedic hospital because I've always wanted to help children."

The only drawback she could visualize was that she might actually have to tour the medical facilities of real hospitals in preparation for the woman medico series.

Such a procedure was followed by Richard Chamberlain preparatory to the airing of the first "Dr. Kildare" script.

"I'd probably faint dead away if I had to watch an actual operation," said Mary.

"I'm not the kind of girl who stops at accidents."

From that standpoint, she preferred the non-objective point of view.

* GARDEN CLUBS *

Long Beach Garden Club will present a program of slides of New Zealand garden spots with a tie-in lecture of garden information by Joe Littlefield, garden columnist and consultant, at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave. A question and answer period is planned. Potluck supper will open the program at 6:30 p.m. Visitors are welcome.

Long Beach Parent Chapter, American Begonia

Society, will hear a talk by Mary Armstrong of San Gabriel, a popular garden speaker, at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the social hall of Community Savings and Loan Building, 3901 Atlantic Ave. Plant table and refreshments, ample parking. Visitors welcome.

Meeting of the Long Beach Cactus Club, scheduled Saturday in Linden Hall has been canceled because of proximity to Easter. Next meeting: May 15.

Tips on Gardening

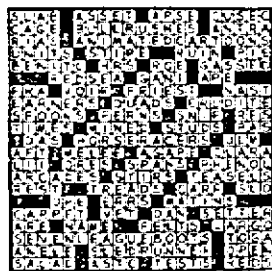

Garden tips for the week... The right tools make gardening easy, so make sure you have the correct ones for the jobs you'll be doing now.

This is a good time to put in new lawns. If the area now has a heavy weed crop, spray first with the weed killer your nurseryman recommends. Cultivate the soil to a depth of 9-10 inches and work in adequate quantities of organic matter.

When buying annuals, get enough of the same color and variety to give a showy effect. Remember that twice as many plants give ten times as much impact.

IN A LAND where summer rains are few and far between, succulents will serve you well. These nearly indestructible plants suffer the worst conditions of drought without showing it, and you can't find a soil so poor they won't grow in it. Don't even look for one.

There are two big reasons for planting succulents, says the California Association of Nurserymen. One, they will thrive where other plants curl up and die, and, two, they offer enough interest in form and color to hold their own in highly competitive garden situations—in planter boxes, in rockeries and as edgings.

THE COMMONEST succulent seen in California is the familiar ice plant, which covers so many dry banks in coastal areas. And if you are about to turn up your nose, have another look at what this old standby can do. We refer not to the vividly colored variety, but rather to the more subtle members of the family with longer, fleshier leaves. Use it for spot contrast in a border or rockery. Use it to cover an entire bank, or try it in a large planter box, where it will trail over the side.

The brighter ice plants referred to above are too uncompromising in their color for some people, but when used as bank covers in the background, they can lend just the right amount of color. They are definitely in the no-trouble class, and you can't fault them for being so colorful.

STONECROPS or Sedums are more refined plants of growing interest to Californians. More and more they are being used to round out a perennial border or to hang from an overhead container. They are either upright or trailing and many of them have flowers of more than passing beauty and interest. One of the best Sedums is Showy Sedums with round, blue-green leaves and clusters of pink flowers topping each sturdy stem. It's an all 'round good choice for general garden use or for special attention.

A long time favorite and one of the most useful succulents is Echeveria, or Hen and Chickens. Tucked away among rocks, or featured in a special planter, Echeveria will always catch attention. The low growing, stemless rosettes, from which tall stems push up tubular blooms, are familiar to all. The common name derives from the appearance of a mature blooming plant hovering over its "brood" of smaller rosettes which have pushed out from its base. You can fill a parkway with these if you have patience.

VAGUELY FAMILIAR is the Houseleek family, which produces lowly rosettes of delicate shadings and tall flower stems of undeniable charm. Houseleek makes an excellent carpet if given time to spread out and in rockeries, or in tubs, it can be highly decorative.

There are so many succulents, it is really a shame

to single out such a few. The Euphorbia, or Spurge family, from which comes the Christmas Poinsettia, also claims several low growing succulent members of note. The Aeoniums, large and showy clumps, something like a giant Houseleek, deserve attention; and the Aloe family has several members which will interest you, or should. Perhaps the best way to meet the many we haven't mentioned, as well as those we have, is to visit a C.A.N. nurseryman and see just what he has in stock. Start with a few and you'll add to them for years to come.

Cameo Cutie

VIRNA LISTS golden hair is swept into an elegant cascade of back curls for an opening night hairdo as "How To Murder Your Wife," her first American film, debuts in New York. Her "Cameo Coiffure," created by Imo of Elizabeth Arden, is smoothed softly away from Virna's beautiful face and gathered into golden curls that fall from the top of her head to the nape of her neck.

The continental beauty stars with Jack Lemmon in the new comedy, which was produced and written by George Axelrod. The United Artists release costars Terry-Thomas, Claire Trevor and Eddie Mayehoff.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS may be grown in pots for fall color in patios or pots may be sunk into flower beds where flowers are lacking. Old, clumpy mums need attention right now. Dig up two-year and older clumps. Heel them in another part of the garden. "Heel in" means to transplant them. Don't prepare the soil before planting them, because they'll be there temporarily. Water the plants as soil dries.

Put an inch layer of good grade steer manure or an organic mulch material over the top of the soil where mums were removed. Scatter four cupfuls of bone meal per 100 square feet of the already manure covered soil. Dig all this into a shovel depth and soak down well. A week later dig over again and soak in. About a week or so later still, rake over the soil.

Dig up the mums heeled

in and pull apart the clumps. Save the outer young plants with some roots on them. These shoots are called "Irish cuttings."

Set the young individual plants in the prepared soil. Keep them moist till you notice new growth develop, then water them as needed.

WATCH CLOSELY for aphids, white flies and leaf hoppers. Spray when necessary with an insecticide spray.

A month later, start feeding the new mums lightly a balanced plant food. Don't confuse "a balanced plant food" with a liquid fish fertilizer because it contains less nitrogen but more phosphoric acid plus some potash. Phosphoric acid is the flower maker fertilizer with potash assisting the phosphorus. The nitrogen is the fertilizer that stimulates vigorous lush growth. Too much nitrogen fertilizer such as liquid fish, at expense of phosphorus forces mums to grow leggy and vine-like, even though gardener might wisely follow through on the correct pinch tipping process periodically.

So, fertilize the mums about once a month with a balanced complete plant food till buds form and barely start to show color and you'll have some lovely blossoms with stiff stems.

Good Subjects

People always make fascinating subjects, whether you are shooting still pictures or movies. And the most appealing pictures show them doing something natural. Keep this in mind when you're taking pictures and always try to show your subjects in an unposed, relaxed situation.

A FRIEND—whose hobby, like mine, is dining out—asked me this imaginative question the other night: "What if you were stranded on an island where, due to peculiar circumstances, you were required to eat the same fare day after day. And what if, by the same circumstances, you could choose what that item would be. What would you select?"

After considerable thought, during which I offered myself scores of delicious possibilities, I replied: "Prime rib au jus. I honestly believe I could eat it every day and not grow overly bored."

Of course, if I were marooned on an island it would be pretty hard to get delivery of the kind of prime rib I'd prefer. I like restaurant prime rib—fine-grained, juicy, and roasted medium rare. Several Long Beach restaurants prepare this delicacy especially well, among them the Corsican Room, 5430 E. Second St., Naples.

This smart dining place, with a Mediterranean-style decor, is now owned by John T. Webster, former president of the local realty board and a former chemist. His recipe for prime rib was acquired from the Corsican's former owner, Jack Bass. It is prepared by chefs George Eckert and Grace Lane according to Jack's exacting standards, including au jus which is particularly rich and flavorful. It's $4.50 with soup du jour, large fresh salad, baked potato, warm sourdough bread, beverage and ice cream.

daily and Sunday from 4 p.m. to 2 a.m. Among the other treats are Australian lobster tail, $3.95, and a selection of delectable charcoal-broiled steaks, priced from $3.50 for the special a la carte New York cut.

SUNDAY TREAT—Is today a special occasion for someone you know—a birthday or anniversary? If you'd like to enchant your honored guest, or guests, with something truly spectacular, try the flaming steak royale at Alfred Restaurant, 700 E. 45th St. Cooked and flamed at the table, the dish consists of a superb top sirloin cut into a butterfly shape, sauteed in a chafing dish with shallots in butter. It's $5.50 with hors d'oeuvres, soup or salad, potato, vegetable and wrapped candies as a desert tidbit. Equally entrancing are Alfred's other American and continental entrees, priced from $2.75.

SPECIAL

GROWING CRISIS—Both sides of the bracero controversy are offered at 9:30 p.m., ch. 9, as Roger Grimsby takes a look at films of braceros at work, talks with Southland fruit and vegetable growers and with those who insist no imported farm help is needed. Gov. Edmund G. Brown is among those interviewed.

FDR REMEMBERED—To commemorate the 20th anniversary of the death of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Charles Kuralt (who was 9 in 1945) goes to Warm Springs, Ga., and the family home in Hyde Park to recapture the spirit of the "New Deal" founder at 10 p.m., ch. 2. Focusing not on Roosevelt as President, or as the Squire of Hyde Park, but rather on personal reminiscences of the man, in the wide variety of his moods and interests, told by people remembering him not as a statesman but as a father or friend. Representing the family at Hyde Park will be Under Secretary of Commerce FDR Jr., who will recall moments of family history as he moves through the house with Kuralt. Mrs. Mabel Irwin recalls FDR's visits to Warm Springs.

SUNDAY'S CHILD—KNXT newsmen Joseph Benti reports on the plight of the unwanted child with a multi-racial background, and of the increasing problem in the Southland of placing such children with adoptive parents. Seen originally Jan. 18, special is repeated at 10:30 p.m., ch. 2.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

'Karen's' Mother Feels TV Needs 'Young Dr. Mary'

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

If Mary LaRoche could ever get over being a mother, she'd prefer a new television existence as a "Miss Ben Casey."

The charming co-star of the NBC-TV Monday night "Karen" series realized she had committed a tactical goof.

She beguilingly smiled at the NBC-TV public relations men seated at the luncheon table across from her and corrected herself:

"I mean a 'Miss Dr. Kildare,'" she said, in second-thought realization that "Ben Casey" was aired by an opposing network.

Some television doctoring of a non-medical nature—script surgeons officiated—has kept motherhood intact for Mary.

SHE IS "Karen's" mother and the role has assumed more maternal overtones since the setting of the situationer was moved from "90 Bristol Court" to a little house on Sycamore Street.

"Karen" was the lone mid-season survivor of a trio of situation comedies all originally packaged under the title of "90 Bristol Court," a semi-luxurious apartment house.

And Mother was a bewildered woman who was always keeping things from Father.

"There was more farce than family," said Mary.

Happily, the overall attitude, as well as the setting, was changed when the family moved to the little house.

Mary has now attained a feeling of identification with the mother role and no longer feels she's simply scenery.

AS MORE than simple scenery, Mary has appeared as a mother in the "Gidget" movies and in the "Bye Bye Birdie" movie.

She is, in real life, the happy wife of actor Sherwood Price, but not a mother.

Actually being a mother might have helped her in the

Mr. Stereo Says...

Don't overlook the importance of good speakers in your stereo or monaural
Hi-Fi system. After all, the speakers are the only components that actually produce the music you hear. If you have a quality tape recorder or receiver and then use inferior speakers, you will not hear the sound you have paid for.

At WESTERN we now carry the best quality speakers made today—the JBL's made by Lansing. Why not pay us a visit and hear the difference in the comfort of our sound room. If you already have speakers, we are pleased to take them in trade.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Television Needs 'Young Dr. Mary'

portrayal of her varied maternal roles, Mary theorized.

On the other hand, she's successfully played a murderer five times in the "Perry Mason" series. And she's never really murdered anyone.

Which is another reason why she feels she can portray a woman doctor without actually going to medical school, although she once seriously considered medicine as her career.

"I can visualize the series," she said.

"It is a misconception that women doctors can't be as objective as men doctors."

"MISS" DR. Kildare would be objective, but vulnerable too. She would have problems with patients falling in love with her. She couldn't be anyone's wife.

"The opening script would be in a children's orthopedic hospital because I've always wanted to help children."

The only drawback she could visualize was that she might actually have to tour the medical facilities of real hospitals in preparation for the woman medico series.

Such a procedure was followed by Richard Chamberlain preparatory to the airing of the first "Dr. Kildare" script.

"I'd probably faint dead away if I had to watch an actual operation," said Mary.

"I'm not the kind of girl who stops at accidents."

From that standpoint, she preferred the non-objective point of view.

ARTHRITIS, NEURITIS Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica

If you are troubled with STIFFENING, ACHING, INFLAMED, SWOLLEN, PAINFUL JOINTS and MUSCLES, you should try DR. CHAN'S NATURAL THERAPY. Hundreds of sufferers who had been pronounced hopeless have found quick relief through a method that has stood the test of many centuries in China. Dr. Chan's famous Chinese Herbs may help you back to the road to health and happiness again.

DR. CHAN, D. C.

DR. CHAN'S natural Chinese Herbs purify, cleanse and restore the stomach, liver and spleen to normal function, preventing gas and lowering the blood pressure. In most common ailments, there are Herbs remedies.

'SEND KATIE IN'

Robert Vaughn Misses 'Idol'

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Poor Robert Vaughn. The suave, capable star of NBC-TV's The Man From U.N.C.L.E., like all the rest of us, has his un-suave moments.

Recently he was resting in his MGM dressing room between takes on the show. There was a knock at his door and a publicist called in, saying, "Katharine Hepburn wants to talk to you."

Vaughn shuddered as he remembered the incident. "My Idols in this business are Ingrid Bergman, Katharine Hepburn and Garbo. When I heard this line, I thought, 'That's a pretty poor joke.' So I called out, 'Send Katie in.'"

"AND IN WALKED Katharine Hepburn, saying, 'Spencer Tracy thinks you are the best young actor in town and he told me to tell you so if I was ever here at MGM.' Then she turned and was gone. I was totally unprepared for that and stood there like an idiot. I didn't even get a chance to tell her I love her."

Beginning this month, Vaughn will be flexing his acting muscles as Hamlet in a Los Angeles production.

"The last time I played Hamlet was six years ago, when Los Angeles State College opened a new theater. The same criticism was leveled at me as Richard Burton, when he played the part on Broadway. The critics said it looked like my Hamlet would wind up safely on the throne, and no one would ever get him. I think I can correct that this time."

Dentist-Actor

Edgar Buchanan, Uncle Joe on CBS-TV's "Petticoat Junction," was a dentist for 10 years in Eugene, Ore. His wife, Mildred, also was a dentist.

Clipping this coupon could be the beginning of an exciting new career for you in television broadcasting

Mr. W. A. Sawyer, President
Northwest Schools TV Division
Dept. 74-3, 1221 N.W. 21st Avenue
Portland, Oregon 97209

I'd like more information about job opportunities in television and Northwest's training course.

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ ZIP _____
Age _____ Phone _____

This simple inquiry form has changed the lives of hundreds of men and women between the ages of 18 and 45 since it first appeared in 1953. These people are now successfully employed in exciting, rewarding behind-the-scenes television jobs that include: cameramen, boom operators, music librarians, set designers, salesmen, floor directors, studio receptionists, audio controllers, video engineers, producers, directors, script and continuity writers, and more.

Many of those who have clipped and mailed this coupon were dissatisfied with an ordinary job, just as you may be. Many were attracted to the idea of working in television, just as you may be. All of them were ambitious and willing to apply themselves to get ahead, just as you may be. All of them took the first step by using this coupon to bring them the information they needed to make up their minds. You can do the same... for no more than the price of a stamp. Mail the coupon today. Get information about age and requirements which must be met to qualify for employment in the television broadcasting industry. No obligation.

What happened to "Bub" on "My Three Sons?"
Ruth J. Klenner, Long Beach

ABC-TV spokesmen report that Bill Frawley, who had the role for five years, became ill after shooting 13 of this season's shows. He was released because of illness.

agree that his remarks about Bible stories were "shady."
The series he will be featured in next season is about intelligence agents and will have nothing to do with Bible stories.

Usually the Hollywood Palace has a very good show on Saturday night, but the week they had Bill Cosby was an exception.

If this is the kind of material Cosby will use on his own show, I, for one, will not watch it as I'm sure others won't.

There is enough of taking God out of things without someone making fun and shady remarks about Bible stories.

Norma Weeks, Lakewood

You're apparently referring, Norma, to Cosby's "Noah and the Ark" routine. It's a routine that he has presented on other TV shows and has recorded on an album—one that sells well.

I cannot argue with your feelings about this modernized Noah version and, in truth, it is shared by others. However, I can't

Moral Rearmament Move TV Subject

The world leader of the Moral Rearmament movement, the late Peter Howard, is the subject of a half-hour program at 5 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 13. The film is narrated by

Barbra Sings

The first CBS special by the sensational Barbra Streisand, currently on Broadway in the musical "Funny Girl," will be telecast April 28. The show's title is "My Name is Barbra." On it, she will sing a song written in 1943 by long-hair composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein called "My Name is Barbara."

actor Robert Young.

It shows Howard with Mau Mau leaders in Kenya detention camps and includes his discussions with revolutionary students in South America universities.

In addition, it features films of Howard talking to U. S. college students in various parts of the nation.

The program is titled "A Man to Match the Hour."

S. I. TUROFF, California's Leading Hair Expert

will demonstrate new methods that help grow thicker hair, stop baldness. A regular 30-minute Turoff Scalp Treatment on trial basis to any eligible person, next 7 days only!

I've given over one million scalp treatments (a record) to happy Californians in 12 Turoff offices. If you have a hair-loss problem—see me! All offices offer a trial treatment plan for the next 7 days.

Five Steps in Treatment

1. FREE EXAMINATION by a Turoff trained specialist establishes your individual causes of hair loss.

2. PROFESSIONAL MASSAGE. A skilled and trained assistant rejuvenates, tones and loosens scalp so tissues can grow.

3. HIGH FREQUENCY THERAPY provides short "cold" rays to kill bacteria, increase scalp metabolism.

4. EXCLUSIVE ELECTROTHERAPY developed by Turoff techniques after years of research, results are FAST.

5. EXCLUSIVE MEDICATION. Turoff formulas, laboratory produced, are either applied on the scalp or a strong healthy hairline.

S. I. Turoff, Director, Turoff Hair and Scalp Experts, now demonstrates remarkable new methods. No appointment needed, for free examination and 30-minute trial treatment.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM S. I. TUROFF

Our new methods are exciting! There are great numbers of people who wait, till hopeless baldness develops. If you have a hair-loss problem, you should act NOW! I'll make it EASY! Take this pleasant, remarkable 30-minute treatment on a TRIAL basis: PAY NOTHING unless you decide to continue. Don't miss this!

Sincerely,

S. I. TUROFF

HAIR EXPERT SPEAKS

"I find that the chief cause of BALDNESS today is simply neglect! Failure on the part of a balding person to see a specialist before it is too late!"

So says S. I. Turoff, California's leading hair expert. This specialist has administered over one million treatments in 12 busy Turoff clinics throughout California. For many years, hair-worried Californians have brought their problems to him to solve. The satisfaction of thousands of clients reflects in the tremendous growth of the Turoff organization.

And Turoff further states, "It is surprising the number of old-fashioned ideas people still cling to regarding their hair. For instance, many believe that baldness is inherited. If this were true, why should a person have hair for—say 30 years—before he started to lose it? We may inherit a tendency to baldness, not baldness itself. Some people believe it is 'natural' to get bald with age. This, too, is wrong. Science has proven that hair grows fastest between 35 and 60 years of age.

However, the most foolish belief of all regarding baldness is that nothing can be done. Turoff records with thousands of clients prove that we can help 95 per cent of those we examine. Hair can be thickened where the roots are still alive. If a person is slick bald we do not accept him for treatment."

WHAT TO EXPECT

Turoff continued, "If you are accepted for Turoff treatment, the causes of your unhealthy scalp will be removed, we will save and thicken your hair. The free examination will reveal just how much thicker you can expect it to be. Your hair will improve wonderfully and you will see it do so quickly. Furthermore, we will teach you to maintain a head of hair permanently! The cost for treatment is very reasonable. Remember, we cater to working people—Mr. and Mrs. Average Person. It's easy to make the time for treatment, our hours are: 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., daily and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays, Thursdays 4 to 8 p.m. No appointment needed—come in anytime. Don't wait! Baldness can get to be hopeless.

OLD BALL GAME—The grand old man of baseball, Branch Rickey, serves as narrator for an hour-long salute to the season's opening day. The 7 p.m. hour, ch. 9, includes film clips of the 1934 World Series finale, injured Roy Campanella talking with his Dodger teammates, Coolidge throwing out the ball in the 1925 Series, plus shots of Babe Ruth, Casey Stengel, Joe DiMaggio, Hans Wagner, John McGraw, Dazzy Vance, the House of David. You'll also see baseball in Japan, Castro attending a game in Cuba, batter up at the North Pole and a look at the westward move of the National League and Ebbetts Field being torn down.

TELEPHONE HOUR—Both the festive and religious aspects of springtime receive a musical salute as Olivia De Havilland is hostess for the color hour at 10 p.m., ch. 4. Met tenor Richard Tucker joins with the Sholom Secunda Choral in a Passover segment, blessing of the wine from the Haggadah, while the Mormon Tabernacle Choir offers Easter classics, including "Hallelujah" from Handel's Messiah. Others featured are singers Dorothy Collins, Anita Gillette and Ron Husmann, plus dancers Edward Villella and Patricia McBride. (This hour next week goes to Ted Yates' "Our Man in Washington: II," with David Brinkley.)

OLIVIA de Havilland serves as hostess for the "Telephone Hour" at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 4 in COLOR.

SPECIAL

PROGRAM EXCHANGE—

The annual exchange of programs among CBS-owned stations gets under way this weekend with Chicago's "Friendship Show" returning at 2 p.m. and Philadelphia's "Tottle" at 2:30 p.m., both ch. 2 for the youngsters. Series on the musical stage and scriptures debut on Sunday, with KNXT contributing its "As Others See Us" in the 5-way exchange.

PASSOVER with Jan Peerce—

The noted tenor and his wife Alice relate the meaning of Passover in song and story in a show first seen last year and repeated at 4:30 p.m., ch. 4. The prescribed ritual for the seder is explained, and Peerce offers songs of the holy day accompanied by an orchestra and 6-voice male choir. (On ch. 11 at 3 p.m., George Jessel hosts a Passover showing of Al Jolson's "Jazz Singer.")

HOLLYWOOD PALACE—

Brothers, makes her final television appearance at 9:30 p.m., ch. 7, with guest-host Groucho Marx. The two taped a sketch called "Captain Spaulding," an excerpt from "Animal Crackers" in which both appeared in the 30's, just a week before her death last month. In other segments of the hour, Groucho is joined by his daughter Melinda, Gordon and Sheila MacRae, comic Sheeky Greene, singer Miriam Makeba, Scottish comic Don Saunders, the Four Kents, trick motorcyclists, and Lydia Torea and her Spanish Ballet.

SUNRISE SERVICES —

The 45th annual Easter Sunrise services from Hollywood Bowl will be telecast starting at 4:50 a.m. (Sun.) with Bill Welsh as host and Dr. Emlyn Davies, Raymond Burr and Bruce Yarnell featured. (There'll be a taped replay at 11 a.m. for late risers.) And for those whose sets receive ch. 8, there will be sunrise services at 6 a.m. from Balboa Park.

DON'T BE 1/2 SET...BE ALL SET!

New or converted TV sets are all set to receive channels 2 to 83. Be sure your antenna is not 1/2 set but all set to receive them—in brilliant COLOR and black & white.

JFD LPV LOG PERIODIC TV ANTENNA

shown: model LPV-VUS as low as $27.50 — plus installation

The new JFD Cap-Electronic Dipole LPV Log Periodic is the first and only single antenna that works on all channels 2 to 83, (and FM). Features super-sensitive new capacitor-coupled dipoles that work electronically for more picture power on every channel.

It is based on the same design as that of satellite-tracking antennas to give you brilliant reception in COLOR, black/white TV—even FM Stereo. So if you are converting your set or buying a new all-channel 2-83 UHF/VHF TV, a new JFD LPV Log Periodic with Cap-Electronic dipoles is a "must." Developed from research performed at the University of Illinois Antenna Research Laboratories.

Mr. Stereo Says...

Don't overlook the importance of good speakers in your stereo or monaural Hi-Fi system. After all, the speakers are the only components that actually produce the music you hear. If you have a quality tape recorder or receiver and then use inferior speakers, you will not hear the sound you have paid for.

At WESTERN we now carry the best quality speakers made today—the JBL's made by Lansing. Why not pay us a visit and hear the difference in the comfort of our sound room. If you already have speakers, we are pleased to take them in trade.

TEEN-AGE FAIR — The western regional finals for Miss Teen, USA, are seen from the Palladium at 9:30 p.m., ch. 9. Sam Riddle is host, with special segment featuring winning song leaders from various high schools.

SUSPENSE THEATRE — Next season on NBC, you'll be seeing a color series called "Run for Your Life," a kind of "Fugitive"-for-fun in which Ben Gazzara plays a young man told he has 18 months to live, who decides to move around the world cramming a whole lifetime's excitement into a few remaining months. Tonight's 10 p.m., ch. 4 color hour served as the pilot for this series, and co-stars Katherine Crawford, daughter of "The Fugitive's" creator Roy
Huggins, as well as Michael Rennae. The excitement-seeking man rushes to the Riviera where he gets involved with the thrill-seeking jet set, and a beautiful blonde heiress.

FEMALE REBELLION —
A kaleidoscope study of the American woman and her fight for equality in the face of opposition from both male and female groups is offered at 10 p.m., ch. 9. Joan Fontaine is hostess, as hour travels from the suffrage movement through speak-easies and flappers, repeal, and World Wars I and II.

Walter Scott's Personality Parade

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. Is Richard Nixon running for the 1968 Republican Presidential nomination, and can he possibly carry New York, which is his home state at the moment? — Vic McCallister, Whittier, Calif.

A. In political circles it is recognized that Nixon has already started to run. No one can tell about New York at this point.

Q. I understand the Post Office has ordered a "cover" on the mail of 24,000 American citizens in the past few years. Isn't there a law against such practices? I thought this was a free country. What exactly is a "cover"? — Mary Ellen Hunt, Rock Hill, S.C.

A. There is no law banning the "cover" of anyone's mail by postal officials. According to Postmaster General John Gronouski, "A cover simply consists of recording from a piece of mail the name and address of the sender, the place and date of postmarking and the class of mail. The mail is neither delayed nor opened."

Q. Debbie Reynolds is going to star in the film, The Singing Nun. My question is: Does Sister Luc Gabrielle from Belgium, whose life story the film depicts—does she have script approval? — Frances Novotny, Lake Charles, La.

A. Yes. She has approval, has ordered certain script changes.

Q. Is it true that the late President Kennedy refused to tell the American people the truth about the number of American troops in Vietnam? — L. F. T., Cody, Wyo.

A. Yes. He withheld information on the grounds of national security, said of Vietnam on Feb. 14, 1962: "We have a number of Americans there . . . I feel that we are being as frank as we can be."

Q. On the Ed Sullivan TV program, why doesn't the camera ever move in for a close-up on Ed? — Danny Hodges, Port Chester, N.Y.

A. Sullivan is 62, cannot stand a close-up.

Q. Is William Paley, head of CBS, the richest man in the broadcasting industry? — D. K., Atlantic City, N.J.

A. Paley owns $81 million worth of CBS stock, other holdings in the millions, is certainly one of the wealthiest men in the communications industry.

Q. From what college did the Rev. Martin Luther King graduate? Is he entitled to use the title, "doctor"? — George P. Putnam, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

A. Martin Luther King was graduated from Morehouse College, Atlanta, in 1948, received his B.D. from Crozer Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa., his Ph.D. from Boston University and his D.D. from Chicago Theological Seminary in 1957.

Q. Please tell the age of Mao Tse-tung, Chou En-lai, Ho Chi Minh. What education has each had? — F. Taylor Gurney, Rockville, Md.

A. Mao Tse-tung, 71, was graduated from normal school in 1918, attended Peking University, did not graduate. Chou En-lai, 67, attended various Chinese, Japanese and French Schools. Ho Chi Minh (above), 74, of North Vietnam is self-educated, attended no formal schools.

Q. Does the Queen of England have the power to veto any bill in Parliament? Does she play any part in ruling England? — Patrick Vanscoy, Melbourne, Fla.

A. The Queen has no veto power, is the ceremonial head of state in a constitutional monarchy run by the representatives of the people.

Q. Please give the family name of the present Pope. — Kathleen Whalen, Malden, Mass.

A. Pope Paul was born Giovanni Battista Montini in 1897, in Concesio, Italy.

Q. Are American convicts in prison denied the right to vote in national elections? — Robert Fernandez, Bayside, N.Y.

A. Yes.

Q. A short time ago there appeared in our paper an article by Art Buchwald concerning J. Edgar Hoover in which he said that there is no real J. Edgar Hoover but at least 26 such men. Please clear this up for me.

—Leone Perry, Sarasota, Fla.

A. Mr. Buchwald is a humorist and satirist, does not deal in facts. He was spoofing. In many papers his column appears on the editorial page, and because of this some readers take him seriously.

Q. How is Princess Soraya in her first picture, The Three Faces of a Woman? — C. Rocklin, San Jose, Calif.

A. Critics' opinion: beautiful to look at, knows nothing about acting.

Q. Who is the author of the following quotation: "When mother-in-law comes in at the door, love flies out the window"? — D. L. Evans, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A. Helen Rowland, American humorist.

Q. Has the Army drafted Fabian? — Jeannie Baird, Madison, Wis.

A. Yes, but he obtained a deferment.

Q. Mike Todd left Evelyn Keyes for Liz Taylor. Eddie

A. She has never expressed her feelings on the subject.

Q. Please run a picture of Charlie Chaplin's 18-year-old son, Michael, and that 25-year-old British babe he married. Thank you. — Elaine Du Vinci, San Francisco, Calif.

Age _____ Phone _____

This simple inquiry form has charged the lives of hundreds of men and women between the ages of 18 and 45 since it first appeared in 1953. These people are now successfully employed in exciting, rewarding behind-the-scenes television jobs that include: cameramen, boom operators, music librarians, set designers, salesmen, floor directors, studio receptionists, audio controllers, video engineers, producers, directors, script and continuity writers, and more.

Many of those who have clipped and mailed this coupon were dissatisfied with an ordinary job, just as you may be. Many were attracted to the idea of working in television, just as you may be. All of them were ambitious and willing to apply themselves to get ahead, just as you may be. All of them took the first step by using this coupon to bring them the information they needed to make up their minds. You can do the same... for no more than the price of a stamp. Mail the coupon today. Get information about age and requirements which must be met to qualify for employment in the television broadcasting industry. No obligation.

What happened to "Bub" on "My Three Sons?"
Ruth J. Klenner, Long Beach
ABC-TV spokesmen report that Bill Frawley, who had the role for five years, became ill after shooting 13 of this season's shows. He was released because of illness.

agree that his remarks about Bible stories were "shady."
The series he will be featured in next season is about intelligence agents and will have nothing to do with Bible stories.

Usually the Hollywood Palace has a very good show on Saturday night, but the week they had Bill Cosby was an exception.

If this is the kind of material Cosby will use on his own show, I, for one, will not watch it as I'm sure others won't.

There is enough of taking God out of things without someone making fun and shady remarks about Bible stories.

You're apparently referring, Norma, to Cosby's "Noah and the Ark" routine. It's a routine that he has presented on other TV shows and has recorded on an album—one that sells well.

I cannot argue with your feelings about this modernized Noah version and, in truth, it is shared by others. However, I can't

SPECIAL

BOB HOPE—Back from his Oscar hosting (and ABC has announced next year's awards will be colorcast), Hope offers his final comedy special of the season, taped last weekend at Bur- bank, at 8:30 p.m., ch. 4. Hour will highlight a musi- cal revue featuring Nancy Wilson, Frankie Avalon and Pete Fountain, with Gina Lollobrigida making her third appearance on a Hope special (Chrysler yields this hour next week to Timex for Danny Thomas' last out- ing of the season.)

DEAR LIAR—A revival of James Kilty's "Comedy of Letters," starring Kilty and his wife Cavada Hum- phrey, is based on the cor- respondence of 4 decades between George Bernard Shaw and Mrs. Patrick Campbell. The 2-character dialogue is a 90-min. special at 8:40 p.m., ch. 28.

TEEN-AGE FAIR—Final competition for Miss Teen, USA, is seen from the Moulin Rouge at 9 p.m., ch. 9. Sam Riddle is host, with guest celebrities taking part, and 1964 winner Nancy Stry on hand to crown her successor.

JACK PAAR—In com- mercial TV's only recogni- tion of Good Friday, Paar offers the Burke Family Singers in a group of hol- iday songs and Charlton Heston, now starring as Michelangelo in "The Ag- ony and the Ecstasy," with a reading from the book of Genesis which inspired the sculptor-artist's Sistine Chapel paintings. Also join- ing the 10 p.m. color hour, ch. 4, are Bob Newhart and author Morris West. A pro- gram of Good Friday music is seen at 10:10 p.m., ch. 28, with Passover features on both "Today" (4) and "9 on the Line" (9).

THE WOMAN BEHIND FIDEL CASTRO

Who is Celia Sanchez? It is a reasonable if regrettable guess that, as this is written, not one American in a thousand knows. In fact, neither did President John F. Kennedy when the name, typed on blue CIA stationery under a red-striped TOP SECRET cover, was first shown him during a tense National Security Council meeting. The President frowned:

"But who is Celia Sanchez?"

"Celia seems to be . . . the most influential person in Havana, Mr. President," explained Ambassador A. A. Berle, dean of Latin-American experts. "We think she might be of help."

It was one late afternoon three years ago this month, and if the vast U.S. government had ever been in need of help, this was the moment.

It was almost exactly one year after the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion had been debarked—and destroyed. Now the President and his advisors were meeting in emergency session to face the most recent consequence of that failure.

That morning, in Havana, after a 3-day circus trial, all 1,099 captured invaders had been convicted as "war criminals" and "traitors." Only the sentencing remained. After that, the next footfall in the Havana prison yard was likely to be that of the firing squad.

"I can't see how this girl, what's-her-name," the President looked up, "this Celia Sanchez—how she could help."

A senior CIA area analyst spoke carefully: "Mr. President, in our experience Fidel Castro will not listen to anyone but Celia. He trusts her. Lives in her apartment. It's the only address he's got. In this emergency, it was thought advisable to make a personal appeal to this girl through a go-between in Havana. We should know the results by the end of the week."

It took nowhere near that long. Before midnight, the go-between, Mrs. Bertha Barreto, called breathlessly from Havana to report that she had spoken with Celia, who had sounded "kind and understanding"—and willing to help.

THE ANONYMOUS CELIA

The rest is history. Within weeks, the ransom negotiations began. In less than a year, the invaders were free and back with their families in Miami.

Characteristically, of all hands in the sensational rescue, only Celia Sanchez Manduley, a shy, slender, dark-haired woman, managed to remain anonymous. She has learned how to avoid publicity in recent years. It's a remarkable feat, considering that during these years she has become the key feminine figure of a noisy front-page story: the Cuban revolution.

"Celia has been, and continues to be, the most important person in Fidel Castro's life," a well-informed Washington reporter, Haynes Johnson, author of The Bay of Pigs, revealed recently. And the reigning monarchs of French literature, Jean-Paul

Moral Rearmament Move TV Subject

The world leader of the Moral Rearmament movement, the late Peter Howard, is the subject of a half-hour program at 5 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 13.

The film is narrated by

Barbra Sings

The first CBS special by the sensational Barbra Streisand, currently on Broadway in the musical "Funny Girl," will be telecast April 23. The show's title is "My Name is Barbra." On it, she will sing a song written in 1943 by long-hair composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein called "My Name is Barbara."

actor Robert Young.

It shows Howard with Mau Mau leaders in Kenya detention camps and includes his discussions with revolutionary students in South America universities.

In addition, it features films of Howard talking to U. S. college students in various parts of the nation.

The program is titled "A Man to Match the Hour."

3. HIGH FREQUENCY THERAPY provides short "heat" rays to kill bacteria, increase scalp metabolism.

4. EXCLUSIVE ELECTROTHERAPY developed by Turoff technicians after years of research results are FAST.

5. EXCLUSIVE MEDICATION. Turoff formulates laboratory produced, anti-itching scalp treatment in a special, healthy lotion.

S. I. Turoff, Director, Turoff Hair and Scalp Experts, now demonstrates remarkable new methods. No appointment needed, for free examination and 30-minute trial treatment.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM S. I. TUROFF

Our new methods are exciting! There are great numbers of people who wait, till hopeless baldness develops. If you have a hair-loss problem, you should act NOW! I'll make it EASY! Take this pleasant, remarkable 30-minute treatment on a TRIAL basis: PAY NOTHING unless you decide to continue. Don't miss this!

Sincerely,
S. I. TUROFF

HAIR EXPERT SPEAKS

"I find that the chief cause of BALDNESS today is simply neglect! Failure on the part of a balding person to see a specialist before it is too late!"

So says S. I. Turoff, California's leading hair expert. This specialist has administered over one million treatments in 12 busy Turoff clinics throughout California. For many years, hair-worried Californians have brought their problems to him to solve. The satisfaction of thousands of clients reflects in the tremendous growth of the Turoff organization.

And Turoff further states, "It is surprising the number of old-fashioned ideas people still cling to regarding their hair. For instance, many believe that baldness is inherited. If this were true, why should a person have hair for—say 30 years—before he started to lose it? We may inherit a tendency to baldness, not baldness itself. Some people believe it is 'natural' to get bald with age. This, too, is wrong. Science has proven that hair grows fastest between 35 and 60 years of age.

However, the most foolish belief of all regarding baldness is that nothing can be done. Turoff records with thousands of clients prove that we can help 95 per cent of those we examine. Hair can be thickened where the roots are still alive. If a person is slick bald we do not accept him for treatment."

WHAT TO EXPECT

Turoff continued, "If you are accepted for Turoff treatment, the causes of your unhealthy scalp will be removed, we will save and thicken your hair. The free examination will reveal just how much thicker you can expect it to be. Your hair will improve wonderfully and you will see it do so quickly. Furthermore, we will teach you to maintain a head of hair permanently! The cost for treatment is very reasonable. Remember, we cater to working people—Mr. and Mrs. Average Person. It's easy to make the time for treatment, our hours are: 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., daily and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays. Thursdays 4 to 8 p.m. No appointment needed—come in anytime. Don't wait! Baldness can get to be hopeless.

Sartre and Simone de Beauvoir, echoed the claim after a visit to Cuba: "To reach Fidel, it is only necessary to find Celia . . . this slim, sensitive woman is the key to Castro." "Celia Sanchez is the most intriguing figure in Havana," recalls Bob Taber, the adventurer-newsman who once worked for Castro. "She's the only person for whom Castro shows an unashamed need."

Critics, on the other hand, tend to call her "La Sardina,"—"The Sardine"—claiming she is hard, narrow, colorless and as devoid of feminine curves as a fish. Still, it seems certain that Celia did not rise to the top of the swirling Cuban revolution without a good many buoyant talents.

Fidel Castro's utter dependence on Celia dates back to the mountain days of 1957-58, when she served as courier, camp clerk, cook, counselor and combat auxiliary. Doctors who were called in to check Castro told their diagnosis to Celia and gave her the prescriptions, for she was the only one who could make the absent-minded Fidel take his pills on anything like an orderly schedule. In addition, she alone had the patience to tend to the guerrilla headquarters correspondence, finances and records.

HER LOYAL TROOPS

After the rebel victory, it was found that the slips and scraps of paper Celia had preserved in plastic pouches represented all there was left of the revolution archives. Naturally, control of these archives gave Celia inestimable revolutionary status over equally enthusiastic but less well-documented rebel girls.

Furthermore, she is perhaps the most casual treasurer alive, and these calm country ways with currency have earned Celia the worshipful loyalty of all headquarters troops, to whom she is the patroness of pocket money and extra mess funds. The tough elite bodyguards of Castro take orders from Celia, but no one else—"not even from me," the Maximum Leader has been heard to complain.

Ever since the Sierra Maestra, Celia has kept moving up, her iron control over Castro's headquarters and household increasing and never successfully challenged. And rumor has it that this year she may leap to the very top.

After the Bay of Pigs exchange she was raised to cabinet rank. The new honor did not alter her jealously guarded job or her way of life. "She's a sturdy, simple small-town girl with a bright brain, but she'll never change, because that bright brain of hers is impaled on an iron backbone," the late Ernest Hemingway said of her admiringly. Few people realized that Celia's new eminence might have a different significance. As a Minister of State, she is only two rungs below the top of the ladder—the Presidency.

In revolutionary Cuba, of course, the hand-picked President has just exactly one responsibility: to do exactly as Castro wishes. The present incumbent, Osvaldo Dorticos, an opportunist with a permanent smile which seems etched into suet, proved so nimble at follow the leader that Castro kept him on beyond the constitutional limit. Recently, however, there have been growing reports that next July 26th—the sixth anniversary of his inauguration—Dorticos will step down. He will be replaced, according to rumors, by the first woman President in Cuban history: Celia.

If this happens Celia would become President just a few weeks after her 43rd birthday. Her official biography will note that she was born near Media Luna, at the rich, restless southeastern end of Cuba, the fourth among six children of a hard-working country doctor.

Unlike that hard-bitten, violent old cane-planter, Don Angel Castro, who was raising a brace of rambunctious boys named Fidel and Raul less than a hundred miles away, Celia's father, Dr. Manuel Sanchez, was a gentle, studious, affectionate man.

His wife died while Celia was still a toddler. Celia grew up a tomboy—a builder of treehouses, a tireless climber of mountains who seemed happiest on horseback or in a fishing launch.

At 12 she was sent away to the instituto, the finishing school in near-by Manzanillo. After graduation, she returned, a soft-spoken, earnest young lady.

At 19, she accepted a ring from Salvador Sadurni, the tall, wavy-haired son of Manzanillo's richest hardware merchant. Their wedding date was on the church calendar when Salvador came down with pneumonia and died swiftly and shockingly.

The grief-stricken girl clung to her father—and discovered politics. She threw herself into the nationalist movement fermenting around the firebrand reform leader Eduardo Chibas. But the fanatic Chibas killed himself—and Celia was once more adrift.

She developed a mysterious allergy which impeded her breathing. Her worried family sent her to New York for a change of scenery and recuperation. During six months on the Upper West Side, near Columbia University, Celia recovered her spirits, learned passable English and acquired a lasting fondness for New York City. Curiously enough, only her immediate family knows that Celia understands English.

When Celia returned to Cuba, she found that the dead Chibas had left a smoldering political heritage.

On the march, Celia follows Castro in Sierra Maestra. She served throughout guerrilla days.

No one claimed it more loudly than a young rebel whose family came from Celia's own county. His name was Fidel Castro, and Celia promptly resolved to serve his cause.

At the time Castro, a squeaky-voiced student leader with a pencil-thin mustache, was in jail! But then he was amnestied and went off to Mexico to recruit for an invasion against the Batista government. After a series of false starts, the peanutshell invasion was finally launched. It lasted 48 hours, leaving Fidel a tattered, starving fugitive.

Somewhere in the jungle a reception committee of friends was waiting to make contact with him. But Castro—characteristically—showed up late and at the wrong place. The committee gave up, none more heartbroken than the only woman among them: Celia.

"Back in Manzanillo, newshoys were screaming the Havana extras about Fidel's defeat," Celia recalled years later. "There were two kinds of headlines, CASTRO DEAD and CASTRO SURRENDERS, because the army and the police had put out two different stories. I still remember how those shouts stung me as I walked across town. I was too unhappy to think or even cry. Then a new headline appeared, CASTRO STILL IN MEXICO. The paper said Fidel was too smart to risk his neck in the first landing and had wisely stayed behind in Mexico. I knew that other politicians had done the same thing, ducking to let the gunmen take the punishment, and how despicable it was. Then I found that I was crying and couldn't stop."

GIRL MEETS REVOLUTIONARY

But a week later the news went out all over Cuba: Castro was alive and in the Sierra! Celia ran to volunteer for courier duty. To everyone's amazement, including her own, Celia turned out to be the guerrillas' best courier. In the dark undersea of night jungles, crossing and recrossing bayonet-bristling foothills, she truly became a silent, sinewy, invisible little sardina. She slipped through, even when the furious army troops hunted her in battalion strength.

"All that agonizing first year we spent in the mountains," the guerrilla leader Che Guevara recalled years later, "I was shaken only twice. First, when I was shot through the neck. The second, when we heard a false rumor that Celia had been caught. The arrangements for our supplies, our money, our contacts with the underground in the cities—it all depended on Celia getting through. She always did."

The tireless girl who always stayed cool caught Castro's eye, too. The young leader and the doctor's daughter became inseparable companions. Ever since, the real nature of their companionship has been the subject of endless speculation. Actually, only their closest friends—which, before I broke with Castro, included this reporter—knew that the relationship between Celia and Fidel was, at the deepest level, an intense love affair.

SPECIAL

PROGRAM EXCHANGE—

The annual exchange of programs among CBS-owned stations gets under way this weekend with Chicago's "Friendship Show" returning at 2 p.m. and Philadelphia's "Tottle" at 2:30 p.m., both ch. 2 for the youngsters. Series on the musical stage and scriptures debut on Sunday, with KNXT contributing its "As Others See Us" in the 5-way exchange.

PASSOVER with Jan Peerce—The noted tenor and his wife Alice relate the meaning of Passover in song and story in a show first seen last year and repeated at 4:30 p.m., ch. 4. The prescribed ritual for the seder is explained, and Peerce offers songs of the holy day accompanied by an orchestra and 6-voice male choir. (On ch. 11 at 3 p.m., George Jessel hosts a Passover showing of Al Jolson's "Jazz Singer.")

HOLLYWOOD PALACE—Brothers, makes her final television appearance at 9:30 p.m., ch. 7, with guest-host Groucho Marx. The two taped a sketch called "Captain Spaulding," an excerpt from "Animal Crackers" in which both appeared in the 30's, just a week before her death last month. In other segments of the hour, Groucho is joined by his daughter Melinda, Gordon and Sheila MacRae, comic Sheeky Greene, singer Miriam Makeba, Scottish comic Don Saunders, the Four Kents, trick motorcycleists, and Lydia Torea and her Spanish Ballet.

SUNRISE SERVICES—The 45th annual Easter Sunrise services from Hollywood Bowl will be telecast starting at 4:50 a.m. (Sun.) with Bill Welsh as host and Dr. Emlyn Davies, Raymond Burr and Bruce Yarnell featured. (There'll be a taped replay at 11 a.m. for late risers.) And for those who sets receive ch. 8, there will be sunrise services at 6 a.m. from Balboa Park.

DON'T BE 1/2 SET... BE ALL SET!

New or converted TV sets are all set to receive channels 2 to 83. Be sure your antenna is not 1/2 set but all set to receive them—in brilliant COLOR and black & white.

JFD LPV LOG PERIODIC TV ANTENNA

Shown: model LPV-VUB
as low as $27.50 — plus installation

The new JFD Cap-Electronic Dipole LPV Log Periodic is the first and only single antenna that works on all channels 2 to 83, (and FM). Features super-sensitive new capacitor-coupled dipoles that work electronically for more picture power on every channel. It is based on the same design as that of satellite tracking antennas to give you brilliant reception in COLOR, black/white TV—even FM Stereo. So if you are converting your set or buying a new all-channel 2-83 UHF/VHF TV, a new JFD LPV Log Periodic with Cap-Electronic dipoles is a "must." Developed from research performed at the University of Illinois Antenna Research Laboratory.

Castro swings to

It was a moving, foredoomed romance. The calm Celia glowed inwardly with adoring affection for the revolutionary six years younger than she, even after she became aware that, like so many ambitious men, Fidel glowed for no one but himself.

After the wild, tumultuous weeks of rebel victory, when hundreds of screaming females threw themselves—quite literally—into the triumphant Castro's path, he found his romantic interest in Celia waning. He also found out something else: that without Celia to run things for him, he was—hero, leader, dictator—totally helpless.

When the dancing in the streets subsided, Fidel came back to Celia and her small walkup apartment at 1007 Eleventh Street.

Following the new leader came ambassadors, columnists, petitioners and spies. And not the Presidential Palace, nor the Ministry of War, but "Celia's Place," became the Cuban revolutionary headquarters.

"What Celia did was the smartest, strongest thing I've ever seen a woman do," says a childhood friend. "She never allowed Fidel to see the smallest glimpse of regret or reproach. She stayed on as Castro's chief of staff and discussed with him all the country's needs, without ever so much as hinting at her own—a husband."

CHECKUP

But if Celia ignored Fidel's many casual infidelities, she took precautions against a serious romance with anyone in the leader's inner circle. Tete Casuso, Castro's press secretary, a chic, bubbling divorcee, recalls in her memoirs how, on occasion, the lights in her Hilton Hotel bedroom would suddenly go on at 3 a.m., and there was Celia in the doorway—just checking.

Though these investigations never revealed any trace of Fidel, Mme. Casuso was diplomatically removed from headquarters via a high appointment to the United Nations. Isabel Bermudez, an eye-catching blonde on Castro's public relations staff, was also invited out of Havana.

Towards Fidel, however, Celia showed granite loyalty. Under the terrible impact of Fidel's swing from democracy to Communism, Celia's own family was torn apart, much as Castro's. Her oldest sister Graciela fled to the U.S. in protest against the Communist takeover. Many of Celia's best friends and bravest companions of the underground turned away.

But Celia stayed. Calm, courteous, self-effacing, she became one of the revolution's new managers. Her hidden influence was felt everywhere—even in Washington.

When Castro's sister Juanita broke with Communism and fled from Cuba, she landed on the front pages. But when Graciela Sanchez received asylum in the U.S., her very presence here was hushed up.

When I began searching for Graciela, I found that her name and address had been erased from all official refugee rolls.

Washington, when tackled off the record, was far from coy: "Miss Sanchez asked for special protection, and it has been granted," I was told. "We like to keep at least one channel to the top open in every country, even in Cuba. If we ever came to need a hot-line to Havana, we might be looking for Celia's number—and her sister will be very helpful."

SISTER-IN-EXILE

PARADE nevertheless found Graciela Sanchez "somewhere in Florida," and parts of this report are based on conversations with her.

"After Fidel's victory," Graciela reminisced, "Celia became a very busy, very quiet woman. But at family reunions she would tell us, 'Don't worry, Fidel means to get rid of all these Communists,' and she would sweep her arm like the farmhand swatting mosquitoes with his sombrero. Then, after a while, she stopped saying anything. Then I heard her say, 'Don't worry, Fidel will get rid of these insufferable yanquis'—and I knew it was time to go, because if they had changed Celia this much, Communism was coming."

In truth, Celia had changed. She had embraced Communism rather than relinquish power. Whether success has brought her happiness is a harder question.

In assembling the bits and pieces of her true image, I turned up a most revealing fragment.

In 1959 Castro decided to overthrow Dictator Trujillo of near-by Santo Domingo. A volunteer force of bushfighters was assembled from veterans of the Sierra, and a young comandante who had distinguished himself fighting with Castro was chosen to head the new force: Delio Gomez Ochoa.

In Celia's view, this was to be a repeat performance of recent Cuban history—invasion, guerrillas, victory. She summoned her youngest sister, Acacia, and appointed her secretary-treasurer of Delio's guerrilla force.

"I'll never forget the morning little Acacia Sanchez came tripping into my

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Shows

Program: "Academy Awards," aired last Monday on channel 7.

In the 13 years of networking the Academy Awards, every manner of presentation was tried with varying success. It was mainly criticised for the stiff formality of a documentary that never came to life. Last night it not only overcame the deficiencies grandly, but to the millions at the sets it was spectacular in its purest form and surpassed any previous effort to take out the starch and make it worthy of an Oscar of its own.

—Critic Helm of "Variety"

The 37th annual Thank You Audrey Hepburn Awards was the best telecast Oscar ceremonies in video history. With fine use of live entertainment and film clips from the nominated movies, the 2½-hour show was an excellent example of what can be done to enliven normally dull prize presentations.

Also noticeably excellent was the camera for audience reaction shots and a format where major category presentations were interspersed with relatively minor awards.

Bob Hope, as always, was tops. I particularly liked his last comment when, in obvious reference to the majority number of foreign winners, Hope said:

"The losers will join hands and march on the British embassy."

Critic Bert Resnik of "TeleVues"

Program: Hallmark Hall of Fame's "The Holy Terror," aired last Wednesday on channel 4.

It is always a joy to watch Julie Harris in action, whether she plays Queen Victoria as in a "Hall of Fame" show of another season, or Florence Nightingale as she did in last night's "The Holy Terror" on NBC.

Critic Cynthia Lowry of AP

While it may sound almost sacrilegious, I'd like to suggest that New York's "Hall of Fame" take a leaf from Hollywood production techniques.

The presentation of "The Holy Terror," for example, came across as if it were filmed on stage. On that basis, it had all the confinements and stiffness of a stage presentation instead of the photographic depth and liberty of a program especially tailored for television.

A good script and excellent acting could be notably enhanced with the use of modern-day camera techniques.

Critic Bert Resnik of "TeleVues"

Communism—and so does Celia

office," says Dr. Raul Chibas, then chief finance officer of the Cuban Army. "She asked me for $75,000 for Delio and his bunch. I called Celia, and sure enough, she said it was all right. So I gave little Acacia 750 $100 bills, and I watched in stupefaction while she stuffed them into a plastic pouch, the kind Celia had used in the Sierra, and she tripped off."

Delio and his men landed secretly in the Dominican Republic in June 1959 and headed for the hills. Acacia was supposed to follow them with the first supply drop. There was, however, no supply drop, because the Dominican Army cut down the invaders like an overripe cane patch.

Almost 300 prisoners were slaughtered. Poor Delio was left alive to be broken in body and spirit; from a solitary cell, he taped propaganda broadcasts and appeared at mock trials, his voice barely audible.

But in 1961 there was sudden change in Santo Domingo. Dictator Trujillo was assassinated, and it was decided to let Delio go home. The pale, emaciated ex-commander hobbled aboard a Havana-bound plane.

It didn't seem likely the world would hear of him again. He had lost his men, his will to resist, perhaps even his honor as a Cuban officer.

But when Delio landed at Havana airport, he blinked his tear-blind eyes in vain to find the army cops who would take him away. Standing in front of the customs gate, a squadron of headquarters guards cradling their Tommy-guns in a lazy semicircle behind her, Celia was waiting. She had come to take Delio home, and no one was going to interfere.

No one did; that was understandable. The puzzle was that Celia had gone so far to save poor Delio's neck.

"Can't you guess?" her sister Graciela asked. "It's simple, you know. Celia helped Delio recover his health, saw to it that he got a modest job with the government, and then saw to it that he and little Acacia were married, because of course little Acacia had fallen for Delio exactly as Celia had once fallen for Fidel."

"And of course, Delio is anything but another Fidel. He'll never be an officer again, and they are living very quietly in Camaguey. But they're happy. They have a little boy, and a second baby on the way. And let me tell you: If you could ask my proud sister Celia if she wanted to relive her life again in a different way, she might tell you: 'Yes, Acacia's way.'"

Celia's future: President Osvaldo Dorticos (r.) may step down in July, make her Cuba's first woman President.

Celia's place—two-balcony building behind her and Castro—serves as Cuban revolutionary headquarters.

Growing up is really like turning a corner—a very important corner.

I'm sort of a new person now. Often I hardly understand myself.

I'm impatient. It's a great, big, beautiful world and I want to enjoy every second of it.

I couldn't be bothered now by anything like old-fashioned sanitary protection.

That's why I'm a Tampax user. Tampax takes the problems out of problem days. I almost forget I'm wearing it.

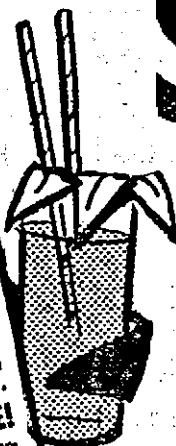

I think all smart girls should use Tampax. It's a much nicer way. Don't you agree with me?

Tampax® internal sanitary protection is made only by Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Mass.

Whether it's the frug, the mouse or the monkey that catches your dancing daughter's fancy, she'll still look like a little lady on the dance floor. The new crop of teenage dresses (sizes 3 to 15) shown here and on today's cover, are not only young, but move with today's tempos. Shifts and sheaths feature new graceful sleeve treatment and pale pastel colors. Pleated skirts, always in a dancing mood, are complemented by long-line tops with hipster waistlines. Young Mods also favor prints.

THE WOMAN BEHIND FIDEL CASTRO

by ANDREW ST. GEORGE

Bobby Jay, an Apache, working at his first steady job, tends knitting creels at the Sequoyah Carpet Mills in Anadarko, Okla., first in the Southwest.

ONE MAN'S WAR ON POVERTY

by SID ROSS and R.H. HUBBARD

ANADARKO, OKLA.

The new carpet mill here was built to provide jobs in this "depressed area" town, but in less than two years it has turned into a solidly successful business enterprise. Its payroll is nearing a million dollars annually, and the whole town is benefiting from the spending power of the workers, most of whom had been on relief. Thanks to the persistence and faith of one man, the majority of those workers come from a group no one else would have thought of hiring: the large, chronically poverty-stricken, "unemployable" Indian population.

Most people "knew" that the local Indians were "shiftless, unreliable, content to live on government handouts." The Rev. Don Greve admits that he once shared that notion. A spectacularly successful young Oklahoma City businessman who also serves as an unpaid, licensed Methodist minister, Greve had worked his way up from extreme poverty and believed that "those who were poor and unemployed wanted it that way."

a sense of purpose

Through his work with the church he began to take a close look at the Indian situation and saw "poverty I never knew existed. [Indians] were looked on as second-class citizens and treated that way; their will and spirit had been broken." Greve realized that they needed more than welfare handouts and surplus food rations; they needed a sense of pride and purpose—the feeling of being useful citizens.

In near-by Caddo County, fully a third of the people were on relief or drawing government food rations. There was virtually no industry, no major source of year-round jobs. A group of businessmen in Anadarko, the county seat, decided to seek a new industry, and Don Greve offered to build a carpet mill—the first in the Southwest. His offer was greeted with enthusiasm, but many balked when Greve proposed hiring Indian labor to operate the mill.

"I made it plain that I wasn't setting up a charitable institution," Greve declares. "I promised that if using Indians didn't work out I'd drop that idea. I wouldn't jeopardize anyone's investment."

Greve put $75,000 of his own into the $600,000 project, and 122 people and industries from Anadarko also put up money. A $390,000 Federal Area Redevelopment Administration loan made up most of the balance, and in October 1963 the plant began operation.

Today, a year and a half later, Sequoyah Carpet Mills is a going concern. As board chairman, Greve can point with pride to the fact that 1965 sales will probably exceed $1 million a month; other community businesses, such as insurance, housing, retail stores, freight lines, construction, have boomed. The plant itself is paying $300,000 in federal taxes for 1964, and its 153 employees another $50,000. What's more, employment at the plant has taken approximately 100 families off welfare rolls—a saving to the government of about $120,000 a year. In addition, the company is making payment on its federal loan far ahead of schedule.

change for the better

But Don Greve is accustomed to business successes. His real satisfaction comes from the change in the Indian employees who make up more than half the plant's work force. In the beginning, less than 5 per cent were registered voters; now 100 per cent are. Some have joined civic clubs, some are active in church and PTA work, some even in local politics. "They have built up a pride as full citizens of the community," says the dynamic businessman-cleric. "They have won the respect of everybody here, and you won't find anyone now who will admit that he ever scoffed at the idea of Indians being useful citizens."

Elmer Jay, an Apache chieftain who is a warehouse supervisor at Sequoyah Mills, summed up the feeling of the Indians eloquently when he said, "Before, I was a healthy man, physically fit, but there was no regular work, no way I could feed my family except by drawing surplus food from the government. I felt ashamed. Now I can face anybody. What this mill has done is help us help ourselves. The unemployment situation is still serious here, but we've shown that we can do a job if we're given the chance. The company's doing good and we're doing good, and we're paying back the government. Nobody could want more."

Rev. Don Greve (c.) confers with Charles Purcell (l.), president of carpet mills, Sanford Lee, vice-president.

Q. Is Richard Nixon running for the 1968 Republican Presidential nomination, and can he possibly carry New York, which is his home state at the moment? — Vic McCallister, Whittier, Calif.

A. In political circles it is recognized that Nixon has already started to run. No one can tell about New York at this point.

Q. I understand the Post Office has ordered a "cover" on the mail of 24,000 American citizens in the past few years. Isn't there a law against such practices? I thought this was a free country. What exactly is a "cover"? — Mary Ellen Hunt, Rock Hill, S.C.

A. There is no law banning the "cover" of anyone's mail by postal officials. According to Postmaster General John Gronouski, "A cover simply consists of recording from a piece of mail the name and address of the sender, the place and date of postmarking and the class of mail. The mail is neither delayed nor opened."

Q. Debbie Reynolds is going to star in the film, The Singing Nun. My question is: Does Sister Luc Gabrielle from Belgium, whose life story the film depicts—does she have script approval? — Frances Norkin, Lake Charles, La.

A. Yes. She has approval, has ordered certain script changes.

Q. Is it true that the late President Kennedy refused to tell the American people the truth about the number of American troops in Vietnam? — L. F. T., Cody, Wyo.

A. Yes. He withheld information on the grounds of national security, said of Vietnam on Feb. 14, 1962: "We have a number of Americans there . . . I feel that we are being as frank as we can be."

Q. On the Ed Sullivan TV program, why doesn't the camera ever move in for a close-up on Ed? — Danny Hodges, Port Chester, N.Y.

A. Sullivan is 62, cannot stand a close-up.

Q. Is William Paley, head of CBS, the richest man in the broadcasting industry? — D. K., Atlantic City, N.J.
A. Paley owns $81 million worth of CBS stock, other holdings in the millions, is certainly one of the wealthiest men in the communications industry.

Q. From what college did the Rev. Martin Luther King graduate? Is he entitled to use the title, "doctor"? — George P. Putnam, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

A. Martin Luther King was graduated from Morehouse College, Atlanta, in 1948, received his B.D. from Crozer Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa., his Ph.D. from Boston University and his D.D. from Chicago Theological Seminary in 1957.

Q. Please tell the age of Mao Tse-tung, Chou En-lai, Ho Chi Minh. What education has each had? — F. Taylor Gurney, Rockville, Md.

A. Mao Tse-tung, 71, was graduated from normal school in 1918, attended Peking University, did not graduate. Chou En-lai, 67, attended various Chinese, Japanese and French Schools. Ho Chi Minh (above), 74, of North Vietnam is self-educated, attended no formal schools.

Q. Does the Queen of England have the power to veto any bill in Parliament? Does she play any part in ruling England? — Patrick Vanscoy, Melbourne, Fla.

A. The Queen has no veto power, is the ceremonial head of state in a constitutional monarchy run by the representatives of the people.

Q. Please give the family name of the present Pope. — Kathleen Whalen, Malden, Mass.

A. Pope Paul was born Giovanni Battista Montini in 1897, in Concesio, Italy.

Q. Are American convicts in prison denied the right to vote in national elections? — Robert Fernandez, Bayside, N.Y.

A. Yes.

Q. A short time ago there appeared in our paper an article by Art Buchwald concerning J. Edgar Hoover in which he said that there is no real J. Edgar Hoover but at least 26 such men. Please clear this up for me.

— Leone Perry, Sarasota, Fla.

A. Mr. Buchwald is a humorist and satirist, does not deal in facts. He was spoofing. In many papers his column appears on the editorial page, and because of this some readers take him seriously.

Q. How is Princess Soraya in her first picture, The Three Faces of a Woman? — C. Rocklin, San Jose, Calif.

A. Critics' opinion: beautiful to look at, knows nothing about acting.

Q. Who is the author of the following quotation: "When mother-in-law comes in at the door, love flies out the window"? — D. L. Evans, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A. Helen Rowland, American humorist.

Q. Has the Army drafted Fabian? — Jeannie Baird, Madison, Wis.

A. Yes, but he obtained a deferment.

A. She has never expressed her feelings on the subject.

stew

...made in a skillet!

Lamb stew can be fit fare for your most fastidious company, even though you take a short cut or two. Today's recipe is a new and quicker way to prepare stew—in a skillet. You save dishwashing by one-pot cooking and you save money by using an economical cut of lamb. For glamour, season gravy with new stroganoff sauce.

by Beth Merriman PARADE FOOD EDITOR

lamb skillet stew

2 pounds boned lamb shoulder	¼ teaspoon marjoram
Seasoned instant meat tenderizer	½ teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons vegetable oil	½ teaspoon garlic salt
1 large onion, thinly sliced	1 package (1½ oz.) stroganoff sauce mix
2 cups water	1 cup dairy sour cream
	2 cups cooked or canned peas

Trim all excess fat from lamb shoulder. Treat with seasoned instant meat tenderizer as directed on package. Cut meat into 1-inch cubes. Heat oil in large skillet; brown meat cubes and onion. Add water; bring to boil; reduce heat; simmer until lamb is done (about 45 minutes). Remove lamb. Measure liquid left in skillet; add water, if necessary, to make 2 cups. Return liquid to skillet; add marjoram, paprika, garlic salt and stroganoff sauce mix; stir to blend. Return lamb to skillet. Simmer 15 minutes. Blend in sour cream and peas; heat to serving temperature. Serves 6.

HERE ARE NEW IDEAS FOR HOME AND FAMILY ■ BY PETER DRYDEN

An aid in baby care: This new infant's dressing table (above)—said to be first with molded, color-decorated drawers—offers storage space enough for diapers, bed clothing, towels, other items, even toys. The 18" x 36" dressing space has a 1" thick plastic foam pad and water- and stainproof vinyl cover. A tummy strap holds baby safely, comfortably. Tubular legs, utility tray, towel rack are chrome. $22.95 in stores. Century Products, Dept. PP, 3510 Chatham Ave., Cleveland, Ohio 44113.

Knife keeper: Safe and sound way to store a kitchen knife is in this rigid plastic holder (above). You can stick it on side, front or bottom of a drawer—where it will hold a knife firmly under springlike tension, prevent damage to the cutting edge—and help avoid cut fingers. 2 for $1. Imperial, Dept. PP, Box 9249, S.D. Station, Denver, Colo. 80209.

Help for faded upholstery: Spray a new aerosol foam on faded upholstery and drapery fabrics and it renews their color, tinting them all the way through. Because it penetrates the fibers rather than just coats them, it preserves fabric texture. Safe for use on cotton, wool, synthetics, it comes in 15 shades. $2.75 in stores. Westley Industries, Dept. PP, 1898 Scranton Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

THE WOMAN BEHIND FIDEL CASTRO

Who is Celia Sanchez? It is a reasonable if regrettable guess that, as this is written, not one American in a thousand knows. In fact, neither did President John F. Kennedy when the name, typed on blue CIA stationery under a red-striped TOP SECRET cover, was first shown him during a tense National Security Council meeting. The President frowned:

"But who is Celia Sanchez?"

"Celia seems to be . . . the most influential person in Havana, Mr. President," explained Ambassador A. A. Berle, dean of Latin-American experts. "We think she might be of help."

It was one late afternoon three years ago this month, and if the vast U.S. government had ever been in need of help, this was the moment.

It was almost exactly one year after the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion had been debarked—and destroyed. Now the President and his advisors were meeting in emergency session to face the most recent consequence of that failure.

That morning, in Havana, after a 3-day circus trial, all 1,099 captured invaders had been convicted as "war criminals" and "traitors." Only the sentencing remained. After that, the next footfall in the Havana prison yard was likely to be that of the firing squad.

"I can't see how this girl, what's-her-name," the President looked up, "this Celia Sanchez—how she could help."

A senior CIA area analyst spoke carefully: "Mr. President, in our experience Fidel Castro will not listen to anyone but Celia. He trusts her. Lives in her apartment. It's the only address he's got. In this emergency, it was thought advisable to make a personal appeal to this girl through a go-between in Havana. We should know the results by the end of the week."

It took nowhere near that long. Before midnight, the go-between, Mrs. Bertha Barreto, called breathlessly from Havana to report that she had spoken with Celia, who had sounded "kind and understanding"—and willing to help.

THE ANONYMOUS CELIA

The rest is history. Within weeks, the ransom negotiations began. In less than a year, the invaders were free and back with their families in Miami.

Characteristically, of all hands in the sensational rescue, only Celia Sanchez Manduley, a shy, slender, dark haired woman, managed to remain anonymous. She has learned how to avoid publicity in recent years. It's a remarkable feat, considering that during these years she has become the key feminine figure of a noisy front page story: the Cuban revolution.

"Celia has been, and continues to be, the most important person in Fidel Castro's life," a well-informed Washington reporter, Haynes Johnson, author of The Bay of Pigs, revealed recently. And the reigning monarchs of French literature, Jean-Paul

TV employee in action: slugger Mickey Mantle & Yankees were recently bought by CBS.

As baseball season opens, it's time to ask:

WHAT IS TV DOING TO SPORTS?

by TOM SILER

It's the old story: Television is the rich, fast-moving Sugar Daddy. Sports is the chorus girl who loves that mink. The romance may ripen into marriage, or it may not. At any rate, neither will ever be the same again.

Consider the facts:

Television has made millionaires of three mediocre fighters—Floyd Patterson, Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay.

NBC will pay the American Football League $36 million for the 5-year TV rights.

CBS paid $1,800,000 for a 3-hour show—the National Football League championship game.

The Phillies will get $4 million out of TV for the next 3 years. The Mets will also get a million-plus per year.

The PGA tour is putting $600,000 into the pockets of the tournament pros.

Even tennis got a slice of the TV pie—$200,000 for the Davis Cup telecast last season.

Never before has the buck been so abundant in the sports world. TV gold provides fantastic pensions for baseball and football players. The Yankees, inflated by TV income, recently sold for $11,200,000. Jack Nicklaus, only 24, already is a millionaire. Houston has invested $31 million in a fabulous domed stadium. Big leaguers who can't hit .250 make $20,000, and an All-American tackle can get $100,000 for his first 2 years of pro football. TV, the super-salesman, provides the cash, directly or indirectly.

No sane promoter makes a move without TV. Many football bowls would fold without it. More than half the big league baseball clubs would be up to the second deck in red ink without the TV windfall.

The lure of a TV bonanza is the largest single factor in the Milwaukee Braves' 1966 move to Atlanta.

best of everything

Money flows, and Mr. and Mrs. America see the best of everything—the Kentucky Derby, Rose Bowl, magnificent Olympic action from Tokyo, the World Series, death and daring on the auto tracks, tarpon fishing, a putt worth $10,000. TV, the Sugar Daddy, operates the biggest wheel in town. Its power excites you and scares you a little, too, when you recall those incredibly corrupt quiz shows of a few years ago, and some of the recent TV-inspired innovations in the sporting world.

Not long ago, Carl Lindemann, Jr., NBC vice-president, said, "The TV sports executive should always clearly know what is good for TV and what is good for sport and should never try to promote the former under the guise of the latter."

Well put, but sometimes it takes considerable experience to know the difference. One TV executive suggested that the color peacock be embroidered on the shoulders of the Army and Navy uniforms before their big game. Last fall much of the half-time show at the UCLA-Pittsburgh football game was used to plug the network's new fall shows. At the Gator Bowl in January, many fans brought along three-foot horns. At half-time, the cash customers were asked to soften the noise because the TV audience couldn't hear the TV commentary. Last fall TV planned live interviews with players during National Football League games, a proposal that brought a negative blast from George Halas of the Chicago Bears and Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers.

only one defense

Many All-Star games are rigged to encourage those delightful 35-28 scores: Teams agree to use just one defense (and no red-dogging please!), and the trailing team may receive the kickoff after any touchdown, no matter which side scored it. In one World Series, Commissioner Ford Frick was asked to move the second base umpire to help TV cameramen. He refused, of course, and just the other day Frick said that under the 1965 TV contract no umpires will be moved, no phony timeouts allowed. And there has been at least one occasion on which golf shots were faked for absent stars.

Despite these nettling incidents, TV has been a boon in many ways. Great sporting events may be seen in 55 million homes. The camera has developed many new fans. The armchair expert "knows" Arnold Palmer, Jimmy Brown, Mickey Mantle, Bill Russell. The isolated camera has brought a new depth to reporting, as will the slow-motion techniques now being developed.

The entire family is sports-conscious. Last fall one lady wrote the network to ask: "In football, if you have one quar-

Sartre and Simone de Beauvoir, echoed the claim after a visit to Cuba: "To reach Fidel, it is only necessary to find Celia . . . this slim, sensitive woman is the key to Castro." "Celia Sanchez is the most intriguing figure in Havana," recalls Bob Taber, the adventurer-newsman who once worked for Castro. "She's the only person for whom Castro shows an unashamed need."

Critics, on the other hand, tend to call her "La Sardina,"—"The Sardine"—claiming she is hard, narrow, colorless and as devoid of feminine curves as a fish. Still, it seems certain that Celia did not rise to the top of the swirling Cuban revolution without a good many buoyant talents.

Fidel Castro's utter dependence on Celia dates back to the mountain days of 1957-58, when she served as courier, camp clerk, cook, counselor and combat auxiliary. Doctors who were called in to check Castro told their diagnosis to Celia and gave her the prescriptions, for she was the only one who could make the absent-minded Fidel take his pills on anything like an orderly schedule. In addition, she alone had the patience to tend to the guerrilla headquarters correspondence, finances and records.

HER LOYAL TROOPS

After the rebel victory, it was found that the slips and scraps of paper Celia had preserved in plastic pouches represented all there was left of the revolution archives. Naturally, control of these archives gave Celia inestimable revolutionary status over equally enthusiastic but less well-documented rebel girls.

Furthermore, she is perhaps the most casual treasurer alive, and these calm country ways with currency have earned Celia the worshipful loyalty of all headquarters troops, to whom she is the patroness of pocket money and extra mess funds. The tough elite bodyguards of Castro take orders from Celia, but no one else—"not even from me," the Maximum Leader has been heard to complain.

Ever since the Sierra Maestra, Celia has kept moving up, her iron control over Castro's headquarters and household increasing and never successfully challenged. And rumor has it that this year she may leap to the very top.

After the Bay of Pigs exchange she was raised to cabinet rank. The new honor did not alter her jealously guarded job or her way of life. "She's a sturdy, simple small town girl with a bright brain, but she'll never change, because that bright brain of hers is impaled on an iron backbone," the late Ernest Hemingway said of her admiringly. Few people realized that Celia's new eminence might have a different significance. As a Minister of State, she is only two rungs below the top of the ladder—the Presidency.

In revolutionary Cuba, of course, the hand-picked President has just exactly one responsibility: to do exactly as Castro wishes. The present incumbent, Osvaldo Dorticos, an opportunist with a permanent smile which seems etched into suet, proved so nimble at follow the leader that Castro kept him on beyond the constitutional limit. Recently, however, there have been growing reports that next July 26th—the sixth anniversary of his inauguration—Dorticos will step down. He will be replaced, according to rumors, by the first woman President in Cuban history: Celia.

If this happens Celia would become President just a few weeks after her 43rd birthday. Her official biography will note that she was born near Media Luna, at the rich, restless southeastern end of Cuba, the fourth among six children of a hard-working country doctor.

Unlike that hard-bitten, violent old cane-planter, Don Angel Castro, who was raising a brace of rambunctious boys named Fidel and Raul less than a hundred miles away, Celia's father, Dr. Manuel Sanchez, was a gentle, studious, affectionate man.

His wife died while Celia was still a toddler. Celia grew up a tomboy—a builder of treehouses, a tireless climber of mountains who seemed happiest on horseback or in a fishing launch.

At 12 she was sent away to the Instituto, the finishing school in near-by Manzanillo. After graduation, she returned, a soft-spoken, earnest young lady.

At 19, she accepted a ring from Salvador Sadurni, the tall, wavy-haired son of Manzanillo's richest hardware merchant. Their wedding date was on the church calendar when Salvador came down with pneumonia and died swiftly and shockingly.

The grief-stricken girl clung to her father—and discovered politics. She threw herself into the nationalist movement fermenting around the firebrand reform leader Eduardo Chibas. But the fanatic Chibas killed himself—and Celia was once more adrift.

She developed a mysterious allergy which impeded her breathing. Her worried family sent her to New York for a change of scenery and recuperation. During six months on the Upper West Side, near Columbia University, Celia recovered her spirits, learned passable English and acquired a lasting fondness for New York City. Curiously enough, only her immediate family knows that Celia understands English.

When Celia returned to Cuba, she found that the dead Chibas had left a smoldering political heritage.

On the march, Celia follows Castro in Sierra Maestra. She served throughout guerrilla days.

No one claimed it more loudly than a young rebel whose family came from Celia's own county. His name was Fidel Castro, and Celia promptly resolved to serve his cause.

At the time Castro, a squeaky-voiced student leader with a pencil-thin mustache, was in jail. But then he was amnestied and went off to Mexico to recruit for an invasion against the Batista government. After a series of false starts, the peanutshell invasion was finally launched. It lasted 48 hours, leaving Fidel a tattered, starting fugitive.

Somewhere in the jungle a reception committee of friends was waiting to make contact with him. But Castro—characteristically—showed up late and at the wrong place. The committee gave up, none more heartbroken than the only woman among them: Celia.

"Back in Manzanillo, newsboys were screaming the Havana extras about Fidel's defeat," Celia recalled years later. "There were two kinds of headlines, CASTRO DEAD and CASTRO SURRENDERS, because the army and the police had put out two different stories. I still remember how those shouts stung me as I walked across town. I was too unhappy to think or even cry. Then a new headline appeared, CASTRO STILL IN MEXICO. The paper said Fidel was too smart to risk his neck in the first landing and had wisely stayed behind in Mexico. I knew that other politicians had done the same thing, ducking to let the gunmen take the punishment, and how despicable it was. Then I found that I was crying and couldn't stop."

GIRL MEETS REVOLUTIONARY

But a week later the news went out all over Cuba: Castro was alive and in the Sierra! Celia ran to volunteer for courier duty. To everyone's amazement, including her own, Celia turned out to be the guerrillas' best courier. In the dark undersea of night jungles, crossing and recrossing bayonet-bristling foothills, she truly became a silent, sinewy, invisible little sardina. She slipped through, even when the furious army troops hunted her in battalion strength.

"All that agonizing first year we spent in the mountains," the guerrilla leader Che Guevara recalled years later, "I was shaken only" twice. First, when I was shot through the neck. The second, when we heard a false rumor that Celia had been caught. The arrangements for our supplies, our money, our contacts with the underground in the cities—it all depended on Celia getting through. She always did."

The tireless girl who always stayed cool caught Castro's eye, too. The young leader and the doctor's daughter became inseparable companions. Ever since, the real nature of their companionship has been the subject of endless speculation. Actually, only their closest friends—which, before I broke with Castro, included this reporter—knew that the relationship between Celia and Fidel was, at the deepest level, an intense love affair.

terback and two halfbacks why don't you have four fullbacks?"

Critics, especially newspapermen, are inclined to blame everything but bad breath on TV. Recently the United States Golf Association broke with tradition to make the U. S. Open a four-day test. Immediately, TV was blamed. Slow play inspired the change. Many golfers take five hours to play one round, and last June in sultry Washington Ken Venturi, the eventual champion, almost passed out while playing 36 holes on the third and final day.

The Orange Bowl football game was switched from day to night. The finger was pointed at TV. But the switch was promoter Ernie Seiler's idea to accommodate Miami's horse players, beachgoers and sun-lovers. Millions scorn football timeouts on TV—16 in college telecasts, 18 in pro games. But the Federal Communications Commission actually allows 21 for a program the length of a football game.

The power of TV is nowhere shown better than in scheduling. Paul Bryant of Alabama once said, "I'll play at midnight if that's what TV wants." Last fall the Alabama-Auburn game was moved to Thanksgiving to serve the needs of TV, and many schools book major foes early and late, hoping to get a TV date.

These are minor irritations. However, three developments of the past few months could hardly be called minor:

1. CBS shelled out $11,200,000 for 80 per cent of the Yankees, the most valuable franchise in any sport, the hub club of the American League, the winningest organization in baseball. Commissioner Frick said he saw nothing wrong with the deal, but it is pertinent to note that club owners were asked to approve the sale in a telephone poll after a report on the transaction had appeared in the newspapers. Sen. Philip Hart of Michigan, chairman of the Antitrust and Monopoly Committee, called in all parties.

"What does it mean when one of the three major buyers of TV-radio rights becomes a partner of the sellers?" he asked. "Especially when these rights are an ever-increasing source of revenue." The sale made headlines again when it became known that high executives on at least three other clubs (Red Sox, White Sox and Orioles) own stock in CBS.

2. The NFL, striving for more TV millions, tried last fall to muscle into the Friday night field, a night devoted all across the nation to high school football. Since most schools need the cash taken at the gate, it takes no sharp imagination to ponder the fate of the preps if TV-football were available on Friday nights. The NFL was scared off by the combined protests of preps and colleges, but the threat is still there.

cbs-nbc duel

3. NBC, backed off the Sunday screen by CBS and the NFL, gave the burgeoning AFL $36 million for a 5-year pact, which in effect guaranteed the 8 clubs solvency. That's $900,000 per club per year. Thus, the NFL-AFL duel becomes a CBS-NBC duel. Last fall NBC, referring to its "partnership" with the new league, offered to advance the 8 teams $250,000 each for bonus money. Five accepted the offer. NBC also wrote letters to the glamour boys of the campus, hoping to lure them away from the NFL.

"With the $36 million invested in the AFL," wrote vice-president Lindemann, "you can be sure NBC will make every effort for the players, teams and league in a concentrated and vigorous manner. As the network which leads in color TV, NBC will present many—if not eventually all—AFL games in color. We are confident this will develop a viewing public second to none in sports."

Many sports fans, remembering what happened to boxing and Milton Berle, look upon the flow of gold as a not unmitigated blessing.

Art Rooney, the shrewd Irishman who owns the Pittsburgh Steelers, probably said it best: "There is such a thing as getting too much money for television rights."

Nicklaus, heavyweight champ Cassius Clay became millionaires, Y.A. Tittle household word.

It was a moving, foredoomed romance. The calm Celia glowed inwardly with adoring affection for the revolutionary six years younger than she, even after she became aware that, like so many ambitious men, Fidel glowed for no one but himself.

After the wild, tumultuous weeks of rebel victory, when hundreds of screaming females threw themselves—quite literally—into the triumphant Castro's path, he found his romantic interest in Celia waning. He also found out something else: that without Celia to run things for him, he was—hero, leader, dictator—totally helpless.

When the dancing in the streets subsided, Fidel came back to Celia and her small walkup apartment at 1007 Eleventh Street.

Following the new leader came ambassadors, columnists, petitioners and spies. And not the Presidential Palace, nor the Ministry of War, but "Celia's Place," became the Cuban revolutionary headquarters.

"What Celia did was the smartest, strongest thing I've ever seen a woman do," says a childhood friend. "She never allowed Fidel to see the smallest glimpse of regret or reproach. She stayed on as Castro's chief of staff and discussed with him all the country's needs, without ever so much as hinting at her own—a husband."

CHECKUP

But if Celia ignored Fidel's many casual infidelities, she took precautions against a serious romance with anyone in the leader's inner circle. Tete Casuso, Castro's press secretary, a chic, bubbling divorcee, recalls in her memoirs how, on occasion, the lights in her Hilton Hotel bedroom would suddenly go on at 3 a.m., and there was Celia in the doorway—just checking.

Though these investigations never revealed any trace of Fidel, Mme. Casuso was diplomatically removed from headquarters via a high appointment to the United Nations. Isabel Bermudez, an eye-catching blonde on Castro's public relations staff, was also invited out of Havana.

Towards Fidel, however, Celia showed granite loyalty. Under the terrible impact of Fidel's swing from democracy to Communism, Celia's own family was torn apart, much as Castro's. Her oldest sister Graciela fled to the U.S. in protest against the Communist takeover. Many of Celia's best friends and bravest companions of the underground turned away.

But Celia stayed. Calm, courteous, self-effacing, she became one of the revolution's new managers. Her hidden influence was felt everywhere—even in Washington.

When Castro's sister Juanita broke with Communism and fled from Cuba, she landed on the front pages. But when Graciela Sanchez received asylum in the U.S., her very presence here was hushed up.

When I began searching for Graciela, I found that her name and address had been erased from all official refugee rolls.

Washington, when tackled off the record, was far from coy: "Miss Sanchez asked for special protection, and it has been granted," I was told. "We like to keep at least one channel to the top open in every country, even in Cuba. If we ever came to need a hot-line to Havana, we might be looking for Celia's number—and her sister will be very helpful."

SISTER-IN-EXILE

PARADE nevertheless found Graciela Sanchez "somewhere in Florida," and parts of this report are based on conversations with her.

"After Fidel's victory," Graciela reminisced, "Celia became a very busy, very quiet woman. But at family reunions she would tell us, 'Don't worry, Fidel means to get rid of all these Communists,' and she would sweep her arm like the farmhand swatting mosquitoes with his sombrero. Then, after a while, she stopped saying anything. Then I heard her say, 'Don't worry, Fidel will get rid of these insufferable yanquis'—and I knew it was time to go, because if they had changed Celia this much, Communism was coming."

In truth, Celia had changed. She had embraced Communism rather than relinquish power. Whether success has brought her happiness is a harder question.

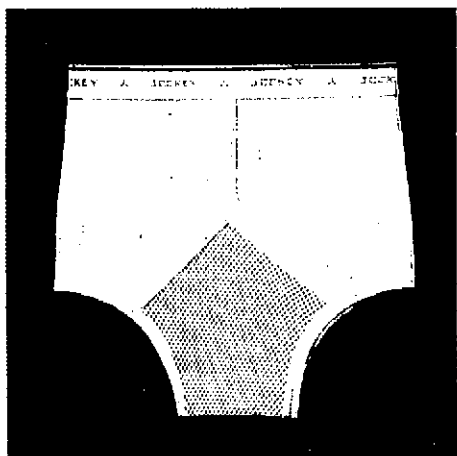

In assembling the bits and pieces of her true image, I turned up a most revealing fragment.

In 1959 Castro decided to overthrow Dictator Trujillo of near-by Santo Domingo. A volunteer force of bushfighters was assembled from veterans of the Sierra, and a young comandante who had distinguished himself fighting with Castro was chosen to head the new force: Delio Gomez Ochoa.

In Celia's view, this was to be a repeat performance of recent Cuban history—invasion, guerrillas, victory. She summoned her youngest sister, Acacia, and appointed her secretary-treasurer of Delio's guerrilla force.

"I'll never forget the morning little Acacia Sanchez came tripping into my FADING FAST. The U.S. postal savings system, begun in 1911, is approaching the end of the line. If Congress approves, the Post Office Department will stop accepting deposits on November 30, 1965, will go out of business by June 30, 1968. What killed postal savings? Private banks and various savings and loan institutions paying more than 2% interest. During the Depression, when several private banks throughout the country went broke, deposits in postal savings soared. By 1947 they reached an all-time high of $3.4 billion with 4 million depositors. Now the number of depositors has dropped to 1 million, deposits to $416 million, both falling fast.

YOUR CAR. Are you an average car-owner? If so, you drive your machine 9,665 miles per year. You pay approximately $230 for 660 gallons of gas, average somewhere around 14.5 miles per gallon.

WIDESPREAD DISTORTIONS. A national study, sponsored by five public and private medical and educational groups, reveals that false beliefs about health and sex are widespread among American school children. Sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, American Medical Association, U.S. Office of Education and the National Education Association, the study discloses that students entertain the following erroneous ideas: (1) Pep and sleeping pills can be used safely without a doctor's supervision. (2) Venereal disease can be inherited but is not a social problem. (3) Chronic diseases are contagious. The report reveals further that most teenagers experiment with alcohol before graduating from high school. Their ignorance of health and sex facts is attributed to parental and community resistance to sex education, ineffectual instruction methods in school, inadequate professional preparation of teaching staffs. The nation-wide study, called the School Health Education Study, is the first of its kind in this country. It was four years in the making, will continue through June, when the results will again be evaluated.

Communism—and so does Celia

office," says Dr. Raul Chibas, then chief finance officer of the Cuban Army. "She asked me for $75,000 for Delio and his bunch. I called Celia, and sure enough, she said it was all right. So I gave little Acacia 750 $100 bills, and I watched in stupefaction while she stuffed them into a plastic pouch, the kind Celia had used in the Sierra, and she tripped off."

Delio and his men landed secretly in the Dominican Republic in June 1959 and headed for the hills. Acacia was supposed to follow them with the first supply drop. There was, however, no supply drop, because the Dominican Army cut down the invaders like an overripe cane patch.

Almost 300 prisoners were slaughtered. Poor Delio was left alive to be broken in body and spirit; from a solitary cell, he taped propaganda broadcasts and appeared at mock trials, his voice barely audible.

But in 1961 there was sudden change in Santo Domingo. Dictator Trujillo was assassinated, and it was decided to let Delio go home. The pale, emaciated ex commander hobbled aboard a Havana-bound plane.

It didn't seem likely the world would hear of him again. He had lost his men, his will to resist, perhaps even his honor as a Cuban officer.

But when Delio landed at Havana airport, he blinked his tear blind eyes in vain to find the army cops who would take him away. Standing in front of the customs gate, a squadron of headquarters guards cradling their Tommy-guns in a lazy semicircle behind her, Celia was waiting. She had come to take Delio home, and no one was going to interfere.

No one did; that was understandable. The puzzle was that Celia had gone so far to save poor Delio's neck.

"Can't you guess?" her sister Graciela asked. "It's simple, you know. Celia helped Delio recover his health, saw to it that he got a modest job with the government, and then saw to it that he and little Acacia were married, because of course little Acacia had fallen for Delio exactly as Celia had once fallen for Fidel."

"And of course, Delio is anything but another Fidel. He'll never be an officer again, and they are living very quietly in Camaguey. But they're happy. They have a little boy, and a second baby on the way. And let me tell you: If you could ask my proud sister Celia if she wanted to relive her life again in a different way, she might tell you: 'Yes, Acacia's way.'"

Celia's future: President Osvaldo Dorticos (r.) may step down in July, make her Cuba's first woman President.

Celia's place—two-balcony building behind her and Castro—serves as Cuban revolutionary headquarters.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by Fred Gwynne

EDITOR'S NOTE: Fred Gwynne, star of the offbeat comedy series, The Munsters, is the only comic in show business who was graduated from Groton and Harvard. Born in New York City, son of a well-to-do stockbroker, Gwynne originally wanted to become an artist. He studied for a while with the noted portrait painter, R. S. Merryman, then joined the Navy, where he served as radioman on a subchaser in the South Pacific. After his Navy discharge he decided to complete his education at Harvard. Following his graduation in 1951, he became an actor, a serious one, specializing in Shakespeare and other heavy drama. During a lull in jobs, he joined the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency, where he worked as copywriter for six years. He continued his acting career by juggling vacations and sick leave, eventually left the agency to co-star in the comedy series, Car 54.

Where Are You? Gwynne is not only an accomplished actor and painter, but has also written and illustrated two books, Best in Show, for children, and What's Nude?, a nonfiction work for adults. Gwynne now lives in Hollywood, where his work in The Munsters has convinced him that his forte is wild comedy. Herewith some of his favorite funnies:

An Oklahoma oil tycoon appeared at a local golf links to make a fourth, followed by a servant pulling an adjustable, foam-cushioned chaise longue behind him.

"Are you going to make that poor caddy lug that couch all over the course after you?" he was asked.

"Caddy, my eye," explained the oil man. "That's my psychiatrist."

Two motorists met on a bridge too narrow for two cars to pass. "I never back up for an idiot," shouted one driver.

"That's all right," replied the other quietly as he shifted into reverse. "I always do."

A frowning woman walked up to a little boy she caught smoking. "Does your mother know you smoke?" she demanded.

"Lady," he countered, "does your husband know you stop and talk to strange men on the street?"

The stingy salesman, while on an out-of-town sales trip, sent his wife a check for a million kisses as an anniversary present.

The wife was quite annoyed and sent back a post card: "Dear Chuck, Thanks for the anniversary check. The milkman cashed it for me just this morning."

A young woman had been having trouble with an ulcerated tooth for some time before she got up enough courage to go to a dentist. The moment he touched her tooth she yelled bloody murder.

"What are you making such noise for?" demanded the doctor. "Don't you know that I'm a 'painless dentist'?"

"Well," retorted the patient, "maybe you're painless, but I'm not."

"Say!" yelled the farmer, who owned a pond, "don't you see that sign: No Fishing Here?"

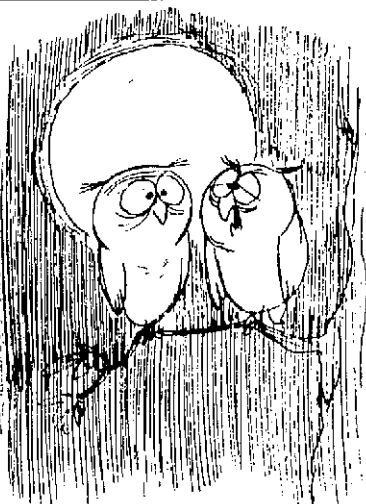

"I sure do," said the disgusted fisherman. "The fellow that printed that sign really knew what he was talking about."

ANADARKO, OKLA.

The new carpet mill here was built to provide jobs in this "depressed area" town, but in less than two years it has turned into a solidly successful business enterprise. Its payroll is nearing a million dollars annually, and the whole town is benefiting from the spending power of the workers, most of whom had been on relief. Thanks to the persistence and faith of one man, the majority of those workers come from a group no one else would have thought of hiring: the large, chronically poverty-stricken, "unemployable" Indian population.

Most people "knew" that the local Indians were "shiftless, unreliable, content to live on government handouts." The Rev. Don Greve admits that he once shared that notion. A spectacularly successful young Oklahoma City businessman who also serves as an unpaid, licensed Methodist minister, Greve had worked his way up from extreme poverty and believed that "those who were poor and unemployed wanted it that way."

a sense of purpose

Through his work with the church he began to take a close look at the Indian situation and saw "poverty I never knew existed. [Indians] were looked on as second-class citizens and treated that way; their will and spirit had been broken." Greve realized that they needed more than welfare handouts and surplus food rations; they needed a sense of pride and purpose—the feeling of being useful citizens.

In near-by Caddo County, fully a third of the people were on relief or drawing government food rations. There was virtually no industry, no major source of year-round jobs. A group of businessmen in Anadarko, the county seat, decided to seek a new industry, and Don Greve offered to build a carpet mill—the first in the Southwest. His offer was greeted with enthusiasm, but many balked when Greve proposed hiring Indian labor to operate the mill.

"I made it plain that I wasn't setting up a charitable institution," Greve declares. "I promised that if using Indians didn't work out I'd drop that idea. I wouldn't jeopardize anyone's investment."

Greve put $75,000 of his own into the $600,000 project, and 122 people and industries from Anadarko also put up money. A $390,000 Federal Area Redevelopment Administration loan made up most of the balance, and in October 1963 the plant began operation.

Today, a year and a half later, Sequoyah Carpet Mills is a going concern. As board chairman, Greve can point with pride to the fact that 1965 sales will probably exceed $1 million a month; other community businesses, such as insurance, housing, retail stores, freight lines, construction, have boomed. The plant itself is paying $300,000 in federal taxes for 1964, and its 153 employees another $50,000. What's more, employment at the plant has taken approximately 100 families off welfare rolls—a saving to the government of about $120,000 a year. In addition, the company is making payment on its federal loan far ahead of schedule.

change for the better

But Don Greve is accustomed to business successes. His real satisfaction comes from the change in the Indian employees who make up more than half the plant's work force. In the beginning, less than 5 per cent were registered voters; now 100 per cent are. Some have joined civic clubs, some are active in church and PTA work, some even in local politics. "They have built up a pride as full citizens of the community," says the dynamic businessman-clerk. "They have won the respect of everybody here, and you won't find anyone now who will admit that he ever scoffed at the idea of Indians being useful citizens."

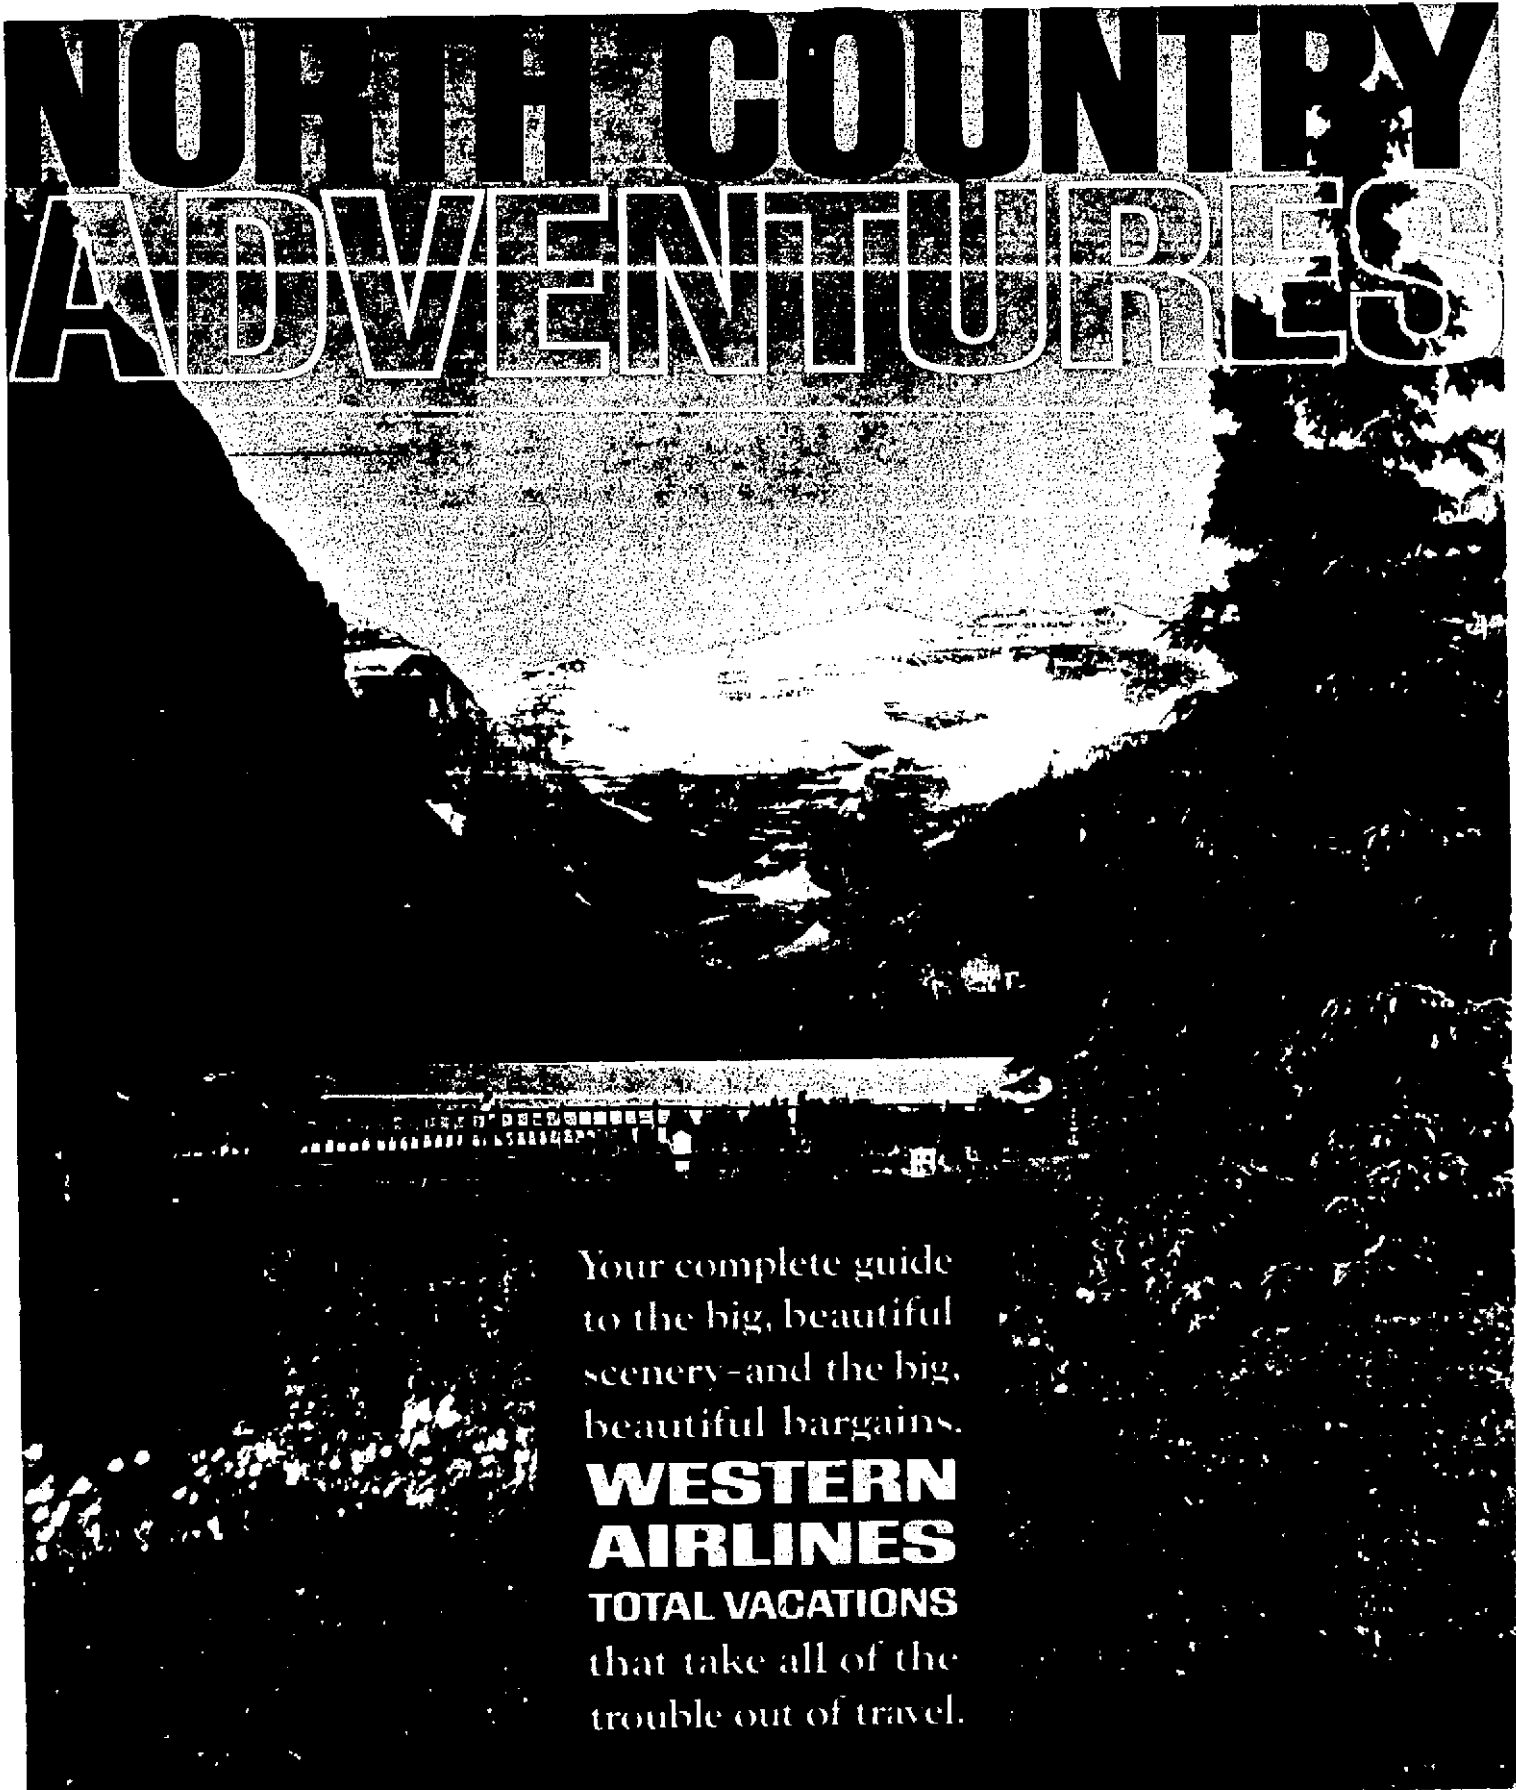

Elmer Jay, an Apache chieftain who is a warehouse supervisor at Sequoyah Mills, summed up the feeling of the Indians eloquently when he said, "Before, I was a healthy man, physically fit, but there was no regular work, no way I could feed my family except by drawing surplus food from the government. I felt ashamed. Now I can face anybody. What this mill has done is help us help ourselves. The unemployment situation is still serious here, but we've shown that we can do a job if we're given the chance. The company's doing good and we're doing good, and we're paying back the government. Nobody could want more."

Rev. Don Greve (L) confers with Charles Purcell (U.), president of carpet mills, Sanford Lee, vice president.

...made in a skillet!

Lamb stew can be fit fare for your most fastidious company, even though you take a short cut or two. Today's recipe is a new and quicker way to prepare stew—in a skillet. You save dishwashing by one-pot cooking and you save money by using an economical cut of lamb. For glamour, season gravy with new stroganoff sauce.

lamb skillet stew

- | | |
|----------------------------------|---|
| 2 pounds boned lamb shoulder | ¼ teaspoon marjoram |
| Seasoned instant meat tenderizer | ½ teaspoon paprika |
| 2 tablespoons vegetable oil | ½ teaspoon garlic salt |
| 1 large onion, thinly sliced | 1 package (1½ oz.) stroganoff sauce mix |
| 2 cups water | 1 cup dairy sour cream |
| | 2 cups cooked or canned peas |

Trim all excess fat from lamb shoulder. Treat with seasoned instant meat tenderizer as directed on package. Cut meat into 1-inch cubes. Heat oil in large skillet; brown meat cubes and onion. Add water; bring to boil; reduce heat; simmer until lamb is done (about 45 minutes). Remove lamb. Measure liquid left in skillet; add water, if necessary, to make 2 cups. Return liquid to skillet; add marjoram, paprika, garlic salt and stroganoff sauce mix; stir to blend. Return lamb to skillet. Simmer 15 minutes. Blend in sour cream and peas; heat to serving temperature. Serves 6.

HERE ARE NEW IDEAS FOR HOME AND FAMILY ■ BY PETER DRYDEN

An aid in baby care: This new infant's dressing table (above)—said to be first with molded, color-decorated drawers—offers storage space enough for diapers, bed clothing, towels, other items, even toys. The 18" x 36" dressing space has a 1" thick plastic foam pad and water- and stainproof vinyl cover. A tummy strap holds baby safely, comfortably. Tubular legs, utility tray, towel rack are chrome. $22.95 in stores. Century Products, Dept. PP, 3510 Chatham Ave., Cleveland, Ohio 44113.

Knife keeper: Safe and sound way to store a kitchen knife is in this rigid plastic holder (above). You can stick it on side, front or bottom of a drawer—where it will hold a knife firmly under springlike tension, prevent damage to the cutting edge—and help avoid cut fingers. 2 for $1. Imperial, Dept. PP, Box 9249, S.D. Station, Denver, Colo. 80209.

Help for faded upholstery: Spray a new aerosol foam on faded upholstery and drapery fabrics and it renews their color, tinting them all the way through. Because it penetrates the fibers rather than just coats them, it preserves fabric texture. Safe for use on cotton, wool, synthetics, it comes in 15 shades. $2.75 in stores. Westley Industries, Dept. PP, 1898 Scranton Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

TV employee in action: slugger Mickey Mantle & Yankees were recently bought by CBS.

As baseball season opens, it's time to ask:

WHAT IS TV DOING TO SPORTS?

by TOM SILER

It's the old story: Television is the rich, fast-moving Sugar Daddy. Sports is the chorus girl who loves that mink. The romance may ripen into marriage, or it may not. At any rate, neither will ever be the same again.

Consider the facts:

Television has made millionaires of three mediocre fighters—Floyd Patterson, Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay.

NBC will pay the American Football League $36 million for the 5-year TV rights.

CBS paid $1,800,000 for a 3-hour show—the National Football League championship game.

The Phillies will get $4 million out of TV for the next 3 years. The Mets will also get a million-plus per year.

The PGA tour is putting $600,000 into the pockets of the tournament pros.

Even tennis got a slice of the TV pie—$200,000 for the Davis Cup telecast last season.

Never before has the buck been so abundant in the sports world. TV gold provides fantastic pensions for baseball and football players. The Yankees, inflated by TV income, recently sold for $11,200,000. Jack Nicklaus, only 24, already is a millionaire. Houston has invested $31 million in a fabulous domed stadium. Big leaguers who can't hit .250 make $20,000, and an All-American tackle can get $100,000 for his first 2 years of pro football. TV, the super-salesman, provides the cash, directly or indirectly.

No sane promoter makes a move without TV. Many football bowls would fold without it. More than half the big league baseball clubs would be up to the second deck in red ink without the TV windfall.

The lure of a TV bonanza is the largest single factor in the Milwaukee Braves' 1966 move to Atlanta.

best of everything

Money flows, and Mr. and Mrs. America see the best of everything—the Kentucky Derby, Rose Bowl, magnificent Olympic action from Tokyo, the World Series, death and daring on the auto tracks, tarpon fishing, a putt worth $10,000. TV, the Sugar Daddy, operates the biggest wheel in town. Its power excites you and scares you a little, too, when you recall those incredibly corrupt quiz shows of a few years ago, and some of the recent TV-inspired innovations in the sporting world.

Not long ago, Carl Lindemann, Jr., NBC vice-president, said, "The TV sports executive should always clearly know what is good for TV and what is good for sport and should never try to promote the former under the guise of the latter."

Well put, but sometimes it takes considerable experience to know the difference. One TV executive suggested that the color peacock be embroidered on the shoulders of the Army and Navy uniforms before their big game. Last fall much of the half-time show at the UCLA-Pittsburgh football game was used to plug the network's new fall shows. At the Gator Bowl in January, many fans brought along three-foot horns. At half-time, the cash customers were asked to soften the noise because the TV audience couldn't hear the TV commentary. Last fall TV planned live interviews with players during National Football League games, a proposal that brought a negative blast from George Halas of the Chicago Bears and Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers.

Many All-Star games are rigged to encourage those delightful 35-28 scores: Teams agree to use just one defense (and no red-dogging please!), and the trailing team may receive the kickoff after any touchdown, no matter which side scored it. In one World Series, Commissioner Ford Frick was asked to move the second base umpire to help TV cameramen. He refused, of course, and just the other day Frick said that under the 1965 TV contract no umpires will be moved, no phony timeouts allowed. And there has been at least one occasion on which golf shots were faked for absent stars.

Despite these nettling incidents, TV has been a boon in many ways. Great sporting events may be seen in 55 million homes. The camera has developed many new fans. The armchair expert "knows" Arnold Palmer, Jimmy Brown, Mickey Mantle, Bill Russell. The isolated camera has brought a new depth to reporting, as will the slow-motion techniques now being developed.

The entire family is sports-conscious. Last fall one lady wrote the network to ask: "In football, if you have one quarterback and two halfbacks why don't you have four fullbacks?

Critics, especially newspapermen, are inclined to blame everything but bad breath on TV. Recently the United States Golf Association broke with tradition to make the U. S. Open a four-day test. Immediately, TV was blamed. Slow play inspired the change. Many golfers take five hours to play one round, and last June in sultry Washington Ken Venturi, the eventual champion, almost passed out while playing 36 holes on the third and final day.

The Orange Bowl football game was switched from day to night. The finger was pointed at TV. But the switch was promoter Ernie Seiler's idea to accommodate Miami's horse players, beachgoers and sun-lovers. Millions scorn football timeouts on TV—16 in college telecasts, 18 in pro games. But the Federal Communications Commission actually allows 21 for a program the length of a football game.

The power of TV is nowhere shown better than in scheduling. Paul Bryant of Alabama once said, "I'll play at midnight if that's what TV wants." Last fall the Alabama-Auburn game was moved to Thanksgiving to serve the needs of TV, and many schools book major foes early and late, hoping to get a TV date.

These are minor irritations. However, three developments of the past few months could hardly be called minor:

1. CBS shelled out $11,200,000 for 80 per cent of the Yankees, the most valuable franchise in any sport, the hub club of the American League, the winningest organization in baseball. Commissioner Frick said he saw nothing wrong with the deal, but it is pertinent to note that club owners were asked to approve the sale in a telephone poll after a report on the transaction had appeared in the newspapers. Sen. Philip Hart of Michigan, chairman of the Antitrust and Monopoly Committee, called in all parties.

"What does it mean when one of the three major buyers of TV-radio rights becomes a partner of the sellers?" he asked. "Especially when these rights are an ever-increasing source of revenue." The sale made headlines again when it became known that high executives on at least three other clubs (Red Sox, White Sox and Orioles) own stock in CBS.

2. The NFL, striving for more TV millions, tried last fall to muscle into the Friday night field, a night devoted all across the nation to high school football. Since most schools need the cash taken at the gate, it takes no sharp imagination to ponder the fate of the preps if TV-football were available on Friday nights. The NFL was scared off by the combined protests of preps and colleges, but the threat is still there.

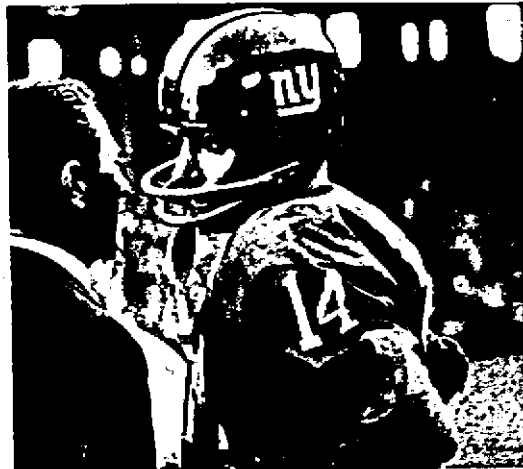

cbs-nbc duel

3. NBC, backed off the Sunday screen by CBS and the NFL, gave the burgeoning AFL $36 million for a 5-year pact, which in effect guaranteed the 8 clubs solvency. That's $900,000 per club per year. Thus, the NFL-AFL duel becomes a CBS-NBC duel. Last fall NBC, referring to its "partnership" with the new league, offered to advance the 8 teams $250,000 each for bonus money. Five accepted the offer. NBC also wrote letters to the glamour boys of the campus, hoping to lure them away from the NFL.

"With the $36 million invested in the AFL," wrote vice-president Lindemann, "you can be sure NBC will make every effort for the players, teams and league in a concentrated and vigorous manner. As the network which leads in color TV, NBC will present many—if not eventually all—AFL games in color. We are confident this will develop a viewing public second to none in sports."

Many sports fans, remembering what happened to boxing and Milton Berle, look upon the flow of gold as a not unmitigated blessing.

Art Rooney, the shrewd Irishman who owns the Pittsburgh Steelers, probably said it best: "There is such a thing as getting too much money for television rights."

Nicklaus, heavyweight champ Cassius Clay became millionaires, Y.A. Tittle household word.

It took us 30 years to improve Jockey support

We added holes

A man needs Jockey support. But now (after 30 years) we also maintain he needs holes with it. They come with the new Jockey Super brief with the double-mesh pouch. It molds itself to a man for a finer fit and feel. It gives genuine Jockey support and protection plus ventilation where it's needed.

We even made the waistband higher for extra comfort...and put in a double-reinforced seat for longer wear.

Up front, it has the same no-gap security as our famous classic brief. And it's also tailored from 13 separate pieces to fit the body right. The Super* brief costs $1.50. Look for the blue diamond on the package.

If you don't think holes are an improvement, get the classic Jockey brief. It's only $1.25 or $3.69 in the 3-pack.

It's not Jockey brand if it doesn't have the Jockey boy!

FOOT ODOR?

New aerosol spray instantly stops embarrassing foot odor 24 hours!

Medical scientists have developed a new aerosol spray that instantly stops embarrassing foot odor up to 24 hours...as it cools and dries hot, sweaty feet. It's new Mennen Foot Deodorant with triple-action effectiveness:

1. Kills odor-causing germs with a special antiseptic that keeps working 24 hours.
2. Instantly starts to dry perspiration that can breed odor-causing germs.
3. Cools, soothes and refreshes hot, tired feet. Makes them feel dry and comfortable.

Mennen Foot Deodorant is an aerosol spray so fine it can penetrate even into tiny foot crevices. Stops offensive foot odor instantly!

Mennen Foot Deodorant is colorless. Will not stain or harm nylon, wool, cotton or leather. Spray through hose or into shoes to help eliminate lingering odors. Get new Mennen Foot Deodorant. Stops embarrassing foot odor up to 24 hours. By the makers of famous Quinsana Foot Products. At drug counters everywhere.

Quinsana—the finest name in foot care.

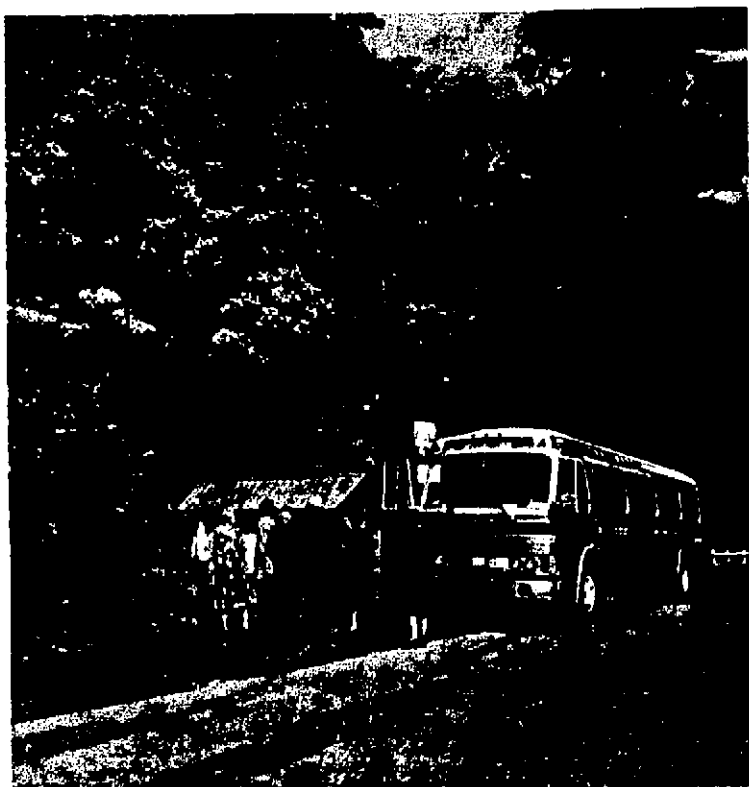

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

FADING FAST. The U.S. postal savings system, begun in 1911, is approaching the end of the line. If Congress approves, the Post Office Department will stop accepting deposits on November 30, 1965, will go out of business by June 30, 1968. What killed postal savings? Private banks and various savings and loan institutions paying more than 2% interest. During the Depression, when several private banks throughout the country went broke, deposits in postal savings soared. By 1947 they reached an all-time high of $3.4 billion with 4 million depositors. Now the number of depositors has dropped to 1 million, deposits to $416 million, both falling fast.

YOUR CAR. Are you an average car-owner? If so, you drive your machine 9,665 miles per year. You pay approximately $230 for 660 gallons of gas, average somewhere around 14.5 miles per gallon.

WIDESPREAD DISTORTIONS. A national study, sponsored by five public and private medical and educational groups, reveals that false beliefs about health and sex are widespread among American school children. Sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, American Medical Association, U.S. Office of Education and the National Education Association, the study discloses that students entertain the following erroneous ideas: (1) Pep and sleeping pills can be used safely without a doctor's supervision. (2) Venereal disease can be inherited but is not a social problem. (3) Chronic diseases are contagious. The report reveals further that most teenagers experiment with alcohol before graduating from high school. Their ignorance of health and sex facts is attributed to parental and community resistance to sex education, ineffectual instruction methods in school, inadequate professional preparation of teaching staffs. The nation-wide study, called the School Health Education Study, is the first of its kind in this country. It was four years in the making, will continue through June, when the results will again be evaluated.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by Fred Gwynne

EDITOR'S NOTE: Fred Gwynne, star of the offbeat comedy series, The Munsters, is the only comic in show business who was graduated from Groton and Harvard. Born in New York City, son of a well-to-do stockbroker, Gwynne originally wanted to become an artist. He studied for a while with the noted portrait painter, R. S. Merryman, then joined the Navy, where he served as radioman on a subchaser in the South Pacific. After his Navy discharge he decided to complete his education at Harvard. Following his graduation in 1951, he became an actor, a serious one, specializing in Shakespeare and other heavy drama. During a lull in jobs, he joined the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency, where he worked as copywriter for six years. He continued his acting career by juggling vacations and sick leave, eventually left the agency to co-star in the comedy series, Car 54.

Where Are You? Gwynne is not only an accomplished actor and painter, but has also written and illustrated two books, Best in Show, for children, and What's Nude?, a nonfiction work for adults. Gwynne now lives in Hollywood, where his work in The Munsters has convinced him that his forte is wild comedy. Herewith some of his favorite funnies:

An Oklahoma oil tycoon appeared at a local golf links to make a fourth, followed by a servant pulling an adjustable, foam-cushioned chaise longue behind him.

"Are you going to make that poor caddy lug that couch all over the course after you?" he was asked.

"Caddy, my eye," explained the oil man. "That's my psychiatrist."

Two motorists met on a bridge too narrow for two cars to pass. "I never back up for an idiot," shouted one driver.

"That's all right," replied the other quietly as he shifted into reverse. "I always do."

A frowning woman walked up to a little boy she caught smoking. "Does your mother know you smoke?" she demanded.

"Lady," he countered, "does your husband know you stop and talk to strange men on the street?"

The stingy salesman, while on an out-of-town sales trip, sent his wife a check for a million kisses as an anniversary present.

The wife was quite annoyed and sent back a post card: "Dear Chuck, Thanks for the anniversary check. The milkman cashed it for me just this morning."

A young woman had been having trouble with an ulcerated tooth for some time before she got up enough courage to go to a dentist. The moment he touched her tooth she yelled bloody murder.

"What are you making such noise for?" demanded the doctor. "Don't you know that I'm a 'painless dentist'?"

"Well," retorted the patient, "maybe you're painless, but I'm not."

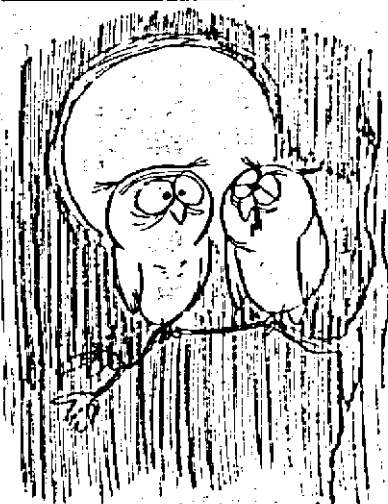

"Say!" yelled the farmer, who owned a pond, "don't you see that sign: No Fishing Here?"

"I sure do," said the disgusted fisherman. "The fellow that printed that sign really knew what he was talking about."

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

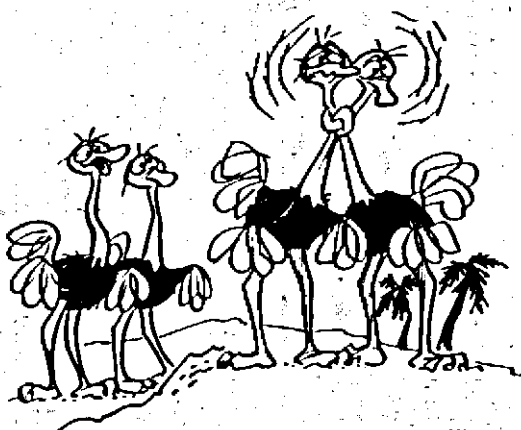

■ Lady Bird Johnson told visiting ladies the other day that not even a massive heart attack could dampen her husband's sense of humor. After he was stricken, she visited him in the hospital and asked what to do about the tailor who was making two suits for Johnson.

"Tell him," instructed LBJ, "to go ahead with the blue suit. We can use that one no matter what happens."

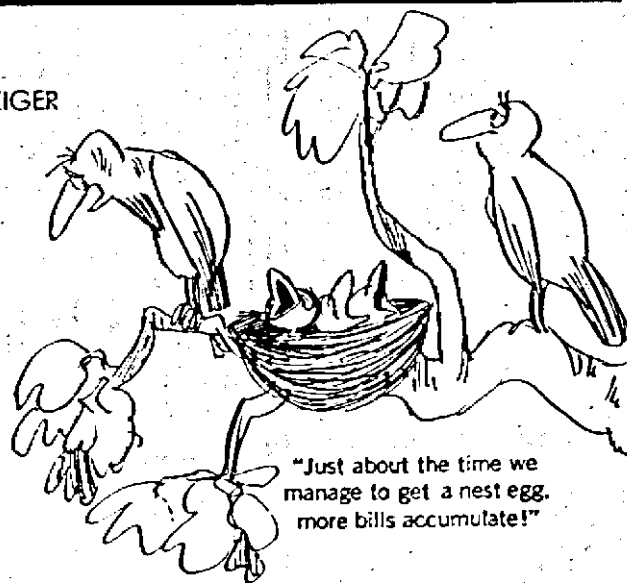

"When I gaze deep into your eyes something happens to me. I get sleepy."

Discover the old English charm of historic Victoria... when you adventure via ferry to lovely Vancouver Island in Canada.

3-DAY VICTORIA AND GULF ISLANDS HOLIDAY

(IT-GL-SV-3)

Victoria offers you the charm of old England blended with the comfort of a modern city... and this scenic tour via B.C. Ferries lets you explore it all. Cruise north from Seattle, and enjoy four enchanted hours of sight-seeing in Puget Sound and the beautiful Strait of Juan de Fuca. In picturesque Victoria, narrated tours show you the historic sites and magnificent gardens for which this island city is famous. Chaucer Lane, the Old English Inn, and Ann Hathaway's Cottage offer exact replicas of England in by-gone eras; the Butchart Gardens and the Undersea Gardens are unique in all the world; the British atmosphere of the shops is as delightful as their wares. Then your modern B.C. Ferry takes you through the Gulf Islands — past exquisite scenery that begs to be photographed — to the beautiful seaport city of Vancouver, where you'll sight-see and shop before heading home. Departs Seattle, May-September. $43.75.

4-DAY VICTORIA AND PACIFIC FRONTIER TOUR

(IT-BCP #2)

This off-the-beaten path tour takes you from lovely Victoria through territory rich in history and scenery on Vancouver Island. Travel by motor coach to the busy seaport of Nanaimo, and along the coast to Campbell River, headquarters for famous Tye salmon, where you'll stay at the Discovery Inn. In the morning, explore a hinterland of rugged mountains, remote lakes, rushing rivers and waterfalls... then follow Gold River Canyon to Muchalat Arm, where you'll cruise waters made famous by Captain Cook and Captain Bligh. Then head back to Victoria, for your B.C. Ferries cruise through the islands to Vancouver. Tour departs Victoria, returns Vancouver, June-September. $69.20.

7-DAY HOLIDAY IN CARIBOO COUNTRY

(IT-AMF-BCPR-6)

2,000 miles of superb scenery, from Victoria and the Gulf Islands to the historic, gold rush country of the Cariboo. Via B.C. Ferries and modern motor coach you'll travel to such beautiful spots as the Fraser River Delta, Nicola Lake country, bustling Prince George, Dawson Creek and the Peace River Damsite. You'll pan for gold at Barkerville, and enjoy a farewell dinner at sea, on your B.C. Ferry. Dinners are included on entire tour. Departs Victoria, May-August. $139.75.

ARE YOU FOOLING AROUND WITH ROCKETS AGAIN?? WE CAN'T GET IT TO GO STRAIGHT!

I CAN'T GET YOU TO GO STRAIGHT! YOU PROMISED.... OUR ROCKET LEANS TO THE LEFT!

MAYBE THAT'S BECAUSE YOU PAINTED IT PINK! WHY NOT ATTACH SOME WEIGHT TO THE RIGHT SIDE?

ARCHIE, FOR EXAMPLE! A PIECE OF LEAD! BUT IF WE HANG IT OUTSIDE, IT WILL CREATE DRAG. AND HOW CAN WE GET IT INSIDE?

BACK TO THE DRAWING BOARD!

MR. FLUTESNOOT! THE PRINCIPAL SAID HE'S SOLVED THE PROBLEM! REALLY?

THIS IS GREAT! IT'S THE FIRST TIME HE'S SHOWN AN INTEREST IN OUR ROCKET!

YOU KNOW HOW TO GET THE LEAD INSIDE??

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED!

MIKE -- I -- I CAN'T RUN ANY MORE! -- WE'LL JUST HAVE TO LET "THE DANCERS" CATCH UP!

THERE'S A PATH BRANCHING OFF AHEAD, DOLLY! -- TOO NARROW FOR THE CARRIAGE TO GET THROUGH!

THEY CUT OFF INTO THE SHRUBBERY, JOEY!

LET US OUT, GRANDPA! -- AND, IF YOU GO WHINING TO THE COPS, WE'LL WAIT FOR YOU, EVERY DAY! SEE?

I -- I'M AWFUL AFRAID I'VE TURNED MY ANKLE, MIKE!

EEEEK!

SHH! IT'S ONLY A STATUE, DOLLY! -- OUTSIDE THAT BIG BUILDING!

I SEE A LIGHT INSIDE! -- THERE MUST BE A NIGHT WATCHMAN ON DUTY! -- IF WE CAN ONLY GET HIM TO OPEN THE DOOR!

SUPPOSE YOU HAD A FAIRY GODMOTHER, AND ONE DAY SHE APPEARED AND GAVE YOU A CHOICE.

SHE WOULD MAKE YOU EITHER RICH, OR BEAUTIFUL...

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

RICH OR BEAUTIFUL? THAT'S EASY -- I'D CHOOSE TO BE RICH...

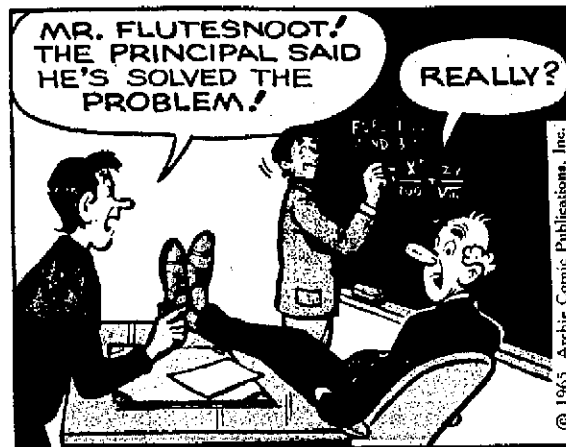

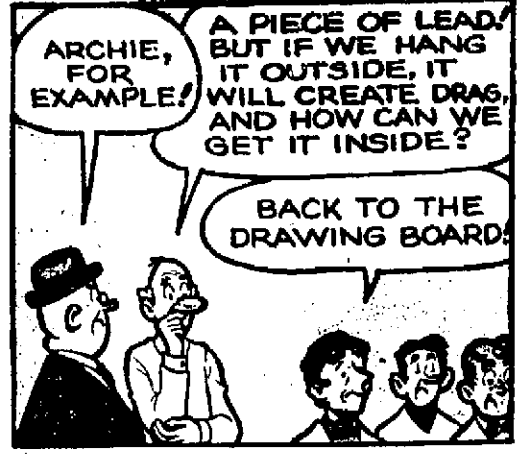

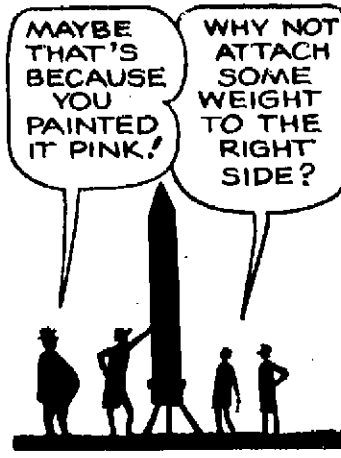

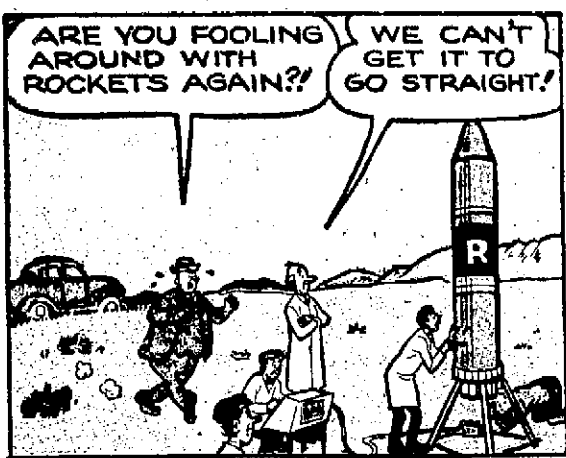

SINCE I'M ALREADY BEAUTIFUL...

OH, WELL, ASK A SILLY QUESTION...

I HEARD THAT!!
